The improvements include traffic signal upgrading and replacement, street reconstruction and realignment and the design of a pedestrian walkway and overpass to connect the Burgin Parkway area to Parkingway, according to the mayor.

The engineering phase of the project will take approximatley 10 months, he said. Construction of the improvements and pedestrian bridge will begin in July of 1988 and take one year to complete, McCauley noted.

The city has received a $236,000 grant from the Massachusetts Executive Office of Transportation and Construction to undertake the engineering work and has recently submitted an application for over $1 million in construction funding.

Mayor McCauley stated, "Because of the increased revitalization of Quincy Center through such projects as Presidents Place and One Parkingway, it is absolutely necessary that the city provide the traffic and pedestrian improvements in order to support present and future economic growth in downtown Quincy."

Fire Victims Back To Court Over Property Battle With Landlord

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Tenants forced out of their Sea St. apartment will be back in court today (Thursday) seeking an extension to a temporary restraining order that prevents the building's owner from removing their property.

On Monday, Judge Albert Kramer issued a contempt order against Franklin Simons, the building's owner, for failing to obey the temporary restraining order which prevents him from removing and disposing tenant's property.

Carolle Varnerin, who represents the tenants, said three 20 foot-long dumpsters located next to the burned building were discovered Aug. 28 to contain debris and property from the building.

Among objects found were tables, chairs, clothing, children's toys, curtains, shoes and sports equipment, according to a police report.

Varnerin said she located the headboard to her son's bed.

"I imagine they're just throwing the stuff in," Varnerin said.

About 75 people were left homeless after the fire caused an estimated $200,000 damage to the five-story building June 19.

About 10 families are still homeless, Varnerin said. On July 31, Judge Lewis Whitman issued nine temporary restraining orders to stop Simon from disposing of tenant's property while they tried to relocate.

Varnerin and Jane Rickard, executive director of the Rent Grievance Board, have been in court four times in an effort to stop Simons from disposing of property.

"We just ask that they stop threatening to remove our things," Varnerin said.

"We want to be treated like human beings."

Varnerin said she also wants the court to stop Simons from accepting new applications for apartments.

The apartments are presently being renovated.

"We want the judge to rule we are still tenants," Varnerin said.

According to Vanerin, the renovated apartments will cost "at least" $100 more a month.

She said she paid $640 a month plus electric for a two bedroom apartment.

"They're not offering us anything. They just throw our things out," said Varnerin.

"It's very upsetting," she said.

Varnerin said the tenants and Simons have tried to settle the matter out of court.

"He (Simons) said he would store items at our expense," Varnerin said. "We can't afford that."

Finn To Return To Sept. 29

Police Chief Francis Finn is scheduled to return to work Tuesday, Sept. 29, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

Finn, 61, underwent surgery July 20 at Massachusetts General Hospital to clear passages in his carotid arteries.

He has been recuperating at home.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor has been serving as acting chief, and will sit on the License Board, which resumes its meetings next week, until Finn's return, McCauley said.

Taylor Ahearn, acting Building Inspector, will sit on the License Board until a permanent successor is named to Kenneth Johnson who left to take a job in the private sector, added McCauley.

3 New Patrolmen Appointed

They were sworn in Monday in the mayor's office, third floor of the new city hall.

The three new officers went through extensive background investigations, and extensive physical and psychological testing, according to McCauley.

From a field of 10 willing applicants out of the list of 25 names sent to the city of Quincy from Civil Service, these three have been selected for appointment, he said.

They will start the Police Academy Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The new police officers are Mark P. McCormack, 282 Rock Island Rd., Quincy, a life-long city resident, a veteran of the Coast Guard and an active member of the Quincy Auxiliary Police; Lane P. Watkins, 1 Vine St., Quincy, a graduate of Quincy Vo-Tech and a veteran of the Navy; Barry S. Defranco, 38 Pierce St., Milton, a graduate of Quincy High School.

School Zone Signals Contract Awarded

Mayor Francis McCauley has approved a contract for $38,486 to Tri State Signals Corp. of Waltham for the installation of school zone signals at three Quincy elementary schools.

The flashing signals require motorists to proceed at no more than 20 miles per hour in school zones during the time pupils are entering and leaving school.

The installations, which are expected to be completed this fall, will be located at the Snug Harbor, Parker and Atherton Hough Schools.

Installations at other elementary schools are planned for the future, according to Mayor McCauley.

John W. Barnes, of the State Department of Public Works and Edward Lynch, superintendent of the city of Quincy's Signs and Signals Department, are coordinating the city and state efforts.

Chamber Opposes Shipyard Taking

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce opposes the full taking of the Quincy shipyard by the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority (MWRA).

The MWRA's intentions and actions are inconsistent, according to the chamber. The MWRA needs only 35 acres for the Deer Island staging site, yet the authority has agreed to purchase the entire 182 acre parcel.

The end result of the MWRA's actions could lead to the following, according to the chamber:

- A staging area for the Deer Island construction site;
- A sewage sludge incinerator;
- A solid waste incinerator.

The Quincy City Council voted Jan. 12, unanimously to rezone the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard from Industrial B to Planned Unit Development. The result of this rezoning meant that the council would have control over what type of development goes into the yard. The chamber believes this should still be the case.

The decision by the MWRA concerning the future development of the yard appears to have been already made thus making any public hearings and input, anti-climatic, a chamber spokesman said.

Much to the chamber's dismay, the MWRA has violated the process of home rule and local input. The MWRA has not dealt the city of Quincy a fair deal in its quest for a development proposal. Meanwhile the city will lose $2 million a year in tax revenues and could become the solid waste capital of Massachusetts.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce intends to oppose any attempt to include a sewage sludge incinerator and a solid waste incinerator plant without the input of the city.

"As the Chamber of Commerce for the South Shore area, we understand the importance of the clean-up of the harbor but we also understand the need for citizens input in a move which will affect both their personal and business lives.

"Thus we strongly support the city of Quincy in its quest to have a significant voice in any future development proposals which involve the use of the Quincy shipyard."

You Can Hear A Button Drop

This election year has been so quiet that if a candidate dropped a campaign button in Quincy Point, you could hear it in North Quincy.

Well, maybe not quite that quiet.

But, says City Clerk John Gillis:

GILLIS

He's been there at City Hall 30 years -- since 1957 when he became assistant city clerk under the late Allan Cole.

It has also been one of the politest election years.

Mayor Francis McCauley and challenger Joseph LaRaia have sparred a little and jabbed a little but the gloves haven't really come off. Not yet, anyway.

Of course, if there was to be a mayoral preliminary election, they might be tossing a little leather by now.

The six candidates for city councillor at-large haven't heated up anything much yet but their morning coffee.

But, again no preliminary election action to get them warmed up.

The five candidates for School Committee are in the same boat. No preliminary election to get things moving.

The only movement is in Wards 3 and 5 where a total of nine candidates are running for two open seats. And all nine have been pretty polite about it so far. No slugging.

Gillis figures on about a 30 percent turnout in each of those two wards Sept. 15.

Although candidates get to save some money when they don't have a preliminary fight, it may be like having a hole in their pocket and not realizing it.

A preliminary election tells a candidate where his strengths and weaknesses are. And he (she) still has time to patch the weak spots before the final election.

Without a preliminary, there really is no way to tell for sure if there are problems until final election day. And then it's too late to do anything about them.

Gillis agrees on that.

He thinks, for example, the city councillor at-large candidates this year would really be better off with a preliminary election which would have served as a barometer for them for the final election.

Even McCauley and LaRaia really don't know how they stand at this moment. Is McCauley away out in front or is LaRaia closing to make a good horse race? And, why?

Polls can be taken and probably will in the next few weeks but a preliminary election is probably still the best gauge on how things are going.

Preliminary election figures are compiled by people who had the interest and took the bother to turn out and vote.

Those who respond to telephone polls may tell you what they think, -- and then not even vote.

Anyway, things would be a lot livelier right now if there were preliminary elections for mayor, city councillor at-large, the six ward seats and three school committee seats.

Once upon a time things were.

But now, there aren't so many people interested in running for public office and there aren't so many interested in voting.

THREE groups are trying to pump some interest into both the city preliminary and final elections by sponsoring Candidates' Nights.

The Quincy Citizens Association had a Candidates' Night Rally for the Ward 3 and Ward 5 contenders Wednesday, at the Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., Montclair.

The Beechwood Knoll Neighborhood Association and the Beechwood Community Life Center are teaming to co-sponsor a Candidates' Night Thursday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Center, Fenno St., Wollaston.

Mayoral, city councillor at-large, school committee and Ward 5 candidates are invited to speak and answer questions.

KENNEDY

SEN. TED KENNEDY recently sent a postcard from Rome to Sen. Paul Harold. The postcard, depicting Pope John Paul II, contained a note about Kennedy's audience with the pontiff. Harold worked on Kennedy's campaigns for senator and for president, and the postcards are a way to keep in touch, he said. Harold said he received a postcard from Kennedy when he visited China several years ago.

Quincy Quotes

If The Election Were Held Today, Who Would You Vote For President And Why?

ROBERT CHASE, 21, South Shore Bank Clerk, Squantum.

"I would vote for George Bush. He has strong experience in Foreign Policy and also is a good business man."

KATHY McGREGOR, 20, Clerk for Quincy Mutual, Wollaston.

"I would vote for (Richard) Gephardt. He is up and going and I like his positive attitude. I would not vote for Gov. Dukakis. I do not think he will keep us out of war."

BILL HOLMES, 43, Buyer, Quincy.

"I am totally non-committal. There is not an outstanding candidate in there. I am going to wait until it gets narrowed down and then key in on the issues."

DOMINIC VENTURELLI, 30, Computer Programmer for the City of Quincy, West Quincy.

"I am undecided as of today. I know I would not vote for Gov. Michael Dukakis. I disagree with his views on things. He says one thing and does another. He does not use state funding in the right places."

WENDY DUPONT, 25, Processor for Quincy Mutual, North Quincy.

"I would probably vote for Senator (Robert) Dole. I am a Republican and do not care for Bush and Reagan is not running."

NEIL KUPFERMAN, 25, Artist, Quincy.

"I would vote for Mike Dukakis. He has done a pretty good job with state employment, getting people into work."

Quincy's Yesterdays

Politics, 1938 Style

Sept. 2-8
1938
49 Years Ago

Norfolk County Commissioner Russell T. Bates and Frederick A. Holbrook of Quincy, candidates for the Republican nomination for sheriff, neatly got into a fist fight over a Holbrook remark at a GOP rally in Milton Town Hall.

"Not only has the previous speaker (Bates) drawn a salary of $4,800 a year as county commissioner for 10 years," said Holbrook, "but he goes down to sing to the prisoners at the jail every Sunday morning for an extra $104."

City Councillor John W. Savage presided at a rally in Quincy High School for James Michael Curley, the former governor, congressman and mayor of Boston, who was seeking the Democratic nomination for another term in the State House.

On the same day, the incumbent Gov. Charles F. Hurley visited Quincy to present a $5,000 check to Herbert C. Towle of 262 Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs, who win it in a safe driving contest.

George E. Morey, city property manager, was granted a leave of absence to serve as Gov. Hurley's campaign manager, and Miss Mary E. Dunham was named chairman of the Quincy Women's Committee for Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly for governor.

Potato Fritters

So Quick And Easy

There's always one thing I fear when I am having guests over for dinner and that is I won't have enough food! And so it was last weekend when I was preparing a big breakfast for the family.

With our daughter Sue and her husband Robbie home from Germany with a year old daughter, it seemed the best time to get her brothers and sisters together was for breakfast!

I prepared the usual ham, bacon and sausages. Then made French toast and scrambled eggs. But before I cooked the eggs I felt as though the breakfast needed something else, just in case. After all no matter how long one cooks, you never know how much 15 or so guests will eat!

I even made an emergency phone call to daughter Ann Marie to bring over some doughnuts. (No sooner had I hung up the phone when son Dom called to ask if I wanted him to bring over some doughnuts.)

I then decided to make pototo fritters even with the addition of doughnuts. I used two frying pans and they were so quick and easy and a real addition to the whole meal.

POTATO FRITTERS
4 MEDIUM sized pototoes
2 eggs
1 small onion
salt and pepper to taste

Peel and shred the potatoes and onion. Put in bowl and add the eggs, salt and pepper and mix until blended. In hot oil, drop by tablespoonsfull and fry until brown and crispy on both sides. Drain. Place on platter and keep in the warming oven while you wait. I have to say that the kids liked those the most. That's the only thing I didn't have left over!

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"A habit of labor in the people is as essential to the health and vigor of their minds and bodies as it is conducive to the welfare of the state." - Alexander Hamilton

On Labor Day let us pause to pay tribute to the workers of America ... the men and the women whose love and labor have made our country great. Let us remember those who brought it from a wilderness to a land of plenty with opportunity for all. Let us take time to reflect upon the dignity and the privilege of productive labor. Let us honor those craftsmen who have taken the brainchildren of scientist, engineer, and inventor and turned them into products of mass production. This melting of talent has resulted in a better life for all Americans.

After Labor Day, we'll go back to work, each to his own particular job: student, farmer, scientist, businessman, doctor, lawyer, laborer ...

Let us go back to work with dedication and vigor anew ...

$25,000 In Cultural Grants

Quincy cultural organizations have been awarded more than $25,000 in state grants for fiscal year 1988, state Senator Paul D. Harold announces.

The largest of the grants, $18,000, will go to the Quincy Historical Society for a program to study the history of Quincy from 1625 to the present through an exhibit for students in Grades 2 and 4 entitled "Quincy - From Settlement to City." The program will include teacher workshops.

The Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities also granted merit awards to three Quincy organizations to support and encourage expansion of their programs and activities, Sen. Harold said.

These included the Quincy Choral Society of Wollaston, which received a merit grant of $2,180; the Quincy Historical Society, which received $3,270; and the Scarborough Chamber Players of Squantum, which received $2,400.

'God's Generosity' Sermon Topic At Bethany

Sunday there will be one service of worship at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach the sermon, entitled "God's Generosity," based on the Biblical text of Matthew 20:1-16. The sermon for this Labor Day Sunday will focus on God's work in the world and the Biblical challenge to live our days filled with the spirit of gratitude.

In addition Holy Communion will be celebrated as the Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, conducts the liturgy. All persons who seek to follow in the way of Jesus Christ are welcome to join in the gracious act of sharing the bread and cup of our Lord. The lay scripture reader will be Kinya Mikami. And the communion commentary-for the radio only-will be given by Irene Belcher.

Bethany welcomes the well-known cellist, Nancy Currier, who will share her talents as we worship God through music. Peter E. Krasinski will be at the organ console and will direct as two selections from B. Marcello are performed by Miss Currier. The two are the "Adagio" and the "Allegro" from the Sonata in E Minor. Also Mr. Krasinski will play Marcello's 'Psalm 19' as the postlude.

Nursery care will be provided by church members for babies and toddlers.

The service of worship is broadcast live at 10 a.m. over WJDA, 1300 kc. A cassette tape of the worship is available for $2 by contacting the church office at 479-7300.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service, and you are cordially invited to come and share in both the worship and the fellowship.

Good Counsel Church To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish, 227 Sea St., Merrymount, will hold a meeting Thursday, Sept. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall to prepare for its 50th anniversary.

Parishioners are invited to join committees which have been formed.

Chairperson Mike Savage is general chairman, with Mary Lou Sutliffe, Mass with Cardinal Bernard Law; Jack Menz, ecumenical service committee; Peter Ryan, dinner-dance committee; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McLellan, history committee; Lou Mazzini, anniversary book; Jeanne Reardon, Harry Breen, census committee; and Kevin Madden, special project committee.

Rev. James F. Curtin is pastor.

Point Congregational Returns To 10 A.M. Worship Service

The Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastors of Quincy Point Congregational Church, announce that Sunday worship services will return to 10 a.m., beginning this Sunday.

One of the pastors will preach on "The Arrogance of Jesus," based on the text of John 15:9-17. Both pastors will administer the Sacrament of Holy Communion. Organist-choir director Herman Weiss will play "Toccata in E Minor" by J.S. Bach, "Adagio" by Bruchner, and "Hymn of Praise" by Schreiner. Hymns to be sung by the congregation will include "When Morning Gilds the Skies," "Jesus Calls Us," and "Be Thou My Vision." There will be a special offering received for the "Pastors' Discretionary Fund" which seeks to help church families and residents of the community with food, clothing and housing needs.

There is ample off-street parking for the 10 a.m. service. Child care is provided for infants and young children in the newly furnished Crib Room. Refreshments and fellowship will follow the morning service in the Social Hall.

Adult Bible Study At Quincy Point Congregational Church

The pastors of Quincy Point Congregational Church, the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, invite adults of the South Shore to attend the "Kerygma" adult Bible study program Thursdays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Social Hall at the church, beginning Sept. 17.

The word "Kerygma" in Greek means "Proclamation" or the proclamation of God's word to the world.

"Because so many people lack a basic knowledge of what the Bible is, and what it means and how it speaks to us today," say the pastors, "we are inviting all adults who want to learn to come and be with us as we explore the Bible together."

Last year, more than 30 adults of the church participated in the program. This year, Kerygma is being made available to other adults in the church and to residents of the South Shore.

"Kerygma" is a comprehensive, 30-week study program, complete with notebook resources and helps that focus on 10 major themes of the scriptures, both the Old and New Testaments. The 10 themes include:

The saving acts of God, how God is faithful, how we can know God, God's faithful leaders in the Bible, the meaning of the kingdom of God, the ancient Law of God and the new righteousness through Jesus Christ, the wisdom literature of the Bible, the nature of worship through the scriptures, how God's people live in the world, and the hope of Israel and our hope in Christ.

Adults may register for the program by writing to or calling the church at 773-6424.

The church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery. Cost of the program will be $20 which is the price of the resource notebooks. Participants should bring with them a Bible of any translation, a lined pad of paper and a pen. For more information, interested adults may call the church office and speak to one of the pastors who will lead the course.

St. Joseph's School To Re-open Sept. 9

St. Joseph's School, Quincy Point will re-open Wednesday, Sept. 9 at 8:10 a.m.

This year, students will return to a school with a whole new look. The school has an entire new addition which will house the fourth grade students, a new computer room, a new office and a very large auditorium, gymnasium combination facility.

The school will welcome new faculty members also this year. Mrs. Elizabeth Connor will teach Gr. 4, Miss Ann Tosone will teach Gr. 2, Mrs. Alice Hansen Gr. 7 and Mrs. Maureen Murphy who has been on the faculty for two years will move to Gr. 1. Mrs. Regina Peters will teach the human development and sexuality program and Mrs. Kathleen McLaughlin will teach the art.

Alzheimer Support Group To Meet Sept. 10

The support group for families affected by Alzheimer's Disease will resume meetings Thursday Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Meetings will be held on the second Thursday of each month at The Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Speaker for the September meeting will be Karin Byrne, M.S., J.D., a nurse, a clinical consultant, and a former defense attorney with experience in medical malpractice litigation.

What goes on in group meetings is confidential, and members use only their first names or a false name.

Parents can feel safe to share their worries and problems, and to find ideas and support from other parents, according to the agency which is supported by the United Way.

Hutchins Attending Chemical Health Program

Rich Hutchins of North Quincy High is one of 17 Massachusetts educators attending the Hazelden-Cork Sports Education program in Center City, Minn., to receive training in planning and implementing programs to promote chemical health for student-athletes.

Quincy Coordinator of Athletics Marty Finnegan, the Suburban League's coordinator of chemical health, was to have attended the Minnesota meetings but he is still recovering from back surgery and Hutchins is attending in his place.

"Rich and I will be league co-coordinators," said Finnegan, who has traveled the length and breadth of New England to conduct chemical health programs.

September Fine Free Month At Libraries

September is Fine Free Month at the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center, its three branch libraries and the bookmobile.

All overdue library materials may be returned during the month without penalty. Also fines on previously returned materials will be removed from the records of all patrons who so request in person or by telephone.

The fine free period facilitates Quincy's participation in the Old Colony Library Network (OCLN), a network of 16 libraries linked by computer. Data entry will be expedited by clearing as many circulation and patron records as possible while the library prepares to go online. In addition, only borrowers whose records are clear are eligible for an OCLN library card.

A new fine schedule becomes effective Oct. 1 which eliminates the current week-long grace period. Library patrons are urged to return all overdue materials and clear all fines from their records during September's fine free days so they can participate fully in upcoming automated library services.

Jarnis Urges Greater Use Of City Education Committee

Bob Jarnis, a candidate for School Committee, urges greater use of the Quincy City Education Committee when meeting with voters in the North Quincy area.

James E. Kelley Sr., father of the host and retired State DPW Director of Highway Maintenance, was concerned with traffic on West Squantum St. near the Montclair Elementary School.

"Traffic is heavy, and a "school zone" (flashing lights and reduced speed) is needed," according to Kelley Sr.

After inquiring if something could be done with the traffic near the Montclair School, the senior Kelley added that he "was very surprised to learn that last year the area around the school was formally approved as a "school zone" by the Quincy Traffic Commission. Nothing has been done to see that the work as been carried out. Somebody has to follow up on these things."

"The Quincy City Council's Education Committee is an ideal vehicle for ensuring these school related issues are carried through," Jarnis responded. The Education Committee is concerned with the schools and has direct access to all o the City's various departments. It has the tools and the clout to ensure these important tasks are completed.

"The mechanism for greater communication between the schools and the City already exists through the Education Committee. It is up to the School Committee, however, to use this Committee of the City Council effectively, so that the needs of the schools are understood and addressed."

At the home of Jim and Linda Rendle, 133 Grandview Ave. Jarnis met with Wollaston area voters. Many attending expressed concern regarding the general lack of extra-curricula activities, particularly at the middle-school level.

"Extra'curricula activities, that the tudents are interested in, make them feel good about themselves and develop a sense of pride in their school" declared Anita Kutasy, also of Grandview Ave. "It leads directly to increased confidence and greater interest and performance in the classroom."

"How can we get the money for these activities?" asked Rendle, who is also the girl's volleyball coach at North Quincy High School.

"It certainly is not easy" replied Jarnis, "but we have the successful campaign to reopen the Wollaston School as an example. Once the issue was clear and the merits understood, tremendous support was generated within the City Council. Ward Councillors are very responsive to valid requests from their constituents. The approach for any school issue that involves additional funding, is therefore, formal discussions between the School Committee and the City Council Education Committee, while individuals express their views directly to their Ward Councillors."

"The communication link between the schools and the City is through the City Council Education Committee. This link is not utilized sufficiently by School Committee members, which severely limits the voice of the schools within city government, and is currently a lost opportunity for our students," concluded the candidate.

Jarnis is a first-time candidate for School Committee. With his two children enrolled in the Quincy Public Schools, Jarnis has been very active in school issues and served last year on the Citywide Parents Council.

Dear Parents!

ARE WE THE ANSWER TO YOUR QUESTIONS?

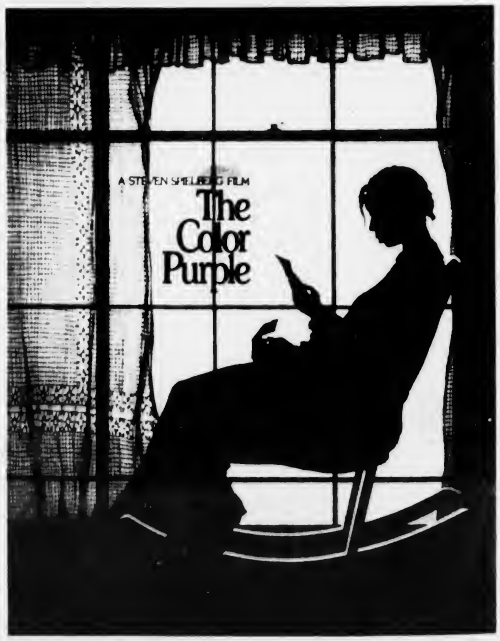
- "As the children grow up, will they have faith?
- "What do my children believe about God today?
- "Where can I find the right church for my family?

As parents, we all want the very best for our children!

We want them to grow, to lead happy and productive lives, to take their rightful places in a complex and challenging world!

And, as parents, we know that we need help to achieve our hopes for our children!

We believe that the answer to your questions can be found at the Quincy Point Congregational Church!



Come and be with us on Sunday, September 13, at 10:00 a.m., for family worship, for the opening of our Church School and for making new friends!

You will find excellent off-street parking, a warm welcome, inspiring worship, a newly-furnished Crib Room for infants, a fine Church School for infants through grade 12 and a genuine fellowship together!

So come and be with us! We want to be the answer to your questions!

Phase 1 Sold At Marina Point

Marina Point, located at Marina Bay in North Quincy, announces the sell-out of its Phase I development - Marina Point West.

With a total of 130 units, Marina Point West, experienced a full sell-out before any building occupancy occurred. Marina Point West features spectacular views of Boston's harbor and skyline from the condominiums' spacious terraces and balconies.

Amenities such as a 24-hour concierge, a spectacular atrium lobby entrance, an underground parking garage and a full security force add to Marina Point West's allure.

Phase II of Marina Point, Marina Point East, is now under construction. While the 115 unit development (ranging in price from $140,000 - $715,000) is scheduled to be completed in early 1988, brisk sales are already taking place.

Marina Point offers numerous advantages that come from living within Marina Bay.

The 400 acre self-contained, seaside community provides: a full service 650 - slip marina; quaint, Nantucket-styled retail shops; fine restaurants and more. Marina Bay's close proximity to Boston allows one both the availability of the city or the solace of the suburbs.

LaRaia Criticizes McCauley On Shipyard

The McCauley administration has put the city in a major disadvantage since it did not act when it had time to devise a plan for the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard, said Councillor Joseph LaRaia.

In "A Report to the People of Quincy Point," LaRaia, a candidate for mayor, made several allegations regarding the administration and the shipyard which the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority has said it will buy for $49 million.

"The present administration denies knowing much about the sale or circumstances leading to the sale in mid-August," he said.

"Their non-actions show an avoidance of necessary communica-tions with elected and appointed authorities on this issue.

"Since it has been known to them for several months," alleged LaRaia, "it also shows a lack of initiative and strategy in protecting this valuable piece of land against outside influences.

"We must now try to negotiate a feasible solution in the city's interest."

LaRaia continued, "The most recent turn of events with the seizure of the shipyard by the Mass Water Resources Authority is shocking news to all of us.

"Its intended use is unacceptable to the people in the Point as well as those in other areas of our city. We had anticipated a future use that would restore jobs in shipbuilding and other compatible uses. That is not going to happen.

"We must now insure that its use will be tolerable and financially compensating in view of its tax loss to the city and local residents.

"We stand to lose up to $ million in taxes while continuing to pay $2.8 million in yearly payments to General Dynamics due to an overvalued settlement by the present administration," contended LaRaia.

"I opposed that settlement as a member of the City Council and voted against that unpopular scheme to payback plan allowing General Dynamics to dictate the sale of the shipyard in their sole interest. "The yard was left idle too long. The administration was inviting trouble by waiting and passively observing the outcome," LaRaia said.

City Should Buy Shipyard Says Toland

The city should consider buying the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard outright, according to Councillor Patricia Toland.

"The most important thing is for Quincy to control the yard," said Councillor Toland, who is seeking reelection.

"A financial analysis should be done regarding how the city could go about buying it," she said.

"We should talk to financial institutions in the area."

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority has announced its intention to buy the 185-acre shipyard which closed last spring.

Councillor Toland said she believed residents feel the city should be in control of the shipyard.

"We could look for purchases," she said, "by shipyard workers and by private developers.

"We should talk to General Dynamics about buying the yard."

Councillor Toland said she understood that General Dynamics' liability for the yard will be for six months after the sale.

"If so, that's a joke. The MWRA won't have moved in six months. That's no liability at all.

"The ultimate goal of the city of Quincy should be to control the yard, not allow those acres to go elsewhere."

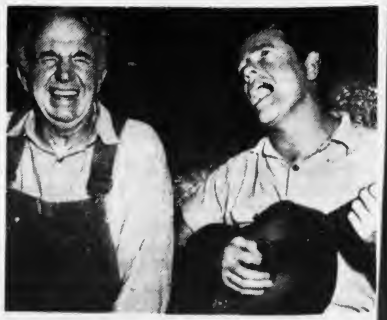
Chretien Proposes Child Care Center

Larry Chretien, candidate for Ward 3 city councillor, has called on the city to establish a child care center to benefit working families.

Chretien said:



"Surveys show that there is an enormous demand for decent, affordable child care in Quincy. The private sector is responding, but it can't do it alone. It makes sense for the city to increase the supply of child care by becoming a direct provider. These days, the key to economic opportunity for many is child care."

Chretien added that a center might be able to be located on surplus city property. If not, he said the city should buy or rent the property and then provide child care on a low-cost, non-profit basis. Operating revenues would be raised from charging families on a sliding fee scale according to income.

Under such a plan, tax dollars would only be needed for the start-up costs, he said.

McGrath Commends Donnelly On Sludge Opposition

City Council President Stephen J. McGrath commended Cong. Brian Donnelly for his stated position in opposition to the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's locating its sludge facility in Quincy.

In a letter to Donnelly, McGrath said he was pleased to hear this view from a federal official in support of Quincy's position.

"Quincy seems to have the commonwealth against it on the issue of the MWRA takeover of the yard and we certainly welcome the congressman's support in our battle with the state. Quincy is being asked to bear the brunt of all the sewage treatment and I am glad that the congressman realizes the unfairness of this position," said McGrath

By JOHN D. NOONAN

Cardinal Bernard Law pledged his all-out support to several hundred Quincy Point residents and city officials in seeking a solution to the sale of the General Dynamics shipyard that would best serve the interests and concerns of the community in addition to providing a maximum number of jobs for the Quincy-South Shore area.

The Cardinal made his pledge in the shadows of the vacant 185-acre shipyard in nearby St. Joseph's Church where he celebrated Mass Saturday and blessed a new million dollar school hall auditorium.

In attendance at the special liturgy when the Cardinal made his offer of assistance were Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Ward 2 City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, Councillor Joseph LaRaia, state Senator Paul Harold and State Rep. Michael Morrissey.

The question of the future of the Shipyard was raised during the prayers and petitions of the Mass when the congregation was asked to pray for Divine guidance intervention so that those who would buy the facility would be aware of the needs and concerns of the hundreds of families who make up St. Joseph's Parish.

The Cardinal later spoke directly about the shipyard as being a most vital part of the community life of St. Joseph's parish and the Quincy Point area. He traced the history and growth of the parish and its parochial school over the years and lauded the parishioners for their many valuable contributions to the Archdiocese of Boston through religious vocations and financial contributions.

In a later interview with Sun Channel 8 Video News the Cardinal revealed that he has had several private discussions with individuals associated with the buyout group interested in purchasing the shipyard facility to insure the continuance of shipbuilding as an activity.

He pointed out that many shipyard workers possess skills and technical training that are essential to the shipbuilding industry and that these workers must be kept employed at building ships in order to preserve their special crafts and expertise.

"These skills have been developed over a period of years and they should not be allowed to go to waste. I strongly support continued use of these skilled craftsmen for shipbuilding purposes," Law said.

He did not comment on reported uses of the shipyard land for trash incinerators or the treatment of sludge. He stated most emphatically however that the needs and concerns of the citizens of Quincy should be addressed in the sale and future use of the century-old former shipyard.

He also discussed the coming visit of Pope John Paul II to the United States Sept. 10-19. The Cardinal will be joining the Pope during his tour of the south and west.

During his homily he made reference to the scripture reading for the day regarding the beheading of St. John the Baptist.

"Times have not changed that much," he declared, "there is still a lot of beheading today of those who carry the message and teachings of Jesus Christ."

He criticized certain cable television religious networks for attacks on the Pope, the teachings of the Catholic Church, and the coming visitation of the Pope.

He said that popes down through church history have carried out the teachings as set forth by Jesus Christ. These teachings, he said, do not change because of the times, or because a certain culture or country may disagree.

He said that dissidents with Catholic doctrines dealing with abortion, the ban on artificial contraception, the concept of marriage as indissoluble, premarital sex, celibacy, and women's ordination would behead the messenger because they disagree with the messenger.

The Pope is restating what the Catholic Church has held steadfast in its pronouncements and teachings over the centuries, he said.

He called for an end to what has become known in press circles as Pope-bashing.

He said he was looking forward to the Pope's visit to the United States and predicted that much goodwill and understanding rather than confrontation would be generated.

Following the Cardinal's remarks, Rev. Joseph Downey, St. Joseph's pastor, thanked all who contributed in any way towards the building of the new auditorium. He said the new facility will be used to the maximum for educational, religious, social and athletic purposes.

He said personal contributions ranged from one benefactor who donated almost a third of the amount needed to a young girl who gave 3500 pennies.

The new auditorium has been named the Georgette T. Nickerson Center and contains a large hall, gymnasium combination, two new classrooms, a special chairlift, and a large office.

The dedication of this new facility comes on the 60th anniversary of the dedication of the original school building. The school building contained eight classrooms, a library, offices and a small meeting hall. It was built at a cost of $87,000, said Fr. Downey, as compared to the new auditorium hall which cost one million.

The Nickerson Center will service both the students in the school, and the parish at large by providing the space necessary for the many activities and meetings that are a very large part of the parish life of St. Joseph's, Fr. Downey said.

The pastor told of a young parishioner who asked for a special preview of the hall the night prior to its dedication. As he was showing the new hall, the youngster said he hoped he would grow up so that he would be able to play bingo in the new addition on Monday nights. Proceeds from the weekly Monday night bingo sponsored by parish organizations in a nearby rented hall were a major factor in obtaining the necessary funds for the new construction.

Upon hearing Fr. Downey's story about the youngster wanting to grow up the Cardinal said, "I hope by the time that young man is old enough there won't be any more need for bingo."

Kevin Burke Nominated As Outstanding Young Man Of America

Atty. Kevin M. Burke, a candidate for Ward 5 City Councillor, has been nominated as an outstanding Young Man of America for 1987. Nominations are based on professional achievement and community service.

Burke, who practices law at 339 Hancock St. is a cum laude graduate of Boston College Law School. During law school, Burke served on the school's Board of Student Advisors. He is a cum laude graduate of the University of Massachusetts, at Amherst, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in economics. As a junior at the university, he was selected into Phi Beta Kappa, the national academic honor society established in 1776. While at the University of Massachusetts, Burke was also named as an Alumni Scholar.

Burke worked in the Department of the Atty. General Francis X. Bellotti. Burke currently practices law in Quincy with Atty. George G. Burke.

Burke, who is 27, lives at 97 Willow Ave. with his wife, Judith Geraghty. She is a graduate of Boston College School of Nursing. Both Kevin and Judy are members of the Quincy Citizens Association and the Wollaston Park Association. He is also a member of the Quincy, Norfolk County, Massachusetts, and American Bar Association.

When asked about he nomination, Burke responded, "It is very exciting. I feel honored to be considered by such an outstanding organization. As you may know, professional achievement and community service are major ingredients for selection. I can only hope to be a credit to my profession and continue to serve the community."

City Fights For Shipyard Sale Limit

"We're an environmental agency," said Levy. "We'd like to see uses at the yard that are compatible with the city."

"If people give us a chance, we'll show we will be good neighbors."

Meanwhile, during the blessing of St. Joseph's new school hall auditorium in Quincy Point Saturday, Cardinal Bernard Law offered his support for shipyard workers who had hoped to purchase part of the shipyard for shipbuilding.

Sen. Paul Harold said that he spoke to the Cardinal during a reception after the blessing and said he would prepare materials for him.

Harold noted that this would not be the first time Cardinal Law became involved in such an issue.

He got involved in access for lobstermen at Boston Harbor a few years ago, Harold said.

"During my administration," said McCauley, "we've tried to see that all employees of all unions are treated fairly and equally."

"All of the unions have received basically the same increases.

"Education is important to everyone, but so is public safety."

"All employees are valuable, and we try to treat everyone fairly and equally."

McCauley said that five of the city's bargaining units have ratified contracts, and a sixth is in progress. There are 14 unions in the city, he said.

"I hope we can reach a settlement with the QEA," said McCauley. "Failing that, I urge them to take no job action."

"Negotiations should continue. Education shouldn't suffer.

"Both parties should work toward a settlement."

McCauley noted the restrictions of Prop. 2½.

"We can't negotiate a contract not in compliance with Proposition 2½," he said.

"We've offered contracts that are affordable by the city, and fair to employees."

Parish Reflective Session At Sacred Heart Oct. 25

Sacred Heart parish, North Quincy, will participate in the Eighth Synod of Boston by hosting its Parish Reflective Session Sunday, Oct. 25.

Cardinal Bernard Law is bringing together lay people, priests, deacons, brothers and sisters of religious orders to make recommendations to him about ways in which the Catholic Church of Boston can best fulfill its mission as the presence of Christ in the world, particularly in light of the teachings of the Second Vatican Council.

Twenty-six diocesan subcommittees have proposed draft reports on 26 aspects of church life in Boston. Sacred Heart parishioners have chosen two topics of the 26 on which to reflect and pray. The topics are youth and family. The synod office will assign the parish one other topic. All parishioners are urged to participate in the reflective session. Registration will be open to all members of the parish. Registration will be held after all Masses the weekend of Sept. 26-27.

A television program has been prepared by the Archdiocese Synod office, with Fr. Paul McInerny and Sister Mary Ann Doyle CSJ (Archdiocesan Synod coordinators) telling more about the Synod. The program will be aired on Quincy Cable Channel 54 Sept. 8 at 9 a.m., Sept. 9 at 3 p.m.; Sept. 10 at 11 a.m.

Brad's Car Care

If you're considering buying a new car, here are some tips:

• Find your dealer through your Yellow Pages. However, choose dealers fairly close to you since you will be returning to them for maintenance and service.

• Check up on the dealer you've chosen with the Better Business Bureau.

• Ignore the sticker price. Buying a car means you have the opportunity to bargain. Get a price from a dealer, then take it to the next dealer on your list and see how much better he can do. Let them compete with each other, and you may be able to save as much as $1,000 off the sticker price. However, don't expect to negotiate if you're buying a briskly-selling, popular car, or a BMW, Porshce or Mercedes.

• Gain bargaining power by calculating the dealer's cost. The dealer mark-up ranges from about 10 percent on smaller models to 20 percent on full-size cars. Usually, the best you will do will be about $200 above the dealer's cost. You can find that cost by consulting Car/Puter's New Car Yearbook. Or, according to Consumer Reports, you can calculate that cost yourself. Multiply the sticker price (less options and shipping) by .88 for small cars, .83 for medium cars, and .79 for larger cars. Then obtain the dealer's cost for options by multiplying the retail cost of the options by .83 for small, .79 for medium and .77 for large cars. The sum of these two figures plus shipping costs is the dealer's price.

Quincy Couple Win Hibernia Savings Bermuda Trip

The Hibernia Savings Bank announces Thomas and Bernice Broderick of Quincy are winners of a free vacation trip to Bermuda.

The giveaway, which includes round-trip airfare and seven-day, six-night hotel accommodations, was one in a series of promotional events surrounding the opening of Hibernia's new operations center and retail banking facility at 731 Hancock St., Wollaston. Customers who opened a new account with the bank during its grand opening period were automatically eligible to enter the contest.

The Hibernia Savings Bank, founded in 1912, is a state-chartered, FDIC-insured thrift institution which offers a wide range of deposit and loan products, including the highest paying savings accounts of any thrift in Massachusetts. The bank also features money market deposit accounts, commercial and residential mortgages and consumer loans.

In addition to the Quincy facility, Hibernia has its main office located at 263 Washington St. in Boston, and an additional office located at 51 Commercial St. in Braintree.

Street Resurfacing Near Completion

The city will soon be wrapping up its street resurfacing for the year, according to David Colton, deputy commissioner of public works.

A total of 30 streets have been resurfaced throughout the city since last May at a cost of $1.2 to $1.4 million, Colton said.

The only streets remaining to be done are Warren Ave., Wollaston, and Water St., from Franklin St. to Quincy Ave., South Quincy.

Colton said the Water St. work is scheduled to begin in mid-September and to be completed by early October.

Sections of it will be closed to traffic during the day, and open again at night, he explained.

Derbes Brothers is contractor for the street resurfacing, he said.

The city will continue to work on sidewalks which have been cracked by tree roots, Colton said.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or national Guard for the cadet.

Bruce Tait Completes Army MP Training

Army National Guard Private Bruce D. Tait, son of Evelyn C. Tait of 51 Herbert Rd., Braintree, and Lindsay L. Tait of 211 West St., Quincy, has completed training as an Army military police specialist under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at Fort McClellan, Ala.

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic training with advanced individual training.

Roots Of Words

TAVERN: While some folks believe they can get stoned, pickled, or ossified in a tavern, the fact is it might be more correct to say you get splintered. The word comes from an old Etruscan root, taberna, which is related to the Latin word for wood beam. It took on its common meaning when wine shops made of wood became places for people to get together and drink on the premises.

McGrath Seeks Action On Construction Complaints At Hospital

City Council President Stephen J. McGrath has contacted Quincy City Hospital Director Mark Mundy regarding complaints he has received from area residents concerning early morning starting of construction on the new hospital facility.

In a letter to Mundy, McGrath pointed out that there had been an agreement not to begin construction on Saturday mornings until 8 a.m.

"Based on complaints I have received from residents abutting the hospital, these agreements have not been complied with and construction has started earlier than agreed upon," said McGrath.

"Clearly, commitments that were made by the hospital administration to the residents should be complied with, and I suggest you refer this matter to the contractor," stated McGrath.

"I trust that any such agreements were made in good faith and that the hospital would want to maintain its credibility with the neighbors," said McGrath.

Cahill 'Appalled' At MWRA's Action On Shipyard

Tim Cahill, candidate for councillor-at-large, said he is appalled at the lack of concern the Mass. Water Resources Authority has shown Quincy regarding the proposed purchase of the General Dynamics Shipyard.

"As a resident of the city of Quincy, and especially of Ward 2, I am appalled at the lack of concern that the MWRA and the State of Massachusetts has shown for the safety and well-being of the people of Quincy," said Cahill. "Not only was the purchase of the General Dynamics Shipyard negotiated behind closed doors, without public process, but it was also negotiated without regard to the liability and cost of cleaning up the potential hazardous waste at the site. And to add insult to injury, Quincy is now left with approximately $2 million less to fund a budget that just barely meets the needs and desires of a city of 90,000 people."

"And as if this is not enough to worry about, we the people of Quincy, must fight in order that no future trash or sludge incinerators are built at the shipyard," continued Cahill.

"While city officials fight state (MWRA) and federal (EPA) forces with every legal means available while also exploring the possibility of buying the shipyard through eminent domain, we the people of Quincy must stand and be counted. We cannot allow ourselves to be lulled into believing that the MWRA and the State will take care of us."

"Protest of unlawful or unjust laws and regulations serve as the foundation upon which this nation was built. If we allow this process to take place without raising our collective voices, then we will be leaving our children with a city that will be in far worse shape than the one that is left to us. We cannot and have not argued that Quincy should not play a role in the clean up of Boston Harbor. We can argue that Quincy should not play the most hazardous role in that clean up. We can also protest the way in which Quincy is being chosen to play that role."

"What we must do is organize and unite as a city young and old, families and singles, business people and elected city officials, and show Paul Levy, Judge Mazzone, the MWRA and the EPA that Quincy will not take this affront to democracy sitting down.

"We must do everything in our power, in the form of protests, civil disobedience, and class action lawsuits, to assist our elected officials in delaying the clean up of Boston Harbour until we are guaranteed that the shipyard will continue to be a place where ships are built and repaired."

Elliot Berman Named To Distinguished B.U. Alumni

ELLIOT BERMAN

Elliot Berman of Los Angeles and formerly of Quincy, chief scientist of Arco Solar, Inc. in Chatsworth, Calif., has been named to the 1987 Academy of Distinguished Alumni of Boston University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

The Academy of Distinguished Alumni selects inductees annually, recognizing the accomplishments and contributions graduate school alumni have made to their professions and to society.

Berman received his doctoral degree from the graduate school in 1956 and received his bachelor's degree in chemistry in 1951 from Brown University. Berman is one of the founders of the solar cell industry, which produces electricity from sunlight.

He joined Arco Solar Inc. in 1979. The author of several articles in professional science journals, he has more than 35 issued U.S. patents on reversible photochemical systems, unconventional photographic systems and solar energy devices.

All Quincy Beaches Swimmable

Quincy's beaches were rated swimmable according to results of the water quality samples taken at the city's beaches Aug. 25.

Counts of over 200 are unacceptable and unhealthy for swimming.

The tests conducted were the last ones for the season. The results are:

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

When Paul Marshall of Quincy was growing up playing ice hockey, he used to practice jumping on and off a milk crate to improve his quickness.

His younger brother Chris, another hockey player, used to skate on rollerblades up and down Southern Artery and Washington St. - at 12:30 a.m. to enhance his leg strength.

Silly? Maybe. Productive? Definitely.

Both Paul, 20, and Chris, 18, have been drafted by teams in the National Hockey League.

Chris, a freshman and left winger at Michigan State, was chosen first in the sixth round (106th) by the Buffalo Sabres in this year's draft.

Both players, the sons of Louise and Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, know it's a rocky road to the NHL.

About his chances, Paul said, "A lot depends on how well I work and how well I do."

The 6-1 190 pound defenseman added, "It's too unpredictable. I'll need the breaks, too."

Concerning his chances, Chris who stands 5-11 and weighs 170 lbs. said, "I just don't know. I played well in high school. I won't know until I go out to school and face the same type of competition."

Their careers began early. Paul was four when he first shot a puck and brother Chris was only three when he first stickhandled.

Despite playing an aggregate 31 years of hockey, Paul and Chris have played together on just one team. Paul was always a division or a league ahead of Chris because of the two year age difference.

But this summer, the brothers teamed up and played on the Pro-Elite Bruins in Hingham.

Both insist there was never any competition between them.

"We support each other," Chris said.

Paul said his father is the reason why he is still playing hockey and thus has a shot at the pros.

It was his father who put him through the prestigious Northwood Prep in Lake Placid, N.Y., for one year between high school and college.

That experience changed Paul's future.

It was there that Paul first heard he was NHL material.

"Attending Northwood changed my whole life around. I went from someone who was just another kid to someone who might be drafted," Paul said.

In one year, he led Northwood Prep in scoring with 42 points (14 goals and 28 assists) and earned Most Valuable Player honors in the Capital District Tournament in New York.

"If I had not attended Northwood Prep, I would not be playing for Boston College," Paul said.

Chris agreed that their father played a key role in their development.

"He'd make us a big breakfast and took us to all our six o'clock (a.m.) games. It was a lot of work for him," Chris said.

"He stuck with us and that was important," he added.

Chris also said their brother Chuck, a former basketball player for Suffolk University, provided lessons in discipline.

"He told us to go and work out all the time. He was really good at hockey when he was young and he realizes the opportunity we have," Chris said.

"He went to all our games and is really interested in what we're doing," he said.

"I think he regrets choosing basketball over hockey," Paul said.

In addition to receiving a four-year scholarship to B.C., Paul was offered scholarships from Bowling Green (1984 NCAA hockey champs), Clarkson, Northeastern and the University of New Hampshire.

But his heart (and skates) were at Boston College.

"I went to B.C. High and when I was young I attended all the B.C. games," Paul said. But he was a "half hour away" from enrolling at UNH.

On the day Paul had to make his final decision on a college, UNH was due to call at 5:30 p.m.

But B.C. called at 5 p.m.

'If they (B.C.) had been late," Paul said, "I would have gone to UNH."

Chris said he chose Michigan State over Boston College, Maine, New Hampshire and Michigan because he "wanted to do something different."

"I thought I would play at B.C. all my life but I was unsure of the amount of playing time I'd get there," Chris said.

Chris, who likes the high-spirited play of former Boston Bruin Terry O'Reilly, said he is more suited to the Spartans style of play.

Chris was also attracted to the tremendous support the fans from East Lansing, Michigan give the home team. When Paul and B.C. played at Michigan State in the 1985 NCAA playoffs, Chris and the Marshall family were in attendance.

"The entire town is for Michigan State," Chris said.

Paul added that on the day of the B.C.-Michigan State game, the Spartan fans were out tailgating and drumming up support at 3:30 in the afternoon.

The game started at 7:30 p.m.

Paul, a sports communications major, and Chris, a prospective communications major, both said they will finish school and earn their degree before hitting the road to the NHL.

As could be expected, both brothers are content with the respective teams that drafted them.

"I wouldn't want to play anywhere else but in Philadelphia," Paul said. He added the Flyers have a strong organization and a great winning tradition.

"It's all up to me right now."

Likewise, Chris is extremely satisfied with the Sabres.

"They have a nice building, big crowds and the organization and management are very straight-forward," he said.

But Chris said he was also on the draft list of the hometown Boston Bruins.

"Buffalo picked ahead of the Bruins in the sixth round. I heard the Bruins were going to pick me but the Sabres did instead.

"I'm just happy to have been drafted," he said.

Paul has been on the Boston College varsity two years. He was captain of Northwood Prep in 1985, the number one team in the country. He said one of his best games was against Northern Michigan in 1986. Paul scored one goal and had three assists in B.C.'s 6-1 win and was selected star of the game.

Chris, during his four years at B.C. High, was chosen a Catholic Conference all-star and a Boston Globe and Boston Herald All-Scholastic. He netted four goals against St. John's Prep in B.C. High's last regular season game. The win vaulted B.C. High into the state tournament.

Both players offered advice for budding sport stars.

"Always have confidence," Paul said. "Have in mind what you want to do and keep at it. It's a rocky road."

"Practice all the time. Hockey has been more fun than work to me," Chris said.

"Take advantage of any free ice and go at it. Play within yourself and play at your level," he added.

Boston College and Michigan State do not play each other in the regular season this year but Paul and Chris could meet in the playoffs.

And with plenty of hard work and the right "breaks," Paul and Chris could someday meet on a more competitive road; the road to the Stanley Cup.

MDA Softball Doubleheader Thursday

The 11th annual softball doubleheader to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which was rained out last Thursday, will be played tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field.

The doubleheader will be dedicated in memory of the late Richard J. Koch Sr., who organized the special fundraising event.

Koch served with Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth as co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon committee which has raised over $1 million to fight muscular dystrophy.

Quincy Police and Quincy Firefighters will clash in the opening game at 6:30 and the Quincy City Officials will meet the News Media All-Stars at 8 p.m.

Over $15,000 has been raised by the annual doubleheader so far.

Track Club Registration Starts Sept. 8

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration for its fall cross country and distance running program every Tuesday and Thursday at 6 p.m. beginning Tuesday, Sept. 8 through the end of the month at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Boys and girls ages 7 to 14 are invited. No registration fee will be charged.

For more information call Anne or Bob at 328-1417.

Manet League MVP

The Quincy Manet Men's Basketball League recently held its first awards banquet at the Granite Rail, following completion of the league's initial season.

Ged Phelan, captain of the Mount, was presented the championship trophy, which in turn was given to Gerry Mulvey of the Granite Rail, which sponsored the team. Steve Balcastro accepted the runnerup certificate for the Quincy Nets.

Mark Millane, who led the Mount to the league title, was named the Most Valuable Player and headed up the league's first team all-star club. Other first team selections were John Timmins and Kevin Brogioli of Timmins Contracting, Belcastro and Ed Carrol of the Nets and Chuck JJaehnig of the Jaehnig Chiropractic Club.

Named to the second all-star team were Paul Donaghue and Wink Phelan of the Mount, Dean Coletti and Jay Osgood of Elm Street University, Glen Ryerson of the Jaehnig Club and Al Wolfe of the Nets.

The all-hustle team consisted of Bill Murphy of Timmins, Joe Shields of the Nets, Bill Ridge of the Jaehnig Club, Jim Kelly of the Mount and Pat Casey of Clean Machine.

Brian Buckley of the Mount who, at one time or another, has coached with or against most of the league players, was selected the Most Valuable Veteran for his inspirational play.

WEEK OF: September 3, 1987

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You handle emergency situations with effortless ease. And while you take charge even when not invited, your sense of interest is apparent. A major trend this year is focused on increased authority either at home or at workplace.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Make an extra point of keeping track of time -- it's easy for important seconds to slip by. Variety is accented and the week sees you involved in cultural, fitness, and educational activities.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
You become more able in fields that so far have been difficult for you to master. Instincts are generally strong, but blend intuition with logic. Good week generally for implementing plans.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
You're in a bold and bright mood, and this is a good week to experiment with colors. Careerwise, you feel you've been paying your dues long enough. This week you reap some benefits.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Tensions ease once a rival steps out of the scene. Good period to review your relationships -- you have an awareness of where they're headed. Intriguing family news arrives on the weekend.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
You're in a rare position of power and should use it to everyone's best advantage. Short trips are highlighted over the week. Loved one is in a more cheerful mood.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
An upbeat week, especially in the spheres of career and community activity. News from a reliable source may require some further checking. Community activities lead to a new friendship.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Your ingenuity and creativity are in good form, this is a fine week for tackling tricky chores. Real estate or legal matters are featured and require meticulous care.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22
Romance is highlighted in a week that accents sentimentality. Travel plans may be rearranged at the last minute. Relative is eager to settle differences with you.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
It's easier than you think to recover from an awkward position, the key is to act quickly and not dwell on the situation. Patch-ups are favored in the friendship department.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
Platonic relationship is accented, but be sure your platonic partner knows precisely where you stand. A younger friend helps you over a hurdle, just don't make the task too difficult.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
You thread your way through a maze of details, but by Tuesday or Wednesday you have accomplished an important professional task. Business and pleasure blend quite nicely.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
You receive important backup and can proceed with a stalled project. Educational pursuits are positively spotlighted. Partnership ventures require extremely careful review.

9-3-87 Solution

5th Annual Marina Bay Festival Sunday

The fifth annual Labor Day Festival at Marina Bay will be held Sunday, Sept. 6 from noon until 9:30 p.m. and will have something for everyone.

Sponsored by O'Connell Management Company and the Mayor's Office of the City of Quincy, the entire day's events are free and open to the public.

Marina Bay's spectacular Labor Day celebration provides fun, food and festivities for children and adults alike. There will be food, music, clowns, balloons, jugglers, face painters, mimes, children's rides and more. In addition, there will be dancing and entertainment for all ages along with an art show put on by the Quincy Art Association.

Later that evening, glittering fireworks will provide the perfect spectacle to close out the summer as they light up the sky and reflect on Boston Harbor and skyline.

Marina Bay is a 400 acre, self contained, seaside community that includes retail, residential and commercial properties.

Early arrival for the festival is suggested and encouraged.

Rain date is Monday, Sept. 7.

Marie Cappadona Hospital Dietician Administrator

Marie Cappadona of Quincy has been appointed registered dietician-food service administrator at AMI Pembroke Hospital and AMI Westwood Lodge Hospital.

Cappadona will administer food service operations and provide nutritional counseling to patients of the two comprehensive acute psychiatric facilities.

Before joining Pembroke and Westwood Lodge Hospitals, Cappadona worked for 20 years in a variety of capacities at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Most recently, she was director of food service, supervising the university's five boarding hall cafeterias.

Cappadona holds a bachelor of science degree in dietetics and institutional administration and a masters of science in nutrition from the University of Massachusetts.

She is a member of the American Dietetic Association and a former regional president of the National Association of College and University Food Services.

North Quincy Student Second Place Winner In Bookmark Contest

Melissa Christopher, 9-year-old daughter of Alan and Christine Chrisopher of North Quincy, has won second place in the bookmark contest sponsored statewide by the Massachusetts Association of Educational Media.

Melissa, who will enter the fifth grade at the Parker School this fall, received a certificate of appreciation and a $50 savings bond.

Her winning entry, which won first prize at the Parker School, was a drawing of a girl reaching for a book.

MELISSA CHRISTOPHER, 9, is congratulated by Parker School principal Dan Malvesta for winning second place in the bookmark contest sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Educational Media.

Applications Available For Artists Fellowship Program

Quincy residents are invited to apply to the 1987-1988 Massachusetts Artists Fellowship Program by the Oct. 16, deadline.

Artists who are Massachusetts residents over the age of 18 and not enrolled in a degree granting program are eligible to apply.

The Fellowship Program is administered by the Artists Foundation, a public, non-profit organization serving artists statewide and funded by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency.

This year, the Fellowship Program will award 58-$9,500 fellowships and 140-$500 finalist awards in 19 artistic disciplines.

For a fellowship application, contact the Fellowship Program, The Artists Foundation, 110 Broad St., Boston, Ma., 02110, tel. 482-8100.

Women's Exercise Program Registration Starts

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold registration beginning today (Thursday) for two women's exercise programs.

The programs, under the supervision of Nancy Joyce, will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings at either 8:30-9:15 a.m. or 9:30-10:15 a.m.

The activities will include traditional exercises to improve flexibility, endurance, respiration, and overall fitness. Adaptions will be made to accommodate each individual's own capabilities, and allow participants to exercise at their own pace.

The cost of the program is $15 for ten weeks and registration will take place on a first-come, first-served basis at the recreation office, 100 Southern Artery from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays. The first class will be held Monday, Sept. 14.

NQHS Teacher Attends Singapore Aerospace Conference

Marilyn Burysz, a teacher at North Quincy High School, attended the Fifth World Congress on Aerospace Education in Singapore during July.

The conference is designed to promote and improve the methods and practices in aerospace education, to identify emerging trends in aerospace education, and to raise the awareness and understanding of the people of the world of the importance of aerospace education for today and tomorrow.

Presenters this year were from the U.S.A., UK, Australia, Egypt, Indian, Pakistan, Jordan, France, Saudi Arabia and Singapore and included Astronaut Frederick Gregory, Cosmonaut Rakesh Sharma, John Taylor, chief editor of "Jane's All The World's Aircraft," and Peter Lloyd, president of Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

Participants also toured Singapore Airlines and witnessed crew training. They had the opportunity to simulate flying at 75 per cent turbulence in a 747 jumbo jet simulator.

Miss Burysz is a Smithsonian Air and Space Museum volunteer Regional Resource Person and was awarded a 1987 Horace Mann teacher's grant to assist Quincy teachers in infusing aerospace education in the classroom.

She has also been working as a member of the Department of Education Aviation Education Council to set up an aviation career day to be held Sept. 19, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at New Bedford Airport.

Burysz, who has a commercial pilot's license and was an applicant for the teacher in space program, was the subject of a teacher profile in The Quincy Sun in 1986.

ESL Summer School Students Learn About The Adams Family

By ELIZABETH TOBEY

Last week, the English as a Second Language Summer School investigated the history of the Adams family by visiting historical sites in Quincy.

Although many of the ESL students have come from places as distant as China, all were enthusiastic in learning about Quincy, their own hometown.

The ESL Summer SDchool

The ESL Summer School Program, held at North Quincy High School, is structured to give young people exposure to the English language and American culture. The students, ranging in age from nine to 18, have moved to America from their homes in Vietnam, China, and other areas of the globe.

Last week's activities included a visit to the Adams Mansion, a trip to the Church of the Presidents, and a half-day at the Quincy Historical Society.

On their first day of exploration, the students were given a tour of the Adams Mansion. This elegant, ivy-covered colonial house was once the home of John Adams and his descendents.

The interior of the house is decorated with several portraits of John Adams. One of these portraits was painted in the mahogany-paneled sitting room.

The ESL students were especially amused at the set of servants' bells that hung in the kitchen. Each bell had a different tone to signify demands from different rooms of the house. Adjoining the kitchen was a small closet containing Abigail Adams' finest china.

After their enlightening visit to the Adams' mansion, the students visited the Adams' burial site, the Church of the Presidents.

John Adams was a member of the congregation of the original First Parish Church of Quincy, and following the devastating fire which destroyed it, he donated granite from his "Rattlesnake Quarry" to build the present-day church.

The church is built in Greek revival style; its front supported by four granite columns, each weighing 50 tons. Beneath the church are the vaults containing John Adams and John Quincy Adams, along with their respective wives, Abigail and Louisa Catherine. The guide told the ESL students that annually, the church receives wreaths from the U.S. Presidents on the two former presidents' birthdays. Sure enough, there was a Presidential wreath at the entrance to the vault, sent by President Reagan to commemorate John Quincy Adams' July 11th birthday.

The following day, ESL students learned more about Quincy's heritage at the Quincy Historical Society. The building which houses the society was formerly the site of Adams Academy, a preparatory boys school. During their three-hour visit, ESL students were given a lesson in historical research, helping to "search" for information on a 19th century Quincy policeman. They utilized historical maps, directories, and old photographs.

The students also looked at preserved letters of Abigail Adams, as well as textbooks which belonged to a former Adams Academy student. The historical Society features a walk-through visual exhibit on Quincy's history, which includes the preserved Merrymount Cedar Tree, a historic landmark.

Although many ESL students have not lived in this country for long, they have grasped a sense of admiration for their new home. Although John Adams lived almost 200 years ago, his life and relevant landmarks are a source of interest and excitement for citizens old and new.

JIG, by Campbell Armstrong (Morrow: $18.95).

Long before the United States had IRAs to help people toward a more comfortable life in old age, Ireland also had an IRA set-up. The difference is that the letter was a threat to many people attaining long life — it was a terrorist group that ruthlessly assassinated enemies over religious or nationalist differences.

The Jig of the title of Mr. Armstrong's gripping novel is just such an assassin — a loner efficiently capable and so elusive as to have baffled police in many places. One who seeks him without knowing for whom he is looking is Frank Pagan of Scotland Yard. Pagan has an instinct about his quarry.

Another element that enters the plot is the involvement of American supporters — financial and political. It is because of this involvement that Jig is sent to the U.S. and most of the action occurs in this country.

The story Armstrong has devised is an exciting and suspenseful insight into the underground world of present-day Irish tensions as practiced by the hired killers and the opportunists who serve on both sides. "Jig" is a first-rate thriller — a real page-turner.

Y Swim Team Members In Water Expedition

The group drove north in a 30-foot mobile home loaned by Joe Feeney, father of one of the swimmers.

The weather was perfect and the white water run down the Kennebunk was a thrill and will be remembered for a long time by the girls. The overnight campout and river run were such hits with the swimmers that Coach Keyes hopes to make it an annual event.

Tryouts for the upcoming season for the Y's defending Division 2 champions will be held Saturday, Sept. 26, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the YMCA.

Ralph Pearson, Jr. Named To Safe Deposit Committee

The New England Safe Deposit Association announces the appointment of Ralph A. Pearson, Jr., of Bank of New England-South, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy, to the executive committee term ending 1989.

Pearson is also serving on the Executive Board of The South Eastern Chapter.

The American Safe Deposit Association awarded a "Certificate of Expertise" to Pearson at the annual TASDA Educational Conference held in Providence, R.I.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account(s), you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the seventh day of October, 1987, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account(s). If you desire to object to any item of said account(s), you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of August, 1987.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
THE TRIAL COURT
THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT
Norfolk Division
Docket No. 87P2036E1

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that the last will of said decedent be proved and allowed and that THOMAS F. FINNEGAN of BOSTON in the County of SUFFOLK be appointed executor named in the will without surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on September 16, 1987.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the seventh day of August, one thousand nine hundred and eighty seven.

Police Station Project Progressing On Schedule

The $9 million reconstruction and addition to the Quincy Police Station is on schedule, says David Colton, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.

"There have been no major problems and it has gone rather smoothly so far," he said.

Colton said that workers have finished all the piles and are now starting to pour the slabs for the foundation of the new building.

"We hope to get the steel up by the middle to end of this month, then close the building in so work can be done inside for the winter," he said.

The new communications system should be installed in four to six months, according to Colton.

The 27-month project started in May and is scheduled to be completed in August of 1989.

All Male Revue Before License Board Sept. 8

A request for Men In Motion, an all-male revue, to perform at Chevy's Belair Cafe, 79 Parkingway, will be among the agenda items at the License Board meeting Tuesday, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m.

The meeting, in the Council Chambers at City Hall, will be the first since the board recessed for the summer. It is open to the public.

According to Anthony F. Buffum, president of Chesterfield Inc., which owns Men in Motion, the show consists of a master of ceremonies, three ensemble dancers, three hosts and six lead performers.

For Raising Over $1 Million

MDA Honors Koch, Quincy Sun Pledge Center

Special tribute was paid to The Quincy Sun pledge center and the late Richard J. Koch Sr. on Ch. 5 during the Labor Day weekend Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

The committee and pledge center has raised over $1 million to help fight the battle against muscular dystrophy.

In recognition of passing the $1 million mark last year, members from The Sun pledge center this year were invited to help man the telephones and to perform various administrative duties at Ch. 5.

Bosworth and City Councillor Richard J. Koch, Jr. appeared on camera as tribute was paid to the latter's father and the pledge center.

Avaruch noted that Koch, Sr. although co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Committee for 11 years had helped the Muscular Dystrophy Association for 20 years.

"He was one of those rare individuals who come along once in a lifetime," said Bosworth. "He gave so much of himself to so many people and worthy causes."

The doubleheader has featured the Quincy Police and Firefighters in one game and the City Officials and News Media All Stars in the other.

9 Candidates Seek Nominations

Light Vote Seen In Wards 3, 5

A 30 to 35 per cent turnout is predicted by City Clerk John Gillis for the Tuesday, Sept. 15, preliminary election in Wards 3 and 5.

"It's an unusually low turnout because there is no preliminary contest for mayor, councillor at large or school committee," said Gillis of the election which will cost the city about $16,000.

Four candidates are running for Ward 3 City Councillor. They are, in the order their names appear on the ballot, William J. Reardon, 66 Ardell St.; Howard A.W. MacKay, 19 Ardell St.; Lawrence F. Chretien, 51 North Central Ave.; and Thomas M. McDonald, 24 Vershire St.

The five candidates for Ward 5 City Councillor, in the order their names will appear on the ballot, are Sabina Kavanagh, 857 Quincy Shore Drive; David F. Tilley, Jr., 66 Sachem St.; John F. Keenan, 83 Lincoln Ave.; Charles J. Phelan, Jr., 26 Kemper St.; and Kevin M. Burke, 97 Willow Ave.

Polls in the two wards will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Gillis said he expects the results to be tabulated at City Hall by 9 p.m. using Quincy's computer system.

He noted that there will be three changes in voting places for this election.

Ward 5 residents from Precincts 2, 3 and 4 who voted at Tobin Towers will now vote at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, Beale St., he said.

Ward 3 voters from Precinct 5 who voted in Montclair, and Ward 3 voters from Precincts 3 and 4 who voted at St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, will now vote at the Wollaston School, according to Gillis.

Two candidates will be elected during the preliminary election in the two wards, and will compete in the general election Nov. 3.

Gillis said he did not think weather would play much of a role in voter turnout.

"The individual candidates will get their workers out to assist people to the polls," he said.

Teachers Schedule 11th Hour Action Vote

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy teachers were scheduled to make an 11th hour decision yesterday morning (Wednesday) on whether or not to stage a job action as schools reopened in the city.

Quincy Education Association president Thomas Walsh said the 725 members of his organization are "upset and depressed" over contract negotiations.

"It seems like Quincy in particular goes through this year after year after year," said Walsh.

"At some point, Quincy teachers start asking why can't that be us when they see teachers in other cities and towns receive higher raises and contracts negotiated on time."

According to the contract proposal offered by the city, QEA members would receive an 18 per cent increase over three years.

That breaks down to a three per cent hike retroactive to July 1, two per cent raise June 30, 1988, six per cent increase Jan. 1, 1989, and six per cent raise Jan. 1, 1990.

The last contract expired Aug. 31.

Walsh said that a six-hour, Labor Day evening meeting with School Committee members, teachers union representatives and mediator Elliot Klitzman failed to reconcile three issues.

The issues are money, composition of the bargaining unit, and concerns over sick leave, he said.

"We're not miles apart on the money issue," said Walsh. "The School Committee offer is low, but we're trying to do the best we can with what they have to work with."

Walsh said that the second issue regards removal of principals and administrators from the bargaining unit.

The next scheduled negotiating meeting is set for Thursday, Sept. 17, according to Walsh.

Mayor Francis McCauley urged teachers not to stage a job action.

"The contract will be retroactive," said McCauley.

"We hope the QEA will continue negotiating and providing education for students.

"I'm sure we'll reach an equitable agreement soon."

Tri-Town Rally Against MWRA

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Citizens groups and residents from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth will join forces in a tri-town rally Saturday, to voice their opposition to three environmental issues, including the purchase of the Quincy General Dynamics shipyard by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

According to Peter Kolson, vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association, concerned residents from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth will gather for a noon-time rally Saturday at the South Gate of the General Dynamics shipyard near the Braintree-Quincy line on Quincy Ave.

In addition to protesting the pending MWRA purchase of the shipyard for a possible sludge facility, Kolson said the group will unite to oppose Clean Harbors toxic waste plant in Braintree and the possible location of a Boston trash incinerator at the shipyard.

"Not one of these projects is acceptable," Kolson said.

The MWRA wants to buy the shipyard to build a staging area to transport workers and materials to the new treatment plant to be constructed on Deer Island.

There is fear that a sludge treatment plant and-or a trash incinerator could be located on the property.

Paul Levy, executive director of the MWRA, said no decision has been made on usage of the bulk of the 184-acre yard after 35 to 50 acres are used for the staging area.

Braintree residents, led by Frank Toland and James Lucid of the East Braintree Civic Association, will gather at 11 a.m. at Watson Park and march to the shipyard's now closed South Gate.

There they will meet residents from Weymouth and Quincy for the rally.

Weymouth Board of Selectmen Chairman Brian McDonald is uniting the Weymouth residents, Kolson said.

"It's a three town problem, not just a Quincy problem," Kolson said.

"We are hoping the people of Weymouth come out in

Vacant House Fire Work Of Arsonist

A two-alarm fire Monday night in a vacant house in West Quincy caused an estimated $15,000 damage and was definitely arson, according to the fire chief.

"It was positively set," said Fire Chief Carl Valenti of the fire at 147 Bates Ave.

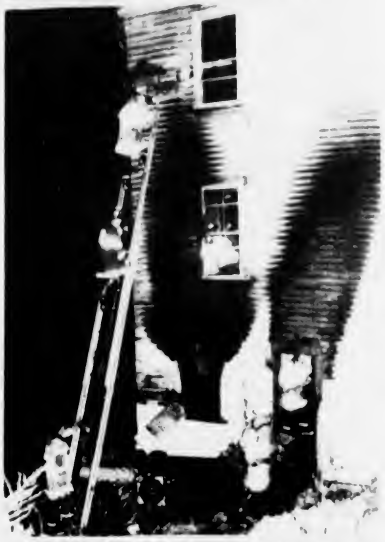
"The building was empty for about three years so there were no accidental causes," he said.

The fire at the two and a half story wood frame house owned by Richard Bonomi of 60 Oak Leaf Drive, Marshfield, was first discovered about 9:36 p.m. by a neighbor who alerted the Fire Department, he said.

A second alarm was called at 9:43 p.m. because of the proximity of occupied houses to the fire site, according to Valenti.

There was also heavy fire on the first floor, which extended to the second floor and was working its way to the attic when the fire department arrived, said Valenti.

Seven pieces of apparatus were at the scene until 11:23 p.m., according to Valenti, and mutual aid from Braintree, Weymouth and Boston covered the Quincy stations.



No injuries were reported, said Valenti.

Cause of the fire is being investigated by the State Fire Marshal's office, Fire Prevention Bureau and Quincy Police.

Valenti said he has requested that the Building Department have the structure torn down as soon as possible.

"It's a safety hazard," said Valenti. "Portions of the structure were gutted inside and the structure of the building is unsound.

"It's dangerous inside," he said.

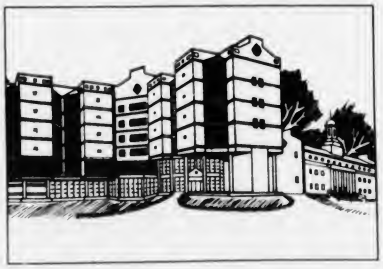
Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

City Steps Up Shipyard Court Fight

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City of Quincy has stepped up its courts action against the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's planned purchase of the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard for a reported $49 million.

Attorneys for the city filed a complaint in federal district court Friday seeking a determination that the environmental review process was flawed by the acquisition of the entire yard by the MWRA.

The Environmental Protection Agency and its regional director Michael Deland were named as defendants, as well as the MWRA, according to City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie who anticipated the complaint would be heard by Judge David Mazone.

The complaint in federal court followed state court action claiming the MWRA has exceeded its authority by acquiring the entire Quincy yard.

"The city is stepping up action by filing new complaints," said MacRitchie.

Earlier motions in federal and state court to limit the sale of the shipyard have been denied.

The MWRA has said it will need 35 to 50 acres for a staging area to transport workers and materials to the Deer Island Sewage Treatment Plant.

Local officials fear the rest of the 185-acre yard could be used for a sludge treatment plant and/or trash incinerator.

"We're carefully monitoring activities of the MWRA, and preparing to possibly get injunctive relief," said MacRitchie.

The parties named in the complaints will file answers, he said. Then both sides will go into the discovery process, take depositions and seek documents, according to MacRitchie.

A trial would follow, he said.

"Even though we've lost some preliminary rounds in court, our lawyers are now going forward with a trial on the merits of the case," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"They are starting to prepare their cases now, and they will probably be heard in the fall," McCauley said.

"We feel we have some good cases despite the fact that we've lost some preliminary action," said McCauley.

"If the MWRA signs a purchase and sale agreement, it risks having the transaction undone as a result of the city's lawsuit," he said.

McCauley hosted a meeting Monday morning in his office to update local officials on the situation.

Among those attending were Sen. Paul Harold, Sen. William Golden, Rep. Suzanne Bump and Rep. Marge Crispin of Braintree, Rep. Peg Goudy of Weymouth, City Solicitor MacRitchie, Special Counsel Peter Koff, Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson, Lawrence Chretien, representing Rep. Thomas Brownell, City Councillors Joseph LaRaia and Patricia Toland.

Quincy's Loss, Braintree's Gain

The last thing Tony Siciliano wanted to do was to leave Quincy.

But he is going.

Braintree made him an offer he couldn't refuse: they want him to head up their auxiliary police.

Simple as that.

And, Braintree is rolling out the welcome mat for the other 25 remaining members of the quickly shrinking Quincy auxiliary police force Siciliano had headed as chief.

SICILIANO

Quincy some months ago had moved the auxiliary police force to the municipal back burner after years of active service performing a variety of duties such as crowd control and patroling city buildings.

The question of legal liability to the city and auxiliary police officers was the reason given.

Quincy's liability insurance, it was noted, might cover auxiliary police only in a state of emergency. This presented a lawsuit risk.

Apparently it doesn't bother Braintree.

That town has been recruiting auxiliary police members to strengthen its force which was once up to 60 members but now down to 20 for lack of volunteers.

He quickly solved Braintree's problem by making 26 men feel someone appreciated them and wanted them.

In Braintree, auxiliary police carry out a number of duties such as patroling schools and parks to curb vandalism and handling traffic at churches and parades.

But in Quincy it was said that the question of using auxiliary police needed a federal and or state level solution.

The auxiliary police, it appeared, would have to twiddle its thumbs until some kind of a real disaster came along in which the governor or mayor would have to declare a state of emergency. And then it would be the police chief's decision whether to call up the auxiliary.

Back in July, his 60-man force had dwindled to 27.

He noted that the auxiliary police officers had recently completed a training program conducted by the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council.

In view of the decline in the use of auxiliary police officers in Quincy, Siciliano called that training a waste of taxpayers money. Quincy taxpayers' money because the training was financed by the city of Quincy.

So Braintree taxpayers benefit from that.

It was suggested that the auxiliary police could continue to perform ceremonial functions like flag-raising ceremonies.

"If I said that to my men," Siciliano said, "they would laugh me out of the building. "We don't intend to do ceremonial things."

Siciliano was disappointed that he and his men did not get more support from the people of Quincy and civic and veterans organizations.

What they got was a picket line outside City Hall comprised of regular police officers who considered them a job threat.

Siciliano has always put his heart into everything he did.

He was just selected as the Massachusetts Municipal Association's 1987 Outstanding Municipal Employee of The Year for his work as general foreman in the General Services Department of the Quincy Police Department.

He was nominated for this honor by Mayor Francis McCauley who also selected him in 1984 for an Employee of the Year Award.

In 1985 Siciliano was the first recipient of The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of The Year Award."

As Auxiliary Police Chief and Deputy Civil Defense Director--both unpaid jobs -- he has given countless hours of dedicated service.

He has never said "no" to anyone in need. Not "maybe," either. He was always there when needed whether it was during a blizzard, hurricane, flood or some other catastrophe.

Now he's Braintree's gain and Quincy's loss.

Southwest Quincy Receives Award In New Orleans

The neighborhood of Southwest Quincy recently received an award from Neighborhood Reinvestment Corporation at a National Conference of Neighborhood Leaders in New Orleans for revitalizing Southwest Quincy.

The residents in Southwest Quincy have worked in partnership with business leaders, the city of Quincy, and Neighborhood Housing Services to rehabilitate homes and businesses as well as form a neighborhood organization, the Southwest Quincy Community Relations Committee.

Over 1300 people from 137 cities and towns and 42 states of the District of Colombia were in attendance.

Conference participants included business executives, neighborhood leaders, and government officials who make up Neighbor-Works, a national network of Neighborhood (NHSs), Apartment Improvement programs, Mutual Housing Associations, and similar organizations.

Martha Robinson and Pastor James Kimmell both of Southwest Quincy, accepted the awards on behalf of the neighborhood. Robinson is co-chairman of the Community Relations Committee and Kimmell was the former Board President of Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services.

A special award was also presented to Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services for its participation in the revitalization of Southwest Quincy.

A 'Thank You' From The Koch Family

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Koch family wishes to express our deepest thanks to the many people who have expressed their kindness to us at the sudden passing of our husband and father. Dad loved this City of Quincy and worked so hard to improve the quality of life for its residents, especially the youth.

We would like to thank the many people from all walks of life who came and paid tribute either at the wake or at the funeral celebration. As people passed through the line and exchanged a few words with us, many people we had not met before, we could only feel tremendous pride in knowing that Dad had touched so many lives in such a positive way.

We would also like to thank our friends for being so kind and thoughtful for the past two weeks. The Keohane Funeral Home did a professional job handling matters for us. Capt. Paul Nestor and Lt. Jack Doyle and the very fine police officers of the Quincy Police performed so well to handle the funeral procession.

We know that Dad has not died, but, passed on to a new life, an eternal life with his maker. God Bless.

With The Recent Detroit Airplane Crash And Numerous Reports Of Near-Misses Are You More Reluctant To Fly?

RUTH MASSON, 25,
Travel Agent, Quincy Point

"I am not reluctant to fly. I feel something will and has to be done because of the accidents. Re-regulation is what the public should push the government for."

MATTHEW J. MCDONNELL, 46, Attorney, Quincy Center

"I am not reluctant at all. I am flying to California next week and never gave it a second thought. The number of plane crashes are very few compared to the number of accidents in an automobile. One takes more of a risk in an automobile."

KAREN TOCCHIO, 30,
Program Coordinator for MDA, West Quincy.

"I am very reluctant to fly. I don't think they are putting care in the maintenance of the aircrafts. They seem to be more concerned with time schedules and the amount of revenue they bring in."

Clash Over City Dump

Sept. 8-14 1956 31 Years Ago

City Councilwoman Edna B. Austin and Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash clashed over the city dump, or more specifically what Dr. Ash felt was the lack of attention the facility received from the city.

"The trouble is," said Dr. Ash, "that no one cares about the dump problem unless they live near one – or unless there is an emergency. Then they want to know why we haven't done anything."

Retorted Mrs. Austin:

"As a matter of fact, the City Council has spent more time in studying and investigating the dump problem during the past six years than it has on any other municipal problem except the hospital addition.

"It would be far more to the point if Dr. Ash would spend more time trying to educate the people not to mix garbage and other organic matter with their rubbish than uttering such implied criticism of the council."

LOW TURNOUT EXPECTED

City Clerk Donald P. Crane forecast a 30 percent turnout among Quincy's 45,000 registered voters for the Sept. 18 state primary election as candidates for various nominations swarmed over Quincy.

Edward J. McCormack, Jr., nephew of Rep. John McCormack (D-Boston) and president of the Boston City Council, attended a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. David J. Crowley in Houghs Neck on the trail of the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

A rally and reception was held at the Quincy Elks Home for Governor's Councillor George A. Wells of Worcestor, who was seeking the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Meanwhile, the polling place in Ward 2, Precinct 1 was moved from the Washington School to the Fore River Clubhouse after School Supt. Paul Gossard complained that the voters were interfering with classes.

Calzone
A Little Different

By now, most of us have used up our "vacation time" and are sort of settling in. What with getting the kids back in school and having those last minute cook-outs, it is a busy time. At a recent cook-out at my niece Carol's house, I made some calzones. And one of them was a little different, since it contained fresh basil and ricotta cheese. Sort of like a pesto calzone. It got some raves from those who enjoy pesto so I thought I would share it with you today.

DOUGH

2 cups water
1 pkge dry yeast
1 Tbsp sugar
1 Tbsp salt
Six cups flour

Dissolve yeast in warm (not hot) water. Add the sugar and salt. Then add the flour gradually. When it looks like dough, remove and knead until dough feels smooth (about 4-5 minutes.) Put in large bowl and cover and let set on top of the stove where it is warm for 40 minutes. This amount of dough will make 4 medium calzone. Cut a sizeable piece off the dough and roll out the size of a pizza Add the following:

PESTO CALZONE FILLING

2 cups of ricotta cheese
4 Tbsp fresh basil
1 egg
grated romano cheese - ¼ cup salt and pepper
2 green peppers (fried)

Saute the peppers and set aside. Mix the chopped basil, egg, romano cheese with the ricotta cheese until blended. After you have rolled out the dough, coat the dough with the ricotta filling. On top of that place the peppers.

Roll out like a jelly roll securing the sides. Beat another egg in a bowl and brush it over the top and sides of the calzone. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 25-30 minutes. Or until top is browned. Let cool and then cut into slices.

MILLIE SPLAINE, who was guest of honor at a retirement party after 50 years as a waitress at Louis Cafe, with her granddaughter, Jill McKenzie, and her husband, Joseph Splaine.

A Special Tribute:
For Millie Splaine It Was A Day To Remember

By HERBERT E. MORGAN

Harry Lewis Golden wrote "For 2 Cents Fancy" and "Only in America."

But I say that "Only in Houghs Neck" are tributes held such as the retirement party for Millie Splaine after 50 years as a waitress, consultant, and advice giver at Louis' Cafe, in beautiful Houghs Neck.

No other cities around have such activities.

Millie Splaine and her husband, Joe were picked up at her home on Medway St. by a silver stretch Cadillac Limousine and were taken to The Hollow Restaurant, Adams St. Quincy.

A red carpet was placed at her feet to enter The Hollow restaurant. She was greeted at the door by Donald "Sacco" Sartori, chairman of the event Sartori presented her an orchid corsage, and to Joe, a boutonniere.

When they were escorted by John Boyd, the maitre d', Joe Devine filled their glasses with water. Mayor Frances McCauley filled the wine glass and let them smell the cork to be sure it was the right vintage.

On leaving the restaurant, they were run through a gauntlet of about 40 people. The red carpet was then spread for them to return to the limousine.

On the return to the Quincy Yacht Club for a reception and buffet, a motorcade of about 20 cars proceeded down Adams to Sea St., escorted by a motorcycle policeman. Several trucks with Louis' Softball Team and Golf Team were in the parade. On the back of one truck was a sign which read, 'Caution Wide Load.' When the motorcade passed Palmer St. a ladder truck from the Fire Department joined the parade.

When the motorcade reached the Quincy Yacht Club, they were given the red carpet treatment and they ran the gauntlet of many friends and admirers.

Millie expected to find a few friends and neighbors, but she almost fainted when she saw the crowd of about 300 people waiting at the club. On entering the banquet hall at the Quincy Yacht Club, everyone was requested to sign the Guest Book. A "Wishing Well" was at the door. Another book was passed among the people assembled which was a photograph album in which people made comments of well wishes and submitted pictures of themselves and activities.

Tickets which were purchased for the event showing a picture of Louis' were stamped on the back "Thanks for coming-I love you-Millie," and were returned to purchasers as souvenirs of the occasion.

The head table consisted of Millie Splaine and her husband, Joe Splaine, her sister, Emma Nugent; her sister, Lillian, and her husband, Al Helfrich, her son, Bob Batson, with his wife, Linda, her daughter, Margie Wiggins, and her daughter, Robin, daughter Lillie and her husband, Paul McKenzie, and Millie's son, Jerry Batson.

Invited guests were Sen. Paul Harold, Mayor Francis McCauley and wife, Sandra, Leo Kelly, former Ward Councilor, and Jack Doyle from the Quincy Fire Department. Out of state guests were Howard and Mal Walker (Florida), Tom and Lillian O'Donnelly (Florida), and Ray Anderson (Florida). Terry Phelan and Earl Marsters.

Bob Dalrymple did an excellent piece of work as M.C. of the affair.

Presentations were made by the following persons:

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

How many times have you heard the expression, "Good things come in little packages" or "It's the little things that count?"

It seems that the little things in our lives appear to be more important than the great matters, for it is the little things in our daily routines that we complain or grumble about most. True . . . trivia can make daily life uncomfortable. The cold cup of coffee . . . the burnt toast . . . the missed school bus or unstarting car . . . the run or hole in the stocking . . .

On the other hand, little things bring joy, too . . . the hesitant small steps of a child beginning to walk . . . a loving glance . . . an intimate smile of sharing . . . an affectionate touch . . . an unexpected call from a friend . . .

The English philosopher, John Stuart Mill once said, in writing on contentment: "It is impossible to sustain high peaks of happiness throughout life." No doubt, that is true; but the little pleasures of life can bring the deep contentment that prepares the way for those high peaks of happiness. What do you think? . . .

All Male Revue Still On Road

By KRISTINE STRENGE

An all-male revue failed to get favorable reviews from the License Board Tuesday morning at City Hall.

According to the License Board agenda, Anthony E. Buffum, president of Chesterfield Inc., owner of Men in Motion was requesting that the group perform at Chevy's Belair Cafe, 79 Parkingway, Quincy Center.

But at an informal hearing before the Licensing Board, Buffum said he did not have a contractual agreement with Chevy's. He said he had several places in mind where he wanted Men in Motion to perform, but no formal agreements had been made.

City Clerk John Gillis, also board chairman, said board members must know where the act plans to perform in order to make a decision.

Buffum said he is in a "Catch 22" situation

"They (Chevy's) would not be willing to enter into a contract until we got a general feeling of how the people of the city of Quincy would react to this type of situation."

Gillis said the board is also in a "Catch 22" situation. If it approved Buffum's general request, without specific locations Men in Motion could perform anywhere in Quincy, Gillis explained.

Gillis told Buffum the board needs a written agreement from the establishments where Men in Motion would like to perform in order for Buffum's request to be heard.

'It's About Time' Bethany Sermon Topic

This Sunday there will be one service of worship at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon titled "It's About Time." Paul David Johnson will be the lay scripture reader.

As part of the worship service, Peter E. Krasinski, Bethany's organist, will play the various movements "Grave and Adagio," "Allegro, Maestoso Vivace," and "Fugue" from "Sonata Number Two" by Felix Mendelssohn.

The sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Danielle Marie Rand, daughter of Douglas and Teresa (Coletta) Rand, during the service.

Pastor Dieter Schmitten and his wife, Annemarie, will be presented and welcomed by the congregation. The Schmittens are spending a two-month sabbatical with Bethany Church to observe and participate in the life of a "typical" American congregation. Pastor Schmitten is one of eight ministers on the staff of the Evangelische Kirche in Duren, West Germany.

The worship will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday Church School will reopen on Sunday, Sept. 20th, with registration at 9:15 a.m. followed by a joyous celebration at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary welcoming back the children.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service and you are cordially invited to come and share in both the worship and fellowship.

For information concerning Bethany's programs and ministries please contact the church office at 479-7300.

All-Church Breakfast At United First Parish

United First Parish Church (Unitarian), "Church of the Presidents," will open the church year with an all-church breakfast Sunday, Sept. 13, at 9:30 a.m.

This year, the breakfast will celebrate a dining room and classrooms newly refurbished over the summer. Construction was made possible by a grant from the Brooks Fund and generous individual donations.

By tradition, the men of the Board of Governors cook and serve the opening breakfast. This year the breakfast team includes John Dowd, Richard Porter, Mark Sullivan, Walter Wrigley, and Russell Savela with Phil Curtis, Vice-chairman, in charge, and Joe Astino, a former Board member, as chief cook. For reservations, call the church office, 773-1290.

Following breakfast, the congregation will gather for the worship service at 10:30 a.m. in the great domed sanctuary. At the beginning of the service, members of the congregation will participate in a short ceremony in which people bring water from their summer's experience, add it to a common bowl, and speak to its particular significance.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett will deliver the sermon, "A Web of Caring Concern." Visitors are welcome.

The Church School also begins its program this Sunday with registration and classes. The School is under the leadership of Brenda Chin, Director of Religious Education, and Anita Savela and Cynthia Adams as the newly elected co-chairs of the Religious Education Committee. Child care is also provided for infants and toddlers. Newcomers are welcome.

Pastor's Sister Conducts Service At Squantum First Church

Last week's service at First Church of Squantum, the fifth Layman's Sunday, was conducted in its entirety by Patti Langevin-Hurd, assisted by Janet Williamson at the piano.

Her sermon topic was, "Finding Your Way Back Home." Following the lead of her brother, Pastor Gene Langevin, she is preparing for divinity school.

The sixth, and final, Layman's Sunday this week featured a hymn "Sing-Along" led by music director Mary Ruth Scott. Assisting her were three juniors in the church, Marci Hurd with the call to worship, Lori Ogilvie with the announcements and pastoral prayer, followed by Kim Olsen with the scriptural reading and dedication of the offering.

The congregation was saddened to learn that Rev. Ernest Hayhow, a former pastor of the church, had died.

Altar flowers were given in loving memory of Peake Gifford Porter by his brother Silas and sisters Polly Smith and Nancy Graham.

Open House At YMCA Saturday, Sunday

The public is invited to attend an open house Saturday and Sunday at the South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

The South Shore YMCA's service areas include: Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham, Hull, Norwell, Cohasset, Scituate, Randolph and Milton.

The open house will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The Open House will acquaint visitors with the ongoing services at the facility. Residents from the South Shore YMCA's service area are invited to tour the facility and talk with the professional staff.

Full privilege adult members of the YMCA are entitled to participate in gym programs such as basketball, volleyball, racquetball and weightlifting. The cardiovascular fitness side of the YMCA includes an indoor track, coed fitness programs, slimnastics, and aerobic dance classes. Weekly swimming lessons and daily recreational swims are also offered. Special interest aquatic classes include swimnastics, lifesaving courses and aquaerobics.

For women who want a personalized program, the "Y" offers its Women's Fitness Salon including individualized exercised programs, complete body toning equipment, whirlpool, sauna and locker room area. Daily exercise classes are also offered.

A variety of special interest courses are available including yoga, karate, pre-natal exercise and healthy back classes. The South Shore YMCA also facilitates one of the nation's finest Health Enhancement Fitness Programs directed by Wayne Westcott, Ph.D.

Dr. Westcott has written many books on health and fitness and is a consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sport, while also an advisor to the National YMCA. The YMCA's Fitness Center is equipped with the latest in "Nautilus" equipment that contributes to high technology exercise programs for developing muscle strength and cardiovascular endurance. Trained fitness instructors will be on hand to demonstrate the following for the open house:

Saturday: 10 a.m.: Why Every Adult Should Do Sensible Strength Training, Dr. Wayne Westcott, Fitness Director.

2 p.m.: Overview of the Nautilus Diet Program, Gayle Pizzi, Nautilus Diet Director.

Sunday: 2 p.m.: How to Rehabilitate Injuries and Care for Your Back, Lynn Sidor, Rehabilitation Director.

In addition to Dr. Westcott's staff, the YMCA Cardiac Rehabilitation Program will be staffed for anyone with questions regarding cardiac health.

A full range of youth programs are offered. Programs include gym classes, swim lessons, tumbling, gymnastics, karate and more. Competitive swim team is available along with instructional swim classes including Water Babies, Young Tots and Young Tot Gym and Swim. Also available to the Y's youth are a variety of Community Service programs that reach into the local area to bring quality programming to the people that can't make the commute to Quincy.

Under the guidance of Community Service Executive Director, Bill Johnson, and his staff the communities in the South Shore are provided with classes that range from youth swim lessons at the MDC pool in Weymouth to Vacation Camps, Water Babies, Young Tot Gym, Before School and After School Care, Aerobic Exercise classes and more, for children in Braintree, Hingham, Norwell, Scituate, Cohasset, Weymouth and Hull.

Community Service personnel will be on hand Saturday and Sunday to assist with any inquiries.

The South Shore YMCA has served the South Shore for over 95 years. Its programs vary from day care to Nautilus. These programs are developed to assist the South Shore resident with high quality care and programs.

Pre-registration is required for all swim instruction classes and special interest courses. Enrollment is limited. If unable to attend the Open House, call the YMCA Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Department Of Social Services To Meet Thursday

The Quincy Area Department of Social Services will conduct its first fall area board meeting Thursday, Sept. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the East Congregational Church of Milton.

The Department of Social Services was mandated by law to create an area based advisory board to help plan, develop and implement social service delivery within the community. The board has a primary role in the annual needs assessment of the community, the review of this area office annual budget and the review and monitoring of area based proposals and contracts.

The area board is also involved in a variety of functions such as foster parent recruitment, fund raising and the creation of certain initiators to address community needs.

For more information, call Robert Gough at 773-8920, ext. 31 or write Department of Social Services, 1419 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Fred Wilson made up a plaque with Millie's "last pair of sneakers" mounted on it, and the phrase, "Why didn't you ask me when I was up?"

Marty Barnes and Jim McDougall presented her with a plaque from the Golf League saying Millie was their greatest handicap.

Herb Morgan presented a plaque to Millie from Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club, Inc. which stated that Millie Splaine was the only female person ever elected as an honorary member of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club and thanked her for 50 years of courteous and professional services to the club and the veteran's organizations.

Mayor Francis McCauley presented a plaque from the City of Quincy and spoke eloquently of the "good old days" in Houghs Neck and how Millie helped to approve of his lovely wife, Sandra.

Telegrams were received from Harry and Josephine McWalters.

Best regards were also received from Pete and Priscilla Little, Bob McDonald (Capt. Hook) Charlie and Retha Morley.

Bucky Shaw, who was always bringing flowers to Millie, gave her a basket of flowers.

A delicious buffet luncheon was set up by Peter and Janet Finlay, including a delicious lobster salad.

Dancing followed--All in all, a most enjoyable time was had by all.

Members of the committee that planned the event were Donald (Sacco) Sartori, Chairman, Bobby Allan, John Boyd, Dick Burke, Ann and Walter Curry, Bob Dalrymple, Beverly Davis, Joe and Kay Devine, Carole Gardner, Kathy and Tom Gill, Lillian Helfrich, Chico Luggelle, Larry McNeill, Honey and Don MacDougall, Herb Morgan, Marion Pizzi and Frank Wilson.

Millie Splaine said she was shocked and surprised, and expressed her love to all her good friends and neighbors.

"These are the greatest people in the world--a day long to be remembered," she said.

Travel And Tourism Instructor Hired For QJC

The Quincy School Committee has approved the recommendation to hire Dr. Edward M. Kelly of Braintree for a faculty position teaching travel and tourism at Quincy Junior College.

Dr. Kelly was graduated from Quincy Junior College in 1964 and went on to earn his bachelor's degree from Suffolk University, his master's degree in teaching at the University of Maine, and he completed his doctorate in education at Boston University. He has taught in the division of community services at the college since 1985.

Dr. Kelly has been with the Institute for Certified Travel Agents since 1975 and has served as their vice president of Educational Resources since 1979.

He has also taught for the Weymouth Public schools and acted as the associate director for continuing education at Stonehill College. He is a member of the American Society of Travel Agents, The Travel Research Association and the American Society for Training and Development.

Susan Somers, chairwoman of the Division of Business and Administrative Services, commented, "I'm looking forward to having Ed join us as an integral part of the business and administrative services team spearheading our new travel and tourism program. We expect the program to blossom under his leadership."

Dr. Kelly plans to set up an internship program for the Travel and Tourism program, similar to the one for the Hotel Restaurant Management students, in addition to his instructional duties.

Books
by Ralph Hollenbeck

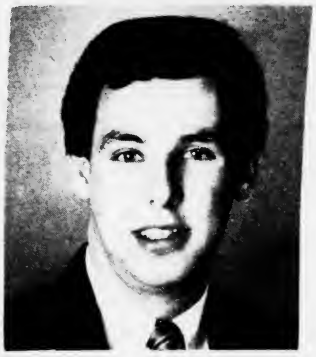
TIME AND TIDE, by Thomas Fleming (Simon & Schuster $19.95).

Thomas Fleming has encapsulated in this one-volume novel as much of the naval experience in the Pacific during World War II as historian Samuel Eliot Morison included in his multi-volume official history of the Navy during those years. To the dry dust bones of dates and actions, Fleming has added the human element.

Fleming, a WW II Navy veteran, historian and novelist has obviously combined his own recollections with his writing talents to recreate in microcosm the whole drama of naval combat in the Pacific theater as our sea forces reeled back from the devastation of Pearl Harbor to the final victory.

Technically, "Time and Tide" is the story of a ship, the cruiser Jefferson City. In reality, the Jefferson City is the embodiment of many ships (for instance, Fleming has the Jefferson City sunk after carrying the atomic device to Tinian when in reality the real ship involved was the Indianopolis).

Yet ships are no better than the men who sail them and that is the crux of "Time and Tide." Captain Arthur McKay is given command of the ship when his Annapolis roommate, Captain Winfield Kemble, is relieved after the disastrous Allied routing at the Battle of Savo Island. Kemble is suspected of deserting the task force, there is suspicion of a coverup, the ship is considered a pariah in the fleet and her crew is thoroughly demoralized.



A number of characters stand out in this book, but the underlying theme is the ambitions of the professionals, their rivalries with the wartime recruits, the roles of the women in their lives, and the eventual forging of an efficient ship and loyal crew under McKay's guidance.

The battle scenes are particularly realistic. "Time and Tide" is a major contribution to the literature of this nation's heroic role in World War II.

great numbers because we know they understand the seriousness of this issue," Kolson said.

Kolson said the rally will be informational and organizational. Many elected officials will attend and speak, including Quincy city councillors, Sen. Paul Harold and Rep. Suzanne Bump.

Mayor Francis McCauley urged residents to attend.

"We want to show that it is not just the city of Quincy against the MWRA," McCauley said.

A petition drive will also be launched at the rally. Signatures throughout the three communities will be collected and presented to the MWRA during an information session Tuesday, Sept. 22 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

"This is no time to be apathetic. This is the most important issue that has ever happened in Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth," Kolson said.

"It's not a political issue. It is a quality of life issue," he said.

Kolson, who hopes hundreds will turn out, said, "We have to make people aware of the problem and make them aware of what has to be done."

Kolson stressed that Quincy doesn't have a "not in our backyard attitude," adding that "Quincy already has a lot in its backyard."

In addition to the sewage problem, Quincy has many senior citizen dwellings, low income housing and a pending homeless shelter.

"We have more agencies helping more people than any other community in Massachusetts. We believe in people and helping people but when life quality is affected, it is time to say enough is enough," said Kolson.

Kolson said a parking arrangement is being arranged near the South Gate. Details will be given on WJDA this week.

The rally will go on rain or shine. For more information or transportation, call 773-9386.

"It's a big fight but together I think we can really win," Kolson said.

Burke Says He Will Be Accessible, Involved

In two recent campaign talks, Atty. Kevin M. Burke, candidate for the Ward 5 City Council seat said that, if elected, his term in office would be noted for accessibility, citizen involvement, and hard work.

Burke made his remarks at a standing room only reception at Amelia's Restaurant (Marina Bay) held in his honor and a coffee hour at the Tobin Towers in Wollaston.

A number of elected and former officials attended the reception at Amelia's including former Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti, state Senator Paul Harold, and Barnstable County District Attorney Philip Rollins.

Burke also recently spoke before a large audience at the Tobin Towers in Wollaston. In both speeches he noted, "Quincy is filled with history. This city has given our nation two presidents. Numerous outstanding servants have come from and served in the city."

Burke said he wanted to be a part of that tradition of service to the community.

"I hope that I am elected to work for and with the residents of Ward 5. The job of an elected official is to serve the people he or she represents. Only through contact with the constituents can a councillor feel the pulse-beat and know what is of concern to the residents. I want to be accessible not just now as I walk door-to-door to get elected but I also want to be there after the election. I believe that a councillor should make a regular practice of meeting with his or her constituents."

Burke, noting the value of maintaining contact, said: "Steady communication with constituents is not only an excellent means of identifying areas of concern and problems in the ward, it is also a good source of solutions to those problems. This is particularly true in the case of so many of our senior citizens who have spent their lives building and improving this city. Our senior citizens can provide valuable insights and solutions to the problems that face Ward 5 and the city in general."

"Ward 5 is about to change. The current Ward Councillor, Stephen McGrath, has decided to seek an at-large seat on the City Council. His decision comes at a time when the city is faced with a number of important issues including the sale of the shipyard, development, education, and pollution."

Burke discussed a number of what he termed "small" but important issues. He said,

"The Ward 5 councillor must be prepared to do more than work on the issues that receive newspaper headlines. He or she must be willing to work on the small issues that hit close to home."

He referred to things such as curbing, sidewalk repair, and tree plantings and acknowledged that,

"Often the issues that affect the residents the most--on a daily basis--are the issues that are located in front of the home. I am willing to work on all the issues, big and small. I hope that my qualifications, accessibility, and willingness to work will cause the residents of Ward 5 to not only consider my candidacy but vote for me as their next Ward 5 Councillor."

MBTA Service For Handicapped To Start

Mayor Francis McCauley announces he has received word from the MBTA that it is ready to begin service for transportation of handicapped persons who live in Quincy Sept. 14.

"The Ride" service will consist of 24 hour advance notice, and the trips may be requested for any purpose.

McCauley said that anyone interested in registering for "The Ride" should contact the MBTA's Office for Special Needs, for an application, located at 10 Boylston Place, Boston, MA 02116; or call 722-5123 or 722-5415.

McCauley added that there have been two public meetings scheduled to give out information regarding the application process and to answer any questions regarding this important service.

The meetings will be held Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 1 p.m. at Sawyer Towers, 95 Martenson St., Quincy and Thursday, Sept. 10 at 3 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

McCauley urges any resident interested in this program to either attend the meetings or to call the MBTA for further information.

Sons of Italy; Weymouth Tax collector Sulo Soini, Rita Kelleher and Tom McDonald of the George Bryan VFW Post, and Nate Goldberg and Harvey Solomon of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans.

Because Quincy pledge center members were working telephones at Ch. 5 this year, there were no phones at The Sun.

However, there were fishbowl activities at The Sun on Labor Day.

John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St. this year donated a $370 Sharp Carousel microwave oven as a prize to help bring in fishbowl donations. This is the 10th year he has made a contribution of this size.

Donations may still be made as the drawing for the microwave oven will be made later. Anyone donating $1 has a chance to win the oven.

Arthur Chandler, as he has in the past, donated 50 tickets to the Wollaston Theater as fishbowl prizes.

The fishbowl realized $3,325.

Among those stopping by to make a donation were City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro and his wife, Betty, who for 10 years have helped man the telephones.

After making their donation, they went out with a cannister and brought back $52.

George Parker, owner of Yellow Cab Co., made his annual visit to The Sun with two $500 checks, one from the company and one from himself.

Parker left and returned awhile later with $106 he collected at the South Quincy Social Club.

O'Brien's Bakery, Beale St., Wollaston, sent up a three tier cake decorated with quarters and other coins and topped off with dollar bills. It added up to $86.62.

Mrs. Edward Grogan of Milton Hill Rd., Milton, came in with a bag containing $78.10. The money was saved by her grandchildren during the year. She brought the bag back to them which they will start filling for next year.

School Committeeman Frank Anselmo called to say he was sending a $50 check.

Explore 'Supplemental Funding' For Schools, Durkin Urges

School Committee Vice-Chairman Stephen J. Durkin addressed the issue of possible sources of supplemental funding or "alternative sources" of funding for Quincy's school system at a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Finn of Buckingham Rd., Wollaston.

He said,

"While the primary responsibility for funding our public schools lies with the city's taxpayers, the city, along with the school system, ought to be seriously exploring the potential for business and development interests.

"Such programs should include employment and internship opportunities for Quincy Public Schools' students, as well as agreements with businesses, industries and developers to contribute money or materials and equipment for specific programs."

"The initiative for such partnership programs ought to come from the Mayor's office, which naturally has a closer working relationship with business interests throughout the city than does the school system."

"I would propose that the Mayor seek approval from the City Council and the School Committee for the creation of a position within the administration, the purpose of which would be to act as a liaison between our schools and the business community to develop programs beneficial to both."

Durkin also said that the position could be funded in part by the school budget and in part by the budget of another city department, such as the Planning Department.

Roots Of Words

Napkin: If you ever saw a child playing house using a linen napkin as a little tablecloth, you saw the child using it exactly as its name implies. The word, napkin, comes from an Old French word, nape, which means tablecloth. Adding the suffix, kin, makes it a diminutive.

Finance: Originally, the word meant both — final and payment. It derived from the Latin, finis, meaning end — and paying a "fine" meant bringing a legal action to an end.

How Not To Get Conned

Charity Fraud:

It's a great idea to help a guy in need. And one way to do it is to give to a charity. But be careful, some people set up charities that only help themselves.

Charity fraud does a lot of harm. The swindler takes advantage of people's good will and takes their cash, money that was meant for people in need.

You can make sure that many money you give gets into the right hands. Remember these pointers when somebody asks you for a donation:

- Ask for identification - the organization, the solicitor. Find out what the purpose of the charity is and how funds are used. Ask if contributions are tax-deductable. If you're not satisfied with the answers - don't give! You can check the charity out with the National Information Bureau (212-532-8595) or the Philanthropic Advisory Service (202-862-1230). They can tell you whether the organization is a legitimate charity or not.
- Give to charities you know. Check out the ones you've never heard of before, or others whose names are similar to a well known charity.
- Don't fall for high-pressure tactics. If solicitors won't take "no" for an answer, hang up on them, close the door on them, but don't give them your money.
- Be suspicious of charities that only accept cash. And always send a check made out to the organization not an individual.
- If a solicitor reaches you by telephone, offer to mail a donation. Shady solicitors usually want to collect quickly.

Investment Frauds:

There are dozens of different investment frauds. Sometimes people are offered the "chance of a lifetime" to invest in a promising new company. The swindler takes the investor's money and quietly goes out of business. Another type of investment fraud is the "pyramid franchise." The investor buys a dealership for hundreds or thousands of dollars, and recruits other distributors or salespersons. Eventually, there are hundreds of distributors but no one to sell the merchandise. Those at the top make lots of money before the pyramid collapses, leaving the individual investors without their cash.

Watch for these warning signs.

- High pressure telephone sales efforts.
- The investment seems too good to be true.
- The emphasis is on setting up dealerships rather than selling a product.
- The promoter does not offer to "buy back" any unsold merchandise.

Next week: Land fraud and Self Improvement fraud.

Over $1,000 Raised

Police, News Media Win MDA Doubleheader

The Quincy Police and Quincy News Media All-Stars won the games but the real winner was the Muscular Dystrophy Association in last week's 11th annual benefit softball game at Adams Field.

The event raised over $1000 for MDA, bringing the 11-year total to over $8500. Proceeds from the game has helped the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee raise over $1 million toward the fight against muscular dystrophy.

The game was dedicated to the memory of Richard J. Koch Sr., late executive secretary of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments and co-chairman of the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee, who died suddenly Aug. 23.

Koch, active in charitable and community causes for four decades, was the principle organizer of the benefit game. Play was suspended for a special moment to remember Mr. Koch and the dedication and hard work he put forward to make the game a success.

Henry Bosworth, Quincy Sun publisher who worked with Koch for 10 years as co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee, said, "I know Dick is here with us tonight in spirit."

In the first game, the Police handcuffed the Quincy Firefighters by a 25-4 score. In the nightcap, the News Media defeated the Quincy City Officials 13-6 in one of the better played games in recent years.

The Police win was their third straight. The Media rebounded from last year's loss and now lead the series, six games to five.

Bosworth managed the Media while Ray Cattaneo coached the Officials in a losing effort. The Ledger's Bill Ketter hurled five innings for the win with a sharp relief performance from Dave Hamilton. Cattaneo took the loss.

Bill Reardon was behind the plate calling balls and strikes and Paul Koch umpired at first.

Playing for the City Officials were city councillor Dick Koch Jr., Tom Koch, Arthur Foley, mayor's administrative assistant; Brian Buckley of the youth commission; Mike Shaheen of the health department; school committee member Frank Santoro; Ray Cattaneo of the park department; auditor Bob Foy; city councillor Ted DeCristofaro; Kevin Shea of the planning department; Solicitor Jay MacRitchie and planning director Rich Meade.

The News Media team included Ketter, Bill Flynn, Earl LaChance, Eric Schwartz, Sean Mulnardy and Hamilton of the Patriot Ledger; Dave Gray, Fred Happel, Chris Allen, John Rounseville, Henry Bosworth and Bob Bosworth of The Quincy Sun; and Herb Fontaine, John Nicholson, Bill Coleman, Dana Beards, and Eddie Donohue of WJDA. Beards whacked a long home run.

Dudek Cut By Broncos

North Quincy's Joe Dudek had high hopes of making the Denver Broncos of the NFL as a running back this season, but his hopes were dashed yesterday when he, along with several other candidates, were cut as the teams got down to the 45-player limit.

Dudek, who had impressed in pre-season games, was one of the last running backs to be cut. He is on waivers and could be claimed by another club.

However, with the teams paring their rosters to the 45-player limit in preparation for this weekend's season's openers, his chances appear slim.

Youth Soccer Special Registration

This team is designed for boys and girls ages 6 to 22 who, because of their special need, are unable to play on a regular team. Games are played every Saturday morning for eight weeks.

A number of games are played against a similar team from Weymouth. The youngsters are given an opportunity to learn new skills and be part of a team.

Those wishing to register a boy or girl or have questions are asked to call Margaret Walsh at 471-1637 or Susan McKeon at 479-7040.

Youth Football Opens Under Lights Saturday

The Quincy Youth Football League will open its 37th season with a doubleheader under the lights at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium Saturday night.

The Quincy Point Panthers will play the West Quincy Elks in the 6 p.m. opener and the North Quincy Apaches will meet the Squantum Sailors at 7:30.

Four league doubleheaders and the championship game on Nov. 21 will be played under the stadium lights.

The league will conduct its annual fund-raising tag days on the Sept. 18-19 weekend. Players and cheerleaders will be in uniform at area stores collecting donations, which will be used to benefit Quincy youngsters 11-14.

At Team Dinner

Morrisette In Special Tribute To Osborne

Atletic officer Frank Osborne, who has devoted 30 years to the Morrisette Legion baseball program, was honored at the post's annual dinner for the baseball team at the post home.

Osborne, who said he is stepping down this year, was presented an engraved watch, a ball autographed by all the players and coaches, a colored portrait of him in action taken by Tom Mullaney, father of Morrisette player Mike Mullaney, and several other gifts.

"I don't know what I would have done without Frank during my 18 years with the teams," said Ray Cattaneo, who served as manager this season after 17 years as head coach. "He has done an awful lot for Morrisette baseball and this year he raised well over $4000 for our program through the annual ad book. He has said for 18 years he is quitting, but I'm going to be back next year and I am going to bring him back."

"I appreciate all of this, but my wife had done all the work and deserves the credit," said Osborne. During his 30 years with the teams he brought gum for the players at every game and at the dinner he gave a package of gum to each of the players.

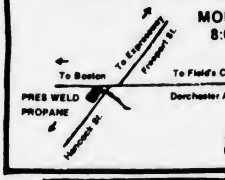
Cattaneo was toast master and introduced the head table guests, Osborne, post chaplain Edwin Boland, who gave the invocation; assistant coach Bob Biagini, head coach Dave Perdios, Mike McCormack, a player with Morrisette in 1976, '77 and '78, the principal speaker; post commander Philip Perkins, scorer and statititian Richard (Berger) Ryan, former state rep Joe Brett, the team's number one fan, and Tom Sullivan of The Quincy Sun.

Perdios thanked the players for another outstanding season (Morrisette finished in second place in Zone 6 with a 14-4 record) and especially thanked the four players who have finished their Legion eligibility, Greg Chambers, Chris Ricciuti, Steve Minichiello and Larry Taglieri.

McCormack praised the Morrisette program and said he enjoyed playing for the posdt for three years. he urged the players to take their education seriously and get the most out of school. McCormack graduated from North Quincy High School and Mass. Bay Community College.

"In 1976 we made the Northeast Regionals, the next year we made the state finals and in my last year we hosted the Northeast Regionals at Adams Field," he said.

Autographed baseballs were presented to McCormack, Comdr. Perkins and Brett.



Cattaneo introduced the post officers and several people who helped out in the baseball program. Among those present were City Councillor Ted DeCristofaro and John Mariani, Randolph Legion coach and a former resident of Quincy.

The players received jackets and team photos.

Trainor's, Kane's, Quincy Cooperative Division Champions

Trainor's (A Division), Kane's Oldies (B Division) and Quincy Cooperative Bank (C Division) won the championships in the Quincy Women's Softball League, which recently completed its 12th season.

Liberty Lounge, in the playoff finals for the first time in its 11-year history, forced Trainor's to five games in an exciting series.

Liberty shocked Trainor's by winning the first two games, 10-2 and 7-5, with the consistent hitting of Laura Miller and power hitter Donna Marrier.

However, Trainor's rebounded and game 3 was a show of women's softball at its best. Scoreless until the fourth inning, Trainor's took a 2-0 lead on hits by Jane Carrio and Jean Volpe. Liberty Lounge came back with a run in the sixth on an RBI single by Jackie Shea,, driving in Leslie Matthews.

Trainor's scored two more, making it 4-1 going into the seventh inning. Liberty coaches Kevin Cody and Terry Greenleaf went to their bench and exploded for five runs to take a 6-4 lead.

Lyn Luks, Ray Demulis and Laura Nicholas singled, Debbie Ohlson walked and Kathy Cahill, Maryann Verra Matthews and Miller came through with RBI hits.

Trainor's coaches Cindy Hill and Marie Steward also went to their bench in the bottom of the seventh and Patti Mullee singled, Ginny Trainor walked, Denna Bello drove in Mullee with a single, Paula Pelusi singled to drive in pinch runner Donna Murphy and tying the game at 6-6. Hill walked and, with the bases loaded, Liz Agnes singled scoring Bello with the winning run.

Trainor's won a 4-3 squeaker to even the series at two wins apiece and forcing a fifth and deciding game.

Agnes drove in Trainor's first run but Liberty tied it in the third on Miller's single. Trainor's took a 2-1 lead in the fourth and added a run in the fifth with Patty Gallagher scoring. Down, 3-1, in the bottom of the seventh, Liberty's Laura Nicholson led off with a double and scored to make it 3-2, but Trainor's held on and a diving catch by Jane Curreo ended the game and gave Trainor's the championship. Julie Moore pitched a fine game for Trainor's.

In the semifinals Trainor's swept the LaRaia Club, 7-2, and 18-7, and Liberty also won in two straight games, topping Bentley's, 5-4 and 9-3.

Kane's Oldies won the opener, 8-4, but the Hofbrau, led by excellent pitching of Jean Preble, won the second game, 6-4.

Kane's got down to business and won the third game, 4-1, behind the pitching and hitting of Chickie Momrile.

Kane's won the clincher, 13-7, after starting off with five runs in the first inning on a booming double by Diane (Smalley) Maze and singles by Patty Donovan, Heather McInnis, Nancy Smith, Sue MacDonald and Joanne Cuneo.

The Hofbrau came back in the second with five runs on its own to tie the count. Susan Pacetti, Kathy Petrilli, Chris McCarthy, Mary Jane Clark, Teri Provost and Karen McInnis all had hits.

Kane's added two runs in the third and another in the fourth when Lorna Dionne-Keay drove in Gigi Wallace with a single.

Kane's put the game out of reach with five runs in the fifth on singles by Bev Bergman, Sandy Sacchetti, Kathy Cashman, Brenda O'Toole, Diane Smith, Donna Cogliano and Chris Ciocca.

The Hofbrau scored twice in the seventh on hits by Janet Valery, Sandy Smith, Cheryl Carmody and Lynn Cahill, but it was far too little and too late and the Oldies had the championship.

In the semifinals Kane's eliminated the Fowler House in straight games, 4-1 and 15-3, while the Hofbrau had to go three games to oust the Rascals. Hofbrau won the opener, 10-7, lost the second, 8-4, and came out on top, 5-4, in a 14-inning, 3½-hour finale.

In Class C both Quincy Cooperative and Dependable Cleaners were in the finals for the first time. Co-op won the championship with a three-game sweep.

In the opener Dependable scored a run in the first but Co-Op came back with two in the bottom half. Dependable tied it in the top of the second, but Quincy Co-Op took a 3-2 lead in its half.

Dependable tied it in the top of the fourth but Co-Op scored three in its half for a 6-3 lead. Dependable added two in the fifth but Co-Op countered with two insurance runs in the sixth and shut down Dependable in the seventh for an 8-5 decision.

In game 2 Co-Op started out fast and scored four in the first inning on hits by Eileen Doucette, Lori Wright, Paula Morrison, Joanne McBride, Kathy McBride, Joyce Christensen and Kati Dunn. Co-Op picked up two more in the third to lead, 6-0.

Dependable wouldn't give up and exploded for six runs in the third and fourth innings to tie it at 6-6. Kathy Duggan, Laurie Bergstrom, Laura Ryan, Lisa Julian, Barbara Nye, Donna Murphy, Stacey Moran and Corinne West had the hits.

There was no more scoring until the seventh when each team scored a run, forcing the game into extra innings. Kati Dunn drove in Joanne McBride for Co-Op and Lisa Julian hit a home run to tie it up.

Co-Op scored four runs in the top of the ninth to win it, 11-7. Karen Robertson, Debbie Baracchini, Robertson and Joanne McBride had the key hits.

In the third game Co-Op scored six runs in the first two innings, and they were more than enough. Dependable scored its lone run in the sixth on Julian's home run and Co-Op had its first league crown.

In the semifinals Quincy Co-Op ousted Putnamatics (a new team in the league) in straight games, 7-1, and 19-4, and Dependable Cleaners won in three games over Granite Rail, winning the first game, 8-2, losing the second, 15-10, and winning the clincher, 10-7.

Raiders Have Nucleus To Improve Record

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last fall North Quincy's football team finished with a 4-6 record climaxed by a 24-7 win over Quincy.

This season six-year coach Ken McPhee feels he has the nucleus to improve on that record and at least finish up over .500.

"We have a lot of experience and I think if we can avoid key injuries, we should do better," said McPhee. "But we have a lot of young kids and the secondary is inexperienced. Right now we have a lot of minor injuries but we should be ready for our opener (at Milton Sept. 18)."

McPhee sees the offense as stronger than the defense and he has a lot of size and experience in the offensive line. Most of them will also be playing on defense.

At tight end Mike Ainsley (190) is back and will be joined by Dennis Cronin and Sean McDonough.

At guard McPhee has Dan Steelz, Dave Joyce (225), Brian Healy (200), Sean Darcy and Paul Jeffers. Paul Nimeskern is back at center and is backed up by Sean Glennon.

Billy McDougal leads the wide receivers and is expected to have another fine season. He is joined by Steve Shoap, who last fall did a fine job running back kicks; sophomore Kevin McDougal, Jackie Mullen, Ted Stevenson, Dan Hobin, Joe DiAngelo and Mike Shields.

North is all set at quarterback with Joe Mulvey and B.J. Sylva, who shared the job last season, back. "I don't know which one will start, but both will see plenty of action," said McPhee.

Returning at halfback are Tri-Capt. Paul McCormack and Dave Lawless, both of whom are outstanding runners. Steve Patch, who kicked the extra points, Keith Gott, who sparkled last year as a freshman and will be a starter, and Paul Brown are other halfbacks.

On defense Vin Moran, Shawn Clancy, Bob Herman, Bob Marinoupolos, Darcy and Cronin are the ends, and Hogan, McNamara, Curtin, Joyce and Jeffers are the tackles.

The linebackers are Ainsley, Craig, Steele, Nimeskern, McDonough and Calvert, and the corner backs are Bill McDougal, Kevin McDougal, Mullen, Hobin, McCormack, Mark Johnson and Scott Collins.

Lawless and Clancy will do the punting for the Raiders.

"I'm pleased with the way we have been coming along in practice and the younger kids are looking better and better all the time," McPhee said.

North scrimmaged Braintree last Saturday and will scrimmage at Weymouth North next Saturday.

Quincy Has Numbers, But Lacks Size

Quincy's football team went 4-6 a year ago and fourth-year coach Jack Raymer is pointing toward a .500 season this fall.

"We have a lot of players as far as numbers are concerned, but we have very little back from last year and we not only are inexperienced, but lack size," said Raymer.

"It will depend upon how well the younger players develop as to how many games we win."

The Presidents have only two returning offensive regulars, and three on defense.

Frank Calabro (6-3, 210), a three-year veteran, will be a key player at defensive end as well as playing end on offense.

"One of our most important players will be Sean Munroe, who broke his foot in pre-season last year and saw only spot action in the last few games," said Raymer. "He is a real blue chipper and an outstanding wide receiver. He can run and I feel we have the man to throw to him in quarterback Chris Noble, who can throw long and is going to be an excellent quarterback."

Offensive tackles are Mike Madden, Brian Norris (6-3, 215), sophomore Joe Baker, Craig Bowlen, and Steve Slicis.

Defensively the ends are Calabro, Norris, Hanley and Mike Madden, and the tackles are Slicis, Baker, Daley, Crowley and Hamilton.

Defensive backs are Light, Jim Dennett, Bill Copson, Jim Kimmell, Logan and Grant.

"We are green as grass and we need interior linemen badly," said Raymer. "We have a hard working group of kids and it just depends on how well the younger players develop. Passing will be our strong point and we have some quality running backs. We have put in a new defense and will attack the other teams with it."

Quincy held its annual intra-squad Blue and White scrimmage last Saturday and this Saturday will scrimmage West Roxbury.

In the semifinals Malvesti and Malvesti defeated Wayne Fick of FB and Skip King of Plymouth and Millmore and Connolly defeated Charlie Rizzo of FB and Joe Caruso of Ponkapoag.

The second flight was won by Brian Sines of FB and Joe Mattes of Pembroke, who defeated Marty Healey of FB and Tom Papoulious of Ponkapoag on the 22nd hole.

In the semifinals Sines and Mattes defeated Charlie Harris of FB and Mike Bemis of Wollaston and Healey and Papoulious defeated Frank Guilfoy of FB and Roy Cavicchi of Ponkapoag.

The consolation was won by Ed O'Toole of FB and Charlie Bennett of Halifax, who defeated Dave Gosselin of FB and Peter Driscoll of Pembroke.

In the semifinals O'Toole and Bennett defeated Walter Henrikson of FB and Tom McBreen of Laconia, N.H., and Gosselin and Driscoll defeated Kevin O'Malley of FB and Sean Byrne of Walpole.

Donahue Injured

Quincy's Brian Donahue, who signed with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League s a free agent, has been placed on injured reserve.

The 295-pound defensive lineman, who last year signed with the New York Jets but left training camp due to personal problems, had been in contact with several NFL clubs and feels a background in drugs played a prominent role in his not being signed by any of them.

Donahue, a graduate of Abp. Williams High, admits to a history of drug abuse and said he started experimenting with drugs in high school. However, he has been clean for more than a year and he has spent a good deal of time talking to high school students describing the evils and dangers of drugs and alcohol.

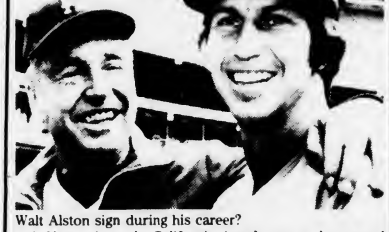
New Course Offered At QJC This Fall

Beginning with the Fall semester Quincy Junior College will be offering a new course in their Early Childhood program.

Titled "Financial Management for Day Care Administrators" the course offers much useful information for those persons involved in running a child care center.

Students will learn how to start their own day care center, how to budget and plan advertising campaigns in this course. They will also learn about computers in business and about insurance liability, an important topic for all child care providers.

Interested persons can enroll in the course from now through late registration, the week of Sept. 21 at the College Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. or Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.



More information may be obtained by calling the Admissions Office at 786-8799.

New School Of Dance Opens In Quincy

Lisa Hoover will present a program of dance instruction for ages two to adult in tap, jaxx, ballet and acro.

Dancing since the age of four, she is a graduate of the intensive three-year Teacher Training program given by the Dance Club of Boston. She has been an instructor the past 10 years.

Lisa appeared on her first television show, "The Allison McCann" daytime show when she was 17. Since then she has performed with such dynamic artists as singer Tom Jones and the rock group Scandel.

Her career has also included performing on the Joe Franklin television show in New York, the Cerebral Palsy telethon, the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day telethon and the Dance Factory Halloween Party with disc jockey Dale Dorman.

She also appears in the video, "The Impossible."

Lisa said dancing is the creative form of expression and a fun activity for any age.

Registrations are now being accepted. Call 767-1607 for more information.

Choral Society Rehearsals Sept. 14

This is O'Connell's third season with the chorus.

Two concerts are planned for Dec. 11 and Dec. 13 at North Quincy High School which will feature the Christmas portion of Handel's "Messiah" along with traditional Christmas music. Experienced choral singers who enjoy the classics as well as some lighter music are welcome to join.

Informal auditions can be arranged by calling 328-5970 or 698-8835.

The Quincy Choral Society is comprised of 65 singers who have a love of good music. It has sung at the Bethany Church in Quincy, the Quincy Christmas festival, the National Fire Protection Association headquarters, the Parkway Methodist Church in Milton, the East Congregational Church in Milton, the Milton Woman's Club, Curry College, Eastern Nazarene College and North Quincy High School.

Former conductors include Robert E. Brown who recently completed his 20th season as director of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and Dr. Edward Maclary, head of the Department of Music at the University of Akron.

The support of the community either as singers in the chorus or as members of the audience is of prime importance.

The Quincy Choral Society is supported in part by grants from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery as administered by the Quincy Arts Council and by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

JENNIVER SAVA, with trophies, placed in an additional four in the Sunshine World Finals held in Downington, Pa. this summer.

Jennifer Sava Is A Winner

Jennifer Sava, a sixth grade student at Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, and daughter of Mrs. Lorraine Sava won two first place titles and placed in an additional four at the Sunshine World Finals, held in Downington, Pa. this summer.

Jennifer has been doing professional modeling and film work for the past two years. Currently she is with the Boston Agency and hopes to pursue this field further.

Historical Society Trip Sept. 22

First stop on the tour will be the Basketball Hall of Fame where giant murals of famed basketball players are displayed as well as exhibits honoring coaches, officials and contributors. Personal memorabilia of many famous players are on display.

There will be a guided tour of Court Square to view 19th century architecture by H.H. Richardson including Hampden County Courthouse, Springfield's Old First Church and the historic Buyer's Block.

Lunch will be at the Student Prince Restaurant where a choice of breaded pork tenderloin or broiled schrod is offered.

The last point of interest will be a self-guided tour of The Quad which consists of five museums: the Museum of Fine Arts, Connecticut Valley Historical Museum, Science Museum, City Library and George Walter Vincent Smith Art Museum. Concentration may be on one or more of these museums.

The bus will leave the Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center, at 8 a.m. and return at around 5 p.m. Cost, including lunch, is $40. (members), $42 (non members).

South Quincy Italian Festival

The third annual South Quincy Italian Festival will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., at Malnati's Block, Liberty St.

Festivities will include Italian food, music, singing, dancing, games for young and old, plus bocce games.

According to Ernest Aristide, committee vice president, rain date will be the following day.

For more information, call Alba Iocci, president, at 472-2580 or 472-6312.

Craft And Dance Classes At Fenno House

Classes for senior citizens at Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston will start Thursday, Sept. 10 from 10 a.m. to noon for knitting, crewel and embroidery, and Monday, Sept. 14 from 10 to 11 a.m. for dance (especially line dancing).

Senior citizens of Quincy who are not residents of Fenno House are welcome to attend all classes.

A minimal charge will be made for each class.

WEEK OF: September 10, 1987

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
When people get to know you, they're surprised that your personality is as forceful as it is, given your gentle nature. These two sides -- strength and sensitivity -- combine to your advantage. By early '88 you make your mark as a teacher, a student, and a friend.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Thursday to Sunday accent frank discussions with romantic partner. Monday-Wednesday offer one or more opportunities for offbeat travel and a possible financial news brightener.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Thursday and Friday accent financial review, likely with a strong-minded adviser. Weekend offers opportunities for acquiring a rare object. Monday-Wednesday see you engaged in important correspondence.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Allies come from surprise sources, while a friend may be less than dependable. Energy level is high. Health review should be an important part of your family's agenda.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Dealings with higherups require an added dose of diplomacy. If working with documents, be sure you agree with all phrases before signing. Intuition is strongest after weekend.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
The next few days see you enjoying an unusual kind of return on a recent investment. Weekend is generally favorable for fitness-related activities. Watch tendency to overextend yourself.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
This week accents travel and group related interests. Weekend may find you paying an overdue visit. From Monday on you're involved in a variety of educational activities.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Experimentation pays off this week, provided there's some logic behind your approach. Communications situation generally improves and you finally reach someone you've been unable to contact.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

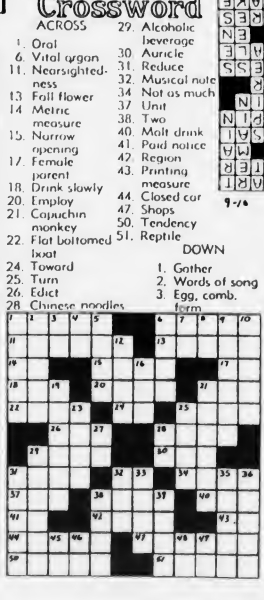
LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
Invitation to a gala event may arrive during the week. Information coming your way requires careful review before you act on it. Reunions and reconciliations are indicated.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
Coworker is more sensitive to your feelings, but avoid taking him / her in to your confidence. Reports tackled now win praise from superiors. Platonic relationships are highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
Don't allow a participant's poor sense of sportsmanship mar the events of the weekend. A relative rallies to your support and earns your eternal thanks.



CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
Tense situation eases up once you preside over the matter. Academic interests are highlighted, you shine in the role of student and teacher. Youngster brightens the weekend.

WILLIAM A. O'CONNELL

MARYBETH SHEA

JOYCE A. BENNETT

3 Appointments At Hibernia

The Hibernia Savings Bank announces three top lvel appointments

They are

Marybeth Shea, assistant treasurer and manager of the bank's new operations center and retail banking facility which recently opened at 731 Hancock St., Wollaston

Joyce A. Bennett, assistant treasurer and manager of loan origination

O'Connell, 45, was formerly senior vice president and controller of The Bank of New England-Old Colony where he was responsible for the accounting, budgeting, tax and treasury operations of that bank. He also served as a member of the bank's marketing, rate-setting and operations committees.

In prevtous positions, O'Connell was senior vice president and regional controller of The Bank of new controller of The Bank of New England Corporation, and served 12 years as the chief financial officer for Hancock Bank and Trust Company in Quincy

O'Connell holds a bachelor's degree in accountng and finance from Bently College and attended two banking schools, including the Institute of Financial Management at Harvard

"Bill O'Connell's 25 years of financial, operational and managerial experience within the commercial banking industry will be a valuable asset to Hibernia," said President Mark A. Osborne. "His knowledge of the area, the people and their banking needs will iurther strengthen our ability to serve the communities of the South Shore."

Before joining Hibernia, Shea, 26, had been assistant treasurer and savings operations officer of East Weymouth Savings Bank since June 1985. Prior to this, she had various positions in area banks, including operations officer at the Lincoln Trust Company.

Shea, who lives in Hingham, graduated from Scituate High School and is presently attending Northeastern University.

The Hibernia Savings Bank (NASDAQ: HSBK) today announced that Joyce A. Bennett has joined the bank as assistant treasurer and manager of loan origination.

Bennett's primary responsibilities include supervising the marketing of the bank's loan products and relations with loan customers.

Before joining Hibernia, Bennett, 45, held various management positions for 12 years at East Weymouth Savings Bank.

A long-time Weymouth resident, she received her education attending Weymouth Schools, and has taken classes at the American Institute of Banking in Boston. She is an active member in both Credit Women International and Savings Bank Women.

The Hibernia Savings Bank, founded in 1912, is a state-chartered, FDIC DIEM-insured thrift institution which offers a wide range of deposit and loan products, including the highest paying savings account of any thrift in the metropolitan Boston area.

Hibernia also features money market deposit accounts, commercial and residential mortgages and consumer loans. The Hibernia Savings Bank's main office is located at 263 Washington St. in Boston.

In addition to its operations center and retail banking facility in Wollaston, Hibernia has an additional office located at 51 Commercial St., Braintree.

Auxiliary Police Braintree Bound

Siciliano: 'Quincy Doesn't Want Us'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy's Auxiliary Police, which has voluntarily served the city since the late 1930s, will transfer to Braintree by the end of the month.

"We're sorry to see them go," said Mayor Francis McCauley. "But the problem was that the city was exposed to serious liability since they were not sworn police officers."

Auxiliary Police Chief Anthony Siciliano said he was tired of hearing the word liability.

"The problem is very, very simple," said Siciliano. "They just don't want us anymore."

Siciliano, who works for the city of Quincy as general foreman in the General Services Division of the Quincy Police Department, notified the mayor Sept. 1, that he and his auxiliary police officers would be transferring to Braintree.

Braintree Police Chief John Polio offered him the volunteer position of head of Braintree's 20-member Auxiliary Police Department, according to Siciliano, and his officers voted unanimously to go with him.

"It was a very, very difficult decision to make," said Siciliano, who will remain as Quincy's deputy director of Civil Defense.

Though in time, the officers will be designated special police and may be offered paid details in Braintree, when police officers are not available, they still said they would be willing to stay in Quincy for no pay, according to Siciliano.

Quincy's auxiliary police have not been allowed to perform their duties since late last year because of possible legal liability to the officer or city except in case of an emergency.

Auxiliary police officers had previously performed duties ranging from crowd control to patrolling city buildings in Quincy. They will now be allowed to do such things in Braintree.

"It's an unfortunate circumstance," said McCauley.

"The feeling of our elected officials is that state legislation is needed to clarify the situation.

"Braintree will expose itself to liability.

"Cities and towns are fair game for lawsuits. Regular police officers are sued all the time."

McCauley noted that the auxiliary had provided a good service.

He said that the needs of the city will be met by adding overtime or holding police shifts over if needed.

"There may be some extra expense, but we'll be diminishing our liability," McCauley said. "That's the critical thing."

He said he has no plans to replace Siciliano.

"We never posed a liability threat on the city," said Siciliano, who claimed that the auxiliary was included in Quincy's liability insurance.

"I don't recall in my 20 years of history that we have ever done anything to embarrass the mayor or the (police) chief or anybody around here."

Siciliano cited a City Council hearing before which police officers picketed in front of City Hall in the fear that auxiliary police would take away paid details.

Siciliano said that his officers would agree not to accept paid details.

"That was a fine example that we're not needed, we're not wanted, to provide services anymore," he said.

"We felt it was a very humiliating thing to come across something like that when you believe you've done your best over the years to build a volunteer police force.

"We felt we gave a good service to the community.

"I'm not too happy with the word liability," said Siciliano. "That problem could have been solved.

"I think it's a very poor excuse to use it," he said.

Siciliano added, "I want to thank Sen. Paul Harold for his efforts to rectify the auxiliary police situation in the city of Quincy, which much to his dismay and ours, proved fruitless.

"This city has lost a tremendous asset and I pray that the day never comes to pass that Quincy will regret what it has lost."

Keenan Loses By 4 Votes, To Seek Recount

Chretien, MacKay, Phelan, Burke Win

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN and ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Wards 3 and 5 City Council nominations went to Lawrence R. Chretien, Howard A.W. MacKay, Charles J. Phelan, Jr. and Kevin M. Burke in Tuesday's primary elections.

Burke topped John F. Keenan by only four votes in Ward 5 in a photo finish setting the stage for a recount.

Keenan said he will file for a recount Wednesday. It will be held within seven days.

The punch card ballots were impounded for the recount.

The computer used to count the votes was running off faulty figures until the problem was solved more than an hour after the polls closed.

Only 29 per cent of the registered voters in the two wards turned out.

Chretien topped the Ward 3 with 834 or 49.3 per cent. MacKay was 422 and 25 per cent.

Total vote cast in Ward 3 was 1,691.

Phelan was an easy winner in Ward 5 with 849 votes or 36 per cent. Burke was 695 and 29.32 per cent.

Keenan was right on Burke's heels with 691 votes or 29.19 per cent.

Total vote cast in Ward 5 was 2,370.

Chretien said he would continue to concentrate on issues such as development, giving schools greater financial support, and recycling and enviornmentally sound solutions to trash problems.

"I don't expect major policy changes over the next couple of months," he said.

"So we're going to keep pushing at them until the City of Quincy moves properly in those areas."

There were no primary contests for mayor, city council at-large, school committee and Wards 1, 2, 4 and 6.

"I want to thank the voters of Ward 3," said MacKay. "Especially the people who worked hard, particularly my wife, Ginny, who has the patience of a saint.

"I'm looking forward to the November election and hopefully we'll be number one.

Burke said he was "ecstatic and delighted" with the election results.

He complimented Keenan and Phelan for running "outstanding, upbeat campaigns."

"I'm pleased that we were able to define the issues and the campaign was conducted in a collegial and gentlemanly fashion.

"All of the candidates really brought a lot of the issues to the front.

"I'm looking forward to the same kind of upbeat, positive, campaign between now and November."

Phelan said that his supporters worked very hard.

"They went door to door," said Phelan.

"I want to compliment my opponents who lost - they gave a good effort.

"It took a lot of courage to get out front, and they are all to be commended," he said.

"We're going to keep on, and not let up and reach as many people as we can in the neighborhoods.

"We don't intend to let up."

City Clerk John Gillis said there were no problems at the polling places during the day.

According to computer operator Brian Crowley, the computer used to count the ballots was programmed incorrectly resulting in a delay of about 40 minutes.

"It kept getting grand totals, instead of individual totals," said Crowley.

Presidents' Place Project Start Seen For October

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Presidents' Place, a $54 million project which one of the developers called "a renaissance for downtown Quincy," could take place in mid-October.

And demolition of the closed Bargain Center would take place shortly thereafter to make way for the project to include 290,000 sq. ft. of retail and office space, as well as 209 residential condominiums.

The disclosures were made during a Tuesday press conference in the office of Mayor Francis McCauley called to announce that final state approvals for the project have been received.

According to McCauley, the Massachusetts Executive Office of Communities and Development notified the city recently that it has approved the Presidents' Place Urban Renewal Plan.

"The paper work phase is rapidly coming to a close," said McCauley, who noted that it has taken almost two years.

"The brick and mortar phase will start soon," he said.

McCauley said the project, which he called the largest single development in the history of downtown Quincy, would include 850 parking spaces and would create 1,200 to 1,400 permanent jobs.

He also said it would generate $900,000 to $1 million in revenue.

Stephen Ricciardi, of Ricciardi Co. of Quincy, which is developing the project along with Campanelli Industries of Braintree and the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, said that approvals are now needed from the City Council, Zoning Board of Appeals and Planning Board.

Ricciardi said that a lot of "sweat equity" has been put in on the project, and that developers are aiming for a groundbreaking the middle of next month.

Mayor McCauley noted that a citizen's committee headed by former City Councillor Leo Kelly worked on the design of the buildings and made many revisions.

"I think they (the revisions) were for the best," said McCauley.

Ricciardi said that the new Quincy Junior College building which is being constructed near the project by the developers is expected to be completed in late November or early December.

Developers agreed to construct the new building because it is including in Presidents' Place the old Norfolk County Courthouse where QJC has been holding its classes. They paid $1.7 million for the courthouse, he said.

Ricciardi noted that developers are still talking with Mrs. Nell Slawson of Saville Ave. whose house was to be included in the project.

MWRA Public Meeting On Shipyard Sept. 22

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority will sponsor a public meeting in Quincy Tuesday, Sept. 22, to discuss its plans to possibly locate a residuals management facility at the General Dynamics Shipyard in Quincy and Braintree.

"We are urging all interested residents to attend the public meeting to learn more details of our plans and to present their views to us," said MWRA executive director Paul F. Levy.

"Information presented to us by residents will be a very important factor in determining where facilities are ultimately located as we move forward with the cleanup of Boston Harbor."

The public meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at Quincy Vocational Technical High School Gymnasium, 107 Woodward Ave., Quincy Center.

The MWRA has identified the General Dynamics Shipyard as one of 12 sites under consideration for use as a composting facility, combustion facility, or landfill for its residuals.

Levy said the MWRA will study all 12 sites for about a year before making final determinations where its facilities will be located.

"We're urging people to attend," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"We want to show our opposition as forcefully as we can," he said.

Jane Doe Returns $1,000 Widow's Exemption

It's not unusual for the city to have difficulty collecting on some of the bills it sends out.

But it is unusual for the city to receive payment for a bill it didn't send out.

According to Mayor Francis McCauley, the city received a check for $1,000 on Sept. 3, from a woman who had earlier received a widow's exemption.

"I sold my house and I'm returning the widow's exemption," wrote the individual who identified herself as Jane Doe.

"I am very grateful for the exemption I received when I needed it the most," she continued.

"I know this is not necessary, but I wish to do so."

The registered check was drawn on 1st American Bank, Boston, and was signed Jane Doe.

"We don't see that happen very often," said McCauley.

City Opposes Dropping Retired From Health Insurance Plans

Mayor Francis McCauley says he has notified each of the city of Quincy's health care providers (Blue Cross/Blue Shield and the H.M.O.'s) informing them that the city takes the affordable health care insurance of its retirees "very seriously."

McCauley said he informed the health care providers that he and the city consider any attempt to drop retired persons from plans, or otherwise skew health care costs to unaffordable rates for the city of Quincy retirees, reason for discontinuing their services.

McCauley said, "I find the persistent attack on affordable senior health care plans most disturbing."

The mayor and personnel office will meet with State Senator Paul D. Harold to determine what course of action the city and state can take to stop the possible discriminatory practices against retirees and the elderly.

Emergency Medical Services Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed the week of Sept. 20 to 25 as Emergency Medical Services Week in Quincy.

"Thousands of our citizens have learned to access their local emergency medical services systems and are continuing to learn techniques of first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation so that they may help their fellow man in time of need," said McCauley.

"Our emergency medical services system provides life-saving care to citizens in need in every city and town of Massachusetts and is a vital and essential service to the citizens of our communities," he said.

Kennedy Wants Shipbuilding Or Repair Capability

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Monday that he considers it one of his ongoing commitments to work with state and local officials to maintain a shipbuilding or repair capability capacity at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Kennedy's comments came as he prepared to speak to members of Shipbuilders Local 5 in Quincy, who had planned to purchase the yard as part of an employee buyout.

However, the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, which was to have been a partner along with the shipyard employees and Reilly/Athy Associates, recently announced that it planned to purchase the entire 185-acre yard itself for a reported $49 million.

"We want to make sure there are going to be tax revenues available to this community," continued Kennedy, "and to try to be a constructive force working with the governor, city and state officials to achieve this goal.

"We don't want to minimize the complexities and difficulties, but this has been an ongoing and continuing effort and I want to try and be any help I can."

Kennedy said the issue has to be resolved within the community and state.

"We've indicated that if we're able to maintain a capability in terms of ship repair, we will do everything we possibly can to try and get some work in here for the Navy," said Kennedy.

He met with Local 5 officials George O'Kane and Arthur Durand as well as Peter Gwynn of Mass. Shipbuilders, comprised of former shipyard workers.

Sen. Paul Harold was also on hand.

Kennedy's visit followed a tri-town rally Saturday held by citizen's groups from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth to protest three environmental issues.

The issues were purchase of the shipyard by the MWRA, possible location of a Boston trash incinerator at the yard, and a Clean Harbors toxic waste plant in Braintree.

An estimated 600 protesters carrying black balloons and signs with such slogans as "Ban the Burn" marched up Quincy Ave. in East Braintree to the Clean Harbors plant and Quincy shipyard.

Speakers from all three communities spoke to the crowd.

Mayor Francis McCauley, who was among Quincy's contingent, said he has never seen an issue of the magnitude of the shipyard purchase "pushed through that quickly."

"It's the greatest abuse of power by a public agency (the MWRA) that I have ever seen," said McCauley.

He encouraged the crowd to shout, "We're mad as hell, and we're not going to take it anymore."

"We're really fighting for survival here in East Braintree and Quincy," said Sen. Harold.

"Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth have declared war on Clean Harbors and the MWRA," Harold said.

Rep. Robert Cerasoli attacked Gov. Michael Dukakis.

"How can you be in Iowa to protect the farmers, and you can't protect the people here?" asked Cerasoli.

"He can take this situation in hand and solve it," he said.

City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie said of the MWRA, "We will continue to watch them, scrutinize their activities, continue to push on the court action and we're going to prevail."

"We're damn sick and tired, and we're not going to take it anymore," said Peter Kolson, vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association.

Another Quincy Citizens Association official, president Arthur Chandler, said, "We don't need a possible solid waste treatment plant."

"Keep Clean Harbors Out of Braintree," said Councillor Joseph La Raia.

City Councillor Michael Cheney said that Jamie Hoyte, state Secretary of Environmental Affairs, "should be thrown off the board with corrective legislation."

Harbormaster Bernie Reisberg said he was "heartbroken at the thought of the shipyard being taken down as a dump for sludge."

"One of the problems we have is lack of trust," said Maureen Mazrimas, past president of Save Our Shores.

She said that other communities included in the MWRA district should share the responsibilities.

(Editor's note: A copy of the following letter was submitted to The Quincy Sun by the writer for publication.)

Mr. Paul Anderson
Member of the Board
Water Resources Commission

What sort of mentality would bury a community to resurrect the harbor?

When will common sense become a factor in determining location for placement of undesireable or unsafe projects?

I am a realtor and have been for nine years. I have watched the Houghs Neck area grow in stature and appeal to the buyers of Quincy property. I have gone from a period in time when people would end our telephone conversation with an abrupt, unpleasant "click" when an advertised property was found to be in the Houghs Neck area. It has been necessary to convince people to at least take the time to drive through the Neck, familiarize themselves with the neighborhoods, the pride in ownership, and introduce themselves to the most beautiful water views in all of Quincy. Views exquisite from any side of the Neck! I have watched this close knit community take three steps forward in desireability and four back each time the sewerage treatment plant made the headlines.

People questioned my logic when I priced a property on Great Hill in the 120's (the same value any other property in a similar setting would have enjoyed at the time). The folks who bought this property, eventually, had to be introduced to the Neck; they knew only of the Neck's "reputation"; it didn't take them long to appreciate its beauty. The same happened when I priced a home in the 150's. You can't pry these folks from their new "hometown." They had been lifelong Quincy residents; they have never been to Houghs Neck because it just wasn't a place you would want to visit, the "pumpy" you know. And this past month, August, a home on the Hill sold for $342,000.00. It was purchased because the person appreciated the peace, tranquility and beauty of the area.

People don't hang up anymore, but many potential buyers are skeptical about the future of the Neck. After reading the Ledger and Globe this weekend, perhaps their skepticism is justified; perhaps they have reason for concern. It is apparent that the area is still considered to be a dumping ground and one of these days it will take four steps back and never recover. Will you and the other "officials" be able to live with the knowledge that the death of this lovely community was your contribution as "part of the cost" of a clean harbor?

Certainly there must be areas available that are somewhat remote that offer easy accessability and more open space that could facilitate the building and operation of a sludge processing plant. This would allow the Houghs Neck community to get on with creating a more beautiful peninsula that people would enjoy looking at from a clean harbor, from anywhere.

Why is it necessary to put the smelly, the hazardous, the unsightly in densely populated areas where natural resources have dwindled? Why not preserve these areas; create on them things of beauty? Certainly in rural areas there would be a better opportunity to plan and develop some of these projects in a more effective manner, without disruption. Perhaps this is a good place to mention briefly the destruction of a large portion of a community's potential tax base (the sacrifice for a clean harbor?), by replacing General Dynamic's goliath crane with a giant pull chain. This seems a likely prospect at this time.

Certainly there must be large land masses where the necessary thorns of our life could be absorbed into the beauty of our world without disruption to quality of life. A location where there are no homes, no people, where noise levels were not a concern and access roads could be planned for in the numbers necessary. It seems that land masses such as these are always environmentally or developably too valuable, but people are expendable. Money would address this problem, and chalk it up to "part of the cost of a clean harbor."

I am a very conscientious person where conservation of natural resources and ecological and environmental balance and preservation are concerned. However, when is the psychological well-being of the members of a community given consideration? When is the preservation of a community given consideration? Or, are these not worthy of preservation?

Marshall Remembers Koch

MARSHALL

Marshall met Koch in 1964 when he first ran for the Ward 3 City Council seat.

"I was invited to a meeting to meet and be interviewed by about 10 people," Marshall remembers.

"They wanted to know where I stood on various issues at that time and what I would like to accomplish if I were elected."

Koch was among those present.

When the meeting was over, Koch reached into his pocket and came up with a $5 bill which he handed to Marshall.

"It was the first political donation I ever received," Marshall recalls. "All the others then gave me $5, too."

With the $50 or so, Marshall was able to pay for his first campaign cards.

"But it was the fact that Dick and the others became interested in my candidacy that was so important," Marshall says.

After being elected Ward 2 councillor, Marshall remembers going to Washington, D.C. with then Mayor James McIntyre and Koch.

They went to Washington hoping to get federal funds for low-interest home improvement loans, city beautification money and funds to improve playgrounds in Ward 2.

While in Washington, McIntyre had a meeting with Senator Edward Kennedy so Koch and Marshall went over to the Post Office Building and the office of Postmaster General Larry O'Brien.

"We walked in and there were all these people waiting to see O'Brien," Marshall remembers. "Dick went over to the receptionist who asked if he had an appointment.

"Dick said 'no.' Just tell Mr. O'Brien Dick Koch from Quincy stopped by to say hello.

"The receptionist buzzed O'Brien's inner office and the door suddenly opened and O'Brien came out, put his arm around Dick and invited us in."

Koch, of course, was John F. Kennedy's Quincy coordinator when he ran for the Senate and for President and knew O'Brien from the early days.

"I was just amazed that the Postmaster General would think that someone from Quincy was that important. But Dick Koch certainly was," says Marshall.

Incidentally, says Marshall, they came back to Quincy with the funds they went down to get.

SENATOR PAUL HAROLD recently visited the new Boston Harbor Hotel on Rowe Wharf, Boston and found his attention focusing on a series of antique maps, one a 1775 French military one which showed the Quincy area.

At that time Quincy was still part of Braintree. Braintree appears on the map as "Bantrey," Houghs Neck as Hoffs Thumb, Black's Creek as "Quinzie's Creek" and the area of Quincy Center as Menticu. The latter, Harold thinks, is the French version of the Indian name Monatiquot.

Keefe, a retired Air Force Major General, and Morley served as pilots in the Army Air Corps during World War II. Both were in the Class of 1943 I, Pilot Training Gulf Coast Command in Texas.

The class is seeking former members and has located over 1,000 of the estimated 2,000 members.

Morley is one of the missing ones.

Keefe says Morley lived in Shoreham Drive in Squantum and graduated from North Quincy High School around 1939 or 1940.

Keefe would appreciate anyone with information to call him at 337-3900.

Proposal To Move Historic Hancock Cemetery Opposed

41 Years Ago

Opposition was almost unanimous at a City Council hearing to a proposal by Councillor David J. Crowley to move the city-owned Hancock Cemetery to make way for a new City Hall.

"I am bitterly opposed to the desecration of this historical spot," said former Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. "Does he want to dig them up with a steam shovel and put them down in back of the city stables and have a bone pile like thay have down in Havana?

"It will cost $200,000 to move the cemetery. I am opposed to a new City Hall. We don't need a new City Hall any more than the sea needs water."

Crowley said the removal of the cemetery was but one part of a two-part plan to open up Quincy Square to progress and development. The other part involved taking land between Depot and Saville Sts. for a bus terminal.

"It is not reasonable for this part of the city to be choked up by men who refuse to sell at a reasonable price and who refuse to build themselves," he said.

Restaurant owner George J. Anderson suggested that the city acquire the Granite Trust Building for use as a City Hall.

"Put the Mayor up on the top floor for eight hours," he said, "and lock the department heads in cages downstairs for eight hours and then maybe we could find them when we want them."

Seafood Sauce
Tastes Good Cold

Here is a seafood sauce that I cooked last week that even tasted good cold. The following recipe serves four. It is a sauce made with shrimp, but sometimes I use a half pound of scallops with it.

SHRIMP AND SCALLOP SAUCE

½ Lb of scallops
1 Lb fresh shrimp
3-4 Tbsps oil
1 Tbsp butter
1 clove garlic (minced)
a few sprigs of fresh parsley (also minced)
a pinch of basil
1 can of crushed tomatoes
1 Lb pasta

Remove shells and the black line from the back of the shrimp. Rinse. In the hot oil and butter saute the scallops first and then add the shrimp and cook until shrimp turns pink. Add the minced garlic and the tomatoes and simmer until fish is tender and sauce is a little thickened. Add the parsley and the basil and the salt and pepper.

Serve with either linguine, spaghetti or those spring-like macaroni called rotini. Sprinkle some grated cheese if you like.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.

Lauren Morgan Spends Month Of Travel, Study In France

Many Americans dream of traveling to France and spending a month visiting the tourist sites and experiencing French culture.

Beginning in 1957, Nacel has sought to support foreign language education in American schools by encouraging students to begin and continue foreign language study. The personal relationships established through participation in Nacel's Hosting and Discovery programs give an added dimension to learning a foreign language and culture.

In 30 years, over 55,000 American families and teenagers have participated in programs in France, Germany and Spain.

Lauren had little difficulty adjusting to the French way of life. Although she has been speaking French for just two years, she said her only language barrier was understanding the metric system.

"You always hear that no one likes the American tourists but the French people are really nice," Lauren said.

She said if the French had a hard time understanding you, "there's always hand signals to get you by."

"You have to go with a positive attitude. They are really helpful," she added.

Lauren, who worked to raise money for air fare, utilized her 30 days extremely well. In addition to visiting Paris, the Eiffel Tower, the Arc of Triumph, Versailles and the Louvre, Lauren and her host family toured the wine countries of West Germany and Luxembourg.

LAUREN MORGAN (center) of Quincy, and Emmanuelle Gaudagnin (left) and her mother Vivianne Gaudagnin, take in the sights from atop the Eiffel Tower in Paris. Lauren recently spent a month with the Gaudagnin family as part of the Nacel Cultural Exchanges program.

Lauren said she was especially thrilled with the spectacular view atop the Eiffel Tower at night.

"I didn't want to come back. I wanted to stay," she said.

Lauren stayed with the Guadagnin family of Metz, France, located about 175 miles northeast of Paris near the West German border. Her host parents spoke only French but their 15-year-old daughter Emmanuelle spoke some English.

Lauren's friendship with Emmanuelle blossomed.

"We became so close it was like we were sisters," she said.

And to Lauren's delight, the relationship continues to grow. Since she arrived back home three weeks ago, Lauren has called Emmanuelle once and written her twice.

Lauren said she will be reunited with her "overseas sister" next August when Emmanuelle, who is studying to be a French English translator, comes to live with her in Quincy.

"I'm so excited to see her again," Lauren said, who added there was a tearful departure at the airport.

The Guadagnin family pampered Lauren throughout her stay. They went to a park in Paris and went out to eat at a restaurant every Sunday. The family also bought Lauren a beautiful gold bracelet.

Lauren was also generous as she taught the Guadagnins a few English words and expressions.

However, the trip wasn't perfect for Lauren's taste buds.

"I missed eating chocolate chip cookies and I didn't like the pizza there," she admitted.

But she still enjoyed the dream vacation that she will cherish for the rest of her life.

How Not To Get Conned - Part 4

Land Fraud:

Real estate can be a great investment. But enterprising real estate salesperson knows how anxious you are to find just the right property - especially for an investment or retirement home. A nice, warm climate. Not too crowded? A new development? Some dishonest agents will promise you anything-swimming pool, country club, private lake-to get your name on the contract.

Even if the sales agents promise you luxury, they may not guarantee the basics, like water, energy sources, and sewage disposal.

Most land developers offering 50 or more lots (of less than 50 acres each) for sale or lease through the mails or by interstate commerce are required by law to file a Statement of Record with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. This document tells you almost all you need to know about your future home. Legal title; facilities available in the area such as schools and transportation; availability of utilities and water; plans for sewage disposal and local regulations and development plans. All this information must be given to you in a "property report" prepared by the developer. ALWAYS ask to see this report before you sign anything.

Remember: Never buy anything site unseen! What you see in a sales brochure may not be what you get in reality. Protect your investment. Make a personal visit to your future home.

Self Improvement Fraud:

The ads can look pretty tempting: "Miracle reducing plan." "Look like a model in only 5 days." Learn to speak Spanish while you sleep." "You can have a new dynamic personality."

Con artists know that everyone wants to look better, feel better, be a "better person." Selling worthless plans and cures is one of the easiest ways for them to make a quick buck.

What can you do? Be careful! Read the small print. Know what the product contains. You should check with your doctor before you embark on any diet or exercise programs.

United First Parish To Commemorate U.S. Constitution

United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents," will mark the bicentennial of the signing of the U.S. Constitution with two events.

Tonight (Thursday) from 7-9 p.m. the Church is co-sponsoring a program of speakers and period American music. Richard A. Ryerson, editor of the Adams Papers at the Massachusetts Historical Society and Herbert P. Wilkins, Associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of the Commonwealth of Mass. will be the main speakers.

A brass quintet from the Bridgewater Antiphonal Brass Society will perform selections of 18th Century American music. Program co-sponsors include the Adams National Historic Site, Braintree Historical Society, The City of Quincy, Quincy Historical Society, Quincy Junior College, and United First Parish Church. A reception and refreshments will follow the program and is free of charge. The public is invited.

On Sunday, Sept. 20, at 10:30 a.m., the theme of the regular worship service will be the U.S. Constitution and the universal human and spiritual values that give the Constitution its strength and enduring power.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett will deliver the sermon, titled "We the People." The congregation will join in singing "America the Beautiful" and "Not Alone for Mighty Empire." Norman Corey, organist, will play selections by Scheidt and Wyton, and Eleanor Russell will sing as guest contralto. Visitors will be welcomed.

Restored Steeple To Be Rededicated At Point Congregational

Members and friends of Quincy Point Congregational Church will gather in the sanctuary at 10 a.m. Sunday to rededicate the church's newly restored steeple.

They will also consecrate a renewed congregation and embark upon a year-long celebration of the church's 150 years of worship and mission in Quincy.

The church was first gathered as a Methodist Episcopal Society in 1838; and the first church building was located at the corner of Washington and South Sts., Quincy Point.

In 1884, the church affiliated with the Congregational Christian Churches; and in 1957, the local members voted to become a part of the United Church of Christ.

During the past year, church leaders learned that the top of the steeple had tilted over the years 15 inches off center, due to the settling of the base upon which the steeple rests.

The board of trustees proceeded with plans to raise funds for financing the project. Carl Soderstrom, chairman of the board of trustees, has served as the general chairman for the campaign.

The Rev. Mr. Bedros Baharian, pastor emeritus, served as the Special Gifts Chairman; and William Neil as the Parish Gifts Chairman.

The estimated $70,000 for the project was completed this week in the amount of $61,100. The consulting engineer for the restoration work was Walter A. McKinnon Associates of Weymouth. The contractor for the project was Lester R. Fulton and Son, Inc. Local church fundraising efforts hope to raise the final $3,000 during the next few weeks.

Sunday's 10 a.m. service will be one of praise and thanksgiving and will be led by the pastors, the Reverends Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, and seminarian Laura Stein.

Herman Weiss, Church Organist and Choir Director, will play "Praise God, Ye Christians All Together" by J.S. Bach, and "Duo Sur Les Tieres" by Couperin. The Chancel Choir will sing "How Lovely Are Thy Dwelling Places" by Liddle with Kimberley Blaney, soprano soloist.

The rededication sermon is titled, "Proclaiming the Steeple Within You!"

Participants in the Service of Rededication and Consecration are the Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor emeritus, Carl Soderstrom, chairman of the board of trustees, William Neil, Church Moderator, and representatives of the engineering firm and the contractural firm.

Following the morning service, there will be an "Anniversary Brunch" at 11:30 a.m. in the Social Hall to which church members and friends are cordially invited. It will be prepared and served by members of the Diaconate and will mark the beginning of the church's celebration of its 150 years of worship and mission to Quincy, the South Shore and the world.

Church School classes for infants through high school will be in session during the 10 a.m. hour with a full teaching staff under the direction of Glenn McGhee, superintendent. Child care is available for infant children. The Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery.

Rev. Ross Goodman To Be Installed Good Shepherd Church Pastor

The Rev. Ross S. Goodman will be installed as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, corner of West Squantum and Harvard Sts., Sunday, Sept. 20 at 10:30 a.m.

Bishop Harold Wimmer of the New England Synod, Lutheran Church in America, will be the Installing Officer and Presiding Minister at Holy Communion.

Dr. Timothy Lull, Professor of Theology at The Lutheran Seminary at Philadelphia, will be the Preacher.

Pastor Goodman began his ministry at Good Shepherd July 12, after his graduate studies at the seminary in Philadelphia. He served as an intern at Christ Lutheran Church in Wantagh, N.Y. and earned his Master of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary.

'Persistence' Sermon Topic At Squantum Church

"Persistence" was the subject of the sermon on Sunday by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin at the First Church of Squantum.

Henry and Pat Sorensen were the greeters and Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin the ushers. Hazel Mayne and Grace Holmes hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

There will be two services Sunday; the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday school meets during the second service. Nursery care is also available during that service. Visitors are welcome.

Cancer Unit Board To Meet Sept. 17

The Executive Committee of the American Cancer Society Quincy Milton Unit will meet Thursday, Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Cunningham Park, 75 Edgehill Rd., Milton.

Mass. Conference At St. John's

Father Ray Bourque, O.M.I. invites you to attend a Mass and conference at St. John the Baptist Lower Church, School St., Quincy, Saturday, Sept. 28 at 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Coffee and donuts will be served.

'Need For Golden Rule' Wollaston Congregational Topic

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach the sermon at the Wollaston Congregational Church titled "The Need for the Golden Rule."

The lay scripture reader will be Paul Gifford.

Ushers for the morning service will be Richard and Andrea Kelsay and the greeters will be Donald and Barbara Frazer.

Nursery care for preschoolers is provided during the service and church school will be from 10 to 11 a.m. for grades one through 12.

Also following the service a discussion group will begin called "Sermon Reflections." The group will be led by Rev. Zuern and will discuss the morning's scripture lesson and the impressions, understandings and reactions to the sermon.

All church youth and their friends in grades 6-12 are invited to attend Youth Fellowship on Sunday evenings from 7-9 p.m. in the social hall. The immediate coming events include a dance Sept. 26 in the social hall and an "Apple Picking Party" Sept. 27.

Boys in grades 6-12 are also welcome to join Scout Troop 14 which meets on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m.

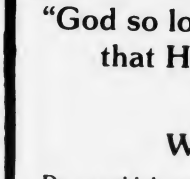
Plans are completed for a retreat to be held at the Craigville Conference Center Sept. 25 and 26.

Blood Pressure Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the general public Tuesday, Sept. 15, in their Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

These screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable the individual to keep track of his blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician will be advised to do so.

Screenings, which take place on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge.



Citywide Parents Council To Meet Sept. 21

D. Scott Deware

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Much has been written about "what is success." . . . Although there have been many "secrets" of success presented and defended, the real secret is very simple. It is interest.

If you are interested in anything, you cannot help succeeding with it, but if you are disinterested or apathetic, you can't win. This goes for everything, from your job to the hobby you take up to beguile you . . .

We especially like this definition by Ralph Waldo Emerson on "The Successful Man." . . .

"To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived. This is to have succeeded."

Planning ahead can offer peace of mind...

It is only human to put things off. But proper planning for the event of one's death can spare a family many traumatic decisions and financial burdens. By pre-arranging the desires and wishes of one's funeral, burial and expenses can be specified to eliminate confusion, differences of opinion and difficult decisions on the part of family members. To ease this burden, we are making available to you FREE a booklet with all necessary information and forms to assist and guide you. Why not visit us or write for your FREE Pre-arrangement Booklet.

Booklet covers the following subjects:
- Funeral and Interment Preferences
- Vital Statistics and Data
- Survivors Information, Social Security, Insurance, Bank Accounts, Real Estate, Automobile, Safety Deposit Box, Savings Bonds, Stocks and Bonds, Retirement Accounts and Veterans Benefits.
- Pre-Arrangement Information
- Three duplicate copies of a Funeral and Interment Pre-Arrangement Agreement.

A funeral service for Edward Cutler, 73, of Quincy, the founder of Ed Cutler Inc. of Boston, a manufacturer's representative firm for the fabric and shoe industry, was conducted Sunday at Temple Beth-El by Rabbi David Jacobs.

Mr. Cutler died Sept. 11 at his home.

Before starting his own business in 1951, he worked for his family at Cutler Motors in Braintree and the Granite City Garage in Quincy. He retired in 1970.

He was a 1936 graduate of the Massachusetts School of Business.

Mr. Cutler was a member of the Furnace Brook Golf Club, the Temple Beth-El, former member of the South Shore Country Club and former president of Probus.

He is survived by his wife, Bernice (Cohen) Cutler; two daughters, Jane S. Cutler of Braintree and Eileen B. Cutler of Hingham; and a brother, Henry B. Cutler of Weymouth.

Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park.

John S. Murphy, 71

A funeral service for John S. Murphy, 71, of North Quincy, a millwright for Armstrong World Industries, Braintree, for 30 years, was conducted Sept. 12 at the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Quincy.

Mr. Murphy died Sept. 9 at the Elihu White Nursing Home, Braintree.

He was past master of the Union Masonic Lodge and a former deacon of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

He was born in Boston.

He is survived by his wife, Edna (Kent) Murphy; a son, Douglas W. Murphy of Quincy; a daughter, Evelyn M. Jakub of Greenfield; and six grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Memorial donations may be made to the Shriners Burn Institute, 51 Blossom St., Boston, MA 02402.

Ethel M. Long, 95

A funeral service for Ethel M. (Rowe) Long, 95, of Quincy, a native of Swansea, Wales, was held Sept. 11 at St. Chrysostom's Church in Quincy.

Mrs. Long died Sept. 8 at the Braintree Manor Nursing Home after a short illness.

Wife of the late Arthur Long, a retired United States Customs Service officer, she is survived by a daughter, Edyth Anderson of Wollaston; a stepson, Arthur Long Jr. of Framingham; two grandsons, Herbert Bates of Ashbury and Edward Carr of Ipswich; three granddaughters, Allana O'Brien of Pillsbury, Maine, Janet Bates Mitchell of Connecticut and Carolyn Bocci of Ipswich; 17 great-grandchildren, five great-great-grandchildren and friends, the Nelson Riggs family of Wollaston.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations can be made to a charity.

Frances L. Waas, 52

A funeral Mass for Frances L. (Hayes) Waas, 52, of Quincy, a clerk for State Street Bank and Trust in Quincy for six years, was celebrated Wednesday at Sacred Heart Church.

Mrs. Waas died Sunday at Massachusetts General Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Boston, she lived in Quincy 25 years.

She was the auditor for the Wollaston Mother's Club.

She is survived by two sons, David M. Waas and Steven A. Waas, both of Quincy; two brothers, James E. Hayes of Dedham and Peter A. Hayes of Milton; four sisters, Theresa H. Dempsey of Quincy, Marie F. Killion of Cambridge, Rita A. Dondero of Enfield, Conn., and Florence G. Hayes of Clearwater, Fla.

Burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Bethany To Launch $125,000 Drive To Restore Church Tower

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A recognizable symbol and historical landmark in Quincy is in need of major restoration or it will face demolition.

The Bethany Congregational Church stone steeple, with its prominent gargoyles, must be repaired for $125,000 or be razed, met eorologist Don Kent told the Quincy Historical Commission recently.

Kent, a former moderator of the congregation, said stress over the years by storms with driving winds has caused seems in the 60-year old and 135-foot tower to leak.

Kent appeared before the commission because the church is located in the Quincy Square Historic District. Changes to the exterior of buildings must be approved by the commission.

Kent noted it would cost the same to tear down the tower as to fix it.

Members of the commission strenuously objected to the proposal to remove the tower stating they could not approve the removal of such a distinctive and unique community symbol. Instead, members recommended and urged Bethany to restore the tower and seek community support in raising the necessary funds.

The first step towards raising $125,000 in repair funds will be made at a gala kickoff dinner for the Bethany Congregational Church Tower Restoration Fund, Saturday, Sept. 26 at 6 p.m. in Social Hall.

A full dinner of stuffed boneless breast of chicken, roast potatoes, vegetables, apple pie and coffee will be served. It is open to all church members and friends.

Kent will present a tower project at the dinner. Special entertainment including gospel singing led by Win Bettinson will also be featured.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12.

Tickets are available in Allen Parlor on Sunday mornings and at the Bethany Church office during the week.

Commission Chairman Joyce Baker said the steeple's four gargoyles, the largest in Massachusetts, are a city landmark and added the commission would support preservation 100 percent.

Perching on each corner near the top of the tower, the gargoyles protrude outward about three feet. The figures, which serve no structural purpose, were included in the design of Bethany Church to break up the straight lines of the tower.

The church may receive some repair money through the state's historic preservation grant program, Kent said.

In 1932, Bethany Church was described as an "outstanding edifice and one of the outstanding buildings in the city."

According to the architectural signficance form made out the Massachusetts Historical Commission, "Bethany Church should be considered for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places, not only as a fine example of 20th century Gothic Revival, but also for its prominent location in the heart of the Quincy Center Local Historic District among some of Quincy landmarks, the First Parish Church, City Hall and the (Thomas) Crane Public Library."

To avoid further damage and to preserve the tower properly, it is deemed necessary to do the restoration before this winter.

A permanent bronze tower restoration plaque is planned for the church. It will contain the names of those who have given special support to The Tower Restoration Fund by gifts of $1,000 or more.

Bethany is accepting one, two and three-year pledges.

Names of all donors will be included in a permanent memorial and gift book which is displayed in the sanctuary of the church.

A memento featuring the famous Bethany gargoyle will be presented to each donor of $250. or more.

Bethany Congregational Church in its present edifice at 18 Spear St., is in its third home. The first meeting house, much later known as Hancock Hall, was built at a cost of $2341.19 not including land and was located at Hancock and Canal Streets (Revere Road) in 1834 after the fledging congregation had met for two years in a hall over the post office.

In 1870, the "Packard Lot" was bought for $7500. and a new $29,000 church was built at the present location of South Shore Bank, 1400 Hancock St., which served for about 50 years.

The well-known Boston architectural firm of J. Williams Beal Sons designed the present structure in 1927. The firm had previously designed the Adams Building, 1342-68 Hancock St. during the 1880s and the Elks Building, 1218-1222 Hancock St., in 1924.

Rally Day Observed At Wollaston Congregational

After a summer of union worship services, members of Wollaston Congregational Church returned to their own sanctuary Sunday.

Rally Day was observed. Children registered for church school, nursery through grade 12.

Lay scripture reader was Kari Olsen.

Ushers for the morning service were John and Alice Zinkus. Greeters were Dorothy and Linda Abbott.

Nursery care was provided during the service.

Following the service, a Rally Day chicken pot pie luncheon was served in the social hall hosted by Eagle Scout candidate Harry Towle.

It was sponsored by the Christian Education Committee. Buttercup, the cown, and her friends were on hand.

McCauley In Constitution Proclamation

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Thursday, Sept. 17, as the 200th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution.

"The bicentennial offers the opportunity for the American people to rededicate themselves to the great principles that have formed the basis for our national strength and prosperity," said McCauley.

Cahill Lashes Dukakis, MWRA On Boston Harbor

Political Advertisement

Tim Cahill, a candidate for City Councillor-at-large, has issued a statement charging the Dukakis administration and the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority with hypocrisy in their alleged attempt to clean up Boston Harbor, and to provide a safe and healthy environment for the citizens of the commonwealth.

In his statement Cahill said:

"It is absolutely astounding that the MWRA, with the blessing of the Dukakis administration, is proceeding with a plan to increase the capacity of the Nut Island Treatment Plant so that proposed developments can be undertaken in the wealthy suburbs west of Boston. The fact is that the Nut Island Plant cannot handle the current flow of sewage it now takes in; yet the State is intent on further polluting the bay before it cleans it up.

"Even more amazing is the supposed deal between the MWRA and General Dynamics, whereby the MWRA has just six months to identify all the hazardous wastes left behind after more than 100 years of shipbuilding. We are talking about testing over 180 acres of land in six months time during the worst weather period of the year."

"And finally, it seems ironic, that the Dukakis administration is doing all that it can to see that the Seabrook Nuclear Power Plant never opens in New Hampshire, yet will allow licenses for incinerators that could burn toxic waste, sludge, and trash less than 19 miles south of the state capital, and in a city with a population over 85,000.

"A clean harbor is important to all of us in Quincy, but not at the expense of polluted and possibly toxic air. And the need for a clean harbor cannot supercede the need for representative government making decisions not behind closed doors by technocrats armed with calculators and public money but by elected officials representing the needs and rights of each community."

Mental Health Center To Honor 7 Sept. 27

Seven South Shore business and civic leaders will be honored by South Shore Mental Health Center, Inc. Sunday, Sept. 27, at its annual meeting at Kemper Insurance, 150 Newport Ave., North Quincy.

Thomas F. Collins, III, President, of South Shore Mental Health's board of directors, said the occasion will mark the 65th anniversary of the founding of the center. "We are the oldest, as well as the largest, community mental health center in the nation," he noted.

Among those to be recognized for their civic and humanitarian contributions to the quality of life on the South Shore is State Rep. Thomas F. Brownell of Quincy. Brownell, who is to become a judge at Plymouth District Court, will be recognized for his legislative record as a member of the House of Representatives.

THOMAS BROWNELL

Brownell will also be the keynote speaker for the event.

Other awards will be presented to James D. Asher, Jr. of WJDA in recognition of the Quincy radio station's 40th anniversary and its tradition of public service, and founder Nathan Shulman of Best Chevrolet of Hingham for his contributions to the improvement of the region's transportation system.

An award to Braintree developer Francis X. Messina of F.X. Messina Enterprises will recognize his many years of community involvement. Mary P. Bonney will be named "volunteer of the year" for her commitment to service in the Town of Randolph.

JAMES ASHER

Florence E. Logan of Braintree's Elihu White Nursing Home and Logan Health Care, Inc. will receive a distinguished service award for her contributions to the improvement of life for older persons.

ROSEMARY WAHLBERG

Rosemary Wahlberg executive director of Quincy Community Action, will be honored for her efforts in bringing quality human services to the residents of the City of Quincy.

South Shore Mental Health's executive director, Harry Shulman, will give the annual state-of-the-center report in which he will review South Shore's new services now being offered to the area's residents, as well as its current programs.

5 Quincy Women Complete Training Course For Financial Entry Services

Five Quincy women were among a group of South Shore residents age 55 and over who recently completed a free, four-week training course to prepare them for entry level positions with the financial services industry.

The five are Violet Condon and Virginia Fitzgerald, both of Wollaston, Carmella Milani, Eleanora Rubino and Rita Saffer of Quincy.

They completed an Employer Challenge Program of the Jewish Vocational Service.

"Financial institutions are in the midst of a long period of expansion, and the basic skills and maturity you possess are in grteat demand," said David Breen, Deputy Associate Secretary of Economic Affairs.

The Jewish Vocational Services program, operated in conjunction with the South Coastal Career Development Administration and the Metro South West Employment and Training Administration is one of six "Employer Challenge Grant" programs funded in Massachusetts by the Job Training Partnership Act's Governor's Discretionary Grants.

The next training cycle for eligible South Shore residents will begin Oct. 19.

Students from each class gave Miss Murphy and Miss Mullen trophies on which were printed, "We will miss you, Kindergarten Class of '87, Montclair School."

City Seeks Permission To Send Out Estimated Tax Bills

The city's Board of Assessors has requested that the Department of Revenue grant Quincy permission to mail out estimated tax bills for the fall billing.

Target date for mailing the bills is no later than Oct. 1, according to Mayor Francis McCauley. The bills would then be due Nov. 1.

According to McCauley, legislation passed earlier this year allows all communities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to mail out estimated tax bills in the fall.

Each community must receive approval from the D.O.R.

The fall tax bill would amount to one half of the fiscal 1987 tax bill, McCauley explained.

The mayor said he expects the fiscal 1988 tax rate to be set in December.

The second half tax bill, due May 1, 1988, would reflect the difference between the total annual bill due for fiscal 1988 and the estimate paid by Nov. 1, said McCauley.

The Board of Assessors made the request so that bills could be sent out in time for the Nov. 1, billing, eliminating the necessity for short term borrowing, he said.

Morrissey Wants MDC Police Beef Up Willard St. Patrols

Rep. Michael Morrissey has written to MDC Commissioner William Geary requesting the MDC police increase its patrols and visibility on Willard St. between Furnace Brook Parkway and the Braintree town line.

The request is in response to complaints from area residents about speeding trucks and cars.

The MDC took over police jurisdiction of this section of Willard St. through an agreement with the city last winter. They will assume the maintenance jurisdiction as soon as the roadway is reconstructed in about 18 months, according to Morrissey.

He said that the MDC's presence will help control speeders and truck related problems. "A stronger enforcement effort at this time will help make the area safer for residents and school children as they begin the new school year," said Morrissey.

"As the amount of development in Quincy and Braintree continues to grow, so does the traffic," said Rep. Morrissey. "The MDC police has proven to be effective traffic enforcers in the past. We want these skills put to use on Willard St.," continued Rep. Morrissey.

Joseph Lombardo Heads N.H. Coast Guard Recruiting

Chief Petty Officer Joseph P. Lombardo, formerly of Quincy, assumed command of the Coast Guard Recruiting Office in Portsmouth, N.H. during a ceremony held at the office recently.

Lombardo, a Chief Public Affairs Specialist and 13 year veteran of the Coast Guard is the son of George Lombardo of Quincy and Virginia Larson of Hingham. Chief Lombardo is a 1971 graduate of Quincy High School.

His duties include supervising the Coast Guard's recruiting program for the entire state of New Hampshire as well as parts of southern Maine and northern Massachusetts.

He had served three years as a recruiter in Providence, R.I. Lombardo is the recipient of the Coast Guard Achievement Medal, Commandant's Letter of Commendation, Coast Guard Meritorious Unit Award, National Defense Medal and several Coast Guard Good Conduct awards. In addition, he was selected as Recruiter of the Year for the First Coast Guard District in 1986.

His other assignments include the Coast Guard Ceremonial Honor Guard in Washington, D.C., the Coast Guard Academy and the First Coast Guard District Office in boston, among others.

EXTRA! Quincy Sun Car Care Guide

Suggestions for getting a head start on cold weather car care

It's a statistical fact: Every year tens of thousands of motorists are caught unprepared for the first cold weather. It can be time-consuming and expensive trying to take care of anti-freeze, battery or snow tires at the last minute, when everyone else in the neighborhood is rushing to do the same thing.

To help car owners get ahead of the game, Car Care Council offers a "stitch in time" checklist:

1) Cooling System: If it hasn't been done in a while, flush it out with a good chemical cleaner and install fresh anti-freeze. Note: Use in proper proportion.

Pure antifreeze (ethylene glycol) does not cool or protect as well as the proper mixture prescribed on the container.

2) Battery and Electrical System: If your battery is over a few years old, have it checked. Cold weather is hard on batteries. Be sure connections are clean and tight. Corroded or loose connections can give the symptoms of a weak or dead battery.

3) Engine: Is it time for a tune-up? Faulty wiring, worn spark plugs, a sticking choke or emission control devices that need attention all can lead to hard starting. A diagnostic check-up of the engine can be a good pre-winter investment.

4) Oil and Filter: Dirty oil can give you trouble in the winter. Now's the time to change it. Change the oil filter, too. Your car may have several other filters, including the fuel, air and transmission filters, that need changing at this time. (The transmission filter is changed when transmission fluid is changed, as a periodic maintenance procedure.)

5) Tires: For every 10° of temperature drop, your tire pressure decreases by one pound. Obviously, if you haven't checked tire pressure since last summer, they're likely to be several pounds under-inflated.

Periodic rotating of tires (putting them on different locations on the car for more even wear), wheel alignment and balancing all contribute to longer tire life.

6) Body and Paint: Be sure to give the car a good protective coating of wax before the weather turns nasty. This is critical in areas where salt is used for snow removal.

Whether you're a "do-it-yourselfer" or a patron of the professional repairman, there's a lot to be said for getting the car care chores out of the way before severe weather arrives.

TODAY, AUTOMOBILES AND TRUCKS are more complicated, and gasolines and diesel fuels have less additives to protect valves, increase octane and keep engines clean. That is why the use of new technology fuel supplements such as this Quantum Lead Replacement Formula or Quantum Fuel Injector Purging Formula from Gold Eagle Company, Chicago, Il., are almost a necessity.

Money Available For Montclair After School Program

The Quincy Afterschool Child Care Board of Directors announces that money is available to help low and moderate income families afford and take advantage of the new afterschool child care program offered at the Montclair School.

That pilot program began Monday and a few openings are still remaining.

These scholarship monies were made available through the help of City Council President Stephen McGrath. Money has been appropriated for scholarships for the program as well as some startup equipment.

Participants in the Education and Training Program through the Department of Welfare are eligible for the afterschool program at Montclair.

Any families interested should contact the Montclair After School Program at 770-9752 or call the Beechwood Community Life Center at 471-5712 for information.

MBTA RIDE Service Begins

MBTA General Manager James F. O'Leary recently joined Mayor Francis McCauley and other local and state officials to mark the start of service in Quincy of the RIDE, the authority's paratransit van service for persons with disabilities.

"I am pleased to announce that the RIDE is available in Quincy starting today. This expansion to the South Shore is based on our commitment to provide quality transportation throughout the MBTA system to passengers with special needs," O'Leary said in a news conference Monday at the Quincy Adams Red Line station. "We will continue to work to increase access throughout the system for riders with disabilities."

RIDE service to Quincy, the first of four South Shore communities to get the service under this phase, is being provided by Transportation Networks, Inc. of Brockton, under an agreement with the Cambridge-based Transportation Management Services, Inc., who will also oversee contract arrangements for the other South Shore communities: Braintree, Milton and Weymouth.

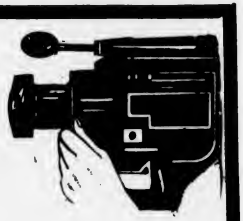
Service will run weekdays between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Two public meetings were held in Quincy last week to keep passengers informed about the program. Although only Quincy residents are eligible at this time, they may request trips within the four South Shore communities, as well as to accessible Red Line stations such as Braintree and Quincy Adams, and to local lift-equipped MBTA bus routes.

Transportation Management Services, Inc. is currently working to finalize contracts with other providers for service into the other three communities in this phase. Ride service is expected to begin in Braintree in mid-October; and in Milton and Weymouth in mid-November. This will bring to 30 the total number of communities served by the RIDE.

In addition to the RIDE program, the MBTA also operates a Call-a-Bus program, established in January 1986, through which passengers can call on 24-hour notice to request a lift-equipped bus on most MBTA routes for single or round trips. This service is available by calling 1-800-LIFTBUS.

The authority has also pledged that every bus purchased by the authority in the future will be wheelchair lift-equipped, and that an aggressive program now underway will continue to make stations accessible on Rapid Transit and Commuter Rail lines.



Quincy Court To Recess In Constitution Tribute

All court sessions at the Quincy District Court will recess shortly before 11 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 17, to celebrate the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

Edward F. Hennessey, Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court and president of the National Conference of Chief Justices requested that the Bicentennial be celebrated by brief simultaneous ceremonies in every court in the nation.

The Quincy District Court invites the public, including members of the bar, District Attorney's staff, police prosecutors and all court personnel to participate in the celebration, followed by refreshments.

7 P.M. At Veterans Stadium

Quincy Hosts Cambridge Friday Night

The Quincy High School football team will open its season Friday night when it hosts Cambridge Rindge and Latin in a 7 p.m. Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Fourth-year coach Jack Raymer is more than a little concerned as the Presidents try to improve upon last year's 4-6 record.

"We are very inexperienced and we lack depth," Raymer said. "Our interior line is our major problem, although I was pleased with the improvement shown in our scrimmage with Weymouth South. We must improve in the interior line as we face a tough schedule. Not only are the league teams improved, but we face some very strong Greater Boston League teams."

Raymer sees his passing game as the big offensive weapon this year and expects a big year from wide receiver Sean Munroe, who last year broke his foot in pre-season practice and saw only limited action in the last few games. He is fast, an excellent receiver and will be new quarterback Chris Noble's prime target.

When the Presidents take the field Friday night Munroe (160), Sean Thompson (180) and Todd Kimmell (170) will be aty offensive end, Brian Norris (200) and Mike Madden (185) at tackle, Paul Kirk (175) and Steve Slicis (185) at guard and either Kerry Byrne (175) or Chris Kohler (200) at center.

Noble, who has looked impressive in scrimmages, will start at quarterback and will be backed up by Scott Campbell.

Raymer has not decided on his halfbacks and fullbacks but seeing action at those spots will be Dave Nourse (180), Ernie Light, the only senior in the backfield (175), Pete Olivieri (180), Scott O'Brien, (160) and Jim Dennett (155).

Scott Logan, Frank Calabro, Jay Dennett, Mark Miele and Jim Kimmel all will see service as wide receivers.

On defense Calabro (215) and Norris will be the ends, Dan Hanley (180), Joe Baker (205) and Slicis the tackles, Tom Bjork (185), Craig Keefe (165) and John Anacleto (165) linebackers. Todd Kimmell, O'Brien and Dave Gustin (160) corner backs and Jim Kimmell (155), Jay Dennett (170), Scott Grant (165) and Light defensive backs.

"We just can't afford injuries to key personnel, as we don't have the reserves," said Raymer. "We have a good, willing, hard-working group of kids, but it remains to be seen how they react to the tough schedule. I try to remain optimistic, but I think we face a lot of problems."

Raymer has Jahn Taglieri, Bob Noble and Steve Spencer back as assistants and John Sullivan, a Quincy aide for several years, is back after three years at Milton Academy.

Carlton, Moreth Crehan Tourney Winners

The winners had a net 67, followed by Bert Sigilman and Eleanor Verdun with a 70, and Dorea McConaghy and Marrianne Musto, Dottie Pitts and Doris Brady, Laura Lynch and Peg Cullinane and Sis Jenkins and Ethel Bernstein, all tied at 71.

Agnes and Mark Crehan were longtime members at Ponkapoag and were active in promoting enthusiasm for the game of golf. Agnes was a past president of the Ladies Inner Club and Mark always assisted in the CYO and New England Juniors' tournaments.

A nine-hole three clubs and putter tourney was held recently with Laura Lynch the winner with a net 35, Mary Michaels and Hazel Ford tied for second at 36 and Marion Dale in fourth place with a 38.

Youth Football Tag Days

The Quincy Youth Football League will conduct its annual fund raiser tag days during the coming weekend.

Players and cheerleaders in uniform will be outside area stores and businesses collecting donations. All money will benefit the league and its teams, which cater to Quincy youth ages 10-14.

All coaches and commissioners are volunteers in the program, which is in its 37th season.

The boys and girls will not be allowed to solicit at intersections. Donations in any amount will be greatly appreciated by the league officials.

Panthers, Sailors Win

The Quincy Youth Football League opened its 37th season last Saturday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium with the Quincy Point Panthers and Squantum Sailors winning their openers.

Next Sunday at the stadium the Houghs Neck Manets will play the Apaches at 1 p.m. and the Panthers will face the Sailors at 2:30.

In junior varsity action Saturday at 10 a.m. the Sailors will meet the Panthers at Fore River Field and the Manets and Apaches will clash at Merrymount Park.

The Panthers elected to receive the opening kickoff last week but fumbled at the 50. The Elks recovered, but the Panthers' defense rose to the occasion and the Elks punted. The punt was blocked by Ally Sleiman to set up the first Panther score.

Four plays later on a first and goal from the Elks four, Joe Crespi scored the first points of the night. Derek Tardanicco added the two-point conversion.

The Elks took the ensuing kickoff but hits by Crespi and Peter Kelley forced a fumble and Sleiman recovered.

Three plays later the Elks forced a fumble deep in their own territory. Peter and Jason Eleuteri led the Elks on a short drive. The Panthers held and on the first play Tardanicco scored and Crespi added the two-point conversion for a 16-0 lead.

Matt McLarnon and Brian Paige combined to stop the Elks on their next possession and the Panthers added to their lead when Crespi ran 30 yards for the score. The try for extra points was no good due to the effort of Jason Eleuteri. At the half the Panthers led, 22-0.

In the third quarter John Sullivan and Elks quarterback Collins picked up the team's first first down but, on fourth down, Collins was sacked by Sleiman to give the Panthers possession.

Six plays later the Panthers' Tardanicco scored to make it 28-0 and David Jolley took quarterback Jason Simon's pass to make it 30-0.

Regan Scholarship Golf Tourney Sept. 25

The sixth annual Major John F. Regan Scholarship Golf Tournament and fundraiser will be held throughout the day Friday, Sept. 25, at the Country Club of Halifax.

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt will serve as master of ceremonies at the awards diner following the tournament. Among those signed up to play are Mass. State Senator Thomas White, State Rep. Salvatore DiMasi, Barnstable County Dist. Atty Phil Rollins and Essex County Dist. Atty. Kevin Burke.

All proceeds from the event benefit the Major John F. Regan Memorial Charitable Trust, which was established in 1982 to honor the memory of Major John F. Regan, Jr. of Milton, who died that same year following a long battle with cancer.

Last year's event helped raise more than $21,000 for the Fund, which provides scholarships to families of both past and present members of the Mass. State Police.

More than 300 golfers will be participating in this year's tournament, which is a double shot-gun, Florida-style format with tee times at 7:45 a.m. and 12:15 p.m.

Following play, participants will be joined by more than 200 guests for an awards dinner and benefit raffle of approximately $18,000 in prizes, all donated by area businesses. Tickets are still available for the awards dinner for $25 per person. For more information, call Turst Chairman Jerry Coletta at 329-5440.

Major Regan began his career with the Massachusetts State Police in 1953 and served over 10 years as a trooper in South Yarmouth, Andover, Framingham, Topsfield, Concord and Foxborough. He also served as an investigator with the Massachusetts Crime Comission, and directed the Arson Strike Force in the Attorney General's Department.

One of the most highly commended officers in the Mass. State Police Force, Major Regan later headed the State Police Bureau of Investigation Services and served as Chief Investigator in the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office.

At the time of his death, Major Regan was Director of NESPAC, the New England organized crime drug smuggling unit.

Anyone interested in contributing to the fund may send their tax deductible donation to: Major John F. Regan Trust, P.O. Box 7131, Quincy, MA 02269.

Quincy Tennis Tourney Underway

The 17th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament, co-sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Co-operative Bank, is underway at the completely refurbished and resurfaced Voc-Tech tennis courts.

Tournament Director John Franceschini has 141 entries that range from age 12 to age 74, all vying for the coveted city championship in nine separate categories.

Dodging the several days of rain, the players have completed first round action in most divisions. In the men's open singles, in the first upset of the tournament, David Bouley put together a strong serve and net game to defeat number two seed Barry Gilfeather 7-6, 7-5. This match was highlighted by great all-round play by both players throughout the night.

Number one seed Wayne Chatterton started off his title defense in grand style by defeating newcomer Bill Wallace 6-1, 6-3. This was a match of long rallies and some super tennis action. Wallace played very well and you can be assured you will be seeing his name in the winners bracket in the future.

Looking to defend their titles are winners from last year's tournament; men's singles, Wayne Chatterton; men's "B" consolation: Leonard Ciavarro; men's 35 and over: Joe Ryan; men's 50 and over: Dick Hatton; men's doubles: John Franceschini and Steve Durante; womens' singles: Nancy Flukes; women's 35 and over: Hildy Gillis; women's doubles: Louise Durante and Hildy Gillis; mixed doubles: Camille Courtney and Bill Courtney, and boys 16 and under: Oscar Jara.

Results in the 1987 tournament to date are as follows:

Men's Singles First Round: Gary Wilcox def. Gregory Therrien, 6-1, 6-4; Keith Myers def. Mark Righini 6-3, 6-2; John Kavanaugh def. Glen Oriola 6-0, 6-2; Ken Allman def. Women's 35 and over Singles: Louise Durante def. Charlotte Guglielmi 6-1, 6-2.

The tournament will continue weekday evenings and all day weekends weather permitting. All matches are played at the Voc-Tech courts on Russell Park in Quincy Center. The public is invited to view the action. There is no charge, and bleachers have been brought in.

• Executive Hockey

Adams, White's Win

Fred Ahearn scored two goals and assisted on another as Adams Sports defeated Beacon Sports, 4-2, in the Executive Hockey League season's opener Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Dennis O'Connell and Billy Hansen had the other goals and O'Connell had two assists and Ahearn, Hansen and Kevin Cobban one each. Artie Boyle and Chuck Behenna scored for Beacon and Art Boyle and Joe Verlicco had two assists each.

Bob White's Lounge defeated DiMattia's Sailmakers, 4-2, with Mike Connell having a hat trick and Jack Duffy a goal. Doug McLean had two assists. Bill Shea and Ed Lenihan had unassisted goals for DiMattia's.

Jay Powers had two goals to lead Grogan's Business Machines over South Shore Bearing, 6-4. Ed Dwyer, Rich Gibbs, John Emmott and Kevin Grogan had a goal apiece. Marty Tolson had two assists and Dick McCabe, Grogan and Paul Veneziano one each. Steve Dyment, Frankie Guest, Bob Carroll and Chipp Linscott scored for Bearing and Carroll, Linscott, Ken Gardner and Guest had assists.

Adult Swim Program Registration

The Quincy Recreation Department will sponsor two special instructional programs for adults as part of its swim programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community School swimming pool.

The first is a learn-to-swim program for non-swimming adults. This popular program is designed to teach adults who have no swimming ability and may even have a fear of the water.

The second is for adult beginner swimmers. This participant may have some ability to swim but has never had proper instruction in proper swimming skills.

Both programs are conducted in small classes with a low teacher-student ratio. They are on Tuesday or Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. and are free to Quincy residents who have a pool participation card. Registration can be done in person at the pool weeknights 5:30 p.m. - 8 p.m.

The course will start Oct. 22, or 24, and will last approximately five weeks.

Thornton On Massasoit Soccer Team

Mary Thornton of Quincy is a sophomore forward on the Massasoit Community College women's soccer team.

The Lady Warriors finished at 14-4 last year in their first varsity season, climbed as high as sixth in the national rankings and made the New England finals, losing, 1-0, to Mitchell Junior College.

Orr Hosting Day Of Golf For SSARC

The South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens invites all golf enthusiasts to spend a day of golf with Bobby Orr at the Halifax Country Club Sept. 24 at 1 p.m.

The benefit is limited to 104 golfers.

The tax deductible entry fee of $150 per player includes golf with the former Bruins star, the use of a power golf cart, luncheon, prizes and gifts, open bar and an evening banquet, also with Orr.

The tournament and banquet will benefit both South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens and its state affiliate, the Mass. Association for Retarded Citizens.

Anyone who doesn't play golf is invited to attend the banquet for $100 and visit with Orr, or can sponsor a hole for $250 and have his name in a program book and have his name on a sign posted at the hall.

Red Cross Lifesaving Course Sept. 23

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool for an American Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving Course.

This course is open to persons who are at least 15 years of age and who are capable of passing a prerequisite swim test. Registration can be made in person at the Lincoln Hancock Pool from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. weeknights beginning immediately.

The course will be held on Wednesday and Friday evenings and the first class will be Wednesday, Sept. 23, at 7 p.m.

Cost for the course is $10 for Quincy residents and $20 for non-residents.

Hope To Snap Jinx

Raiders Open At Milton Saturday

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team travels to Milton Saturday to face its oldtime jinx rival and Coach Ken McPhee expects big things from his offense but admits the defense, especially the secondary, still needs improvement.

The 1:30 game will be played at Milton's new field behind the Pierce School.

McPhee, in his sixth year as North coach, has never beaten Milton. Last year the Hawks, coached by former North assistant Jack Bowes, embarrassed the Raiders, 46-13.

"I'm very pleased with our offense and we should score a lot of points," said McPhee, whose team was 4-6, including a 24-7 win over Quincy, last fall. "Against Braintree and Xaverian we moved the ball very well, but our defense, especially our young secondary, showed it needs a lot of work. However, it was much improved in our second scrimmage with Xaverian and I think it will continue to improve.

"The passing of Joe Mulvey and B.J. Sylva was outstanding in both scrimmages and Paul McCormack and Ryan Craig, both of whom could hit 1000 yards this year, ran well. Both are really outstanding runners."

When the Raiders take the field Saturday Bill McDougal (165), one of North's best pass receivers, and Mike Ainsley (180) will start at end with Ted Stevenson (150) seeing a good deal of action. Matt McNamara (275) and Paul Hogan (225), who should be among the best linemen around, will be at tackle, Dave Joyce (220) and Dan Steele (175) at guard and Paul Nimeskern (180) at center.

Mulvey (175) will be the quarterback starter but Sylva (180) will see an equal amount of action.

McCormack (170) will be one halfback and Dave Lawless (220) will be the other if he can play. He is having knee problems and is a question mark. Steve Shoap (165) and sophomore Keith Gott (175), who was exceptional as a freshman, will also see a good deal of action. Craig (195) will handle the fullback chores again and he should be one of the best in the state.

Also seeing action on offense will be Sean Darcy at guard, Mike Curtin at tackle, and Sean McDonough, Dennis Cronin, Dan Hobin and Kevin McDougal at end.

On defense Shawn Clancy (170), Darcy and Bob Herman (165) will be at end, Joyce and McNamara at tackle, Hogan at nose guard, Ainsley and Craig the linebackers, McCormack and Jackie Mullen (150) the cornerbacks and Lawless, Kevin McDougal and Sylva the safeties.

Among others who will see action on defense are Steve Patch and Chuck Peck.

McPhee has all of last year's assistants, Ted Sadowski, Pete Zoia, Kevin Cobban, Peter Chrisom, Jamie Walsh and Tom Carter, back, and has one new aide, Dean Merlin, a graduate of Attleboro High and Colgate University.

Hospital Marathon Sept. 18-19

The Quincy City Hospital employees benefit softball marathon will be held Friday, Sept. 18 beginning at 6 p.m. and continuing until midnight on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Co-sponsored by BFI, the game will be played at Rotary Field in Quincy, next to the YMCA.

Brandon Murphy was born in April 1986 with multiple birth defects. These defects include a missing limb, abnormal limb growth and nerve disorders.

He requires extensive physical therapy, corrective surgeries and prostheses. Proceeds will cover future operations and prostheses.

Brandon is the son of Tom and Cathy Murphy of Quincy, and his grandfather is William Greene, a long time employee of Quincy City Hospital.

Alex Picciuto was born five months ago apparently healthy. However, on Mother's Day, he developed breathing difficulties and was rushed to the hospital. He is still in the pediatric intensive care unit.

Alex was diagnosed as having congenital heart defects that were causing him to have congested heart failure. He has had one heart operation and will need at least one more.

Proceeds will cover his heart surgery and hospitalization costs.

Special appearances at the game include Cardinal Bernard Law's softball team "The Lawmen," former members of the Boston Bruins, multiple BFI all-star teams and other celebrities.

Testimonial Oct. 2 For Richard Chrystal

A testimonial in honor of Dr. Richard K. Chrystal former Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Quincy will be held Friday evening, Oct. 2 at Lombardo's of Randolph.

Dr. Chrystal left the city in July to become Superintendent of Schools in Swampscott.

He served the Quincy Public Schools for the past 29 years. Dr. Chrystal began his career as a social studies and language arts teacher in 1958 at North Quincy High School and then at Atlantic Junior High School.

He became the assistant principal at Atlantic from 1962-1967. He was then appointed to the principalship at Central Junior High School from 1967-71.

In 1976 he transferred to Atlantic as the principal for a year. In 1973 he became the director of staff development and served in that position through 1977. At that time the position expanded to include director of management and staff development. He carried this position until he was appointed as assistant superintendent of schools in 1983.

Joseph Sweeney Funeral Homes Presenting Programs On Coping With Death, Grief

The Joseph Sweeney Funeral Homes of Quincy, in an on-going effort to educate and assist the professional and general public with the understanding and coping of death and grief, has arranged for Rabbi Norman Geller, internationally known author and lecturer, to present a series of programs Sept. 29 at the Georgette Nickerson Center of St. Joseph's Church, 550 Washington St., Quincy Point.

There will be two programs. The first will be from 2 to 4 p.m. and will deal with explaining dying, death and mourning to children. The second program will be from 7 to 9 p.m. and will deal with the topic, "When Death Is Imminent." The latter topic will deal with grief counseling, not only to family members but to the person who is in the dying process.

Rabbi Geller is part of the Seminary Resource Program of the National Funeral Directors Association of America, Inc. His book explaining death, dying and mourning to children, entitled "Talk To God, I'll Get The Message," has over 150,000 copies in print and has been published in five versions including one in Braille.

In addition, he has written a book which explains the necessity of placing people in long term health care facilities, contrasting those who respond to rehabilitation with those who do not. Also in the bereavement field, he has authored a book explaining cremation to young people, entitled "Unto Dust You Shall Return."

There is no charge for the program. Refreshments will be served and an opportunity will be made for questions, answers and dialogue with the speaker.

Seniors, Disabled Now Protected Against Property Lawsuits

Senior citizens and disabled persons may protect their homes against lawsuits under new legislation effective this month, State Senator Paul D. Harold reports.

The new law provides that persons aged 65 and over, regardless of marital status, and persons who are physically or mentally disabled and unable to engage in substantial employment can protect their homes against seizure as a result of a lawsuit by filing a form with the county Registry of Deeds.

The new "Homestead Exemption" does not apply to mortgages, so the new exemption protects the homeowner's equity up $150,000, Senator Harold noted.

Harold said that existing law makes a $100,000 homestead exemption available to any homeowner with a family by filing a similar form, but the new exemption applies whether the senior citizen or disabled person has been married or not.

The new Homestead exemption does not protect against mortgage debts, taxes, assessments, liens, or debts incurred prior to filing the form, and ends if the property is sold during the owner's lifetime.

"With the volume of litigation in our courts, I would urge any senior citizen or disabled person who owns his home to take advantage of this new provision, just for the peace of mind it provides, whether or not they ever believe they'll be sued," Senator Harold said.

The new law is effective September 30.

She has declined to sell her property, and developers plan to build the project around her, according to Ricciardi.

John Alongi, project manager of Campanelli Industries, estimated that demolition of the Bargain Center, a Quincy Square landmark for almost 50 years, will take place in late October or early November.

Planning Director Richard Meade noted that the state's approval means that $780,450 in Community Development Action Grant money will now be available from the commonwealth.

The money can be used for such things as landscaping and improving the roadwork, Meade said.

The urban renewal approval also means that the city can go ahead with land takings for the project, according to Meade. However, he said, land takings may not be necessary if developers purchase from five owners the nine parcels of land also to be included in the project.

The project will include four buildings, according to Meade. There will be a 10-story residential condominium building, five and eight story commercial buildings, and four-level parking garage, he said.

City Councillor Patricia Toland, chairman of the council's Downtown and Economic Development Committee, called the project's location "the most important corner in Quincy."

"We want to enhance that spot, and I think that's what we are doing," said Councillor Toland.

Council president Stephen McGrath called the project a positive one in terms of creating jobs and enhancing the area.

141 Sea St. Tenants Reorganize

Tenants of Towne House Apartments at 141 Sea St. have reorganized a former tenant organization.

"The tenants have had numerous complaints overlooked and now realize most complaints are common to all tenants who share the premises," said spokesman Denis Tardo.

The 141 Sea St. Tenant Organization has joined forces with the nearby 151 Sea St. Tenant Organization which is owned by the same landlord, Franklin Simon.

According to Tardo, the two organizations joined forces after it was learned the 151 Sea St. tenant organization had to obtain a restraining order from the court to protect belongings from disposal by the landlord.

A four-alarm fire in June at 151 Sea St. had left some 15 families homeless and caused an estimated $200,000 damage to the Merrymount apartment building.

As many as 10 families remain homeless, said Tardo.

"It's demoralizing when tenants are forced to submit to landlords problems, but when the chips fall, it becomes business and profit which becomes the bottom line," Tardo said.

"The tenants of 141 have begun to demand a safe and habitable living environment. Most noticable of met demands are, the removal of old appliances from the corridors, the patching of the hole in the parking lot, the partial trimming of hedges, the removal of debris, including a very large drum of grease, from the parking lot around Dutton's and the assurance from city officials that procedures have begun to institute the demolition of the former restaurant, which has already been on fire," Tardo continued.

"The tenants are speaking and asking for lights in and outside the buildings, door buzzers and intercoms that work, functional washers and driers, use of the sauna and exercise room, electrical outlets, stoves and plumbing to pass code inspections. These are not unreasonable requests," Tardo added.

As spokesman for the group, Tardo said, "I am committed to representing the tenants interest for safe and affordable housing, including the desire to add to the esthetic compliment of the Merrymount community." Other spokesman for the 141 Sea St. Tenants Organization are James Lydon and William Younie.

Tenants of 151 Sea Street, many of which are still living in temporary quarters, will return to court Oct. 1 Tardo said.

Donations to the fire victim's fund may be made to Our Lady of Good Counsel Rectory, 227 Sea St., Quincy, 02169.

'New Beginnings' Celebration At Bethany Sunday

Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., will celebrate the reopening of the church school and the return of the children with a special service of worship and song Sunday at 10 a.m.

The theme will be "New Beginnings."

Children will be an important part of the worship as they help to create a mural celebrating God's creation, as members of the preschool class sing "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," and as two large banners created by the children of the church school are displayed and made an integral part of the service. In addition the children will be welcomed back by the Church School Supt. Jerry Capobianchi, and will be greeted by Bethany's new Early Childhood Coordinator, Pamela Ford Curran.

Music will be by the Chancel Choir and the Bethany Folksingers.

The two ministers, Rev. J. William Arnold and Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will share comments and reflections on the themes of the creation, star search, the new creation in Christ, and the final creation.

In addition to the worship, registration for Church School will take place at 9:15 in the Parish Hall and newcomers will be welcomed with smiles and assistance. Regular classes will begin on Sunday, Sept. 26 at 10 a.m.

A fellowship hour with light refreshments will be held in the Allen Parlor immediately after the worship and everyone both children and adults are invited to share in these relaxed moments.

For additional information concerning the programs and ministries of Bethany Church, call the church office at 479-7300.

Koch Girls Bowling Starts

DiBella Standout For Curry

Defensive lineman Al DiBella of North Quincy was a standout last Saturday in Curry College's opening day 13-6 victory over Bridgewater State.

DiBella, a three-year star for North Quincy High, had nine tackles and three sacks to spark the Colonels' defense.

Roots Of Words

Distill — This means — a drop at a time. It comes from the Latin; distillo, which means to drop down (di or de means down and stilla is a drop). Anything distilled is made in a vaporizer and is, literally, a drop by drop process.

Collation — The monks in the Benedictine monasteries would gather to have the Collationes, or Lives of the Saints, read to them. Then they would discuss the readings. In time, they used to have a light meal while discussing the readings. The meal, called a collation, later became an elaborate one when it moved from the monastery to the homes of nobles outside.

Pre-School Programs At Crane Library

A variety of programs will be offered to Quincy preschoolers by the Thomas Crane Public Library this autumn.

These programs are designed to introduce young children to books and other library materials as well as to establish the reading habit.

Toddler Time is geared to two and three year olds accompanied by a parent and is held at the Adams Shore Branch Library at 519 Sea St. The group enjoys simple stories and fingerplays before parents and toddlers share books and toys. Contact children's librarian Lori Seegraber at 984-1966 to register.

Film programs for three, four and five year olds are held at the Quincy Square library (984-1950) under the direction of Nancy Breef-Pilz and at the North Quincy Branch Library (984-1957) under the direction of Mary Raux. The films, produced especially for pre-schoolers, are interspersed with stories, book talks, or fingerplays.

Four and five year olds are invited to picture book story hours either at the Quincy Square library with Nancy Breef-Pilz or with Marian Ciccariella at the Wollaston Branch Library (984-1960). This story hour introduces both traditional and contemporary tales and uses a variety of methods and media to do so.

Registrations are now being accepted for these library programs. Toddler Time begins Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 10:30 a.m. Film programs begin at North Quincy on Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 10 a.m. or on Friday, Oct. 16, at 10 a.m.

Programs at the Quincy Square library begin Thursday, Oct. 8, with the picture book story hour at 10:30 a.m. and the film program at 1 p.m. Wollaston's story hour is held Fridays at 10 a.m. beginning Oct. 9.

SHILOH THOMPSON

Shiloh Thompson Miss Mass Teen

As Miss Massachusetts Teen 1987, Shiloh will receive an expense paid trip to Bal Harbour, Florida, where she will compete with girls from all over the country for the title of Miss Teen All American, in October.

She also ran in the 1987 Boston Marathon.

Shiloh has modeled at Faneuil Hall Market for the Beverly Powers agency. She also works part time at Kids Connection, a day care center in North Quincy.

Women's Gym-Swim Program Starts Sept. 29

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will conduct a women's gym/swim exercise program on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Lincoln Hancock Community School.

The program will once again be supervised by Sarah Cobban of the Quincy Recreation Department staff and will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 29.

The schedule for gym swim is: 7 - 8 p.m. - Supervised group exercise in the gym; 8-9 p.m. - Optional swim in the pool located in the same facility, or continued use of the gym for activities such as volleyball, line dancing, or jogging.

The cost of the program is $2 per visit or $15 for a three-month period. Registration is ongoing on the nights of the program. The program will continue each Tuesday and Thursday each week until December 17.

Pack 25 Sign-Up Friday

Cub Scout Pack 25 will have sign-ups Friday, Sept. 18 from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Good Council Church Hall, Merrymount. Parents must attend.

Christmas Festival Committee To Meet

A meeting of the full board of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee was scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Patriot Ledger, 13 Temple St., Quincy Center.

Chairman George White said, "This is the initial and very important first meeting as we begin to formulate and finalize the 1987 Christmas Festival Program activities."

Members of the committee are urged to attend.

Adams Shore Activities

Mayoral Debate Live On Channel 3 Sept. 17

Quincy Community Television Channel 3 will host a live debate of the mayoral candidates, Sept. 17 from 8 to 9 p.m.

Incumbent Francis McCauley and challenger Joseph LaRaia will express their views on issues facing the city including zoning and development, traffic and public safety, education, environmental issues and individual style of management.

Representatives from The Quincy Sun, the Patriot Ledger, and WJDA Radio will serve as the panelists for this program. Stan Golub, general manager of American Cablesystems in Quincy, Milton and Randolph, will be the moderator.

The format for the program has been set so that the debate will be lively and informative. Each candidate will make an opening statement before the debating begins with rounds of questioning from the media.

The debate will be repeated on Channel 3, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m.

N.Q., Milton On Coaches Corner

WEEK OF: September 17, 1987

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're meticulous in your work and careful with your words, but sometimes you miss seeing the obvious. The coming year favors travel to all-new destination. Late '87 may focus on romance; early to mid-'88 sees an important reconciliation taking place.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Dealings with financial advisers dominate much of your time, but avoid taking short cuts in money-related matters. Neighbor is uncommonly hospitable. Public recognition may come your way.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Cancellations over the next few days may prove blessings in disguise. Your wit may be a little too pointed -- make an effort to soften it, especially when dealing with neighbors.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Thursday-Sunday accent bargain hunting and treasure hunting -- both activities taking place close to home. Be aware that strings may be attached to favors now coming your way.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Your hunches generally pay off this week, but don't rely exclusively -- or primarily -- on intuition. Friendship brings unexpected satisfaction. Long-distance news arrives after a long wait.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
Week features some detective work on your part after a new light is shed on a family mystery. In personal relationships, it's best to rely on a mixture of past experience and intuition.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
Platonic friendship is accented during this period. Romance progresses too, but don't rush the situation. Your willingness to adapt to new conditions proves a great strength.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Carefully weighing pros and cons helps you arrive at an important career decision. Training sessions are accented as the week sees you updating your skills and expanding interests.

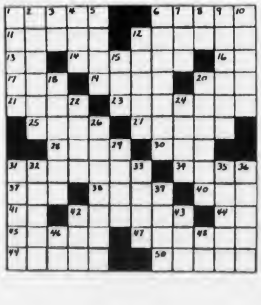
VIRGO — August 23 - September 22
Romantic revival is signaled for this generally upbeat week. Be sure, however, that personal distractions don't take you away from career responsibility. If moving or traveling, leave nothing to chance.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
Good week for taking stock of various relationships and determining whether you're spending enough time with the people you care for most. Missed travel opportunity may again open up.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
Little jaunts are featured now, some trips having an educational angle. News from abroad arrives after long delays. Relative is supportive but don't ask for unrealistic favors.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
A note of triumph is sounded as someone in a key position expresses appreciation for your hard work and intelligent ideas. Good week for reviewing domestic responsibilities.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
If dealing with financial advisers, be sure you understand all suggestions before initiating action. Affections are especially sweet. Absent-minded streak may surface after the weekend.



BORN THIS WEEK
September 17th, actor Roddy McDowall; 18th, actor Robert Blake; 19th, composer Paul Williams; 20th, actress Sophia Loren; 21st, actor Larry Hagman; 22nd, actor Scott Baio, 23rd, musician Ray Charles.

Shelter Lease Ready For City Council Action

Mayor Francis McCauley said he expects to have a lease agreement for a permanent location for the homeless ready for the City Council's consideration at its meeting Monday evening, Sept. 21.

"We're pleased that we have reached an agreement and that the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will have a permanent home for the homeless," said McCauley.

Plans call for the shelter to be located at the city-owned building which is the current site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Broad St. It will house up to 45 homeless men and women, the mayor said.

The registry plans to move in late October to the Quincy Fair building in Quincy Sq.

The move is scheduled to coincide with completion of the Ross Parking Deck behind Quincy Fair, according to McCauley.

According to the mayor, the lease agreement includes $18,000 a year rent which is expected to be paid through federal grants.

"We were getting $40,000 a year in rent from the registry," said McCauley, "but we're not worried about the difference.

"Any difference is a contribution from the city," he said.

The Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will be responsible for renovations, according to McCauley.

A temporary shelter for women has been housed at Quincy Point Congregational Church, and for men at Wollaston Lutheran Church.

In an earlier interview, Nancy Powers, executive director of the sheltering coalition, said she was not sure how long it might take to renovate the building.

But, she said, a shelter at the Faxon House at Quincy City Hospital was ready after a month's extensive remodeling.

Matthias Mulvey Named Building Inspector

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the appointment of Matthias J. Mulvey of 20 Exeter St., Wollaston, as Quincy's new Building Inspector at a salary of $39,501 a year.

Mulvey replaces Kenneth Johnson who left recently to take a job in the private sector.

He was selected from among seven applicants.

Mulvey is a graduate of Wentworth Institute of Technology with an A.A.S. degree in Building Construction Technology. He is presently Building Commissioner for the Town of Wayland, a position he has held since Feb. 4, 1985.

Previously, he was building inspector for the towns of Acton and Littleton and worked for the city of Boston in its Housing Improvement Program as a principal rehabilitation specialist.

Mulvey is a member of the Architectural Access Board of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He was appointed to a three year term June 30, 1987 by Gov. Michael Dukakis.

This fall, Mulvey will be an instructor at Middlesex Community College, Bedford, where he will teach courses on home construction.

He is a member of the Mass. Building Commissioners and Inspectors Association, the Eastern States Building Officials Federation, and numerous other associations, as well as being a licensed builder with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Mulvey will begin his new duties Monday, Oct. 5, when he will be sworn in at 9 a.m. in the mayor's office.

$21 Million Office Retail Complex For Downtown

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

By this time next year, Quincy Square could have a newly renovated office and retail complex at the site of the Remick's and Lerner buildings.

Mayor Francis McCauley announced Tuesday that a $21 million renovation program will take place at the site to be known as "Hancock Square."

The Remick's building is currently vacant, and Lerner Shop is expected to stay, according to Planning Director Richard Meade.

The project will create a total of 150,000 sq. ft. of office and retail space, according to McCauley.

"This project, along with Presidents' Place, is a strong signal from private developers that downtown Quincy has a tremendous retail potential," said McCauley.

The Quincy-based A & S Development Co., 20 Whitney Rd., which already owns the Remick's building, is scheduled to take possession of the Clivedon St. building Oct. 1, the mayor said.

A & S partners Arthur Simons and Fred Kiley plan to join the buildings with a central atrium to create a Newbury St.-type specialty shop atmosphere, according to McCauley.

"We believe that downtown Quincy is ready to become a unique retail area and we want to be part of it," said Kiley, a Wollaston resident.

McCauley noted that the Hancock St. side of the Remick's building will include two levels of retail space, while the upper levels will be used for offices.

A fourth floor is to be added to the building, he said.

The Clivedon St. side of the Lerner building will be transformed into space for small shops, according to McCauley.

Plans also call for a second level pedestrian connector from the Ross parking garage into the Remick's building, said McCauley.

"I am particularly pleased to see the combining of retail and office space," said McCauley. "This is the type of business vitality that will benefit the entire city."

Renovations are expected to be completed by the fall of 1988, according to Planning Director Richard Meade. Hancock Square would open shortly thereafter, he said.

Meade said that approval will be needed from the Zoning Board of Appeals to add the fourth floor on the Clivedon St. building.

Approval was already given for the fourth floor on the Remick's building, he said.

Teachers To Vote On Tentative Contract

The membership of the Quincy teachers union is scheduled to vote in two to three weeks on a tentative contract agreement reached last week between negotiating team members from the union and School Committee.

"We feel it is in the best interest of the majority of our members to vote for this contract," said Quincy Education Association president Thomas Walsh.

The agreement calls for a 3 per cent salary increase this September, a 2 per cent increase around Jan. 1, 6 per cent increase Jan. 1, in the second year of the contract, and another 6 per cent increase the third year, according to Walsh.

Walsh said that the agreement was reached after an all-night bargaining session from Thursday night to Friday morning which warded off a threatened job action by teachers.

"We've reached a good, tentative settlement with the city of Quincy," said Walsh.

"From the outset, we did not expect a contract that would make them (the membership) happy.

"I think what we were looking for is the best contract we can achieve under the circumstances.

"We feel it is in the best interest of the majority of our members to vote for this contract," he said.

"We will be recommending that at the ratification meeting in two to three weeks," he said.

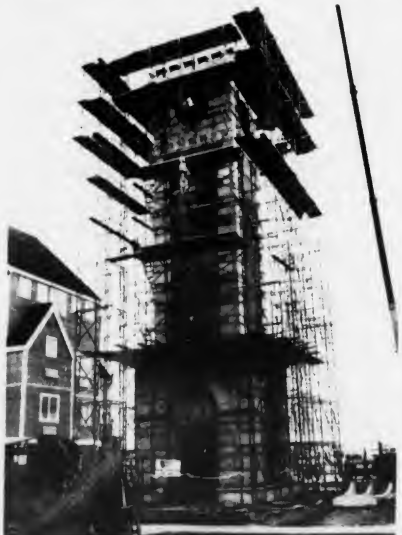
"It's a fair contract for the teachers and the city," said Mayor Francis McCauley who noted that it includes an additional $250 a year for teachers with 15 years experience.

McCauley praised the negotiating teams for both sides.

"The teachers continued after the deadline without a job action," said McCauley, "they were concerned not only about their contract but also with not interfering with the educational process."

Tax Bills Delayed

Estimated tax bills for the fall billing will be delayed at least two weeks because the City Council did not approve two appropriation orders at its meeting Monday night, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.



The earliest the bills, which the city had hoped to mail Oct. 1, could now go out is Friday, Oct. 16, McCauley said.

They would be due Nov. 16, he said.

Councillor Joseph La Raia tabled an appropriation order of $1,400,000 for salary increases and it must lay on the table for two weeks.

Finance committee chairman Richard Koch, Jr., then referred an appropriation of $1,204,159 to reserve for

Sun Starts 20th Year

Today's issue completes our 19th year.

The Sun was established Sept. 26, 1968 as Quincy's own weekly newspaper and today is "Quincy's All Quincy Newspaper."

As a community newspaper it concentrates on Quincy news, sports, features, civic and social events.

A special Video News Report of Quincy news events covered by Sun television cameras can be seen nightly at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. and at 10 a.m.

The Sun's sister publication is The Hingham Journal purchased seven years ago. It dates back to 1827 and is one of the oldest newspapers in the country.

Both The Sun and The Journal have won a number of editorial, photo and special articles awards in New England Press Association and Massachusetts Press Association competition.

We at The Sun look forward to our 20th year as Quincy's own newspaper.

As we do, we want to thank our faithful readers and advertisers and newscarriers who make it all possible.

Thank you all, sincerely.

2 Quincy Men Going On 27-Day Motorcycle Trip In South East Asia

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Two Quincy men will be among 20 people who will take a 27-day motorcycle "Ride To The Roof Of The World" in Southeast Asia starting Sept. 27.

Tom Farley, 48, of Morton St., West Quincy, a bricklayer, and member of Bricklayers Local 52, Quincy, and Paul Kowalski, 40, of Winthrop Park, Quincy Point, a member of the International Union of Elevator Constructors, will be, among those making the $6,000 trip which will be filmed by a camera crew.

Both consider it a once in a lifetime adventure.

"Every year I try to go on an adventurous trip," said Farley.

"It's the opportunity to go someplace different," said Kowalski of the trip which will go from New Delhi, India, through Kathmandu and Pokhara, Nepal, into Tibet.

The group will ride on motorcycles to altitudes over 17,000 feet, and will average 200 miles a day. They will also camp at one of the base camps of Mount Everest.

The trip took three years of planning and negotiations, and will be the first ever motorcycle ride into Tibet, the People's Republic of China, according to China Worldwide Travel.

It will also be the first time foreigners will ride motorcycles in Tibet, and the first time any group will cross from Nepal to Tibet with their own vehicles.

China Worldwide Travel also claims that it is the first time riders will climb passes exceeding 17,000 feet, and the first time motorcycles will ascend to the base camp of Mt. Everest.

Cost of the trip includes use of a 600 CC Honda which is a dual purpose cycle for dirt and streets, according to Farley.

"You have to be an expert motorcyclist," said Farley, who noted that some streets will be paved, and some will be dirt.

During the spring rains, some seven miles of thoroughfare were washed away and Nepalese porters may be used to build roads or carry the vehicles, he said.

At some points, the group will stay in hotels such as the Sheraton Everest and at other times it will camp outdoors.

Hotels in the higher elevations have oxygen for guests, Kowalski said. The motorcycles are also equipped with oxygen, he noted.

Farley and Kowalski plan to bring two big duffel bags each of clothes for temperatures ranging from 90 degrees when they start the trip to below freezing in Tibet.

Both have spent over $100 on medical shots in preparation for the trip, and obtained international driver's licenses as well as passports.

They have been instructed not to drink the water during the trip, and to bring [their] own eating utensils, [to] hot soap and water [are] used in Asia to wash [them], they said.

"We don't know what [to] expect for food," said F[arley], who noted that a support [team] will also transport the group's own food.

There will be support vehicles as well for luggage, camping equipment, TV [crews] and those that want to ride the vehicles.

Spare parts, tires and [tools] for repairing the motorcycles will also be provided.

The itinerary will include time for sightseeing at [various] places as the [two] activities such as riding [on the] back of an elephant and shopping.

Farley, who has ridden [for] 30 years, and Kowalski, a motorcyclist for 21 years, have taken some similar trips in the past.

Three years ago, Farley took a month-long motorcycle trip to Baja, Mexico.

Kowalski has taken week-long motorcycle tours to Lake Ontario and Virginia.

But neither of the men, friends for 15 years, have ever been out of the country for a trip such as this one.

Are either of them worried about hostage takings or any other such dangers?

"If you are afraid to do something, you'll never go anywhere," answered Kowalski.

Centennial Committee Seeks Members

The Centennial Committee planning the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of Quincy becoming a city, is looking for interested citizens to serve on a subcommittee to bring ideas to the committee on what commemorative should be given to the city as a permanent remembrance.

Those interested in serving on this subcommittee are invited to attend a meeting Wednesday, Sept. 30 at [7] p.m. at the Quincy Community Television offices at 81 School St., Quincy. Those planning on attending are asked to call Peg Nigro or Nancy Santry at 471-9609.

Nurses Take Their Salary Complaints To Council

And though the hospital director agreed QCH nurses should be paid more, he said the institution's income is controlled by the government.

The hour and a half discussion took place at a meeting of the council's Public Health and Hospital Committee, chaired by Councillor James Sheets.

It was preceded by picketing by about three dozen nurses outside City Hall.

Sandy Eaton, chairman of the Quincy City Hospital Staff Nurses Chapter of the Massachusetts Nurses Association, said that Quincy nurses start off at $9.82 an hour which goes to $10.32 after three months and $14.15 after 15 years.

That contrasts with $10 an hour to start at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, and $16 after eight years, Eaton said.

He also said that 67 of the 320 nurses have resigned over the last six months, 26 in the last five weeks. Eaton said he did not know how many nurses had been hired to take their places.

Eaton complained about the hospital's hiring of agency nurses at a higher hourly rate than staff nurses.

"Because of the hospital's decision to invest in temporary staffing rather than in their core of permanent purses, we are facing a crisis in covering the night shift," said Eaton.

He suggested a bonus for nurses who volunteer to cover the night shift, as is done at other hospitals.

Eaton noted that the nurses are working without a contract for the first time in 20 years.

Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro said the nurses' salary was "absolutely unbelievable."

"People with no education make more than that," he said.

"This is just the tip of the iceberg," said Councillor Joseph LaRaia, alluding to other problems at the hospital.

"They (Hospital Corporation of America) have shown no more capability at running the hospital than other lay people," said LaRaia.

Councillor Patricia Toland said that women in general have never been paid at the salary level of men doing the same thing.

"From what you're telling me," Council president Stephen McGrath told the nurses, "I don't think you are getting a fair shake up there."

Hospital director Mark Mundy said, "The hospital certainly wants to pay its nurses more. The hospital is its nurses.

"In the perspective of hourly rates, bus drivers get more.

Mundy said the hospital is operating with a deficit but is making it up with money it generates itself.

He also said that the hospital hires agency nurses because it doesn't have enough nurses available, and that the nursing shortage is happening on a statewide basis.

Mundy said he would work to solve the dispute with the nurses.

In response to an inquiry from McGrath, Mundy said he would remind contractors working on the hospital addition that work is prohibited before 8 a.m. on weekends and after 5 p.m.

Ward 5 Council Recount Friday

A recount by hand of the Ward 5 ballots for City Council will take place Friday starting at 10 a.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall, according to City Clerk John Gillis.

The recount was requested by candidate John F. Keenan who lost by only four votes in the preliminary election last week.

Nominated for the council seat in the November election were Charles Phelan, Jr., and Kevin M. Burke.

Gillis said that the ballots will be counted by 10 people.

Also on hand will be the election registrars and an accountant to tally the figures, he said.

Gillis estimated that the results would be known by noon.

He said he didn't think the results would change the outcome of the election.

The ballots were impounded after the election.

appropriation to the finance committee.

McCauley said that the city can not send out bills until all the orders are passed.

He also said that the delay will cost the city about $50,000 in interest income because tax payments will be at least two weeks later.

McCauley added that the city will not have to turn to short term borrowing.

Your Vote DOES Count

Well, you've heard it many times: every vote counts. And in Ward 5 you won't get any argument on that.

Just four votes between Kevin Burke and John Keenan for the second Ward 5 City Council nomination pending a recount.

Burke polled 695 votes and Keenan 691. (Charles Phelan, Jr. easily took one of the two nominations with a vote of 849.)

Keenan has filed for a recount which is expected to take place this week.

Reportedly, Keenan might have topped Burke by two votes. Six people in a family close to him, it is reported, were going to vote on primary day but there was a death in the family and they were unable to do so.

The bake was rained out Sunday, Sept. 13 at Marina Bay and would have faced the same fate last Sunday if Peter O'Connell didn't have an empty boat storage building handy.

There were many prizes including a trip to Bermuda for two and $500 cash award.

The latter was won by Quincy Atty. John Hadigan. He walked up to get the money, kissed Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late mayor-senator, and turned the money back to her to go into the fund. She ran after him and gave him a kiss of thanks.

Keefe, a retired Air Force Major General and Morley served as pilots during World War II and were 1943 classmates at the Pilot Training Gulf Command in Texas.

Morley lived in Squantum and was a graduate of North Quincy High School around 1939 or 1940.

"I received many calls in response to the item," Keefe reports. "And, sadly, I learned that John died in 1975."

One caller told Keefe that Morley was the first commander of the Nickerson Legion Post in Squantum.

Keefe was most appreciative of all those who took the time to call him.

Walsh: 'Teachers' Salaries A Question Of Respect'

By RICK RYAN

Quincy Public School teachers are in their third week of classes without an official salary contract after union members late last week voted 328-173 against a walk-out.

Union and city negotiators agreed on a tentative pact giving teachers some salary increases over three years as well as changes in the current pay index.

About 600 unimon

About 600 union members cast their votes at the early-morning meeting last Friday. The turnout was above average, according to union members.

"The way it stands now is we have to wait a week to hear from attorneys from both sides," said Thomas Walsh, president of the 720-member teachers union and key member of the negotiating team. "The agreement is hand written with corrections, and we'll fight about the final wording, but we're very close," he said.

Union bylaws require a seven-day notice to all members before a ratification meeting can be held.

Walsh estimated that the meeting will be held the week starting Sunday, Oct. 11.

"It's a very complicated contract, so we're going to hold small group meetings between now and then to explain it," he said.

The contract must be approved by two-thirds of members present to be ratified.

The union's last 3-year contract expired Aug. 31.

The tentative pact gives teachers an immediate 3 per cent raise, retroactive to Sept. 1, and an average 4.6 per cent raise each year for the next three years.

The pact also calls for a one-time bonus of $250 to teachers with at least 15 years experience.

Teachers holding doctoral degrees receive a 2.5 per cent pay hike. The pay index, a systematic salary increase for veteran teachers, also will be adjusted upward, according to officials.

Last Wednesday representatives from several school unions within the Quincy Educational Association held a rally in the Vocational High School parking lot before marching to testify at the regular school committee meeting.

"I'm impressed. It's better than I had anticipated," said Walsh as he led a parade of marching supporters, which numbered about 700, according to police.

The negotiating team received roaring applause while entering the auditorium, which was jammed during the meeting's 15-minute open forum.

"We want to avoid a confrontation. Our politeness might be mistaken for weakness. We're not weak people," said Walsh, the first of several speakers heard by the committee.

"Labor problems don't result from money problems," said Walsh, adding that teachers' salaries are a question of respect, appreciation and fair treatment. "A few dollars here and there is not the matter," he said.

Union officials won't disclose how much of a pay raise they're demanding, however before the tentative pact was signed, Walsh said "Braintree got a 6.5 per cent increase and I think we'd be happy to get that."

"We love our work and we expect to receive what we think is fair in comparison to other communities on the South Shore," Walsh told the School Committee.

Revs. Peter, Alicia Corea Mark 40th Anniversary In Team Ministry

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Towards the beginning of the team ministry which she has shared with her husband at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, the Rev. Alicia Corea came in contact with a woman unfamiliar with female ministers.

"She said she expected me to be struck dead for speaking in public," said the Rev. Mrs. Corea with a smile.

"I think she came to church to see if it would happen," she laughed.

Not only didn't it happen, but Rev. Mrs. Corea and her husband, the Rev. Dr. Peter Corea, will celebrate the 40th anniversary of their team ministry Sept. 25.

No large celebration is planned, according to the Coreas who noted that festivities were held five years ago for their 34th anniversary.

"When I first came here in September 1947, the salary was $24. a week," she remembered Rev. Dr. Corea, who was ordained in December of that year.

"We had planned to stay here for three or four years, while I did my doctoral work," he said. "But we got deeper and deeper involved with the church."

The Coreas estimated that they have conducted 6,240 services of worship, 420 marriages, 400 baptisms and 2,000 funerals during their team ministry.

"We have married and buried people who are not just Protestants," noted Rev. Dr. Corea. "We try to be people-oriented, rather than doctrinally-bound.

"We're very active in the ecumenical movement."

They have also spent 41,600 hours counseling, they said.

Church membership has grown from 175 to 500 according to the Coreas.

"This was a community of summer homes," said the Rev. Dr. Corea, "gradually, the community stabilized."

"We married June 1, 1946 in the middle of the semester," said Rev. Mrs. Corea."

"My grades went up," she laughed.

"He graduated in 1947, but I had another year to go and graduated in 1948.

"I was the only woman in my class to become a minister.

"I had thought I would be a pastor to students on campus, but I got involved in the seminary and studied Scripture," she said.

With the encouragement of one of her professors, she went on to become a minister and was ordained in 1949.

"I had first thought I'd be a journalist," remembered Rev. Mrs. Corea, the former Alicia Coffin of Maine.

The local church voted to call her as minister at Houghs Neck Congregational.

"I felt well-accepted from the start," she said.

"Scholarships and team ministry started with us at Houghs Neck Congregational Church," said Rev. Mrs. Corea.

"We set up a scholarship fund 30 years ago, and $120,000 has been spent to help over 100 young people go to college," he said.

"A lot happened during the first years here," said Rev. Dr. Corea.

"When we first came here, there was a $10,000 mortgages," Rev. Dr. Corea said. "Now the church is debt-free, and we have $100,000 in capital assets."

Other achievements in which they take pride are the installation of air conditioning in the church, an elevator for the handicapped, digital organ and news with "theatre-type" cushioned seats.

They are also proud of the 15 Connick stained-glass windows which have been installed in the church. Four more are planned.

Another source of pride is their son, William, now 35, a research geologist with Chevron who lives in Houston with his wife, Patty.

An elder in the Presbyterian Church, he preached a sermon at Houghs Neck Congregational the last time he was in the area.

"He experienced everything growing up," said Rev. Dr. Corea. "We showed him life and death. Our son saw a lot about life."

"He also had a lot of TV dinners," said Rev. Mrs. Corea with a smile.

Rev. Dr. Corea said that he and his wife love to work together.

"There is an infinite amount of understanding, and we have tremendous mutual respect for each other's work," he said

"We are in agreement on the major issues in life, and that helps a lot," said Rev. Mrs. Corea.

Generally, each leads one of the two Sunday services.

"His sermons are more intellectual," said Rev. Mrs. Corea. "Mine are more historical or personal."

A native of Boston, Rev. Dr. Corea was a member of the Quincy Housing Authority for 12 years during which time $25 million was spent for construction of housing for the elderly.

"The best place to put money is for housing for the elderly," he said. "They deserve to pass out their remaining years in security.

"It also liberates units for families."

He has also served on the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers for eight years.

"If we continue with Hospital Corporation of America, we can have one of the best hospitals in the country," said Rev. Dr. Corea.

Past president of the Protestant Social Service Bureau, he also has taught psychology for 25 years at Emerson College where he is chairman of that department.

Rev. Dr. Corea has also taught at such institutions as Boston University, the evening division of Harvard

War Bond Drives Top $7.8 Million

Sept. 23-29, 1943

44 Years Ago

"This is the 656th day of the war! Make it count!"

The admonition was issued by the Women's Division of the Municipal Defense Council of Quincy as the city launched a massive drive to sell war bonds.

The Quincy Theater presented a special showing of "So Proudly We Hail," starring Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard and Veronica Lake, with admission gained only by purchase of a war bond. No tickets.

The Fore River Apprentices, coached by Ernie Cislaghi, upset the 181st Infantry team from Camp Hingham, 12-0, at Municipal Stadium before a Sunday afternoon crowd that received two tickets for each war bond bought.

The grand climax was a war bond auction, sponsored by the Quincy Merchants Association in the Stadium, featuring the Squantum Naval Air Base band, entertainers Hum and Strum and vaudeville acts direct from Morey Pearl's Popeye.

It attracted 3,500 people who pledged more than half a million dollars and boosted Quincy over the top in its drive to sell $7,850,000 worth of war bonds.

Turkey Beef Meatballs
A Little Different Flavor

During that rainy Sunday, when an event we were supposed to attend go postponed, and my plans for an easy Sunday diminishing, I had to cook Sunday dinner after all.

At the market I noticed some ground turkey and decided to mix some with a little ground beef for the meatballs and the sauce I was planning to cook.

When I arrived home, my husband was making his famous potato gnocchis so half my job of cooking was done. Lucky me!

Here is the recipe which can also be made without the beef. It's a different flavor and one everyone seemed to enjoy.

TURKEY BEEF MEATBALLS
1 pound of turkey (ground)
half pound of ground beef (optional)
2 eggs
2 cups seasoned bread crumbs
salt and pepper to taste
a sprinkle of grated cheese
a little water if mixture seems to dry

In a large bowl, beat the eggs and add the bread crumbs. Add the meat and other ingredients and mix until well blended. Place the meatballs in a greased shallow plan and bake in 350 degree oven for about 15 minutes. Add them to the already bubbling sauce. The gnocchis came out great and so did the meatballs. And not one person said "Where's the Beef!"

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.

Susan McGregor Installed Emblem District Deputy

District 8 covers Quincy, Norwood, Attleboro, North Attleboro, Franklin and Mansfield Emblem Clubs. Fifteen members of the Quincy Emblem Club led by president Marilyn Alcott, attended the convention along with seven members of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

At the business session state past president and also a past president of Quincy Emblem Club, Dorothy Mateik, was presented a gold seal certificate in recognition of outstanding achievement for her press reportings to the national magazine "Emblem Topics."

There were 1400 Emblem Club members attending the convention from all parts of the United States. It was reported at convention that $3,200,000 was donated to charity by the 386 active clubs throughout the country with a total of 40,000 members. Fifty-four thousand dollars in scholarships were presented from the Supreme Emblem Club at the convention.

The newly elected supreme president is Nadine St. Martin of Long Beach, Calif. The site for the 1988 convention will be Honolulu, Hawaii at the Hilton Hawaiian Village on Waikiki Beach.

The first quarterly meeting of the Mass. state association will be held Sunday, Sept. 20 at the Springfield Lodge of Elks.

(Cont'd from Page 5)

University, and at Quincy Junior College.

He has been involved in Quincy's political scene.

Rev. Mrs. Corea is a member of the Quincy Council on Aging, clerk of the board of supervisors at the Woodward School, and conducts worship services for senior citizens at Sawyer and Tobin Towers.

She also cares for her elderly mother.

Among the moments which shine in her memory are Thanksgiving ecumenical services, which she promotes, and Christmas Eve services.

Rev. Dr. Corea particularly remembers a memorial service held at the parsonage for his mother. He served the Protestants and a Catholic priest, the Rev. Gene Boyle, served the Catholics.

"We shared the most profoundly ecumenical service," he said.

In the ecumenical spirit, Rev. Dr. Corea has suggested to legislators that two places be designated for the clergy on marriage certificates, rather than just one, for joint ceremonies.

"Unquestionably, it's been a good 40 years," said Rev. Mrs. Corea.

"We have mended lives, taken people through their darkest hours, and shared their happiest points, such as the birth of a child," Rev. Dr. Corea said.

Their future plans include landscaping the grounds, and involving more people in the church.

Will they be at Houghs Neck Congregational Church for another 40 years.

"Sure we will," answered Rev. Mrs. Corea without hesitation.

Stress Management Course At Quincy Hospital

A free "Systematic Stress Management" course will be introduced Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 7 p.m. at Quincy City Hospital, 120 Whitwell St.

Participants will learn a "systematic technology" designed to prevent and minimize all types of stress.

Specific topics will include how to identify the cause of stress, how to relax and mind and body, and how to recognize self-defeating thoughts while replacing them with realistic, relaxing beliefs.

Mary Ryan, R.N. will direct the program.

"Lord, Tell Me Your Plans" will be the subject of the sermon by the Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern at Wollaston Congregational Church at 10 a.m. service Sunday.

Lay scripture reader will be Linda Walker.

Ushers for the morning service will be Keith Nickerson and Joseph Sandahl. Greeters will be Gilda Knowles and Irene Olson and the acolyte Tarey L. Towle.

The choir, under the direction of organist, Donald Reade, will sing the anthem, "Psalm 42," an Appalachian folk melody and for the offertory, "At The Name of Jesus" arranged by R.V. Williams.

Following the service the discussion group "Sermon Reflections" will meet to discuss the morning's scripture lesson and their impressions, understandings and reactions to the sermon.

The Youth Fellowship invite anyone interested to join them at the church at 1 p.m. Sunday to go on an "Apple Picking Party."

A retreat will be held at the Craigville Conference Center on Sept. 25 and 26.

Nursery care for preschoolers is provided during the service and church school will be from 10 to 11 a.m. for grades 1-12.

'People Who Don't Like Preachers' Faith Lutheran Topic

"For People Who Don't Like Preachers" will be the topic of the worship service Sunday, Sept. 27, at 10 a.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite Ave.

All are welcome.

Adult and children's Sunday School will be held at 9 a.m.

Coffee and fellowship will follow the worship service.

The church will hold a Fall Fellowship Feast starting at 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m.

The potluck feast will be a celebration and renewal of the Christian family after the summer holiday, according to the church.

All are welcome.

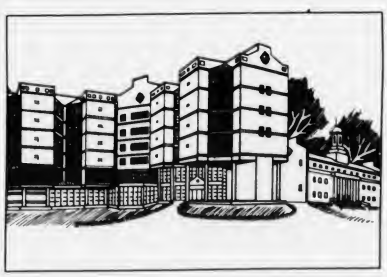
Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In these modern times few people fail to give thought to the future. In matters such as wills, insurance, property and investments families know the importance of preparing for the future. This is why many families wish to discuss funeral arrangements in advance.

Many times the necessity of making immediate decisions and handling the many details can only add sorrow of a death of a loved one. Funeral pre-planning and pre-financing can ease the burdens of decisions and concern of the family in their time of need.

We at the Deware Funeral Home offer complete information on pre-arrangements and pre-financing plans. We are available at any time ... at any hour ... to be of instant help and service to you. We can and will give you counsel and guidance, with no obligation, of course ...

Free Blood Sugar Screenings At Hospital

From 9:30 a.m. to noon, the team will be available at Sawyer Towers on Martensen St. in Quincy; and again at the Louis George Village at 95 Martensen St. from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

The screening consists of a blood test by simple finger stick. Fasting is not required before the test and blood sugar results are available in two minutes.

Recent screenings throughout the community have been most successful in identifying persons with elevations in blood sugar, so that they might be referred to their physicians for treatment.

The program is under the direction of Arleen Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., certified Diabetes Educator and Kathleen Zagrodny, R.D., registered dietician at the hospital, who will be available to perform the test and answer questions.

For more information on this or any of the Diabetes Education Programs at Quincy City Hospital, contact Mrs. Ferretti at 773-6100 ext. 3029.

How To Protect Children

Teaching Children Safety Rules:

Talking to children about certain dangers to their personal safety makes many adults uneasy. It's difficult and painful to acknowledge that there are people around who want to harm children. And some safety rules you'll teach your children may seem to contradict other values, like being polite and obeying adults.

Children have the right to know about potential threats to their safety, and what to do if they find themselves in trouble. Some basic knowledge will increase their confidence and self-reliance. And you'll feel better knowing that they know how to cope when you're not around. And more and more kids today spend time at home and at play alone while their parents are at work.

"Rule Number One for any adult caring for very young children: Never leave them alone at home, in a car, or in any public area. Not even for a minute!"

It is very important, when teaching children personal safety and caution, that they don't become overly frightened. So, never present too much information at once; young children can't absorb a lot at one time. Children should know, of course, that the reason for learning and following safety rules is because they're loved. Rules should not be seen as arbitrary and adults should take care to be consistent with the rules they teach, and practice what they preach.

Next Week: Teaching children how to spot trouble and be alert for strangers.

A SPECIAL SECTION

It All Began On Sept. 13, 1947

For the record, WJDA's official birthday is 6 a.m., Sept. 13.

It was at that hour in 1947 that the late James D. Asher and Joseph Tobin of Weymouth pushed the button that put WJDA on the air for the very first time.

Most of WJDA's listeners know that the station's call letters are Asher's initials.

They were among several possible call letters submitted to the FCC which selected WJDA.

A YOUNG James D. Asher (left) and Joseph Tobin co-founders of WJDA pushed the button to put the station on the air Sept. 13, 1947.

Asher, who settled in Weymouth, was born in Kansas. He became acquainted with the South Shore area while serving in the Army at Fort Devens and later working as a salesman at Remick's.

BIRTHPLACE -- WJDA was bron Sept. 13, 1947 in this modest building on Brackett St., Quincy. It came down to make room for the new station headquarters behind it. This area is now the parking lot.

THE MODERN HOME of WJDA today on Bracket St., Quincy is just behind the original location which was razed to make room for a parking area.

'13' A Lucky Charm

Asher's Success Formula: 'We're A Family Station'

JIM ASHER, founder of WJDA, also originated the popular early morning program "Breakfast With JDA." In the early days Asher had a sidekick, Belinda, the cow, who was often heard but never seen. The program also featured stirring marches to help get you out of bed.

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Jim Asher certainly wasn't the superstitious type. It was Sept. 13, a date few people would pick to launch a new business and future on.

It was 1947 and really a gamble.

But Asher didn't even cross his fingers when he and Joe Tobin signed Quincy radio station WJDA on the air (at 1300) that morning at 6 a.m.

They had $130 (that number again) in the bank and a lot of hope.

In the 40 years since, WJDA has come a long way from a modest beginning in a small wooden building on Brackett St. to a modern broadcasting facility on the same site which opened in 1967, the station's 20th year.

Not bad, considering some of the so-called experts around Quincy were predicting back in 1947 that WJDA wouldn't last six months.

Quincy was too small and too close to Boston for a station of its own, they argued.

But they were as wrong as the guys who laughed at the Wright Brothers and at Henry Ford's first Tin Lizzy.

WJDA has become one of the most successful radio stations in the country.

It's success formula was probably pinpointed by Asher many years ago when he observed: "We're a family station."

For one thing, WJDA's policy has long been not to mention suicide as a cause in local deaths.

"We're not concerned with the person who takes his own life," Asher once explained, "but we are concerned with the family he leaves behind."

The station doesn't play hard rock 'n roll. It serves up a variety of big band, country music, show tunes, and a dash of soft rock.

The station covers Quincy and South Shore spot news, local government, social, fraternal, civic and community organizations.

It also has staff cars with mobile broadcasting units for on-the-spot news coverage of big news stories.

Asher and Kenneth Fallon, who was the commercial manager, teamed in one of the station's big scoops in the 1950's. From mobile units they covered the chase of a Quincy bank robber and broadcast an eye-witness account of a police officer gunning him down on a golf course.

And with the Associated Press news wire and audio service, WJDA keeps an eye on the rest of the nation, the world and "outer space."

Its microphones have been to national political conventions, the Korean battlefront, Geneva Conference, inside Russia and to the Near East and out to sea.

The station's call letters as most listeners probably are aware, stand for Asher's initials: James D. Asher. (The D is for Dudley).

But few probably know that Asher was once a clothing salesman at Filene's in Boston and was general manager at Remick's from 1936 to 1938.

During World War II, he was stationed as a warrant officer at Fort Devens.

That's how he became acquainted with Quincy after leaving his native Lawrence, Kans.

"I always liked Quincy and thought it had tremendous possibilities," he said.

So he and Joe Tobin of Weymouth, got together and Quincy got a radio station.

Asher originated and hosted the popular "Breakfast With JDA" program featuring small talk such as how John (Zep) Duane founder of the Quincy wrecking company, was doing in cribbage competition, chatting on the air with early chief engineer Fred Lane and Belinda the cow who was frequently heard but never seen. In between he played stirring Sousa marches to help get people out of bed.

Another early popular program was Mary Johnson's "Stork Club" reporting the latest births at Quincy, South Shore and Milton Hospitals.

WJDA has a prominent alumni. Many who got their start here have gone on to become well known names in broadcasting and other fields.

Former high school football sportscaster Ken Coleman, who grew up in North Quincy is now the radio "Voice of the Red Sox."

The station's first weather forecaster was Don Kent, who was then known as Don Dixon, and went on to WBZ radio and television.

Another Don Dixon was Dr. Richard Reed who later became professor of meteorology at Washington State University. And, Dr. Thomas Malone became chief meteorologist for the Traveler's Insurance Co. of Hartford.

An early sportscaster, Bob Gallagher of Quincy, became the "Voice of the Miami Dolphins." Former news editor Bill Edwards went to NBC's "Monitor" radio program. Don LaTullipe joined WEZE and is now at WRKO.

And to WJDA from other stations came popular radio personalities such as Jerry Howard (WBZ-WEEI), Bob Rissling (WBZ) and Nelson Bragge (WBZ-TV).

There are two second generations represented at WJDA today: James (Jay) Asher who took over when his father died in 1973 and announcer Bill Coleman, son of Ken, and nephew of the late Bill Coleman who was also with WJDA before doing gasoline commercials on the Red Sox telecasts.

The number 13 has figured prominently with WJDA and the Ashers--father and son--since 1947.

His auto registration was K-1313 and his wife, Ruth's, was H-1313.

The K-1313 auto registration is now Jay's. He also has the boat and that 1300 registration. Jay's sister, Joan, has their mother's H-1313 registration. Their mother died a short while ago.

Jay's home telephone is 331-1300.

Does he consider it a lucky charm like his father did?

"Yes," he says, noting that he married his wife, Terry, a pretty flight attendant for American Airlines on Feb. 13, 1971.

It should be interested to look in on WJDA again, say in the year 2000.

That's 13 years from now.

Jim Asher

(The following editorial tribute to James D. Asher, founder of radio station WJDA, appeared in The Quincy Sun June 7, 1973 following his death.

Most men don't get to really see their dreams come true. But he did.

While doing graduate work at the Harvard University School of Business Administration, the young Kansas native became acquainted with the Boston area.

And in the late 1930's, he was a clothing salesman in Boston and here at a Quincy store.

He thought the Quincy area had good business potential. But instead of opening up a clothing store he decided to try a radio station.

He had a fascination for the No. 13. So on Sept. 13, 1947, WJDA went on the air--at 1300--on the dial.

"We had about $130 (that number again) in the bank and a lot of hope," he once recalled.

He didn't know much about radio. But he was willing to try.

And he ignored some of the so-called experts who were predicting WJDA wouldn't last six months. Quincy was too small and too close to Boston for a station of its own, they insisted.

What they didn't take into consideration was Jim's drive and determination. He made it. Today, the station that couldn't last is in its 26th year and one of the most successful in the nation.

Jim's dry wit and his homey broadcasting style made getting up early a must for many listeners in the area. During his "Breakfast With JDA" from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. (until his illness in 1972) Jim's listeners got such inside low down on the latest cribbage match with John (Zep) Duane or what Freddy Lane in the control room was doing for excitement, or they chuckled over Belinda, the mooing cow, who sounded so real people wanted to know how much hay she ate.

Jim, people have said, was a success in life.

But he was much more than that. He was a success as a human being.

True, he was a sharp businessman who could be tough when needed. But he was a good family man, a square shooter who believed in fair play, and was always ready to offer a helping hand.

Jim, for an example, was an inspiration to us in founding The Quincy Sun.

Our decision to bring a community-oriented weekly newspaper to Quincy was made with the realization that he had blazed the trail before us. He had proved there was room here for a radio station. We both thought there was now room here for a weekly newspaper, too.

Jim offered us encouragement before and after we started The Sun. He did this despite the fact that we were going to cut into the existing advertising dollar in the area.

That didn't bother him.

He went out of his way many times to "plug" The Sun on the air quoting excerpts or asking, "Did you see that item in The Sun? His frequent mentioning of us helped make many people aware of the fact that there was another newspaper in town.

We will always be grateful to Jim for his kindness to us. He was a good friend.

The Quincy-South Shore area has also lost a good friend. Both he and WJDA have been active in many civic causes.

Jim is gone, but he leaves his radio station as a legacy for us all.

The station's call letters WJDA, of course, are his initials--James Dudley Asher. Many people will remember him that way.

But having his own initials for call letters didn't impress him that much. In fact, it was only one of several submitted to the FCC for approval. They gave WJDA the green light.

What he was really proud of was what he once told us: "We're a family station."

Men like Jim Asher don't come this way very often. Quincy is indeed fortunate that he did.

So long, Jim

'Voice Of Red Sox'

Ken Coleman Proud Member Of WJDA Alumni

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Ken Coleman, radio "Voice of the Red Sox" is a proud member of WJDA's alumni.

A North Quincy native, Coleman was doing high school football games on WJDA in 1950 when he got a break that moved him on to broadcasting's "big time."

He was doing the Weymouth-Brockton football game that year.

And, Bill Cunningham, the late Boston Herald columnist and sportswriter, decided to pass up the local college games that day and cover the Weymouth-Brockton game, too.

It was a good choice. The game turned out to be one of the greatest ever played in this area. Weymouth won.

But Coleman became a big winner, too, thanks to his own talent, and fate that brought Cunningham to his radio booth instead of to the press box at Weymouth's Legion Field.

Coleman's son, Bill, who is following in his father's footsteps at WJDA, recently interviewed him as part of the station's 40th anniversary celebration.

"The first real break that I got in the business in terms of moving along where I wound up a broadcaster for the Cleveland Browns came in 1950," he recalled.

"College football at that time wasn't doing well in Boston. There were not that many good teams around.

"That year they changed the radio booth so that it was glass enclosed and otherwise he (Cunningham) wouldn't have heard me because we didn't have earphones.

"He sat in and he did color with me."

"The next day he was nice enough to say in his column that the description of the football game between Brockton and Weymouth was the most accurate that he had ever heard.

"That was part of how I wound up two years later doing the Cleveland Browns football games for 14 seasons," he said.

Among those at that game that day was a young man from Brockton who was offered a ride home after the game.

"No, thanks," he said, "I think I'll just jog home."

His name: Rocky Marciano.

"It was always a thrill for me to do high school football on the South Shore," Coleman says.

It was Christmas Day, 1947 when Coleman first appeared on the air at WJDA. From the beginning, he was involved in a variety of programs, including "Flying Discs," "Stump the Staff," "Battle of the Baritones," and the "1300 Man."

"1300 Man" consisted of a recorded message of an unidentified but well-known South Shore figure.

Each day, a rhyming clue was played over the air to help listeners identify the mystery voice. Anyone who called with the correct answer was given a monetary prize. The longer it took to identify the voice, the more money a caller received.

"The fact that we had the opportunity of doing just about everything imaginable right from the beginning is one of the reasons why WJDA has become one of the most successful daytime radio stations in America. The whole thing was serving the local community on the South Shore with tremendous news coverage," Coleman said.

"It was probably the most fun that I ever had in all the years that I've done radio because we felt very much a part of something that was growing and has, of course, become a truly great radio station in the area that it serves.

"It does the job that a small radio station to supposed to do."

As an example of a funny and memorable moment during his carrer at WJDA, Coleman recalled the time of a ship-launching at Fore River.

The sponsor who was to christen the ship with a bottle of champagne couldn't break the bottle.

"She must have tried at least 10 times and I tried to explain it," he said.

Coleman's starting salary 40 years ago was $25. a week. He, along with founders Jim Asher and Joe Tobin and others like Bill Edwards, worked seven days a week from 8 a.m. to sign off.

After the Weymouth-Brockton broadcast in 1950, Coleman was offered a position at WNEB in Worcester.

Two years later in 1952 Coleman began broadcasting Cleveland Browns games and then Cleveland Indian baseball games in 1954.

Coleman stayed in Cleveland until 1966 when he came to Boston. He broadcasted Red Sox games from 1966 to 1975. He returned to the Fenway booth in 19798 where he continues to be the "Voice of the Boston Red Sox."

There is little doubt that WJDA played a significant role in Coleman's career. And 40 years later, Coleman fondly remembers his days at the Quincy station.

"It was a terrific experience. I just loved it."

Don Kent Started Career With Hurricane

DON KENT

You might say Don Kent started his weather broadcasting career in a fitting manner: with a hurricane.

But it took a few years for listeners to know who he really was.

It was back in September, 1947 and WJDA had been on the air a scant week and things were pretty hectic.

There really was no regular programming. Stating co-founders Jim Asher and Joe Tobin were trying to come up with a few good ones in addition to doing other little chores like trying to find some advertising sponsors.

On one of those early days, Asher called at the Kent rug outlet on Quincy Shore Drive hoping to lane it as an advertiser.

"No, we don't need any right now, "Roger Kent told Asher.

There weren't many rugs around to sell in those days. Production had stopped during World War II and stores still had trouble stocking rugs.

"My brother's pretty good at forecasting the weather," Roger added, "in case you're looking for a weatherman."

Asher wasn't looking for one that very moment. But a week later, a hurricane was brewing off Florida somewhere and Asher remembered what Roger had said.

So he and Tobin invited Don to come by the station. Next thing Kent knew, he was on the air talking about the hurricane.

"At that time," Kent recalls, "Jim and Joe were trying to get audience reaction to people and programs they were putting on the air.

Asher and Tobin decided to take him on as a regular on the newscasts.

But there was a slight problem. The sponsor happened to be Sheridan's store in downtown Quincy which sold not oly furniture but rugs, too.

Sponsors were kind of hard to come by and Asher and Tobin didn't want to risk losing Sheridan's by having Don Kent, a competitor doing the weather on a program Sheridan's was paying for.

What to do?

Well, just a few minutes before Kent was to go on the air on a regular basis, he recalls, Tobin pulled the name "Don Dixon" out of the air.

Kent remained on WJDA as Don Dixon until he moved to WBZ radio in 1951. But he still couldn't be himself.

From then until 1955 he was "Weatherbee, the BZ Weatherman."

Finally, when he moved over to WBZ-TV, they let him be Don Kent and he became one of the most personable TV personalities in the New England area.

Kent retired from WBZ-TV in 1983 but continued doing weather spots on WBZ from his Weymouth home until 1985.

But, he really hasn't retired.

He's been doing the weather on various stations such as WQRC in Hyannis, WNEB in Worcester, WZID in Manchester, N.H. and WLNH in Laconia, N.H.

As he can still get excited over a snowstorm or a hurricane.

And, as Don Kent, himself.

--HENRY BOSWORTH

Starting At The Bottom

He began emptying waste baskets at the station when he was 12.

But he used to hang around the station with his father, the late James D. Asher, when he was younger and recalls the "candy covered candies" that were given as prizes in the early "Stump The Staff" quiz program.

Jay went to Harvard, joined the Army and returned to become general manager of WJDA's sister station, WESX in Salem.

He became president-treasurer of the parent Television and Radio Broadcasting Corp. when his father died in 1973.

VETERAN STAFFERS toasted WJDA's 30th anniversary in 1977 with a cup of coffee. From left, News Director Herb Fontaine, Win Bettinson who was then Program Director, Winnie Jarvelin, secretary to James (Jay) Asher, Roy Lind, then an announcer and John Nicolson of the advertising staff.

A Vital Link To Community

The Blizzard Of '78: WJDA's 'Finest Hour'

WJDA has put the accent on community service these past 40 years but it went far and above the call of duty during the Blizzard of '78.

It was in many respects, the station's "finest hour."

But it was more than an hour. It was several days. Several long days.

During most of that hectic period with the storm furiously lashing the coast, flooding streets and homes, smashing sea walls and burying the area under 27 inches of snow, WJDA was on the air with vital information.

It was the quickest--and for one day--the only means of communication between local officials and the public.

James (Jay) Asher and staffers Herb Fontaine, Win Bettinson, Charles Ross, John Nicholson, Roy Lind, Kenneth Fallon and Don Baird kept the vital information coming to snowed-in and/or flooded-out listeners. And, along with it appeals for equipment such as snowmobiles and four-wheel drive vehicles needed by Civil Defense.

The station stayed on after normal broadcasting hours two nights to keep the information flowing.

During the height of the storm, Feb. 7, WJDA showed its true grit--and dedication. That was when an abnormal high tide rolled over the insulator of the antenna at the transmitter in Germantown and knocked the station off the air for four hours.

After four hours of silence, Asher and his staff couldn't stand it any longer. Without really knowing if the water was still dangerously above or safely below the insulator, the decision was made to try to get back on the air.

As Asher recalls it:

"We got tired of sitting around so we turned on the power. It was a lucky shot. It worked but it could have burned everything out."

It could also have knocked Asher out of business.

Asher, son of WJDA founder James D. Asher and now president-treasurer of the station vividly recalled the "Blizzard of '78" in an interview with The Quincy Sun shortly after.

"It was like an adventure out of Star Wars," he recalled. "Going down Route 3-A in a blinding snowstorm, no cars, no lights, except every now and then an electrical transformer would short and there would be a brilliant blue flash."

It was 5:30 a.m. Tuesday, the day the blizzard struck, and the beginning of the most hectic days in the then 30-year history of the station.

Almost all the regular programming was cancelled in favor of emergency announcements during the critical days.

That Tuesday began at 3 a.m. for Asher when he got up to shovel out of his South Weymouth home.

He left the house at 5 a.m. He found Quincy Ave. closed and took the alternate route through North Weymouth which had taken on an eerie "Star Wars" look.

"I walked down Brackett St. thinking, 'Gee, if nobody else gets here it might be my announcing debut,'" said Asher, whose voice rarely is heard on the air. "I wondered what it would be like to be on the air all day."

Fortunately, Fontaine, the news director who lives in Merrymount, was already on hand. Quincy police, aware that the station would be needed in an emergency, drove him down.

Bill Malcolm, the early engineer, was totally snowed in but Don Baird was able to walk from his home around the corner.

Just as Asher arrived, so did John Nicolson from North Weymouth. Fallon from his home on Furnace Brook Parkway and Bettinson after a complicated police relay from Braintree.

Bettinson arranged with Braintree police to get him to Capen's Circle where Quincy police picked him up and took him to the Southern Artery end of Brackett St. Fallon and Nicolson walked and hitched rides on snow plows.

"They arrived like the cavalry landing," said Asher. "All different directions and methods."

WJDA went on the air as scheduled at 6 a.m. Tuesday, with Fontaine and Bettinson reading news bulletins and emergency announcements. Charles Ross was summoned from vacation and, as he arrived, the station went off the air.

Everything was fine until the incoming tide reached the insulator of the antenna in Germantown. No one was at the transmitter to see it but there were "bad readings" on the dials back at the studio.

"We figured if we were ever going to be on the air again during the storm we had better shut everything off and wait for the tide to go out," said Asher.

The trouble was you couldn't tell when the tide had fallen below the insulator so the staff spent the time calling people in Germantown and asking them if they could see the transmitter and would they please say how far the water was above the insulator.

"Finally," said Asher, "around 2 o'clock we got tired of sitting around so we turned on the power. It was a lucky shot. It worked but it could have burned everything out."

WJDA was on the air until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, two hours and 15 minutes beyond the time authorized by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

"There is a provision in the FCC regulations that you can stay on the air as long as the broadcast is limited to emergency information and there are no commercials," said Asher.

They used an open telephone line, like that on the daily Party Line program, and officials who called with information were put right on the air when they had something important to say.

"We just gave Win the name of the person on the phone, his title and where he was calling from and Win would take him right on the air," said Asher.

Life Begins At 40 As WJDA Looks To Future

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"They say life begins at 40, and it's true," said James D. Asher, Jr., president of WJDA Radio in Quincy which is celebrating its 40th birthday this month.

"I really feel good about the company and about the future," said Asher, who recently celebrated his 40th birthday as well.

Asher has reason to be optimistic as the station which covers the South Shore has consistently ranked in the top 20 in ratings of greater Boston radio stations of comparable size.

The 1000-watt station on Brackett St. was started Sept. 13, 1947 by Asher's late father, James D. Asher, whose initials were used for the call letters, and Joseph Tobin, who later left the station for New York in the early 1950s.

"My dad did public relations work in the Army, and that's the only real experience he had with radio," said Asher.

"But it wasn't unusual for a lot of people to be fascinated with radio in 1947.

"After the war, the Federal Communications Commission started accepting applications for licenses again. A lot of stations opened in 1947."

Asher said that his father did a little of everything at the station in the early days.

"He would wake up at 4:15 a.m. and do the morning program from 6 to 8 a.m., then he would sell ads. On weekends, he would be painting or emptying wastebaskets.

"He was here six days a week without fail, and sometimes a seventh when he needed to cover for someone who couldn't come to work," said Asher.

In 1952, WESX Radio in Salem was purchased as well.

The current WJDA building was constructed in the early 1960s to replace the original, smaller building where the parking lot is now located.

Asher remembers coming to the station as a young child with his father to work around the building at night and on Sundays.

But it was not until 1971 when his father's emphysema became more debilitating that he really joined the station.

"When you are born into a family with a family business you always know logically that you may play some role in it," he said. "But I might not have gone into the business full time if he had not been sick."

Asher left his job in Connecticut as a data processor and became executive vice president of WESX Radio in Salem.

It was also during that time that he married his wife, Terry, a flight attendant for American Airlines. They live in South Weymouth with their golden retriever, Princess Daisy from Mississippi.

His father died in 1973.

Asher said he has been lucky with his 35 to 40 staff members in Salem and Quincy.

"Anybody could have come in and run the stations," he said. "Everyone is so competent and dedicated."

A number of them are long-time employees such as news director Herb Fontaine and afternoon news director Joe Kenney who have been with the station for 32 years, he said.

Program director Roy Lind has been with WJDA for 26 years, announcer and sportscaster Charlie Ross, 14 years, and sales manager John Nicolson, 10 years, according to Asher. Win Bettinson, now part time, has been with the station for 25 years, he added.

Norm Durkee has been with the Salem station for 37 years, Asher said.

Other employees such as weatherman Don Kent and Ken Coleman, now the voice of the Red Sox, spent their early years at the station. Ken's son, Bill, now works at WJDA as an announcer.

"It's a fun business," said Asher. "There is a lot of hard work and the hours can be long and sometimes tense.

"But we try to have as much fun as we can, and to be as creative as we can."

Asher remembers the Blizzard of '78, when employees stayed overnight, as one of the most memorable of times.

"It was really an opportunity to help the community," he said.

"We really had a sense of serving people," said Asher.

In addition to dispensing information about local conditions, they also did a little "hand-holding" with listeners, he said.

"We spent a lot of time on the phone talking to people off the air who were cold and lonely.

was over, Nicolson made it home to North Weymouth on a snow plow and Ross and Baird walked. But Asher, Fontaine, Bettinson and Fallon stayed at the station overnight, sleeping on couches and air mattresses.

The next morning, Wednesday, Nicolson returned with a couple dozen eggs and Asher scrambled them for breakfast.

"We really ate well," said Asher. "The Quincy Sub Shop opened and they provided us with Greek salad and subs that night. I think I ate twice as much as I usually do during the two days."

The emergency broadcasts continued during Wednesday but the station was returning to normal. A bulldozer came down Brackett St. and cleared a passage of snow. A plow from Woodward's Spring Shop across the street made a pass through the station parking lot, opening room for a half dozen cars.

WJDA, of course, serves an area far larger than Quincy. For a time it was probably the only significant communication between hard-hit places like Hull and Scituate.

More than a week after the storm, the wife of Hull Selectman Simmie Hartstone called to tell Bettinson that power had been restored to another section of the beleaguered town.

"I don't know what we would have done without you," she told him. "While we were without lights, you were the only ones that kept us informed."

"We couldn't do anything to help them, except listen and try to reassure them."

During the blizzard, the station was on the air longer than its usual 6 a.m. to sunset because of the emergency situation, he noted.

Asher explained that the station signs off as night falls because of technical factors.

Radio waves travel father at night than during the day, he said, and the many stations at 1300 would receive interference if they all stayed on during the night, he said.

In the last year or two, WJDA has stayed on later at reduced power, he said, to 6 p.m. in the winter and 7 to 7:30 p.m. in the summer.

"I wouldn't be surprised if there was some expansion of hours in the next year or two," Asher said.

He added that the station also plans to convert to AM stereo which should result in improved quality of broadcasts.

As part of the birthday celebration, WJDA will award a week-long trip to Cancun at the end of the month. Entry blanks are available at participating businesses on the South Shore. Those interested in entering the contest may also send their name and address to the station.

As another part of the celebration, former on-air personalities such as Ells and Milly Rand have been visiting the station.

The couple conducted an informal, family-type program from 8:22 a.m. to 9 a.m. six days a week from 1948 to 1954. Their first son, Gary, born in 1950, was included in the program and viewers often sent him clothes and other gifts.

"We sang gospel music," said Mrs. Rand, who with her husband was a guest on a recent Party Line show at the station.

"We would also ring a bell at 8:30 a.m. during the week so that youngsters would go off to school.

"It feels just wonderful to be back," she said. "Like we've never been gone."

Asher is enthusiastic about the station's future.

"I really feel good about the company," he said.

"More than ever before, I'm looking forward to our 50th birthday, and having a great 10 more years at the station."

Presidents Face Tough Job At Brookline

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy football team's season got off to an inauspicious start last Saturday night when the Presidents kicked off to open the game and Cambridge Rindge and Latin's Mike Hartnett returned it 80 yards for a touchdown.

Cambridge continued to dominate the first half and took an 18-8 halftime lead and held on for a 24-16 victory in miserable weather at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy travels to Brookline Saturday and faces a tough assignment against the Indians at 1:30 p.m. at Northeastern's Parsons Field. Brookline walloped Wellesley, 41-14, in its opener last week. Last year Brookline won easily, 33-0.

Quincy was forced to kick off again to open the second half and, on the first play from scrimmage, Ramon Nieves raced 55 yards for a touchdown to put Cambridge ahead, 24-8.

Quincy had won the opening toss but decided to kick off. Cambridge had the choice in the second half and decided to receive.

"Outside of those two back-breakers, I think we outplayed them and we dominated the second half," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "Defensively we did well except for a few costly breakdowns. We have a lot of juniors on defense as well as in the offensive line.

"We are young and inexperienced and I was happy with the way the boys came back in the second half. After that long run after the kickoff, we held them to one first down and we had our chances to come back and maybe tie the game. I saw a lot of things I liked tonight and I think the kids will improve each week and we could pull a few surprises."

Raymer was pleased with the passing of junior quarterback Chris Noble, who completed 16 of 26 passes for 208 yards, both touchdowns and a conversion. Several passes were dropped and others barely missed connections.

"Considering the terrible conditions, I thought Chris did very well," the Presidents' coach said. "I think he is going to be a really good one."

Sean Munroe had five receptions, two for touchdowns, and Scott Logan, playing football for the first time, caught six including one for a two-point conversion.

Dave Nourse rushed for 65 yards and Ernie Light, the only senior in the backfield, had 22 yards. Quincy rushed for 87 yards, added 208 passing and had 12 first downs.

Quincy was driving on the ground late in the game, hoping to tie the score but, with fourth and one on Cambridge's 30, a long pass just missed connections. "I'll take the blame for that call," said Raymer. "I thought we had a first down and, when I realized we were a little bit short, I couldn't get the players' attention. I certainly would have rushed for the yard if I realized it was fourth down."

Offensively, Raymer hailed the performances of Frank Calabro, who went both ways, Noble, Munroe, Logan, Nourse, Light, Scott O'Brien, who had a big reception out of the backfield, Kerry Byrne, Paul Kikr, Mike Madden, Tom Bjork, a standout both ways, and Brian Norris, who also played well both ways.

Defensive coach John Taglieri was pleased with the play of the defense and had good words for Bjork, Norris, Todd and Jim Kimmell, Jay Dennett, Frank Ienello, Calabro, Sean Thompson, Craig Keefe, John Anacieto and Dan Hanley.

"The defense is young and made some mistakes, but I thought they all played well," Taglieri said. "There were a few breakdowns and they proved costly."

Following the 80-yard kickoff return to open the game, Quincy battled back as Noble hit Nourse for a 51-yard pass play to Cambridge's 19 and passed to Munroe in the end zone for the touchdown. On an end-around, Munroe went around the left side for the two-point conversion to give Quincy an 8-6 lead.

In the second quarter Noble was sacked and fumbled, with Cambridge recovering on the Presidents' 26. Two plays later quarterback Dennis Vigilante skirted left end for 20 yards and a touchdown.

Shortly after, Noble's pass was intercepted by Jamael Jean, who returned it to the Quincy 17. A pass from Matt Haggeman to Tony Wyzzard was good for 19 yards and a touchdown and Cambridge took an 18-8 lead off the field at the half.

Following the 55-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage in the second half, Quincy outplayed the winners the rest of the way as the defense bottled up the Cambridge attack.

The Presidents drove from midfield and, early in the fourth quarter, Noble hit Munroe in the end zone again for 12 yards. Noble passed to Logan for the two extra points and it was 24-16.

Following the fourth-down pass which just missed connections, Quincy held Cambridge and had one last chance when the Cambridge punter fumbled the pass from center and Quincy had the ball on the Cambridge 36.

Noble hit Logan for 10 yards but Cambridge dug in and held

CHRIS NOBLE, who had a good night for Quincy against Cambridge Rindge and Latin, goes back for a pass. Noble passed for both Quincy touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

North Girls Edge Cambridge

Junior Bridget Toland finished third and the North Quincy girls' cross-country team took six of the next seven places to edge Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 29-30, in the season's opener last week.

The Raiderettes met Brockton Tuesday and next Wednesday will run at Brookline at 3:30 p.m.

Toland's time was 16:46 over the 2.5-mile course. Karen Cashman placed fifth, Rachel Marshall sixth, Amanda Young seventh and Caryn Collings clinched the victory by finishing eighth. Joanne Moriarty was ninth and Colleen Toland 10th.

North Boys Shut Out

Boys' cross-country returned to North Quincy last week and the Raiders, lacking depth and experience, were shut out by Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-47.

The North boys faced Brockton Tuesday and will run at Brookline next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The Raiders' first finisher was George Gavros, who placed sixth in 14:40 over the 2.5-mile course.

Wilcox Defeats Columbare In Rain Plagued Tennis Tourney

The champions of the 17th annual All-Quincy Tennis Championship sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Co-operative Bank may be the best swimmers.

As was the case at Flushing Meadow, N.Y., at the U.S. Open, the at the Quincy Tennis Tournament has made the many players have to face another opponent this year, Mother Nature!

Rain delays, cancellations, and suspended matches have been commonplace this past week at the Vo-Tech tennis courts. In what has to be the best match of the tournament so far, Gary Wilcox took Ralph Columbare long into the misty night to defeat him 6-7, 6-2, 7-5 in a match that saw rallies going to 30 and 40 hits. Both played as if they were backboards all night. This was a match that you could truly say there was no loser. Wilcox moved into the round of 16 of the men's singles with the victory.

Mixed doubles action saw a seasoned veteran pair up with an upcoming star square off against a husband and wife team that proves harmony can be achieved on the court. Veteran Syd Skoler teamed with Michele Marks and played three great sets of tennis to defeat Bill Egan and his wife Barbara, 6-3,4-6, 7-6. Both teams displayed superb mixed doubles play and at times made this match look like a tennis clinic.

Until now most of the seeded players are right on track on their roads to the finals, but competition should be hot and heavy in the upcoming week. One story everyone will be watching this year is the comeback of two-time men's 50 and over champion Neil Cronin, who missed last year's tournament due to open-heart surgery, and looks very fit and determined to get back the title he feels belongs to him. Cronin over the years has been one of the best tennis players to ever grace the courts of Quincy and everyone is watching his comeback with great interest.

The oldest player in the tournament, Henry "The Master" McAullife, continues to amaze everyone again this year. Seventy-four years young, McAullife has reached the round of sixteen in the men's singles for the twelfth straight time in his career. Also playing in the men's 35 singles, men's 50 singles, and men's doubles, McAullife is without question, "The Master" of the Voc-Tech courts.

Action will continue every night at the Voc-Tech courts between the hours of 5:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. on the weekend. Co-sponsors the Granite Co-operative Bank and the Quincy Recreation Department invite you to come down and see some great tennis action.

Men's singles: Wayne Chatterton def. Frank Ruzzano 1-0, ret.; Leonard Ciavarro def. Gary Wilcox 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Joe Ryan def. John Kavanaugh 6-1, 6-4; Tom Savoie def. Rich Griffen 6-0, 6-0; Oscar Jara def. Joe Shea 6-2, 6-1.

Mixed doubles: Jara - Maloney def. Egan-Egan 6-2, 6-1; Skoler-Marks def. Kane-Kane 6-3, 4-6, 7-6; Nelson-Murray def. Shea - Shea 6-0, 6-0.

North Girls Win Three

In their first match the Raiderettes defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-1, 15-3, with middle hitter Dierdre Murphy controlling the net play. Jill Caldwell led the team's excellent back court play and setter Barbara Carroll played well, converting good defense into good offense.

North overpowered Weymouth North, 15-1, 15-1, in its second match. North's serving power was too much as Caldwell, Denise Marnell and Christine Venezia led the way serving.

North also defeated Waltham in straight games as Julie Detwiler and Debbie Panaro played well and Karen Reister played well on the net.

"Experience and depth are our strong points," said Coach Jim Rendle. "We are 3-0 and have played without two injured returning starters. Junior Holly Rendle, a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic last year, has a shoulder injury and Eileen Campbell, a regular from last year's South Sectional finalists, is out with a back injury. Holly is expected back this week but Eileen will be out a little longer."

Adding to North's depth are experienced players Robin Guilfoy, Angela Venezia and Teresa Gray.

North's junior varsity team also has a 3-0 record thanks to steady play from Janelle Nielson, Sharon Stark, Jodi Jones, Jillian Haynes, Shana Cobban and Kara Sullivan.

North Quincy played at Newton South yesterday (Wednesday), will host Boston Latin Friday at 3:30 and will play at Quincy Monday night with the junior varsity match at 5:30 and the varsity match at 7.

Jaehnig League To Open Sept. 28

The Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Basketball League will begin its second season next Monday, Sept. 28.

Eight teams are entered in the league which had been known as the Manet League. Most of the players are from Quincy. A 10-game schedule is planned with all games at the new St. Joseph's Nickerson Gym in Quincy Point at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. on Monday evenings.

The Mount, captained by league scoring champion Mark Millane, will try to defend its league championship, despite losing some key personnel.

Other teams are Quincy Nets, Jaehnig Club, Timmins Contracting, Elm St. University, Casey Club, Lower Mills, and the SMEDS.

Games are open to the public with no charge.

Leary, Toland Seen In Key Roles At Suffolk

The Suffolk University men's and women's cross-country teams got under way last week with two former North Quincy High runners expected to play key roles for the women.

Junior Meg Leary, the team's leading runner for the past two years and holder of a number of school records, will anchor the team. She finished high in the NCAA Division 3 regional meet last year.

Anne Toland is a promising freshman who saw considerable varsity action at North Quincy.

Slo Pitch Softball Benefit Tourney Starts Oct. 10

The 1987 South Shore Tournament of Champions men's and women's slo-pitch softball championships will be held Oct. 10, 11 and 12 at the Hingham High School field.

The tournament will be a double-elimination event featuring unlimited arc pitching. Substantial cash prizes will be awarded to the winners.

All proceeds will benefit Gail Rowe of Hingham, who lost three family members in a June fire.

Entry fee is $150 per team and entries close Oct. 1.

Rain dates are Oct. 17 and 18.

St. John's Basketball Registration Oct. 4

St. John's basketball registration for boys and girls ages eight to 18 will be held Sunday, Oct. 4, from noon to 1 p.m. in St. John's rectory hall.

First time registrants must bring a copy of their birth certificates. The fee is $25 per player and $60 maximum per family.

Koch Boys, Girls Bowling Starts Oct. 3

Koch Club bowling for boys and girls ages 6 to 14 will resume on Saturday, Oct. 3, at 9 a.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad St.

Registration will be held at the same time and place and all eligible boys and girls are welcome.

Youth Basketball Registration Oct. 3

Registration for the Quincy High School Youth Basketball Program will be held Saturday, Oct. 3, from 10a.m. to noon at the Vo-Tech gym.

The program is for boys in grades 6 to 8. Registration fee is $25.

Raiders Look For Second

North Quincy's football team hadn't beaten oldtime non-league rival Milton since 1981 when Dave Burke's last Raider team won, 3-0, on Bill Bradley's field goal.

Ken McPhee, in his sixth year as North coach, had seen his teams bow to the Wildcats five years in a row, including a 46-13 humiliation a year ago.

Last Saturday the Raiders visited Milton's spanking new field behind the Pierce Middle School and turned in a superb two-way performance to finally defeat Jack Bowes' Milton team, 26-7.

Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium North Quincy hosts Arlington, a 7-6 winner over Burlington last week, in a 7 p.m. game. Last year Arlington whipped the Raiders, 33-12.

"I can't tell you how happy this win makes me," said a jubilant McPhee. "The kids did a masterful job. The offense was outstanding and the defense was just tremendous. It was a long time coming and I'm the happiest man in the world."

Junior fullback Ryan Craig who gained 875 yards as a freshman, got off to a good start, carrying 16 times for 122 yards and a touchdown. Paul McCormack carried nine times for 89 yards and Billy MacDougall had a great two-way game, catching a pass for a touchdown, catching two other passes, intercepting two passes and doing an excellent job both ways. Quarterback Joe Mulvey was five for 15 for 118 yards and a touchdown and Dave Lawless, who was outstanding on defense, threw one pass for 13 yards and intercepted a pass.

North had 398 overall yards and had 13 first downs to five for Milton. North's defense was outstanding and the only Milton score came after a blocked punt.

"I told Ken that this was the best prepared and most spirited North team I'd ever seen for an opening game with Milton," said North assistant coach Pete Zoia, North's "Mr. Football" who starred on North Quincy's first three football teams back in the 1930s.

Singled out for their defensive efforts were Hogan, McNamara, Sean Darcy, Chris Mendes, Paul Jeffers, Ainsley, Craig, Lawless, B.J. Sylva, Shawn Clancy, Jackie Mullen, McCormack and MacDougall.

"This was just a great opening day win and should boost the boys' confidence," said McPhee. North had two touchdowns called back by penalties, which hurt North all day. McPhee will work to cut down on these penalties.

North kicked off to open the game and help the Wildcats. Milton punted from the end zone and North had the ball on Milton's 40. Craig and McCormack sparked a drive to the 16.

Lawless scored from there but the touchdown was nullified by a clipping penalty, which set the Raiders back to the 36. Milton held and on fourth and 15, North gambled but a pass was incomplete. Milton was forced to punt again and on the second play McCormack broke loose for 55 yards to the Wildcat 10. Lawless lost two but McCormack went 12 for the game's first touchdown. Steve Patch's kick for the extra point was no good.

Following another Milton punt, Mulvey hit MacDougall for 51 yards and a touchdown and the same combination clicked for the two-point conversion.

Milton started a drive which was halted by MacDougall's interception. North reached the Milton three-yard line on a 22-yard pass from Mulvey to MacDougall, but the Wildcats held and took over on its five. The score remained 14-0 at halftime.

Early in the third quarter Lawless, who did some excellent punting, had one blocked and Milton had the ball on North's 19. The Wildcats went on to score with Kevin Bligh, one of the few veterans on the team, scoring from the four. He also kicked the point to make it 14-7.

A 15-yard pass to MacDougall started North on another scoring drive and Craig carried three times in a row, scoring from the six. A rush for the points was stopped short.

Late in the game Lawless passed to Ainsley for 13 yards which put North on the Milton one and Lawless scored. Again the try for points failed.

--TOM SULLIVAN

Maloney Has Eye On Another Tufts Tennis Title

The Jumbos have won four straight New England Division 3 team championships.

Lynne will be aiming to add another title to Tufts' version of New England's "First Family of Tennis" this fall.

Between her sister Tracy (Class of 1984) and brother Phil (Class of 1985), the Maloneys have won six regional tennis crowns for Tufts.

Lynne teamed with Jennifer Pollack of Chappaqua, N.Y., to win a N.E. Division 3 doubles title last year. Phil won three singles championships and one doubles title and Tracy notched a N.E. Division 3 singles crown in 1983.

"We owe a lot to our father (Dr. Philip Maloney, a professor at Tufts Dental School), who had each of us on the courts when we could barely walk," said Lynne. "It's a big part of our family life." Her younger brother, Stephen, 16, is an up and coming tennis player at Thayer Academy.

North Girls Roll By Quincy, Brookline

Last year the North Quincy girls' soccer team had one of its best seasons with a 7-8-1 record and Coach Leo Donovan expects to improve on that record this fall with several returnees.

The Raiderettes are off to a fast start, defeating Brookline, 5-1, last Thursday and rolling over inexperienced and undermanned Quincy, 10-0, in their opener. Both were Suburban League games.

The North girls met Brockton yesterday (Wednesday) and will host Waltham next Tuesday at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field.

The Quincy girls played Waltham yesterday, host Bridgewater-Raynham today (Thursday) at 3:30 at O'Rourke and will be at Newton North next Tuesday.

In the victory over Brookline Karen Miller and Nancy Flukes each had two goals and Kellene Duffy had the other goal as the Raiderettes out-shot Brookline, 22-10. Miller also added an assist.

North had far too much experience and depth for Quincy, which has a new coach in Steve Metcalf. Several of the Quincy players were stepping on to a soccer field for the first time.

"It's still a learning experience for everyone involved," Metcalf said. "We have to start at square one, which is the basics of soccer."

Donovan and assistant Kevin were pleased with the North girls' showing.

"We are confident that we can improve on last year's mark," Donovan said. "Our scoring is spread out, we have good speed on the wings and Nancy Flukes and Karry Pistorino are dominating in the middle. That's where the strength of our team is."

Stacy Welch led the Raiderettes with three goals and Flukes and Kristin Drake had two each. Also scoring were freshman Tara Miles, sophomore Miller and senior Patti Feeney.

The score may not show it, but Lisa Mariani was outstanding in the Quincy goal and made several rapid-fire, diving saves.

"The funny thing is, she doesn't even want to play in goal," said Metcalf. "She's a natural striker with her speed, but she's the only one on the team who also can play in goal."

Quincy Boys Blanked By Malden, Medford

The Quincy boys' soccer team won only one game a year ago and Coach Charlie McLaughlin hopes to improve this fall.

However, the Presidents are off to a slow start, losing to Malden, 2-0, and to Medford, 5-0, in their openers against Greater Boston League foes.

Quincy played Revere yesterday (Wednesday) and will open its Suburban League season against North Quincy next Tuesday at 3:30 at the stadium field.

Last Thursday Tai Le and Mike Sopp gave Quincy several good scoring chances but the Presidents could not cash in.

Steve DeLeo and Jay Murphy scored for Medford in the first five minutes and would have won by a bigger score if it wasn't for the stellar play of goalie Pat O'Donnell, who had 22 saves.

Earlier in the week Quincy again was blanked despite the excellent performances by Sopp, Rick Morris and Danny Piccini. Goalies O'Donnell and Czarek Nalaskowski had 10 saves.

Tai Le, who had eight goals in limited varsity service last year, and Morris, who was sidelined with an ankle injury last season, are key men for the Presidents and other fine players are Piccini, Spencer Harris, O'Donnell, John Menz, Sopp and Nalaskowski.

"We are working a lot on offensive strategies, developing our corner kicks and looking for far more play in the offensive end," said McLaughlin.

North Boys Take Pair

North Quincy boys' soccer coach Jim McGuire expects to improve upon last year's record and the Raiders are off to a good start with wins in their first two games against Greater Boston League opponents.

The North boys opened with a 6-1 victory over Everett and last Thursday edged Malden, 3-2.

The Raiders faced Peabody yesterday (Wednesday) and next Tuesday will face Quincy at the stadium soccer field at 3:30 in their Suburban League opener.

McGuire has a fine goalie in freshman Pat O'Donoghue and Rick McCann is another excellent goalie. The co-captains are fullback Bill Santry and forward Bob Hubbard.

Other key players are Mike Dube, Banny Yee, Scott Rapetsis, Ed Walty, Paul Murphy, Lance Panaro, Mike Walsh, Paul Meen and Hiet Ngo.

"We'll go into more short passing and play more ball control," McGuire said. "Our kids can do a lot more because of our improved skill levels. We're hoping for vast improvement."

All the scoring came in the second half.

Yee put North ahead, but Malden answered with goals by Robbie Sciaudone and George Boukavalas. North's Hiet Ngo tied it for North, with Murphy assisting, setting the stage for Walty's winner.

Earlier in the week North scored five goals in the second half against Everett.

Murphy had two goals and Bill Wysocki, Walty, Scott MacDougall, Raptelis and Matt Giese had a goal each.

American Cablesystems Wins Advertising Awards

American Cablesystems Advertising, which sells and produces TV ads for local businesses in Massachusetts within the company's Massachusetts cable systems, has been honored for three local ads in the national Awards for Excellence in cable marketing competition.

Cablesystems Advertising won first prize with an ad it created for Hairplace One in Quincy; a finalist prize with its ad for the Institute for Savings in Newburyport, and a finalist prize with an ad for its own "Cable Video Store" home movie service in Newburyport.

The awards were presented recently in San Francisco by the National Cable Television Administration and Marketing Society and Cable Marketing magazine. There were 1,562 entries in various categories from cable operators and program networks across the country.

The Hairplace One spot, which won first prize for local commercials among small cable systems, was a music video featuring the salon's staff and dancers from the Spirit of Boston and Hanover High School. For American Cablesystems, James Liedtka was the sales manager. James Ladas of Quincy wrote, designed, produced and directed the spot. Robert Brennan of Quincy was the videographer/editor. Terry Gilda of Braintree arranged and performed the music. John Schumacher, a music teacher in the Hanover schools, was the choreographer.

The Institute for Savings spot, which won a finalist prize for local commercials among small cable systems, was a soft-sell pictorial featuring boats in Newburyport Harbor, music and ship's bells. For American Cablesystems, Michael J. Herbs designed, directed and produced the spot. Robert Brennan was the videographer, Brennan and Tom Fahey, the editors. Lynne A. Fiske was the account executive.

The Cable Video store spot, which won a finalist prize for television image advertising among small cable systems, simulated a movie premiere complete with Rolls Royce, "stars" emerging and a television "reporter." It was shot outside a home in Milton. American Cablesystems' marketing director in Newburyport was Keith Clougherty. Copywriters were James Ladas of Quincy and Donna Robertson of Milton. Robertson was director and producer. Art director and videographer was Robert Brennan of Quincy. Production coordinator was Robin Samora of Milton. Audio was handled by Peter Dwight of Scituate.

American Cablesystems, the 24th largest cable operator in the nation, won four other prizes in the awards for excellence in cable marketing competition, two for its Illinois systems and two for a California system.

WEEK OF: September 24, 1987.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're an excellent student, absorbing life's lessons. As a teacher, you tend to be impatient. Beautiful objects are important to you, but the coming months see you pursuing educational rather than materialistic goals. Some changes in career path may take place by the middle of 1988.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Watch out for a reckless streak that finds you saying "yes" when you should be saying "I'll think about it." Meeting people from diverse backgrounds makes this a social and educaitonal week.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Tensions ease, but only after you speak your mind. Partner may be in a surprisingly extravagant mood and eager to spoil you. Friend may be a little too curious over the weekend.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
Tryouts prove rewarding during this period, provided you're in shape both mentally and physically. Partner is more reliable and more understanding -- but also much busier than of late.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Friends arrive late and projects may be delayed, be prepared with puzzles, reading matter and the like. This is a good week for tackling detailed chores. Your promotional skills are sharp.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Mechanical abilities may be strong but don't tackle projects beyond your scope. Financial favor may be returned by Tuesday. Weigh all sides carefully before making career-related decision.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
Friend is willing to admit errors -- now it's up to you not to press the point. Advice coming your way needs careful evaluation. Your sense of justice prevails in community matter.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Leadership comes naturally to you, which is a blessing this week. Friends, coworkers and higherups look to you to take charge. Family misunderstanding clears by Tuesday.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Doubts clear regarding the motivations of a coworker or neighbor. Legal affairs require prompt and careful attention. You are able to interpret love-related symbols.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
Believing in yourself is the key if others are to believe in you. Communications improve thanks to your more positive approach. Love life is on a steadier footing.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Career pace quickens, while romance progresses gently but surely. You enjoy the limelight during the weekend. Financial housekeeping is important before you're swamped with still more paper.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Your enthusiasm for a new project heightens, but evaluate it thoroughly before making a financial commitment. You and partner share new interests. A public-speaking performance earns kudos.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
You're in the right place at the right time -- leading to gains in areas of career or education. Community interests appeal to you; see how many strings are attached.

BORN THIS WEEK
September 24th, composer Anthony Newley; 25th, actor Aldo Ray; 26th, actress Melissa Sue Anderson; 27th, actress Jayne Meadows; 28th, singer Olivia Newton-John; 29th, actress Madeline Kahn; 30th, singer Johnny Mathis.

'Teachers' Salaries A Question Of Respect

Turning out in support of the teachers were members from the city's school bus drivers union, who charge that they're paid 38 per cent lower than other towns with a population more than 16,000.

Ruth Mahoney, a spokeswoman for the 40-member union, told the committee that bus drivers have received the equivalent of a $3 raise over the past 13 years.

"Our wages are currently 30 per cent below the Department of Public Works' truck drivers ... and about 30 per cent below the persons who drive QDS maintenance trucks.

"The cargo we transport is far more precious than food trays, chairs, tables, desks and the like," said Mahoney, drawing supporting cheers and applause.

Also protesting low wages were school nurses, administrative aids and secretaries from municipal and school offices.

According to testimony, starting pay for a school nurse is $12,927 and the maximum salary, which entails 10 years of service, is $22,000. Union members say nurses earn 25 per cent less than teachers.

Most holy apostle, St. Jude. faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the Church honors and invokes you universally as the patron of hopeless cases, of things most despaired of. Pray for me. I am so helpless and alone. Make use I implore you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings, particularly --(here make your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be seperated from you and aven in spite of all material illusion I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted aven though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

Bargain Center Demolition Set For Oct. 27

The Bargain Center, a Quincy Square landmark for almost 50 years, is scheduled to be demolished Tuesday, Oct. 27, to make way for the $54 million Presidents' Place project, according to Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland.

"The developers intend to make it a gala event," said Councillor Toland.

Ricciardi Co. of Quincy is developing the project along with Campanelli Industries of Braintree and the Boston Five Cent Savings Bank.

Councillor Toland noted that the date has been scheduled assuming that all necessary permits are granted by the city.

The City Council voted Monday night to ratify the certificate of appropriateness by the Historic District Commission.

The certificates deal with the construction of Presidents' Place, landscaping, lighting and signs, according to Planning Director Richard Meade.

The last approval needed is from the Planning Board for a subdivision plan Oct. 14, Meade said.

He said he anticipated that the plan would be approved.

The council's action followed a meeting of the Downtown and Economic Development Committee, chaired by Councillor Toland.

During the meeting, committee members praised the project as well as Councillor Toland's efforts regarding Presidents' Place.

Montclair Men's Club Invites Nestor To Speak On Traffic Problem

The Montclair Men's Club approved a motion recently to invite Police Capt. Paul Nestor to address the group regarding a solution to excessive vehicular speeding and public safety problems.

Members of the club in good standing for at least six months, immediately prior to the Thursday, Oct. 1 regular meeting, who are seeking endorsement for public office are asked to appear at the meeting or request the endorsement by mail during the month of September.

The annual Florida Style Golf Tournament of the men's club was held at Presidents Golf Course. Winners were: Bob Cecchini, Dan Marriani, Chris Morrell and John Fisher. Longest drive: Morrell. Closest to pin: John Grey. Chairman was Rich Cecchini. The day concluded with a buffet in the men's club.

Progress on the club's 34th awards dinner is being made by chairman Joe Gildea and a report will be given at the October 1 meeting.

Sometimes, the best rates are easy to find.

Some people search far and wide to find the best available rate on a term certificate.

But people who bank at The Hibernia Savings Bank know that consistently great rates are always within easy reach. By choosing one of our 12 Term Certificates they guarantee a high rate, and get the safety of FDIC and DIFM insurance.

Of course, if you look long enough, you might be able to find a higher rate somewhere. But the chances of doing that would be truly astronomical.

'No Major Problem But . . .'

McCauley Names AIDS Education Task Force

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A 15-member AIDS Education Task Force has been formed by the mayor to educate local residents about the deadly disease.

"There is no major problem in the city," said McCauley. "But there is a lot of misinformation about AIDS.

"The task force's major function will be to get information out so that people will be educated about what the problems are.

"It's important that people know and understand the situation."

McCauley said that the task force's first meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 5, to coincide with AIDS Awareness Week in Massachusetts, sponsored by the State Department of Public Health.

Chairperson of the task force is Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue, who suggested its creation to the mayor after an informal meeting of a number of people in the community involved in health care and human services.

"We were interested in mobilizing people in the medical community, clergy, human services, and business community to meet the challenge of an effective AIDS information and prevention program for the people of Quincy," said Miss Gallahue.

"Hopefully, we will alleviate some confusion and fear among people if they know the facts," said Miss Gallahue.

The task force will also provide ongoing education to patient care providers, she said.

"There are lots of resources and individual programs now," she said.

The task force hopes to provide a referral system for those desiring testing and counseling, according to Miss Gallahue.

It would also like to support AIDS curriculum in the secondary schools, she said.

She noted that there are no AIDS cases in Quincy to her knowledge.

Communities such as Brockton, Worcester, and Andover have similar AIDS task forces, she said.

Miss Gallahue said that the case of a Florida family whose three AIDS-infected sons were greeted by hostility was a concern.

"We would like to do everything possible in a preventive nature to educate people," she said.

"If any community nearby had a similar situation, we would have people educated and knowledgeable about transmission and hopefully alleviate some of the concerns strongly voiced by the people in Florida," said Miss Gallahue.

The health commissioner said she expected the task force to meet about once a month.

She said she hopes to develop a training program by the first of the year.

"We have a very motivated committee," said Miss Gallahue. "We all want to work together. I can see a great deal of interest and motivation."

Probe Continues In Girl's Murder

No arrest has been made in connection with the weekend murder of a North Quincy High School junior as The Quincy Sun went to press.

The body of Susan Marie Paul, 16, of 15 Channing St., North Quincy, was found Sunday morning in a wooded area of Pageant Field, Merrymount, according to Police Capt. David Rowell, Chief of Detectives.

Cause of death was severe blows to the skull by a blunt instrument, a tire iron, according to Rowell.

He said that Miss Paul was reported missing early Sunday. She had last been seen between 2 and 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Rowell said.

Evidence was processed at the state lab and leads were being developed, he said. A male acquaintance of Miss Paul's was questioned by authorities.

The case is being investigated by the Quincy Police Detective Bureau and Norfolk County District Attorney's Office.

A funeral Mass for Miss Paul will be celebrated today (Thursday) at noon in Sacred Heart Church.

Miss Paul attended Sacred Heart School to the seventh grade and Atlantic Middle School.

She recently started a work-study job as a secretary at the Paramount Acceptance Agency in Quincy.

Miss Paul is survived by her parents, Ralph E. and Virginia (Nelson) Paul of North Quincy; two sisters, Jennifer Paul and Elizabeth Paul, both of North Quincy, and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Burial will be at Pine Hill Cemetery.

Visiting hours were Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the North Quincy High School Scholarship Fund.

McCauley, Nurses Leader Discuss Negotiations

The head of the Quincy City Hospital Nurses Association was scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) with the mayor to discuss contract negotiations with Hospital Corporation of America which runs the city-owned hospital.

"Sandy Eaton, chairman of the QCH Staff Nurses Chapter of the Massachusetts Nurses Association, asked to meet with me regarding negotiations," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"I can't negotiate - that's the function of the hospital.

"But I have been briefed by Hospital Corporation of America, and I will be glad to hear the nurses' side," he said.

The nurses, who have been working without a contract for the first time in 20 years, complained to the City Council last week about low pay and high stress.

Hospital director Mark Mundy agreed that the nurses should be paid more, but said the hospital's income is controlled by the government.

Four Taxi Licenses Stalled

By KRISTINE STRENGE

Four requests for taxicab licenses were stalled for two weeks by the License Board Tuesday morning at City Hall.

The board continued to Oct. 13, the request from three taxicab companies and one individual planning to start his own taxi service.

A total of 10 taxicab licenses were requested. Quincy Cab and Marina Bay Taxi Service both asked for four licenses and Shore Taxi, Inc. and Leo F. Lynch of Quincy each asked for one license.

Currently Quincy has 84 taxicab licenses issued to various companies, according to City Clerk John Gillis. However, due to recent state census, Quincy may issue four more licenses, he said.

Taxicab licenses are issued according to the population of the city, Gillis explained. He said that one license is issued per thousand residents.

Quincy Police Captain Paul Nestor, also a member of the board, requested that each taxicab company submit in writing how the companies service the city of Quincy.

Nestor said this will allow the board to see the service which each taxi company provides.

Keenan Excited After One-Vote Recount Win

"I'm very pleased and excited," said John Keenan after a recount by hand of Ward 5 preliminary election ballots gave him one of two nominations for that City Council seat in the November election.

Keenan had requested the recount after he lost the second nomination to Kevin Burke by only four votes.

Charles Phelan easily won the first nomination.

The recount brought Keenan's tally from 691 to 697, Burke's from 695 to 696. Phelan remained the same at 849.

JOHN KEENAN

"I never remember an election that was so close," said City Clerk John Gillis who added that he was surprised with the change in the results.

Gillis said that the recount cost the city about $800.

Four ballots were protested, one each by Keenan and Burke, and two were blanks.

Burke could protest the ballots to Superior Court, but indicated that he would not do so because the ballots protested by each candidate would probably cancel each other out.

"It was a good campaign on everyone's part," said Burke, "I'm happy and pleased to have been a part of the democratic process in Quincy."

Keenan said he was anxious to resume campaigning.

"We are anxious to go back on the streets," he said.

Coalition Endorses Spectacle Island For Sludge Facility

Sen. Paul Harold held a State House press conference Tuesday to announce formation of a coalition of officials to endorse Spectacle Island as the location for the Mass. Water Resource's Authority's sludge facility.

The officials are from communities identified as potential host communities, according to Harold.

"In the last couple of months," said Harold, "it has become apparent that we, who represent communities listed by the MWRA as potential sludge sites, share representation of communities concerned with the health and safety of its residents.

"Rather than fight among ourselves, it is better to agree on one site which will not impact a residential neighborhood or community.

"Based upon traffic, environmental and cost considerations, Spectacle Island makes the most sense. It has been a refuse area for almost a century.

"There is sufficient acreage, and it would not result in any disruptions as the other sites would."

"We've been asked repeatedly to suggest a constructive alternative," he said.

Harold was joined by Sen. Robert Buell (R-Boxford) and Rep. Margie Clapprood (D-Sharon) in making the announcement.

He said a meeting will be held in the next few weeks with officials from Quincy, Stoughton, Walpole, Ashland, Bedford, Wilmington, Lynn, Malden, and Winthrop.

"It will help minimize the town to town battle that has just begun with the whole (siting) process," said Harold.

Spectacle Island, which can only be reached by water, is owned by the City of Boston, according to Harold.

It is located in Boston Harbor off Deer Island, Winthrop, he said.

LaRaia Says City Should Consider Taking Shipyard

City Councillor Joseph J. La Raia says that the city should seriously consider taking the General Dynamics property by eminent domain.

LaRaia noted that he went on record as recommending this action last month.

LaRaia said that the General Dynamics property value would be contested before the city agreed to a fair value in acquiring the property. A Superior Court judge ruled that the yard was valued at $6.5 million in 1980 while it was operating and building ships, he said. "Now that it is closed with a padlock on its gates, the yard has been sold for $49 million," LaRaia said.

"He said there is the question of the cost of removing toxic waste at approximately $22 million which would alter the ultimate purchase price of that property. Councillor LaRaia believes that the property is worth much less than the amount of the negotiated sale with the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

Councillor LaRaia would lease a portion of the yard to the M.W.R.A. and consider the sale or lease of the existing portion for uses that would only benefit the city of Quincy. Those uses would include ship building and/or an industrial park or suitable alternatives.

The recent announcement by Cong. Brian Donnelly requesting that the yard be put on the Superfund priority list would further enhance the city's position in view of the responsibility of the federal authorities in assuming the cost of the cleanup of toxic waste, according to LaRaia.

He said the city could buy a great deal of time in going through the process of eminent domain and the required cleanup of toxic waste. It has time to recapture the shipyard for uses that are acceptable and beneficial, LaRaia said.

The move to acquire the property by eminent domain would deter the current prospects of seeing the yard utilized as a sludge or trash disposal facility to satisfy other community or regional needs.

"The eventual cost to local taxpayers for the cleanup of the Boston Harbor and the major expense associated with it will result in a double tax bill to real estate taxpayers in the city of Quincy," said LaRaia.

Permits Issued For 3.6 Million In Wiring

Quincy Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura reports that 118 permits were issued in August, generating $9782.50 in fees, for an estimated $3.6 million in wiring. Purpura attributed the figure to several major projects, including 20 new condominiums, a new hospital and a major office building at Crown Colony Place.

Officials performed 275 inspections in August, 16 reinspections and provided 55 certificates of approval to Massachusetts Electric Company.

According to the report 25 wiring defects were "noted" in various buildings.

McCauley Seeks $50,000 For Sidewalk Project

Mayor Francis McCauley said he will submit an order requesting the City Council to appropriate an additional $50,000 for sidewalk repair and reconstruction in the city.

Derbes Brothers of Quincy is presently completing sidewalk work financed by a $100,000 appropriation included in the FY 1988 Budget, McCauley said.

He noted that during the past several months he has received many requests from Quincy citizens for sidewalk repairs.

Tree roots are a major cause of sidewalk problems, according to Mayor McCauley.

McCauley said that the additional $50,000 will allow the completion of many more sidewalk projects before the 1987 program concludes in December.

During the past several years approximately $4,000,000 in state, city and federal funds have been spent on street and sidewalk work, Mayor McCauley said.

License Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Continued to Oct. 6, a request from Carlo Parthum of Quincy, for a one-day all alcoholic license for Friday, Oct. 30, at the President's Golf Course. Parthum plans to have a private Halloween party for family and friends. The board asked Parthum to provide information about the alcohol and food to be served at the party.
- Granted a request from North Quincy Knights of Columbus for a permit to conduct Tootsie Roll Canning Drive on Oct. 9, 10, and 11. Robert Melchin requested the license.
- Allowed Newport News, Inc., 299 Newport Ave., Wollaston, to withdraw without prejudice, a request for a wine and malt license.
- Granted a request from C & H Citgo, 9-11 Franklin St., Quincy for a new operator of the station, Fouad Alezibak.
- Granted a request from Most Blessed Sacrament Parish, 1000 Sea St., Quincy to resume its beano game on Fridays at 7 p.m.

Continued to Oct. 20, a request from the Quincy Lodge, Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., Quincy for the license board to reconsider their approval of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association, Inc., to hold its beano nights Thursday evenings at the Bryan VFW Post. Paul A.M. Hunt, attorney for the Sons of Italy, said that Quincy Youth Hockey Association will be in direct competition with the Sons of Italy beano which has been held on Thursday nights since beano was commenced within the city. The board requested that Quincy City Youth Hockey Association be present at the next hearing in all fairness.

Railroad Committee Meets

The Old Colony Railroad Citizens' Advisory Committee was scheduled to meet Wednesday, Sept. 30, at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy at 7 p.m.

The committee plans to review reports on the status and cost effectiveness of UMTA. Environmental consequences also will be examined.

For more information call the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at 471-1111.

City To Continue Court Fight Against Shipyard Purchase

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy's mayor said the city will continue its fight in court against the purchase of the entire General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard despite an agreement formalizing the purchase signed last week by the Mass. Water Resources Authority.

"We are all concerned about what they want to do with the rest of the yard," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

"What we don't want to see is a sludge treatment facility," he said.

"Obviously, we would like something of a private nature which would protect the tax rate as well as jobs."

Paul F. Levy, MWRA executive director, said that the yard will be used as a staging area for construction of the new water pollution-control plants to be built on Deer Island.

However, it has been estimated that the staging area would require only 35 to 50 acres of the 182-acre yard.

"The Quincy site is essential to MWRA's mandate to clean up Boston Harbor in that it contains the acreage and pier space necessary to conduct one of the largest and most difficult construction projects in state history," said Levy.

"The purchase of the shipyard is a major step forward towards the clean-up of Boston Harbor," added MWRA Chairman James S. Hoyte. "We will continue to make progress in resolving other difficult issues, including the siting of a sludge management facility."

Details of the purchase and sale agreement are as follows:

- The MWRA will purchase the 182-acre land, all associated buildings and equipment, and the Fore River Railroad for a price of $49.5 million.
- General Dynamics will be responsible for completing the cleanup of all hazardous materials found to date on the site, including oil, PCBs, etc.
- The MWRA will have six months to identify additional contaminants on the site, and General Dynamics will be responsible for cleaning up these materials according to industrial standards established by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Levy said there was a mutual effort by both General Dynamics and MWRA to make certain that hazardous waste at the Quincy Shipyard site will be removed.

"This agreement provides for an equitable sharing of cleaning responsibilities and costs," said Levy. "The ratepayers of the 43 communities in our service area will be protected from the costs of cleaning up known pollutants on the site."

"General Dynamics is pleased the Quincy Shipyard will be utilized for such an important environmental and public purpose," said C. Robert Stoker, corporate vice president and treasurer for General Dynamics.

Levy announced that the MWRA has retained a nationally-known hazardous materials detection firm to survey the Quincy shipyard site over the next six months.

"The contract will provide assurance that we will be able to identify every possible pollutant on the site," added Levy. "General Dynamics has agreed to remove these pollutants and wants the site cleaned to the DEQE industrial use standards, as we do."

Levy also restated the MWRA's commitment to work closely with Quincy officials in using the property. "To the extent the MWRA does not need all of the land purchased, it will be developed in a way that will be good for the economy and environment of Quincy," he said. "We are particularly interested in the possibility of re-establishing a ship repair and shipbuilding industry on the site and will work with the Commonwealth and Mass. Shipbuilders Inc. towards accomplishing that goal."

Breakfast Oct. 6 At Quincy Vo-Tech

The Quincy Vocational Technical School will hold an informal breakfast Oct. 6 from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the school.

The breakfast will officially mark the beginning of a year long celebration in observation of the school's 20th anniversary.

Quincy Vocational Technical School director Joseph A. Mazzarella asks all members of the first graduating class, graduates of 1970 to contact him or Mary Fredrickson at the school and to be part of the activities.

We are trying to reach as many people as possible, to relive the history, to write it, and to trace our success, said Mazzarella.

Fuel Assistance Eligibility Underway

Charlotte Jolle, Director of the Fuel Assistance Program of Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., announced that appointments are being scheduled this week for eligibility determination beginning Oct. 1.

Eligibility is based on household size and total income received by all members over 18-years-old.

Those whose heat is included in the rent and those who pay for it separately could be eligible, Jolle said.

Applicants may call for an appointment at any of the sites, which are located in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

Calls are accepted Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Interested candidates, call 471-4025, or 4026. If busy, keep trying, Jolle said, adding that the appointments will process applicants more efficiently.

'Summerscene' Program Earns Nearly $4,000

The Quincy "Summerscene" program earned the school system nearly $4,000 this year, according to its director.

In a report to the Quincy School Committee last week, Edgar Tatro, the program's fifth director in as many years, told members "with all the services we offer, we still turned a profit."

Tatro summarized the program, which enrolled 652 students, as "well organized" with strong "unity."

"Let's face it, most (students) are there because they failed. And with all the entertainment for kids, it's hard to hold them," he said, adding that the staff did a "tremendous job" of getting to know the children.

Tatro, who has been teaching for 13 years, said if he were reappointed to head next year's "Summerscene," he would launch a mail campaign to Quincy teachers asking them to contribute their specialty to the program. "This way, we can expand the program and offer many kinds of subjects," he said.

Classes are small and often meet for at least two hours. "That's a different type of atmosphere and it was the dedicated teachers that really helped keep down the rowdiness," said Tatro.

You Can't Get Any Closer

There are 697 people in the Wollaston area who can feel they cast the crucial vote that gave John Keenan the second Ward 5 City Council nomination.

KEENAN

One of them, of course, actually did make Keenan a 697 to 696 vote winner over Kevin Burke. In a sense, all 697 did.

And, out there some where may be someone who had intended to go to the polls to vote for Burke in the Sept. 15 preliminary election but somehow, for some reason just didn't get there.

KEVIN BURKE

By not getting there, though, if there was such a person or two, it turned the thrill of victory for Burke on election day into the agony of defeat in last Friday's recount.

On election day, it was Burke 695 to Keenan's 691 -- a four-vote margin squeaker.

If Burke had gotten two more votes on election day, he would have been the ultimate winner by one vote.

And, if he had received only one more vote -- instead of two -- he would have tied Keenan.

What if there had been a tie?

"Both of their names would have gone on the Nov. 3 final election ballot," says City Clerk John Gillis.

PHELAN

Gillis, who has been around City Hall for some 30 years can't remember a prior one-vote victory in a Quincy election.

"Maybe," he says, "there was one back in the early days of Quincy politics but I have never heard of one."

Ironically, Burke met a woman shortly after the election who said she was sorry she couldn't get out to vote for him. She had fractured her ankle.

That vote would have given him a tie with Keenan and his name on the Nov. 2 final election ballot.

"But," shrugs Burke, "you could hear similar stories to that on both sides."

So it would have been Charles Phelan who topped the Ward 5 vote, Keenan and Burke on the ballot. That would have been unique because ordinarily there are only two candidates for one seat in a final election.

Phelan who polled 849 votes in the preliminary election was not affected by the recount. His vote remained the same.

GEORGE BURKE

"We are going to accept the recount finding," says George Burke. "We will not contest it in court."

And, he added: "You just can't get any closer to winning. It was a heartbreaker."

Two big questions remaining now:

(1) Who will pick up the Burke vote in the final election?

(2) Will Burke support Phelan or Keenan or remain neutral?

George Burke says it is hard to tell who will reap most of Kevin's vote.

As for Kevin supporting one of the two candidates in the final election, George says:

"I don't know at this time whether Kevin will support one of the two or remain neutral."

He says that at this writing neither Keenan nor Phelan has asked for support.

"It is something Kevin will have to think about and make a decision," he says.

George says the big winner in Ward 5 was Ward 5 and the city of Quincy.

"Chuck Phelan, John Keenan and Kevin are three outstanding candidates," he says.

"It is healthy for the city to have three young men of their caliber with the enthusiasm, interest and willingness to enter public service."

Incidentally, George thinks we'll be hearing from Kevin in the future.

THE WARD 5 recount underscores what we noted here last week: your single vote really does count. One vote can make a difference.

We also said that John Keenan might have upset Kevin Burke on election day because reportedly six people in a family close to him were going to vote for him but were unable to do so because of a death in the family.

Keenan thinks, however, that the report making the rounds is not correct. He says the only family of six he knows that had a death in the family at that time actually did get to the polls to vote for him.

Reports circulating after the election had it the other way around. Unless there was another family, Rep. Keenan says he knows of no other family it might be.

THE SIGN BATTLE on Independence Ave. is dead even for Mayor Francis McCauley and challenger Jospeh LaRaia at this writing.

McCauley has one big sign on one side of the street and LaRaia a big one directly across from him.

FOR MICHAEL CONDON, City Councillor at-large, Nov. 3, election day, is a big date. But so is Feb. 14. He and his wife, Shirley, are expecting a Valentine's Day arrival, their second child. Their first is Caitlin, 16 months.

What Is The Hang-Up?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

There are a lot of folks who think the problem of air traffic congestion at Logan Airport is an issue for those living in Boston's North End, Charlestown, East Boston and Winthrop but the crowded skies of Greater Boston show that assumption incorrect.

Folks up in Revere and the North Shore, folks down here in Quincy and the South Shore and the 22 million folks using Logan are, equally, impacted by Logan which has now become the fourth most congested airport in the nation.

Massport's Dave Davis appeared on Ch. 38's Newsmakers program recently and reportedly said a second airport could ease the growing congestion at Logan Airport but, to date, Massport has done little to make that second airport a reality.

Finally, does anyone really believe all that silly political talk that high-speed rail out of South Station down the Northeast Corridor is the alternative to Logan? State Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci can't even get rail service out of South Station over the Neponset bridge.

What is the hang-up? A second airport is the only viable solution and the longer the pols wait, the more it will cost.

Tanja Delgado To Receive Coalition Award

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights will present its eighth annual Citizen of the Year Award Wednesday, Oct. 7.

This year the award has been renamed the Mandy Cohen Citizen of the Year Award in memory of Mandy Cohen, a coalition member who died earlier this year. The award is given annually to persons who have obtained achievements in affirmative action and equal opportunity in the South Shore and/or have contributed towards creating a climate of multicultural understanding and brother/sisterhood.

Mandy Cohen epitomized the purpose of the award, the coalition said. She was a member of the executive board of the South Shore Coalition during the past eight years. She was previously treasurer and secretary.

"Always one to speak about and bring out the more positive sides of people. She contributed on many levels," said Jeffrey Jones-Isaacson. "Hosting meeting, preparing refreshments for programs, participating in cultural activities and walking picket lines were among the variety of activities which we came to rely on Mandy Cohen's participation. Her passing has greatly saddened us, yet she always expected us to carry on. Therefore we feel it is fitting to name the Citizen of the Year Award after her."

This year's award goes to Tanja Delgado, the first fulltime Affirmative Action Officer for the City of Quincy. Delgado is currently employed as contract compliance administrator for the Real Estate Development firm of Corcoran Mullins and Jennison. She serves as Vice President of the Norfolk County Human Rights Council, is an associate member of New England Women in Real Estate and was the former acting chairman of the Quincy Fair Housing Committee.

While Equal Opportunity Administrator for the city of Quincy, she was primarily responsible for the development, implementation and monitoring of the city's Memorandum of Agreement with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. This agreement encompassed three program areas including Contract Compliance/Minority Business Development, Municipal Employment and Fair Housing. In addition, she worked constructively on affirmative action and racial sensitivity issues with the Quincy School Department, the Quincy Housing Authority and the Quincy Police Department.

The award will be presented Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. in the social hall of the First Parish Church Unitarian/Universalist (Church of the Presidents), Quincy Sq.

Featured speaker will be Franklin Young, supervisor of the Civil Rights Review Unit of the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

Previous award winners have included Peter O'Connell, president O'Connell Bros. Construction Company, Rosemary Wahlberg, executive director of the Quincy Community Action Organization, David Harris, president of Randolph Fair Practices, Norfolk County District Attorney William Delahunt, Quincy District Court Presiding Justice Albert Kramer, Vincent Hagerty, principal of the Seach Elementary School in Weymouth and Mary Brelsford, director of the Southwest Community Center."

'AIDS Awareness Week' Oct. 4-11 At QCH

Quincy City Hospital will host a series of events in recognition of "AIDS Awareness Week" in Massachusetts Oct. 4 to 11.

The programs are being held in conjunction with the Massachusetts Hospital Association and the Department of Public Health of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

According to the hospital, the week has four goals. They are to reach the public with information about AIDS; to introduce the AIDS curriculum in the secondary schools; to offer AIDS education to the professional community, and to encourage the ongoing participation of community organizations, corporations and colleges in educating the public about AIDS.

The hospital has scheduled a series of conferences for health professionals and the public, designed to address a wide spectrum of AIDS-related issues.

Coordinated by the Department of Nursing at the hospital under the direction of Catherine Beniers, R.N., Administrative Coordinator of Infection Control, and Agnes Shepard, R.N., M.Ed., director of staff development, the series will include informational lectures and special programs.

On Monday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 9 at noon, Mary T. Ryan, R.N., will present a film entitled "Beyond Fear" in the Conference Room on the second floor of the Administration Building. The film will be shown in the main conference area of the Gordon House (located on the hospital grounds at 120 Whitwell St.) at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 7.

At 8 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6 in the Gordon House main Conference Area, and also at 3 p.m. in the Conference Room (second floor of the Administration Building), Infection Control nurse, Julie Aubin, R.N. will present a film entitled "AIDS - What Are The Risks?," followed by a question-and-answer period.

Informational brochures and pamphlets will be available at a display in the West Wing lobby of the hospital (outside the cafeteria) wednesday, Oct. 7 from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and Friday, Oct. 9 from noon to 1 p.m.

In addition to these programs, Dr. Mark Anderson, M.D., a physician whose specialties are hematology and oncology, will present a lecture on "AIDS" in the main Conference Area of the Gordon House Wednesday, Sept. 30, at 6 p.m. An opportunity will be available for a question-and-answer discussion with Dr. Anderson following the lecture.

All are invited to participate in these activities sponsored by the hospital to share with the community the most up-to-date and factual information on AIDS.

Union Plumbers Complete Work On The Family Inn

Union plumbers from Local 12 recently completed their work on The Family Inn, a new "home" in Brookline for families of patients undergoing transplant surgery.

Jack Fandel, the union's training coordinator, said the work, which was donated to the inn, was completed in record time.

The Family Inn was initiated by Marilyn and Charlie Fiske, whose infant daughter received a liver transplant in 1982.

Their experience prompted them to develop the inn as a facility where families could stay and seek support while awaiting the results of surgery for one of their members.

"Local 12 is making this house a home," said Charlie Fiske, who expressed his thanks to Fandel and Kevin Cotter, the union's business manager.

"This union has moved the project closer to completion, thus hastening the date the first families can reside there." said Fiske.

Business Expo '87 To Be Held Oct. 6

This year's Business Expo - '87, sponsored by the Committee for Small Business of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, will be held Tuesday, Oct. 6 from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. at the Lantana in Randolph.

A Chamber of Commerce 7:44 breakfast with Massachusetts Republican Minority Leader, Steven Pierce, as the speaker, will kick off the day's events. Tickets are $8.50 each for members, $12 for non-members, and can be purchased by calling the chamber at 479-1111.

Drawings will be held throughout the day. Radio station WJDA in Quincy will broadcast live from the Lantana all day.

The events that day will be completed with a business after hours session from 5 to 6:30 p.m., which is being sponsored by the Bank of Boston - Southern Region and the Lantana. Reservations are $5.

Oct. 11-17 DOVE Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed the week of Oct. 11-17 as Domestic Violence Awareness Week in Quincy.

"DOVE is the shelter in Quincy for domestic violence victims where help is available 24 hours a day," said McCauley.

"This non-profit organization has many dedicated staff and volunteers to be commended for their extraordinary diligence, resourcefulness, commitment and caring," he said.

5 Big Ships Being Built At Fore River

Sept. 30-Oct. 6, 1931

56 Years Ago

Keel was laid at the Fore River Shipyard for the 630-foot Lurline, the third passenger liner to be built for the Mattson Lines.

Sister ships Mariposa was at the fitting dock and Monterey was scheduled to be launched Oct. 10.

Also under construction at Fore River were three ships for the United Fruit Co. and the heavy cruiser USS Portland.

Outside the gates of the Yard, labor agitators from the trade Union Unity League were passing out flyers urging workers to organize for a strike against an expected 10 percent wage cut.

TANK FARM FOR MONTCLAIR

The New England Terminal Co. filed an application to establish a $2 million, 74-acre oil storage plant with a total capacity of 860,000 barrels on the Neponset River in Montclair at the Milton line.

NETCo. President Matthew P. Sheahan said the plant would consist of 32 tanks, two administration buildings, two warehouses, a garage and two truck loading stations. It would be used for storage, no refining.

PARKING LOT VOTED

The City Council authorized the purchase of the so-called Shikes-Long property on Granite St. for $68,000 as a public parking lot

Councillors also voted to permit the balance of the city's $140,000 parking fund to be spent for other purposes, which alarmed downtown merchants.

Unless the Council restores the money for parking purposes, said President Henry J. Hickey of the Chamber of Commerce, "they will be killing the goose that lays the golden egg."

Fried Zucchini Slices

A Delicious Way To Use It Up

If your house is anything like ours, by now you must have at least one large freshly grown zucchini standing in the refrigerator. Here is an easy, delicious way to use it up.

FRIED ZUCCHINI SLICES
1 large zucchini
2 eggs mixed with a little milk
salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup grated cheese
about a cup of flour about ¼ cup of oil (any kind)

First, slice the zucchini not quite a quarter of an inch thick. Beat the eggs and add the grated cheese, salt and pepper. Place flour on a piece of wax paper. (easy to clean afterward). Put the zucchini slices in the egg mixture first and then the flour.

Heat the oil in a frying pan until hot and place the zucchini slices side by side. Turn until brown on both sides. Drain on paper towel and then keep in a platter in a warming oven until ready to serve.

Alert Your Child About Strangers

Friendly strangers can be dangerous strangers. Strangers who offer treats to children may be offering threats instead.

Teach your children what a stranger is: anyone they do not know well.

Even if children know how to avoid trouble, sometimes trouble - in the form of dangerous strangers - may find them. Children will encounter strangers when you're not around. Most strangers are well meaning and not to be feared. But because children are trusting and vulnerable, they can fall for offers by adults who seem kind, but are not. So make sure your children learn and follow these basic rules when you're not around.

- Never accept rides, candy, gifts, money or medicine from a stranger.
- Never get close to a car if a stranger calls out to you for directions or anything else. It is easy for a stranger to pull you into a car.
- Never give your name or address to a stranger.
- Never open the door to anyone you don't know.
- Never tell callers that you're home alone. Say mom or dad can't come to the phone and will call back.
- Never volunteer family vacation plans or other information about your home.
- Always avoid strangers who are hanging around restrooms or the playground and want to play with you or your friends.

What about persistent strangers? Here's what the experts say you should teach your kids.

- If a stranger in a car bothers you, turn and run in the opposite direction. It's not easy for a car to change direction suddenly.
- When frightened, run to the nearest person you can find - a police officer, a person working in a yard, a neighborhood house or store. While you should always stay away from strangers who approach you, it's OK for you to ask an adult you do not know for help.
- If a stranger tries to follow you on foot or tries to grab you, run away, scream and make lots of noise. The last thing a dangerous stranger wants is a lot of attention. Kids spend a good part of their lives at school - in the classroom and on the playground. Strangers who want to hurt children know this too. Find out what the school's policy is for children leaving school with adults other than the parents or guardian. Also find out what school security measures exist to insure student safety.

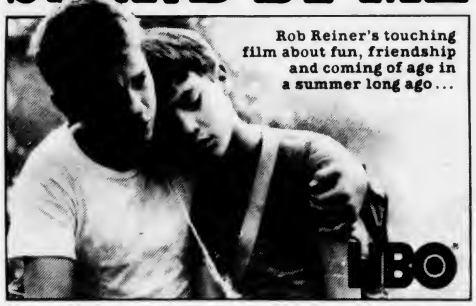
Hospital Offers 'Smoking Cessation' Program

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a new session of "Smoking Cessation," its five-day stop smoking program, starting Monday, Oct. 5.

According to QCH, the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health, published in 1983, called it "a particularly successful" stop smoking program, as the quitting rates are two to three times the national average.



Dr. Don R. Powell, founder of the program, has presented "Smoking Cessation" at the national meetings of various organizations, including the American Medical Association, the American Public Health Association, and the American Heart Association. In addition, the program has been featured on numerous national television and radio talk shows, and has been written about in a variety of publications. Many organizations have offered the program for their employees.

After a free introductory meeting, participants in the "Smoking Cessation" system enter into four, one-and-one-half hour skill development sessions, whereby they are taught how to prevent cigarette urges from occurring and how to immediately eliminate an urge if one should present itself. The smoking habit is viewed from psychological, physiological, behavioral and sociological viewpoints. In addition, a maintenance program to keep people off cigarettes permanently is included. Research has also shown that the occupying problems of weight gain and irritability are prevented or reduced through the "Smoking Cessation" program.

The next program of "Smoking Cessation" will begin with a free introductory session at Quincy City Hospital Thursday, Oct. 1, in the Board Room (located on the second floor of the Administration Building), at 4:30 p.m.

The first class of the treatment session will begin Monday, Oct. 5, at 4:30 p.m. in the Board Room. The program is presented by Mary Ryan, R.N., Health Promotion nurse at Quincy City Hospital, who is an instructor certified by the American Institute of Preventive Medicine.

Flu Vaccination Clinic Oct. 17

The Quincy Health Department has announced the annual flu vaccination clinic to be held Oct. 17 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy.

Annual vaccination against influenza is recommended for:

- Adults and children with chronic disorders of the cardiovascular or pulmonary systems that are severe enough to have required regular medical follow-ups or hospitalization during the preceding year.
- Residents of nursing homes and other chronic care facilities.
- Individuals over 65 years of age.
- Adults and children with chronic metabolic diseases including diabetes mellitus, renal dysfunction, anemia, immunosuppression, or asthma.
- Children on long term treatment with aspirin who if they catch the flu may be at risk of getting Reye's Syndrome.

Influenza vaccine is not generally recommended for pregnant women unless there are underlying high-risk conditions. It is reasonable to wait until after the first trimester if the vaccine is given during pregnancy.

The vaccine should not be given to those having anaphylactic sensitivity to eggs or egg products, or those people who have had Gullian-Barre Syndrome. Influenza vaccine should not be administered during an acute febrile illness.

- All medical personnel having extensive contact with high-risk patients.

Flu vacine will be given only to Quincy residents 29 years and older. Those 13 to 28 must have a written request from their physician.

No flu vaccine will be given to children under 13.

Shut-ins should call the Public Health Nursing Office as soon as possible at 773-1380 ext. 238 to arrange for a house visit.

Flu vaccinations will also be given at the following locations for senior citizens unable to attend the Oct. 17 clinic:

Monday, Oct. 5 - Wollaston Manor, 91 Clay St., 9:30-10:30 a.m.

O'Brien Towers, 73 Bicknell St., 1:30-2:30 p.m.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Milton once wrote: "Beauty is nature's coin and must not be hoarded."

Generally speaking, the beauty of nature is pretty much in the public domain and, more often than not, is free to anyone with the sensitivity to appreciate it. There are many beauties in our life. One important one is born of a friendly smile and a warm "hello."

Too many times it seems, people tend to "hoard" the warm friendliness and understanding that can do so much to sweep away unnecessary fears and hostilities found in our fellow human beings. Too many times we choose to hide our true feelings behind an outward mask ranging from cool reservation to indifference. Many people have found that the beauty of a friendly spirit is best not hoarded, but spent freely in the marketplace of everyday living ...

German Pastor At Bethany For Worldwide Communion Sunday

In celebration of "Worldwide Communion Sunday," Pastor Dieter Schmitten will give the meditation at both services of Bethany Congregational Church this coming Sunday.

Pastor Schmitten is currently visiting Bethany and is a member of the Evangelical Church of the Union serving in Duren, West Germany. He will preach on the topic "Christianity or Communion."

The ministers of Bethany, the Revs. J. William Arnold and Joel F. Huntington, will lead the liturgy. The climax of both services will be the celebration of the Lord's Supper as Christians around the globe--of all denominations--do the same.

Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, is at Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center. The early chapel service is held at 9 a.m. and the sanctuary service is held at 10 a.m.

At the sanctuary service the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, will sing Stainer's anthem "God So Loved The World." The communion commentary--for the radio only--will be given by Edith M. Arslan.

The worship service is broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the worship can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

The Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Pam Curran, will be on duty to supervise the care of infants through first graders as well as being helpful to parents.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and in the fellowship. You are also invited to enroll children in the Sunday School.

At noon the students of the Sunday School, their families, and other interested adults, will travel by bus to Harvard, MA. for an 'apple-picking picnic.' The bus ride is free, but people need to bring their own picnic lunch as well as money for apples and for a stop at a homemade ice cream stand on the way home!

For additional information about the picnic or any other aspect of Bethany Church please contact the church office at 479-7300.

'Sharing Authority' Sermon Topic At Wollaston Congregational

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach the sermon Sunday at the Wollaston Congregational Church entitled "Sharing Authority."

Lay scripture reader will be Paul Frazer. In addition the sacrament of holy communion will be celebrated with all Christians regardless of background invited to participate.

Deacons serving communion will be Margaret Sandahl and Susan Greenough. Ushers will be Paul and Mary Gifford. Greeters will be Alice King. Acolyte will be Harry Towle. Nursery care is provided for babies and toddlers and church school will be held from 10 to 11 a.m.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service and all are invited to share the sociability.

The Youth Fellowship, under the leadership of Gus Oster, will meet at 7 p.m. in the social hall.

The executive committee will meet Monday Oct. 5. Trustees will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murch Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Covenant Service At First Squantum Church

The morning will begin with an all-church breakfast at 9:15 a.m. and continue with a special Covenant Service at 10:30 a.m. during which the members of the congregation will renew their covenant with God and with each other.

In the free church tradition, the church covenant is the spiritual agreement that Christians make with each other when a new church is organized. Often it is sealed with a celebration of the Lord's Supper.

Others may then join the church by entering into that same covenant. The idea is that one must be a Christian first, and therefore part of Christ's universal Church, before one can join with other Christians as a member of a local congregation.

Twice each year, in October and March, the members of the church renew this covenant by reading it together and celebrating the Lord's Supper.

Active members who cannot be present at the Covenant Service but who want to renew their covenant too should notify the pastor in writing or in person before the service Sunday. His number is 328-7675.

Last Sunday, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, led a Bible study on Genesis 1 and 2, during the second service, as preparation for his sermon, "Sharing in Creation."

The Chancel Choir sang. Craig Zaehring played the organ and Janet Williamson the piano.

Greeters for the morning were Adelaide Nelson and Rene Johnson. The ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Beth Harper and Hazel Mayne.

During the first service, Mindi Hurd accompanied the congregational singing on the keyboard. Andy Ogilvie and Karen Reister were the ushers. The pastor spoke on "God's Continuing Creation."

The fall schedule of meetings has begun: Sunday School and Nursing on Sundays at 10:30 a.m., Junior Choir on Thursdays at 3 p.m., Chancel Choir on Thursdays at 7:15 p.m. and Sunday morning at 9:45 a.m., Youth Choir Sundays at 11:45 a.m., Crafts on Thursdays at 10 a.m., Orange Crush on Sunday evening at 6 p.m., Seven-Up on Sunday evening at 7 p.m., and Roarin' Twenties (singles interested in youth ministry) Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

Women's Evening Friendship will meet Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m., Ladies' Aid Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 12:15 p.m., the Board of Trustees Monday, Oct. 19, at 7:30 p.m., and the Board of Deacons Monday, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 12, is Grotonwood Day, a day-long picnic for church members of all ages at Grotonwood, a Christian camp in Groton. Sunday, Oct. 25, is Reformation Sunday.

Reservations for the Covenant Sunday breakfast can be made by calling 328-4367.

'Ethics: Making Those Tough Decisions' Theme At United First Parish

Ethics is the theme of a four week adult study class beginning this week at United First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents."

The class will meet Wednesday evenings Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 14, and 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

The group will discuss wisdom found in Aristotle, the Bible, and the Unitarian Universalist religious tradition that offers guidance in "Making Those Tough Decisions," which is the name of the class. Newcomers are welcome.

The class will be led by the Rev. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister of the church. "A true faith is an ethical faith," Dr. Bennett said. "It has consequences for our actions in daily life - in our homes, in our work, and in our public service. We discover the truth of our beliefs as they meet the real world. It is from concrete experience that our faith deepens and matures. Recent events on Wall Street and in national politics calls us to look again at our basic values," he said.

Ethics and religion is also the theme of the sermon for the regular Sunday service, Sunday, Oct. 4, at 10:30 a.m.

Title of the sermon is "The Moment to Decide," and will be delivered by Dr. Bennett. Norman Corey, organist, will play selections by Frescobaldi and Reger, and there will be a guest soloist.

Visitors are welcome at the service and the coffee hour following.

'Forgiveness' Topic At Faith Lutheran

Sunday's sermon topic for the 10 a.m. worship service at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St. Quincy, will be "Forgiveness."

Coffee and fellowship will follow the 10 a.m. service.

Sunday School for adult's and children will begin at 9 a.m.

K Of C Plans Charity Drive

Grand Knight Vincent P. Collins of the North Quincy Council announces that plans are "well underway" in preparation for this year's Knights of Columbus Annual Charity Drive to be held Columbus Day weekend.

"We're looking forward to a very successful year," said Collins. "Our members will be out in force throughout the weekend standing in front of local stores and shopping districts soliciting the kind contributions of passersby." He added that in the past, "residents of this area have been very generous and that the Knights of Columbus have been extremely grateful."

Members asking for contributions will be identifiable by red and yellow aprons they will be wearing with the words "Help Retarded Children."

"Our theme this year is People Helping People," said Grand Knight Collins. K of C have a simple philosophy that every child, regardless of race or religion, deserves to live as normal a life as possible. That's why we strive to help the handicapped, retarded and blind get the most they can from life."

Over the years the K of C Charity Committee has awarded $300,000 to the Cardinal Cushing School for retarded and handicapped youngsters in Hanover; $400,000 to the Mercy Center for Developmental Disabilities in Worcester, $175,000 to the Sunshine Village for the retarded in Chicopee, $60,000 to Camp Paul for Exception Children in Chelmsford, $96,000 to the Boston Center For Blind Children in Jamaica Plain, $81,000 to the South Shore Rehabilitation Center in Quincy, $125,000 to Project Triangle in Malden, a center which helps train retarded individuals to perform jobs in industry and helps to place them in meaningful positions of employment.

John MacPherson District Deputy Exalted Ruler

At the 123rd session of the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, John C. MacPherson of the Quincy lodge was installed as District Deputy Exalted Ruler for the Massachusetts Circle District for 1987-1988.

It is the seventh such appointment in the 83-year history of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

The Quincy Lodge has performed many acts of charitable endeavors and service to the city of Quincy, with functions for senior citizens, veterans, Christmas baskets and $8,500 each year in student scholarships.

During the coming months, MacPherson and his suite will visit the 11 lodges in the Circle District, from which he will submit progress reports of these lodges to the national headquarters of the Grand Lodge.

MacPherson resides at 33 Congress St., Braintree. He and his wife, Sadie, are the parents of six boys and have one grand daughter. He is a four year Navy veteran of World War II, and is employed by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority as head store keeper and purchasing agent.

He is a 14 year member of the Quincy Lodge where he served as exalted ruler in 1978, later as trustee for five years, and chairman for three of those years. He served as state chairman of the senior citizen committee for five years.

The Quincy Lodge noted that the Ladies Emblem Club also has a district deputy this year representing their National Lodge. Susan McGregor was installed as district deputy for District 8 in the Supreme Emblem Club at the recent National Convention held in Boston. The Emblem Club is the organization for the wives and sisters of the Elks Lodge membership, and is committed to the same charitable goals.

Ten years ago, Mrs. McGregor and MacPherson were president and exalted ruler, respectively, of the Quincy Emblem Club and Lodge No. 943.

The BPOE have 1,529,871 members in 2,300 lodges in the United States. The new Grand Exalted Ruler this year is Ted Callicott of Paris, Tennessee. G.E.R. Callicott is a thirty-two year member, and practices dentristry in his home city. He has occupied many national offices in the Elks before obtaining the top spot in Elkdom.

The new grand exalted ruler Ted Callicott will visit Massachusetts Oct. 3. There will be a dinner and ball in his honor at Lantana, Randolph. MacPherson will be one of the grand marshals for the occasion.

Cahill Wants Middle School Athletics Restored

Tim Cahill, a candidate for Councillor-at-Large, is calling for a strong commitment to athletics in the school system beginning with the restoration of a middle school interscholastic sports program for boys and girls.

"It is imperative that we begin to restore our once proud tradition of athletics in the high schools," said Cahill. "The best way to accomplish this is through a middle school sports program that allows boys and girls to compete both as individuals and as part of a school team. The level of competition in the tough Suburban League makes it essential that our teams are well schooled in the fundamentals of sport and conditioning."

"One of the major costs in restoring such a program is in coaches' salary," noted Cahill. "A simple way to reduce these costs would be to run the sports during their usual off seasons and contact some of the area colleges and universities about their athletes seeking coaching experience or possibly college course credit in physical education. These students could coach our youngsters in return for school credit while gaining valuable knowledge about sports for their own further use. As a former athlete and coach, I know that true understanding of a sport and its concepts and fundamentals comes only after teaching these things to young children."

"Another cost reduction of the program involves moving all competitions to weekends instead of after school," said Cahill. "This would free the program of all busing costs as all competition would take place at neutral sites in central locations throughout the city. Coaches, parents, and the athletes themselves would be responsible for transportation to and from the games or meets. Having the competitions on the weekends would also allow for more parent involvement and participation.

"A third way to reduce costs would be to involve local businesses as team and individual sponsors. Recently, when members of the high school football booster clubs sought to install lights at Veterans Memorial Stadium in order to conduct night football, the local business community responded with over $100,000 in donations."

"It is important to involve our youth in organized athletics at an early age so that they can learn the basics of teamwork and self-discipline," he said. "It is also vital that we prepare these kids for what is ahead of them when they reach high school. A middle school sports program, restored as a less expensive yet more comprehensive model, will begin the task of restoring pride and accomplishment in the athletic programs of the Quincy Public Schools."

Chester French Installed Rural Lodge Worshipful Master

The Rural Masonic Lodge of Quincy will hold its first meeting with the newly installed line officers tonight (Thursday), beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting, which is open to family and friends, will include a roast beef dinner for $1.99 and a short "dinner theatre" musical, "Tall Hat & Yellow Feather... Here Come the Pilgrims."

Written by local playwright Jack Stella, "Tall Hat & Yellow Feather... Here Come the Pilgrims," is a lighthearted look at the pilgrims' first years in the New World and their friendship with the American Indians. After the show, the Masons invite guests to meet the cast.

The meeting will be the first under new Worshipful Master Chester W. French, Jr. of Hingham, who was recently installed.

MacKay Meets With Residents On Stop Sign, Traffic Problems

Howard MacKay, candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat and residents of Highland Ave. and Brook St. met with the members of the Quincy Traffic Commission to discuss the placing of a four-way stop sign at the intersection of Highland and Brook.

Residents, as well as others in the area, had expressed their concern because of the recent number of accidents at this intersection.

Police Capt. Walter Frazer informed them that in order to erect such a sign repeated accidents and heavy traffic requirements must meet certain standards as outlined in the manual on uniform control devices.

Since the requirements have not been met at the intersection, the commission had to decline the petition although regretfully, according to MacKay.

However, the commission agreed to consider other alternatives to make this area safer for residents, he said. They include placing a stop sign at another intersection on Brook St., thus slowing the flow of traffic; moving the T sign away from the stop sign; putting a stop sign on both corners in order to make the sign more visible; and moving the mail storage box further back from the corner.

One of the concerned residents suggested that the mayor consider placing a traffic supervisor at the intersection of Taylor St. and Brook St. as an added safety factor for children attending Wollaston School, said MacKay.

Also discussed at the meeting were areas of concern to other residents of Ward 3. David Kinnecom, the new Traffic Engineer for the city, acknowledged the need for traffic slow down on West Squantum St.

The possibility of installing traffic lights at Evans St. and West Squantum, as suggested by an earlier petition, is still pending. The priority for this installation must come from the mayor's office, according to MacKay.

The petition filed by Candidate MacKay calling for flashing yellow lights at the Montclair School was also discussed. The original request from the city to the State DPW was turned down because it was not considered feasible for the area. However, the city has filed another request for the lights and State Rep. Michael Morrissey has assured the city that the DPW will act favorably on the issue in the near future.

MacKay also informed the Traffic Commission that the school signs on West Squantum St. are missing. Edward Lynch, supervisor of Signs and Signals, has stated that the signs will be put up next week, according to MacKay.

After almost an hour's discussion, MacKay said he and concerned residents left the meeting feeling that their ideas had been heard and acted upon in a very congenial manner.

Morrissey Supports Zone Crossing Signals

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has contacted the Massachusetts Department of Public Works commissioner, Robert Tierney in support of Quincy's request for additional school zone crossing signals at two elementary schools.

The city will be reimbursed for the cost of these new signals by the state.

Through the program, the state reimburses the city for the entire cost of the signals. Three schools have already been approved for fall installation. They are Snug Harbor, Parker and Atherton Hough Schools. The city is seeking state approval and funding for signals at Montclair and Wollaston schools as well.

"I have been assured that these additional schools will receive state funding when the city submits a revised plan," said Morrissey.

"This project is intended to ensure that school children are afforded as many means of protection as possible," concluded Morrissey.

The signals will alert drivers that they are entering a school zone and to reduce their speed to 20 m.p.h. The signals will be in operation during times when children are going to or returning from school: 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday during the school year.

Morrissey added, "These signals are just a reminder. Police enforcement and driver cooperation are essential for its success."

Dart Champion At St. Joseph's Athletics Benefit

A fundraiser to benefit the St. Joseph's School Athletic Procurement Fund, featuring Dave Kelly, the two time American Masters Champion of Darts, will be held Thursday, Oct. 15 at Joe's Pub on East Howard St., Quincy.

Joe Hajjar, proprietor of the pub and an alumnus of St. Joseph's School, Quincy Point, said all proceeds will go towards athletic equipment for the school's newly constructed community center.

"It's another way to help out the kids," Hajjar said, who added the community center has no equipment.

"The community center will get kids off the street. It will give them something to do," he said.

Tickets are $5 and are available at the pub. Those wishing to purchase tickets can also call 472-9383 after 3 p.m.

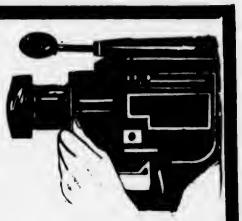
Kelly is touring New England in the 1987 Budweiser Dave Kelly Dart Exhibition Series. At the fundraiser, Kelly will engage 10 of the top local players in a game of 100. He will also conduct a dart clinic and question and answer session.

Kelly travels with a computerized scoring system that enables exact scores and averages to be kept. Awards will be given to top performances.

Recognized as one of America's top darts players, Kelly holds the distinction of having thrown the first perfect 301 game recorded in U.S. tournament play.

Among the many events he has won throughout the world are the United States Open, the North American Open Cricket Doubles Crown (both with Danny Valletto of Philadelphia), the New York Singles and Dougles (two years running), The Washington Open Singles and Doubles, the New England Dart Challenge (twice) and recently the $500,000 Grand Bahamas Open in Freeport, Bahamas.

According to Hajjar, darts have become extremely competitive in Quincy. He said Joe's Pub fields four dart teams that compete in the Minuteman Dart League which consists of over 5,000 members in the state.



Hajjar described Joe's Pub as a "big time tournament bar" which also features many "hands on" sporting and game equipment. He said the pub, which has undergone renovations the past two years, has ping pong tables, four dart boards, backgammon, pinball, video games, shuffleboard bowling, and even a 15 by 15 foot indoor basketball court.

Hajjar, who is a sponsor of the Quincy youth hockey arena and a contributor to the Veterans Memorial Stadium lighting fund, said he is a firm believer in activities and games for people of all ages.

"I believe a liquor establishment doesn't have to be a bad place to be.

"People shouldn't just sit around and drink," he said.

Virginia Forster In Diabetes Study

Virginia Forster, of Quincy is one of several New England residents enrolled in a 10-year diabetes study at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Called The Diabetes Control and Complications Trial (DCCT), the program is considered by researchers as "the most important long term study ever conducted" of diabetes, the nation's third leading cause of death.

Forster, a Boston business executive with insulin-dependent diabetes, was the first volunteer in the program, which is now starting its fifth year.

"Being a patient in the DCCT has been a very positive experience for me," she said. "It gives me a sense of being responsible for my own well being," she said.

The study will examine the appropriate level of blood sugar control that must be achieved to prevent or halt the progression of long-term complications that can affect vital organs, according to researchers.

Forster is one of 37 participants in the study. Ultimately, 1,400 volunteers will help complete the research, expected to end in 1993.

Interested volunteers may call 726-1847.

Improvements Made At MBTA Stations After Inspection

At the insistence of state Senator Paul D. Harold, State Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci and MBTA General Manager James O'Leary recently conducted an inspection of the Quincy Center and Quincy Adams MBTA stations and garages.

Harold said he has long been critical of the contracted service program of the MBTA, in which garages, parking areas, and other facilities are leased to outside contractors to operate.

"Under this program, we found that the MBTA was not enforcing its own contracts as regards the operation of garages and maintenance concerns," Harold said.

"As a result of this criticism, the MBTA has reorganized a number of its contracts, with resulting visible improvements in cleanliness in both Quincy Center and Quincy Adams stations."

Harold arranged the official inspection tour to check on the progress of improvements, and to stress the need to maintain tight supervision, he said.

"Conditions can quickly deteriorate because of the high usage of both stations, and only through vigilance can proper standards be maintained," Harold said.

The inspection tour included platforms, elevators, stairwells, lighting and landscaped areas at both stations, as well as security arrangements, he said.

At the Quincy Center station, two police officers have been assigned, one to patrol the platform area, and one to oversee the garage area, according to Harold.

He said the improved security has reduced serious crime and car thefts at the station, but noted that vandalism of motor vehicles continues to be a problem.

North Has First X-Country Team In Three Years

The North Quincy boys have been unable to field a cross-country team for the last three years as they couldn't find enough boys to make up a team.

At least five runners are needed for a team.

This fall the Raiders have finally garnered enough interest for a team as 14 boys reported to coach Rick Avery.

However, none of the boys have had any varsity experience and he said, "We are literally starting the program over."

The Raiders were shut out in both their meets, losing to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-47, and to Brockton, 15-49.

The North boys ran against Brookline yesterday (Wednesday) and will be at Newton North next Tuesday.

In last week's loss to Brockton North was unable to place a runner among the top 10.

In the loss to Cambridge the Raiders had four runners in the top 10, but Brockton had the first five finishers for the shutout.

Rounding out the squad are freshmen Chris Ballum, Mike Campbell and Chris Dindy, seniors Paul McGrath, Matt Furtado, Jay Rodriguez and Bill Dineen, and sophomore Phillip Chen, who has been in this country only a short time but has overcome many obstacles to compete.

"Most of the boys have never run any great distances, so we are taking them slow," said Avery. "We don't want to burn them out. I am an assistant hockey coach at North and the addition of a group of our skaters has helped the team. They have helped the others by installing a great team work ethic. We have a very healthy situation here.

"The boys know they have to be patient with themselves. Our time will come and they will improve. That is our goal for this season."

Raiders Try To Get Back On Track

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team had opened its season with an impressive win over Milton, the Raiders' first victory over their oldtime rivals since 1981.

But last Friday night in perfect weather at Veterans Memorial Stadium everything that could go wrong for the Raiders did as Arlington took advantage of numerous Raider mistakes to post an easy 34-0 win.

North will attempt to get back on the win trail Friday afternoon at 2:30 at Newton North, which lost to the Raiders, 12-6, last year.

"I'm extremely disappointed to say the least," said North coach Ken McPhee. "We did nothing right and we beat ourselves. Our tackling was terrible, although the defense did a good job in the first half, and our offensive line, which was excellent at Milton, just didn't do the job tonight."

Arlington scored its first touchdown on a long pass play on which there was a mixup on North's coverage.

The second came after the pass from center was sailed over the head of punter Dave Lawless, giving Arlington the ball on North's 25 and Tim Legere, who was outstanding at quarterback, was apparently downed for a big loss but broke loose from several would-be tacklers and raced 24 yards and a score.

And the last Arlington touchdown came after Lawless' punt was blocked by a teammate, who backed into the ball, giving the Spy Ponders the on North's 23.

Offensively, the line didn't give Joe Mulvey much protection. He had only five completions in 16 attempts for only 33 yards and had three passes intercepted. He also was sacked twice. Sophomore Jim Bryan threw two incompletions in the waning minutes.

North had 148 yards on the ground with Paul McCormack gaining 63 on 12 carries and Ryan Craig 54 on 11 carries.

Legere threw for two touchdowns and scored one himself as Arlington gained 121 yards rushing and 100 passing on five for nine. North's B.J. Sylva and Jackie Mullen came up with interceptions.

"Offensively there isn't much I can say, although McCormack and Craig ran well and Lawless got off a few good runs," said McPhee.

"Defensively, I thought Craig, Lawless and Mike Ainsley played well. We'll just have to put this one behind us and hope we can bounce back at Newton.

"Honestly, I didn't think anyone would shut us out this year and I didn't think anyone would score 34 points against us. This was just a game full of our mistakes and all were costly."

North got a break midway in the first quarter when the Arlington punter's knee touched the ground on a low pass from center and the Raiders had the ball on the visitors' 25.

However, Arlington held fast and took over on its 21. A few plays later Jeff Vartabeian outran the North secondary and took a perfect pass from Legere for a 49-yard scoring play.

Sylva made a great leaping interception to stop an Arlington drive on the Ponders' 49 but again the Raiders were held.

With 55 seconds left in the half, the pass from center sailed over Lawless' head, giving Arlington the ball on North's 25. North missed at least five tackles as Legere, seemingly stopped for a loss, broke loose, started to the right, cut back to the left and raced 24 yards to make it 12-0 at halftime.

North began a promising drive after taking the second half kickoff but, after going 61 yards, led by McCormack and Craig, to reach the Arlington nine, the Raiders lost 14 yards and Arlington took over on its 23.

Legere hit Vartabedian for 19 yards and the same receiver for 18 and, three plays later passed to Jerry Tabler for eight yards and a touchdown. Legere rushed for the two extra points and Arlington had a 20-0 lead.

A Mulvey pass was intercepted and returned to North's 10 and Bob Coveno on the first play scored to make it 26-0.

The visitors put the icing on the cake following the blocked punt and Dennis Flynn scored the final touchdown from the six. Legere passed to Leo Theriault for the two points.

Action Continues

Hatton Retains Title In City Tennis Tourney

The 17th annual City Tennis Championship co-sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Co-operative Bank has its first champion.

The first final of the rain-plagued tournament was played Monday in the Men's 50 and over category. In a two hour, 20 minute match Dick Hatton defeated Neil Cronin 7-5, 4-6, 6-2 to defend his 1986 championship. Either Cronin or Hatton have won this title for the last seven years. Hatton relied on his variety of lobs and well placed drop shots to keep Cronin from taking full advantage of his powerful forehand.

Other action was hot and heavy as each event worked its way to the finals. The men's singles division saw two superb matches. Defending champion Wayne Chatteron ran into a very young and talented Tom Savoie on Saturday. The match went three action-packed sets with Savoie going on to win 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Both players are known for having great foot speed and this provided spectators with some unbelievable rallies.

In the other semi-final, newcomer Tom Bossard continued his march toward the title by defeating another fine young player, Steve Maloney 6-4, 7-5. This match was highlighted by both players exhibiting big serves and consistent volleys.

In mixed doubles action the mother and son team of Lousie and Steve Durante defeated Barry Gilfeather and Dolly DiPesa 7-5, 6-4. This match was doubles play at its best, both teams displayed talented skills in both the front and backcourt.

Another mixed doubles semi-final had the youngest team, Oscar Jara and Lynne Maloney defeating the seasoned veterans Joe Ryan and Hildy Gillis 6-3, 6-3. Oscar a senior at Quincy High School, is the number one singles player for the high school team. Lynne, a freshman at Tufts University is a member of the varsity tennis team there. Together they make a very tough team that will be very hard to keep from the championship.

The Mens "B" singles draw was down to the semi-finals on Sunday with four fine players battling it out for a spot in the championship. Number one seed Barry Gilfeather played flawless tennis in defeating George Stokinger 6-1, 6-0. Ed McArdle will be in his first Quincy Final with his victory over Neil Cronin Jr. 6-3, 6-2.

Other results in tournament action were: Men's Singles Quarterfinals: Wayne Chatteron def. Leonard Civarro 6-1, 6-2; Tom Savoie def. Joe Ryan 6-4, 6-3; Tom Bossard def. Oscar Jara 6-2, 5-7, 6-3; Steve Maloney def. David Bouley 6-2, 6-1; Women's 35 and Over Louise Durante def. Terry Shea 6-2, 6-2.

Men's 50 and over semi-finals: Dick Hatton def. Henry McAullife 6-3, 6-3; Neil Cronin def. Vincent Kane 6-2, 6-3.

Women's Singles Quarterfinals: Sue Pacetti def. Trish Furlan 4-6, 6-4, 7-5; Dolly Dipesa def. Terri Sullivan 6-3, 6-2.

Women's Doubles Semi-finals: Durant DiPesa def. Pratsch Cobban 6-3, 6-3.

Men's 35 and over second round: Robert Hamilton def. Frank Ruzzano 6-7, 6-4, 6-3; John Durante def. Columbare 6-2, 6-0; Leonard Ciavarro def. Vincent Kane 6-2, 6-0.

Men's 35 and Over Quarterfinals: John Durante def. Leonard Ciavarro 6-1, 6-3.

Mixed Doubles Quarterfinals: Durante/Durante def. Wheeler/Wheeler 6-3, 6-3; Gilfeather/DiPesa def. Nelson/Murray 7-5, 6-1.

Boys 16 and Under Semi-finals: Oscar Jara def. Christian Ciavarro 6-1, 6-0.

Men's Singles Third Round: Leonard Ciavarro def. Gary Wilcox 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Joe Ryan def. John Kavanaugh 6-2, 6-4; Tom Savoie def. Richard Griffen 6-0, 6-0; Tom Bossard def. John Zarneck 6-2, 6-2; Oscar Jara def. Joe Shea 6-2, 6-1; Steve Maloney def. Henry McAuliffe 6-2, 6-2; David Bouley del Bill Egan 6-4, 6-1.

Weather permitting the schedule for championship matches is:

Wednesday Sept. 30: Men's 35 and over final at 6 p.m.; Women's Doubles final at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday Oct. 1: Men's Doubles Final at 6 p.m.; Women's 35 and over final at 6 p.m.; Men's "B" final at 7:30 p.m.

Friday Nov. 2: Men's Singles at 6 p.m.; Women's Singles final at 6 p.m.; Mixed Doubles final at 7:30 p.m.

Cobban Pleased With North Jayvees Win Over Milton

By PETE ZOIA

Coach Kevin Cobban was well pleased after his North Quincy J.V. team defeated Milton 28-6.

"It was evident we had some talent from last year's freshman and sophomore squads. We haven't practiced much as a unit and didn't know what to expect," the varsity offensive co-ordinator remarked.

Tim Baker recovered a Milton fumble early in the first quarter to set up a Raider score on Milton's 16. Dave Hutchins and Jeff Calvert alternated in carrying to the three yard line and Jim Bryan went in for the six pointer. Hutchins added two more through the line to make it 8-0.

Milton's offense was stymied as Brian Healy sacked the quarterback for a 12 yard loss.

North marched 88 yards for their second touchdown. Runs of 17 and 28 yards by Hutchins, coupled by the fine running of Jeff Sullivan put the ball on Miltons' one where Calvert bucked it over.

Milton retaliated for six points on a pass play from the Raider eight yard line, ending the first half.

The Raiders scored quickly in the third period resulting from a 22 yard half-back pass from Hutchins to Sean McDonough. Sullivan added the two point conversion.

In the last quarter, Tim Baker intercepted the second of his three he had for the afternoon, to set up North's final score.

From Milton's 21 yard line, Sullivan and Dave Kiley put the ball on the two, where Sullivan scored.

Baker proceeded to snare another Milton aerial to stop any chance late in the game.

Offensively sophomore Jeff Currie, Mike Gates, Bill Early, and Dan Gilmartin showed some natural running ability.

Cobban singled out a number of players for a fine effort. Kevin Hefferan, who recovered a fumble, Quan Le who intercepted a pass and made a long return, and Alex Malasi, John Ballerino, Brian Tobin, John Fajardo, Jeff Powers, Jesse Sweatt, Bob Merrill, Scott Kemp, and Jim Goslin who all turned in a good performance.

Ice Skating Program Registration Starts

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department is conducting registration for its instructional ice skating program for boys and girls age six through 16.

The program will be conducted at the Quincy Youth Arena on Wednesday afternoons beginning Oct. 7. Instruction will be under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Eagles, a United States Figure Skating Association professional, and will utilize the basic program of instruction designed by the U.S.F.S.A.

Instruction is from beginner to advanced and there are two separate classes. One is at 3:10 p.m. and one at 4:10 p.m. Each class runs for nine weeks. Cost is $34 which includes instruction and ice time. Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. beginning immediately. Enrollment is limited and will be taken on a first come first served basis. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Raymer To Make Changes For Waltham

When the Quincy football team plays Waltham Friday night at 7 p.m. at Leary Field in Waltham, there will be some changes on defense as well as in the offensive line.

Waltham (1-1) defeated Quincy, 20-0, last year.

Coach Jack Raymer feels he must make the changes after the Presidents were overwhelmed by Brookline, 41-6, last Saturday. It was the second week in a row that Brookline had scored 41 points.

"The defense was very poor and the offensive line was terrible," said a disappointed Raymer. "Big plays continue to kill us and we are not coming along as well as I had hoped for. We started out with a young and inexperienced team and the boys just have to improve a lot if we hope to do anything. I was very disappointed with our showing today. We just weren't hitting and the offensive line wasn't doing its job."

Quincy received a scare in the second quarter when junior quarterback Chris Noble was hit jhard and was taken to the hospital. It was at first feared he might be seriously hurt but it proved not serious and he may be able to face Waltham.

If he is unable to play, another junior, Scott Campbell, who did well in the second half at Brookline, will get the starting nod.

Brookline, with an explosive attack, roared to a 28-6 halftime lead and the Presidents never had a chance.

Noble was three for seven for 28 yards passing but was sacked five times. Campbell was four for 11 for 48 yards. Quincy had only 62 yards rushing, 34 of them by Peter Olivieri, playing his first game.

"Olivieri did well in his first game and he can help us in the future," said Raymer. "Sean Thompson did well as a line backer and Scott Grant, Frank Calabro, Chris Norris and Craig Keefe played good games."

JUNIOR quarterback Chris Noble has done a fine job at quarterback for Quincy's football team which, following two losses, will seek its first win Friday night at Waltham.

Just as big plays killed Quincy in the opening night loss to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, they proved fatal to the Presidents again last week.

Quincy received to open the game but was stopped cold. Following a good punt by Noble, Brookline's Rolando Mendez, on the second play from scrimmage, raced 62 yards for a touchdown. Frank Bowen kicked the extra point.

Later in the first quarter a 45-yard pass play put the Indians on Quincy's 10. Quarterback Walter Norton scored from the one and Bowen again kicked the point.

In the second quarter lightning hit again as Geoff Gamere, son of sportscaster Bob Gamere, galloped 80 yards for a score and Bowen kicked his third straight extra point.

Grant intercepted a pass and returned it 21 yards for Quincy's lone touchdown.

A few minutes later Noble was hit hard and the ball bounced out of his hands and into the hands of Brookline's Don Differ, who went nine yards for a touchdown and Bowen again kicked the point to put Brookline ahead, 28-6.

"That play was another back-breaker for us and it clinched the win for them," said Raymer. It was on that play that Noble was hurt and rushed to the hospital.

In the third quarter Norton passed to Dave Kennedy for 18 yards and a touchdown and Bowen kicked the point. In the final quarter Corey Whitfield scored the final points of the game on a 33 yard run. Bowen missed the extra point kick for the only time.

Panthers Down Apaches, Boost Record To 2-0

The Quincy Point Panthers upped their Quincy Youth Football League record to 2-0 with a 30-6 romp over the North Quincy Apaches Saturday under the lights at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Panthers scored early and often as the offense exploded for their first score on the second play of the game. Derek Tardanicco scored both the TD and rushed for the conversion.

The Apaches took over, but the Panthers defense drove them back, deep in their own territory. On their first play, the Panthers scored again as Tardanicco and Joe Crespi added eight more points.

On their next set of downs, the Apaches quarterback was sacked on the first play, then they were stopped in the next three plays for no gain. The Panthers took over, but on second down, they fumbled and the Apaches were there to recover. It was here the Apaches picked up their initial first down of the game, but on third down, the ball was picked off, which set up another Joe Crespi score. Ally Sleiman hauled in a Jason Simon pass to complete the play as the Panthers led 24-0.

With the J.V.'s in, the Apaches started a drive but were quickly halted by Noel DiBona, Brian Jennette, Robert Willis, Marc Lomanno and Mark Willis as the half ended.

The Panthers J.V.'s opened the third quarter, holding the Apaches in tow until late in the game when they scored. However, a tough Panthers junior varsity defense and an initial hit by Mark Willis stopped the conversion attempt.

On the kickoff, Tardanicco scored on a 60-yard run, but the touchdown was nullified for a clipping call. But, on second down and 5 on the 55 yard line, Crespi scored again and the varsity cheered on the sidelines for their J.V. counterparts for the rest of the game.

With the loss, the Apaches drop to 0-2. They meet the Elks (0-2) on Saturday at 7:30 p.m., while in the opening game at 6 p.m., the Manets (1-0) face the Sailors (1-0).

The Panthers are idle until Sunday, Oct. 11 at 1 p.m. when they meet the Houghs Neck Manets.

The Manets came from behind to beat the West Quincy Elks last weekend, 14-12.

St. John's Baseball Registration

Registration for St. John's Church baseball will be held Saturday, Oct. 10 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. for children age 8 through 12 in the lower rectory.

A birth certificate is required. Registration fee is $2.

St. John's baseball includes complete uniforms, awards, umpires, an all-star game and a year-end cookout.

North Boys Lose To Medfield, Peabody

The North Quincy boys' soccer team, which had opened with two wins in a row, last week saw its record evened at 2-2 when it lost to Medford, 2-0, and to Peabody, 3-2.

The Raiders faced Quincy in their Suburban League opener Tuesday, Friday will play at Silver Lake and Monday will host Waltham at 3:30 at the stadium field.

Ed Walty and Scott Raptelis scored the Raider goals, Bob Hubbard and Paul Murphy had assists and Mike Walsh and Paul Meehan had fine games.

Earlier in the week North was blanked by Medford despite out-shooting the winners, 13-5.

Quincy Boys Tie Revere, Peabody

The Quincy boys' soccer team, which had lost its first two games, last week played to a pair of ties with Greater Boston League opponents.

The Presidents tied Revere, 2-2, after a 1-1 deadlock with Peabody.

Quincy met North Quincy Tuesday in its Suburban League opener, will play at Newton North today (Thursday), and next Wednesday will be at Brockton.

In last week's 2-2 tie with Revere, the Presidents had a 25-15 shooting edge.

Quincy goalie Pat O'Donnell had 13 saves and Rick Morris and Spencer Harris turned in fine performances.

Earlier in the week Tai Le scored on a corner kick to give the Presidents the tie with Peabody. Morris assisted on the goal. Sopp had a fine game and O'Donnell had 10 saves in goal.

Raiderettes' Streak Snapped By Brockton

The North Quincy girls' soccer team, which had one of its best records (7-8-1) last year, got off to a good start this fall, winning its first three games.

But the streak was stopped last week when powerful Brockton defeated the Raiderettes, 5-2.

Leo Donovan's North girls played Waltham Tuesday, host Newton North today (Thursday) at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and will be at Medford Monday.

Following a 10-0 romp over Quincy and a 5-1 win over Brookline, North Quincy won its biggest game, blanking Peabody, rated one of the North Shore's top teams, 2-0.

Nancy Flukes and Beth Holt had the Raiderettes' goals and Kellene Duffy had an assist. Tara Meyer, Karrie Pistorino and Nancy Flukes shared the goalie duties and all played well.

"We are off to our best start in years and the players, many who are interchangeable, are unselfish," said Donovan. "The Quincy game was a mismatch as Quincy is very inexperienced.

"Our win over Peabody was a big one as they have a really strong team. Nancy Flukes scored the first goal with a shot from about 30 yards into the upper left corner, with Kellene Duffy setting it up with a fine pass. Beth Holt put the game on ice with a fine individual effort at the two-minute mark of the second half."

North's starting lineup is made up of senior Stacey Welch, who had a hat trick against Quincy, and Tri-Captain Flukes at forward, Tri-Capt. Karrie Pistorino, junior Holt and senior Christine Price at halfback, and junior Julie Murphy, junior Kristin Drake and senior stopper Patti Feeney at fullback. Tri-Capt. Tara Miles plays both goalie and wing and Pistorino and Flukes play forward and goalie. Junior Sara Francis and sophomore Caitlyn O'Brien are the first two substitutes at whatever position they are needed. Sophomore Duffy is an outstanding wing.

Other players are junior Karen Miller, sophomore Alison Johnson, junior Kristen Golden and a fine looking freshman group, Jennifer Cook, Cathy Kelley, Julie Marinille, Michelle Burke, Erin Lydon, Janine Leary and Tara Miles.

"It is early in the season, but if the defense, which has been terrific, and the girls' desire and hard work continue, we could surprise a few more teams," Donovan said.

North Girls Back In Swing Of Things

A year ago the North Quincy girls were unable to field a complete cross-country team after winning eight Eastern Mass. championships, but this season they are back in the swing of things under coach Rich Hutchins and assistant Kevin Kelly.

The Raiderettes, with many young runners, broke even in their first two Suburban League meets, both decided by one point.

They edged Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 29-30, and lost to Brockton, 28-29.

The North girls faced Brookline yesterday (Wednesday) and next Tuesday will be at Newton North.

In the loss to Brockton, Bridget Toland, who finished third against Cambridge, was the winner in 15.38, followed by Brockton's Andrea Giovanis.

North's Amanda Young finished third, Karen Cashman fourth and Joanne Moriarty ninth.

North's squad includes Toland, junior Cashman, freshmen Rachel Marshall and Young, senior Caryn Collings, sophomore Moriarty, senior Colleen Tolland, junior Betsy Zadig and freshman Ann Marie Montgomery.

"All of our girls finished in the top 12 against Cambridge and all did well again against Brockton," said Hutchins. "They could sense the need to finish strong for the win over Cambridge and I'm glad we had enough runners.

"Kevin Kelly is doing a fine job with the girls. He has worked with them for the past two years as their track coach and he has handled them well."

Accent On Action In Youth Soccer League

By DONNA SULLIVAN

It was another action packed week in the Quincy Youth Soccer League.

In the Boys Under Eight Division, Williams and Bertucci defeated Jack Conway 4-1. Scoring for Williams and Bertucci were Peter Godfrey, Keith Fraga, Kevin McCarthy and John Bertucci. Playing well for the winners were Matt Praetsch and John Cooper Jr.

Mark Driscoll scored the lone Conway goal with assists from Jerry Holly and Mike Sullivan. Jimmy Barrett, Leo Connolly, Bily Connolly and Ryan Deshier played well for Conway.

Mayor McCauley team blanked Quincy Cable 6-0. Goal scorers were Brian Doyle (2), Ronald Gamel, Michael Powers, Billy Walker and Joe Sullivan. Assisting were Billy Walker, kevin Walsh and Michael Viles. Playing well for McCauley were Zachary Ready and Matt Melchin.

Quincy Cable received solid play from Matt Norton, Steve Foster and Brian Nolan.

Wood Building Maintenance upended Scarry Real Estate by a 6-1 score, led by John Barron's four goals. Other scores for Wood Building came from Chris Curry and Paul Carney. Mike Clancy, Matt Lebo, Joe Watson and Chris Curry assisted. Giving a great effort were Adam Goodrich and Jeff Glynn.

Scarry's only goal came from Brad Croall. Playing well in defeat were Billy Norris and Henry DiNino.

Corcoran Management nipped H.F. goodwin 4-3. Michael Fitzpatrick netted two goals for Corcoran, with Jimmy Parisi and Shawn Manning adding one goal each.

For H.F. Goodman, Chris Bregoli had two goals while Shawn Martinson had one. Playing well for Goodman were Jason Crossman and Michael Keenan.

Colonial Savings Bank and Hancock Paint played to a 2-2 tie. Matthew Kiseli and Jeremy Theberge scored for Colonia while Chris Carthas and Chris Cummings tallied for Hancock.

WEEK OF: October 1, 1987

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You deliberate long and hard before making decisions. Your sense of ethics is particularly noteworthy. Year ahead sees you involved in the role of manager as you perfect your leadership skills. Celebration may be on tap early in '88.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Cultural events occupy much of your time through a period that accents the arts and education. Partner is more willing to share innermost thoughts; be a willing listener.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Avoid shortcuts, especially where finance is involved. Travel and travel planning are highlighted; be especially careful in choosing a travel companion. Career environment brightens.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
A small dream may come true this week as you find that positive thinking sometimes pays off. The subject of history has special interest for you at this time.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Recreational activities are spotlighted over the weekend. Speak up if people are not paying their debts or acknowledging your contributions. Romance accents its sentimental side.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Romance is on a steadier course and finances benefit from research. Thought-provoking discussions highlight this period and friends are impressed with your intellectual qualities.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
You have a knack for finding gaps in logic -- but in romance, nothing is logical now. In career, new opportunities abound. The key is to look at your own long-term goals.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Work at overcoming a shortcoming -- this a splendid week for self-improvement. It is also a week that focuses on romantic patchups and some unexpected travel.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Plans undergo last-minute changes through the week -- you're literally on your toes most of the time. Educational pursuits are emphasized; you excel in new areas of interest.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
New interests and new friendships are twin themes this week. Watch tendency to overextend yourself -- committing more time than you actually have. Professional relationships are more cordial.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Influential individual supports your plans, provided they're well presented. News from faraway spot heightens your interest in travel. Old skills prove rewarding after the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Opportunity opens up for broadening responsibilities at your place of work or in the community. Good week to take stock of financial situation and review your goals.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Week sees you drawing up a blueprint of long-term plans. New interest may lead to new friendship. If searching for a special object, weekend may prove rewarding.

Jaehnig Basketball League Underway

The Jaehnig Chiropractic Men's Basketball League got underway Monday at St. Joseph's Church Nickerson Hall, Quincy Point.

In the opening game, John Timmins led Timmins Contracting to a 89-73 victory over Elm St. University. Bill Murphy and Kevin Brogiola chipped in 17 and 15 points respectively. Paul Forbes and Bill Docey had 14 points apiece for Elm Street.

Lower Mills defeated Casey Club in the night's most exciting contest by a score of 78-77. Mike Keeley and Tim Sullivan led the way with a combined 44 points. Paul Whaley was outstanding for Casey Club scoring 31 points in a losing cause.

In game three a scrappy team defense powered Jaehnig Club to a 65-50 win over the Quincy Nets. Mirty Connolly scored 15 and Jim Kelly 14 for Jaehnig Club while Steve Belcastro capped game high honors with 20 points for the Nets.

Mark Millane led a balanced Mount attack scoring 19 points in an 83-50 romp over the Smeds. Kurt O'Sullivan and Jim Rehnquist added 16 apiece while Joe Updigraph paced the Smeds with 21 points.

Next Monday's games feature the Smeds against the Nets at 6:30, Mount versus Lower Mills at 7:30, Jaehnig versus Timmins at 8:30 and Elm Street against Casey Club at 9:30. The public is welcome.

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted, without mentioning the favor.

Morrissey Opposed To Sludge Facility On Spectacle Island

Rep. Michael Morrissey said he is opposed to locating a sludge incinerator on Spectacle Island in Boston Harbor.

"I'm opposed to incineration in general," said Morrissey.

"I don't think that we should be incinerating sludge anywhere.

"People think that there is no constituency (connected with Spectacle Island) and that it won't affect anybody.

"But I think it is very, very close to South Boston and Quincy, and with a prevailing breeze, particularly in the summer months, it will have an effect on the Quincy area.

"I think any attempt to put an incinerator there is a very large mistake."

He noted that he is not opposed to using Spectacle Island to dewater or compost sludge.

Morrissey said that much work would be required to ready the island for a sludge facility.

"There are other things we could be doing to resolve this problem," he said.

Morrissey said that a better alternative would be to have the sludge treated, dewatered and deodorized at Deer Island or composted and shipped out of Deer Island.

He said that a demonstration project is ongoing at Deer Island where they are composting sludge every day.

"They could expand that operation and take the composted material, ship it out on a barge to the North Shore or New Hampshire or transfer it to wherever else they can ship it," he said.

Quincy Republican Committee To Meet Oct. 6

The Quincy Republican Committee will meet Tuesday, Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at Wollaston Methodist Church, Beale St.

The agenda will include: Discussion of the upcoming municipal election; preparations for the 1988 U.S., state and county elections; and recruitment for a slate of Republicans to be elected to the new (1988) Quincy Republican Committee.

State GOP Chairman Ray Shamie has been invited as guest speaker. Call 471-1774 for further information. All Republicans are invited.

LATE LETTER -- Natalie and Nicholas Barbadora look at the letter he sent her 43 years ago while he was serving in the Army during World War II and which was finally delivered 43 years later.

Sent In 1944

His Letter Arrives... 43 Years Late

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It wouldn't be appropriate for a Federal Express commercial but then again, better late than never.

A letter, sent by Nicholas Barbadora of Quincy to his then girlfriend and now wife Natalie in 1944 while he was a lawyer for the U.S. Army in India during World War II, was finally delivered to their Wollaston home last week.

The letter is presumed to be one of 235 letters found in Raleigh, N.C. last May mailed by men aboard the Liberty Ship Caleb Strong while it was bound for North Africa 43 years ago. The bag of mail was entrusted to a soldier on shore leave who for unknown reasons failed to take the mail to a post office.

The bag of "Victory Mail" wound up in the attic of the home of the now deceased soldier's aunt. It was spotted by an exterminator who took the letters to Raleigh Postmaster Ross Garulski.

Megaera S. Harris, a Postal Service spokesperson, is credited with doing much of the detective work for the late deliveries. The Post Office has tracked down 83 of the 92 men in 35 states who wrote the missing letters home in 1944. One of them is Barbadora.

However, Barbadora, clerk of courts for Norfolk County, was not aboard the Liberty Ship Caleb Strong. A likely scenario is the letter was somehow brought aboard the ship and found its way into the lost mail bag.

Barbadora mailed the letter, dated June 29, 1944, to Natalie who then lived in Medford. At that time, Barbadora was an Army lawyer from Verchild St., Quincy, stationed in Karachi, India. He wrote Natalie every week, five or six times a month.

"Natalie collected all the letters I sent her," he said.

Except one.

The lost letter arrived in the mail at their Harvard St. Wollaston home Sept. 29, more than 43 years after he mailed it from India.

Both Nicholas and Natalie were naturally puzzled for several reasons.

"It was addressed to me. I couldn't figure out the handwriting. It wasn't the original envelope because the original had my return address on it," Barbadora said.

"I didn't know where it came from. I was amazed," he said.

To complicate matters more, the letter, postmarked in Boston on Sept. 28, arrived without any note of explanation enclosed.

The mystery continued until about 10 p.m. that night when Natalie saw an Associated Press article concerning the found mail bag and the effort being made to relocate the soldiers who had originally sent them 43 years ago.

"We didn't figure it out until we saw the article," Barbadora said. He added that the post office probably used his A.P.O. number written on the letter to identify the sender and subsequently his new local address.

"If I hadn't seen the article, we would still be wondering," Natalie said.

Estimated Tax Bills In Mail Oct. 16

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

It looks like Quincy residents will find estimated tax bills for the fall billing in their mailboxes after Friday, Oct. 16.

That's the date the city is shooting for after necessary action was taken by the City Council Monday night, said Mayor Francis McCauley.

The city will now seek approval from the Department of Revenue to send out the estimated bills, he said.

If the bills go out on schedule Oct. 16, they will be due Nov. 16, he said.

The city had hoped to mail the bills two weeks earlier, but inaction by the council on two appropriation orders postponed that, said McCauley.

Councillor Joseph LaRaia tabled an appropriation order of $1,400,000 for salary increases.

An appropriation of $1,204,159 to reserve for appropriation was referred to the finance committee by its chairman Richard Koch, Jr.

At Monday night's meeting, the two appropriation orders as well as several others were unanimously passed by the council.

The other orders included $5,200 for the Recreation Department's 10 sports camps and instructional workshops; $12,000 for a new supply truck for the Fire Department; $12,000 for a pick-up truck in the General Services Division of the Police Department; $20,000 to Sewer Water and Drain Department for water main work; and $50,000 to the Highway Department for sidewalk repair.

McCauley said the delay in sending out tax bills will cost the city about $50,000 in interest income because tax payments will be at least two weeks later.

He added that the city will not have to turn to short term borrowing.

Legislation passed earlier this year allows all communities in the Commonwealth to mail out estimated tax bills in the fall, according to McCauley.

Each community must receive approval from the D.O.R., he noted.

The fall tax bill would amount to one half of the fiscal 1987 tax bill, McCauley explained.

He said he expects the fiscal 1988 tax rate to be set in December.

The second half tax bill, due May 1, 1988, would reflect the difference between the total annual bill due for fiscal 1988 and the estimate paid by Nov. 1, said McCauley.

Lawyer Seeks Murder Defendant's Release On Bail

A 21-year-old Wollaston man charged with murder and his Quincy attorney were expected to appear in Norfolk Superior Court Wednesday morning in an effort to have the charged man released on bail.

Kenneth M. Yesilcimen, of 19 Elm Ave., and his attorney, George G. Burke of Quincy, were due in court Wednesday seeking Yesilcimen's release. He is being held without bail at the Dedham House of Correction after pleading innocent Monday at Quincy District Court to a first-degree murder charge in connection with the death of Susan M. Paul, 16, a former girlfriend.

Paul's body was found Sunday, Sept. 27 near Pageant Field in Merrymount. She had been beaten to death.

In a new development, Burke said he received a phone call from an unidentified "girl" late Tuesday afternoon who said she saw Paul get into a car with two other men late Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26.

Paul was last seen between 2 and 2:30 p.m. that Saturday.

"She said Kenneth Yesilcimen was not one of the two men in the car," Burke said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

Burke said the caller did not offer any more information.

"It did not sound like a crank call," he said.

Yesilcimen, who was arrested last Friday by Quincy Police, told police he had last seen Paul about 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 26.

Paul was reported missing early Sunday, Sept. 27.

"She called because her conscience was bothering her because she knew she hasn't disclosed what she knows about this case," Burke said.

Assistant District Attorney Louis F. Sabadini said in court Monday that the prosecution has several

City Awarded $20,000 Grant For 3 Projects

Quincy State Reps. Michael M. Morrissey and Thomas F. Brownell announce the city of Quincy has been awarded a $20,000 grant by the state Executive Office of Communities and Development.

The "Strategic Planning Grant" would fund three projects to be undertaken by the city Planning Department for the purpose of meeting the city's affordable housing objectives. Quincy will match the grant with $5,000 of its own funds.

The projects would:

- Provide for a reassessment and possibly a redrafting of the city's zoning ordinance in such a way that would promote the production of affordable housing.
- Conduct an affordable housing needs assessment for the city to estimate the actual demand for housing by low and moderate income persons in terms of both rental and first-time homeownership opportunities.
- Conduct a public information program to enhance community awareness of the need for more affordable housing.

Brownell said, "It's obvious that housing costs have become a real problem for renters and first-time buyers. This grant will help the city to plan out short and long term solutions to the problem."

Planning Board Meeting Oct. 14

The Quincy Planning Board is scheduled to meet Wednesday, Oct. 14, beginning at 6:45 p.m. to consider two requests.

The first request is from Mary Crowley Gregoire of Lenox St., Houghs Neck, to reapply to the Zoning Board of Appeals to subdivide land at 7-23 Marshfield St. into three lots and construct a road for some 300 feet.

The second request, to be heard at 7:30 p.m., is from Carl Johnson, trustee for Quincy Group Realty Trust, 1259 Hancock St., for a planned unit development special permit.

Oct. 16 Ceremony

Westmoreland Speaker At Marina Bay Vietnam Memorial Dedication

Peter O'Connell of O'Connell Management Company in Quincy and retired U.S. Army General William Westmoreland will dedicate the Marina Bay Memorial Clock Tower at Marina Bay in North Quincy on Friday, Oct. 16 at 11 a.m.

The $500,000 clock tower will honor the men and women of Quincy who are missing in action or died while serving in the Vietnam War.

These honored Vietnam veteran's names will be engraved on one side of the four-sided tower. The memorial will also be inscribed with the history of Marina Bay and a quote from the late John F. Kennedy. The quote will appropriately reflect upon these honored Vietnam veterans.

The clock stands 85 feet in height and is 16 by 16 feet at its base. The brick and granite structure is highlighted by a gold-leaf cupola which completes the top of the memorial, increasing its height to 110 feet.

The cupola, the memorial's finishing tough, was placed on top of the tower Tuesday morning.

O'Connell Management, developer of Marina Bay, has been the force behind the clock tower since its conception. Their efforts, along with the Steering Committee, made up of business and civic leaders, and numerous veterans organizations have worked on the project the past two years.

In addition to General Westmoreland and O'Connell, Mayor Francis McCauley and the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, will speak at the dedication.

Other dignataries will also be present.

Families of South Shore Vietnam veterans, as well as various branches of the military, color guards and bands will participate in this tribute and commoration to Quincy residents who lost their lives in the Vietnam War.

O'Connell Brothers Construction built the tower with assistance from Campbellsville Industries of Campbellsville, Ky. and Fabricon Company of Horsham, Penn.

The tower was erected by Antonelli Ironworks of Quincy.

License Board Briefs

By KRISTINE STRENGE

• Granted if approved by Fire Chief Carl Valenti and Building Inspector Matthias J. Mulvey, a request from Babson Realty Corp., 32-55 Linden St., Wollaston to store 2,350 gallons of gasoline and oil in tanks of cars, and 2,200 gallons of gasoline and oil underground in vehicles.

• Granted a request from Quincy High Football team to conduct canning dates Friday, Oct. 16, 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 17, 12 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Sunday, Oct. 18. Head Coach Jack Raymer requested the license.

• Granted a request from The Norfolk County Bar Association for a one-day all alcoholic license for Tuesday Oct. 13 from 10:15 a.m. to 11 p.m. for a golf and tennis outing, and a dinner meeting at the Wollaston Recreational Facility. It was granted with the understanding that the liquor served is controlled by the bar association and wine and beer controlled by Wollaston Recreational Facility.

• Granted a request from the North Quincy boys soccer team for canning dates Friday, Oct. 23 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 24 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Sunday Oct. 25, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

• Granted a request from North Quincy Girls Soccer Team for canning dates Friday, Oct. 30 Saturday Oct. 31, Sunday Nov. Proceeds will go towards the season banquet and awards.

• Voted to suspend a motor-two license of David P. Osis at Dave's Auto Transmission, 481 Quincy Ave., for parking problems and disrespect to a police officer. But, the board voted three to one to suspend the suspension to a one year probation period.

City Clerk John Gillis chairman of the License Board who opposed the probation period, said Dave's Auto Transmission should be shut down for one week. "Somewhere we (the board) must set an example and it should start here with Dave's Auto Transmission," said Gillis.

• Voted that the all alcoholic license at Sagamore Grille, 78 A & B Sagamore St., North Quincy will be suspended for three months if Sagamore Grille fails to within two weeks show cause why their license should not be suspended.

No Action On $1.M Request For Landfill

The City Council's Finance Committee took no action Monday night on a request for authorization to borrow $1,600,000 for engineering costs and improvements to the sanitary landfill in West Quincy.

Committee chairman Richard Koch, Jr., requested a tally of the city's cost to comply with regulations of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

The DEQE ordered the 110-acre landfill closed last May, and the order was upheld by Superior Court Judge Cortland Mathers who criticized the way Quincy has operated the dump and called it an "ecological disaster."

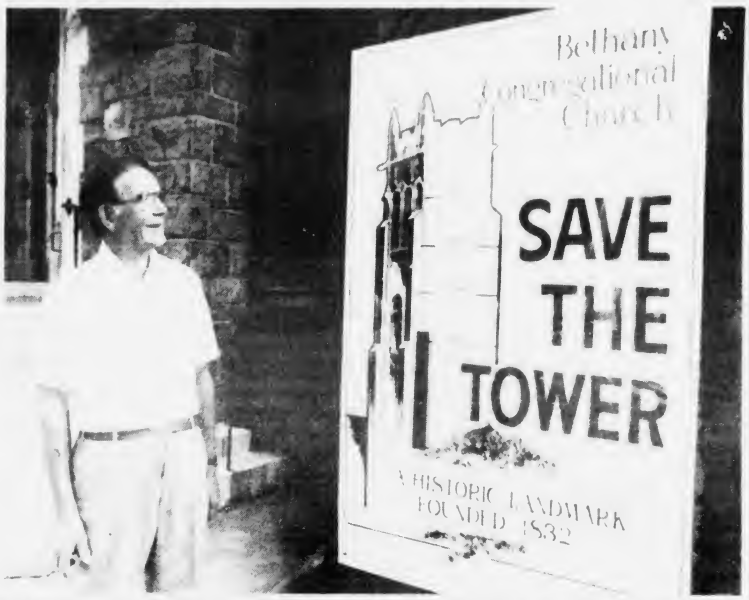
Quincy filed a countersuit against the DEQE.

Since the landfill was closed, Browning Ferris Industries has trucked the city's residential rubbish out of town.

At Monday night's meeting, Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson said the money will allow the city to bring the landfill up to environmental standards and bring it in compliance with a court order.

Anderson said that the money will go towards leachate control and capping of phases I and 2, and capping and closing of Phase 3.

After compliance with the regulations, he said the city would decide whether or not to use some limited space in Phase 3 of the landfill for residential or city residual trash.



Councillor Michael Cheney said he would like a committee to be formed to make recommendations on the way Quincy should address its solid waste problem in the future.

"We're not even looking, and I'd like to see us start looking," said Cheney.

Councillor James Sheets, in whose ward the landfill is located, asked if it wouldn't be better to "put all our efforts into a long range or regional solution."

Councillor Joseph LaRaia called the landfill problem "financially backbreaking."

"I fail to see the benefit bonding (borrowing) does to the city immediately," said Koch. "There is no guarantee that we can go back in (to the landfill)."

METEOROLOGIST DON KENT looks at the Bethany Congregational Church "Save The Tower" sign located in front of the historic church in downtown Quincy. The church needs to raise $125,000 in order to repair the tower or it will be razed. Sign indicates about $25,000 has been raised. Kent, former moderator of the congregation, is chairman of the fund-raising committee.

McGrath Resolve Commends DOVE

City Council President Stephen McGrath has introduced a resolve to the Quincy City Council commemorating DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS WEEK Oct. 11.

McGrath noted in the resolve that the DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) shelter in Quincy has done an outstanding job in attempting to address the problem of domestic violence.

He commended the many dedicated staff and volunteers for their commitment to this program.

AIDS Education Task Force Meets 'With Enthusiasm'

The first meeting Monday of the recently established AIDS Education Task Force went well, according to its chairman, Health Commr. M. Jane Gallahue.

"The committee is still in its beginning stages, but there was a lot of enthusiasm shown," she said.

In addition to the 15 members appointed to the committee by the mayor, three other individuals have expressed interest in joining the committee, she said.

The committee's next meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19, 9 to 11:30 a.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

Two films on AIDS will be shown, Miss Gallahue said.

They are "Beyond Fear" and "A Letter from Brian," according to the health commissioner.

The task force's major function will be to educate those in the community about AIDS, according to the mayor.

Quincy Hospital Offers Tips For Fireplace Safety

A crackling fire in the home fireplace.

In most cases, it provides warmth. In many others, it poses a potential fire hazard and health threat to life and property.

Quincy City Hospital, an organization that is committed to your health, would like to offer some tips, as cool weather approaches, to help make your home safe for you and your loved ones.

Homeowners are encouraged to take steps that ensure not only a warm fire, but a safe one. It is recommended that the fireplace be in sound, working order, and that the proper type of firewood be burned.

Chimneys can be a source of tragedy.

For this reason, it is advisable for a professional chimney sweep to inspect and clean any chimney that has been left unused for a while, or one which hasn't been cleaned for a few years, before lighting a fire. Possible damage could result from a build-up of flammable chimney dirt, called creosote, which collects on the inside of fireplace walls. A professional sweep can also check for cracked flue liners, possible structural damage, inside debris (from birds and animals), or an improperly operating damper.

Chimneys are messy, of course, and the job of cleaning them is best left to experienced professionals. Nevertheless, with the proper tools, homeowners can also do an adequate job. The correct flue brush, for example, should be round and made of wire. It should also be somewhat larger than the flue opening to ensure the right cleaning action.

Professional strength vacuum cleaners are also handy for drawing up debris as it falls from the flue. Be forewarned that home vacuums are not generally designed to handle fireplace debris and dirt.

When buying wood, it is important to understand exactly what you are buying. For instance, the most common measure of firewood, a full cord, is defined as a tightly stacked pile of wood four feet high, four feet deep, and eight feet long. Seasoned wood is that which has been cut and has had at least six to nine months to dry out. Any wood cut in the fall will probably not be ready to burn until late winter.

In maintaining a safe fire, never use flammable liquids. Keep a metal or glass screen in front of the fireplace. Don't use excessive amounts of paper to build roaring fires. And never burn charcoal in your fireplace. Homeowners using synthetic logs are encouraged to closely follow the instructions on the wrapper. And everyone is reminded of the importance of making sure the fireplace fire is completely out before leaving the house or going to bed at night.

On a cold winter's night, there are few pleasures more enjoyable than a cozy, crackling fire. Quincy City Hospital staff encourage you to make certain your fire is not only cozy, but that it's safe!

Mayoral Reading Oct. 20?

You might get a pretty good reading on the mayor's race come Tuesday, Oct. 20.

On that date, both Mayor Francis McCauley and challenger Joseph LaRaia have fundraisers scheduled.

McCauley's is a $50 per head event going from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

LaRaia's is a $25 per ticket one set for 7 to 9 p.m. at Quincy Bay Inn.

McCAULEY

LaRAIA

A coincidence, apparently. The boys don't confide in one another.

But some political observers will look on it as an unexpected opportunity to do a little head-counting and a little name-tagging to see who and how many show up at each event.

And, with a pocket calculator add up how much each candidate took in.

The latter is important because between Oct. 20 and the Nov. 2 election there is less than two weeks. And that's when you really need a few bucks to keep the compaign rolling.

It may be more crucial for LaRaia.

According to financial statements filed at the City Clerk's office Sept. 8 McCauley had something like $42,000 left to spend compared to about $13,000 for LaRaia.

LaRaia had about $8,000 going into the campaign and raised $41,000. But he spent $36,000 or $37,000 -- leaving about $13,000.

McCauley, who has hardly spent anything, probably now has some $42,000 or so to play with.

Some observers think LaRaia started spending money on political advertising too soon in the summer when there is little interest in an election.

They think he would have been better off to hold onto that money for the October homestretch drive to the Nov. 2 wire.

McCauley did just that. His advertisements didn't start to appear until a week ago.

Anyway, circle Oct. 20 on your calendar.

"What do you mean, have I heard the latest? Why, I started it!"

His feet probably covered more ground than any other candidate in the Sept. 15 preliminary election.

Chretien says he knocked on just about every door in Ward 3 not just once, but twice and, in some instances, three times.

CHRETIEN

If there was no one home the first time, he left campaign literature and returned.

He says those who were home each time he knocked didn't seem to mind. He never got a "Oh, no, not you again!" reaction.

It apparently paid off.

Making his political debut as a candidate, after serving as legislative aide to Rep. Thomas Brownell, Chretien topped the Ward 3 vote. He polled 834 votes to 422 for Howard MacKay, running for the second time.

MAC KAY, meanwhile, isn't too thrilled about campaign stationery Chretien is using.

The heading says: Larry Chretien, Ward 3 Councillor.

MacKay feels it implies that Chretien is already the Ward 3 councillor and thus the incumbent.

But the text of one letter from Chretien to voters reads something like Chretien "is on his way to becoming Ward 3 councillor." It does not infer he is Ward 3 councillor.

Other candidates have used similar letterheads.

In fact, Senator Robert Dole has stationery going out now that reads: Bob Dole, President.

Of course, Presidents are easy to keep track of.

MacKay probably feels that because Ward 3 zig-zags through a good part of the city, some voters in that area could mistake Chretien for an incumbent if they received a letter on this type campaign stationary.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN Chris[illegible] Kennedy will be away from the campaign trail for [illegible] days. He is off on a tour of [illegible] European nations.

KENNEDY

Kennedy is Vice President [illegible] Administration at Northeastern University and is representing that school on the European College International Tour.

Some 30 colleges will have representatives meeting with high school students, parents and guidance counselors.

Purpose is to recruit students from among many American families in London, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, West Germany, Greece, Italy and Paris. And, also, hopefully, interest some of the natives into enrolling at the U.S. colleges.

Dolls House Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Oct. 11 to 18 as "Quincy Miniatures and Dolls' House Week."

"Miniatures as a hobby provides the opportunity for people from all walks of life, from grade school to senior citizens, to share their interest and use their creative talents," said McCauley.

He noted that the "The Tiny Treasures Society" of Quincy, Chapter 26 of NAME, is sponsoring a week of community-wide exhibits and programs concluding with a day of exhibits and slides at the Woodward School Sunday, Oct. 18, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Council Opposes Shipyard Favors Spectacle Island For Sludge Facility

The City Council adopted two resolves Monday night regarding the treatment of sludge.

The first resolve, introduced by Councillors Theodore DeCristofaro and Michael Cheney, urged that the council go on record as being opposed to the selection of General Dynamics shipyard for the treatment of sludge.

It also suggested that the council oppose the method of incineration at any site under consideration.

The resolve noted that the shipyard is among 12 sites under consideration for the location of a treatment facility for sludge emanating from all the communities in the MWRA sewer district.

"The treatment of sludge at General Dynamics would have adverse environmental and financial impacts on the residents of the city of Quincy," stated the resolve.

The second resolve, introduced by Cheney, urged that the council support the use of Spectacle Island for composting of sludge.

It also suggested that the council encourage the secretary of transportation and the executive director of the Mass. Water Resources Authority to coordinate their construction projects so as to utilize Spectacle Island for both the construction of the Third Harbor Tunnel and depression of the Central Artery, for the disposal of excavation material and the construction of a residuals management composting facility.

Council President Stephen McGrath said he generally supported the resolve, but that he would prefer more time to study the use of Spectacle Island.

MWRA $2.1 Million Program To Find Water Leaks In Municipal System

Massachusetts Water Resources Authority Executive Director Paul F. Levy announces a new $2.1 million program to help 42 communities including Quincy find leaks in their water systems.

Under the program, the MWRA will conduct leak detection surveys on nearly 6,000 miles of municipal water pipes, Levy said.

According to Levy, the new leak detection program is aimed at saving an estimated 25 million gallons of water lost each day in municipal water systems and is an integral part of a $33 million water conservation program now being implemented by MWRA. It is also the first time a state agency has conducted a leak detection survey directly within communities, he said.

"This program will help communities reduce their water costs by reducing waste," said Levy. "We will help the cities and towns find the leaks costing their ratepayers money." Details of the program are being mailed to communities.

Under the program, the cities and towns will be responsible for repairing the leaks. However, Levy said cities and towns repairing water leaks usually recover the full cost of the repairs in one year through decreased water usage, savings that permanently accrue thereafter.

"This kind of cooperative effort is essential to a strong water conservation program, noted MWRA Chairman James S. Hoyte.

"The MWRA Board strongly supports this effort and included it as an essential part of our long range water supply program. Many communities have already reduced water leakage and other unaccounted for water," he noted, "but much needs to be done."

Hoyte added that MWRA has recently hired an additional eight employees to detect and repair leaks within its own 270 miles of water distribution pipes.

MTA Extension Opposed Here

Oct. 7-13
1956
31 Years Ago

George A. Yarrington called on South Shore businessmen to oppose attempts to extend the Metropolitan Transit Authority lines to Braintree or Greenbush in Scituate.

Yarrington predicted a new attempt would be made after George A. Alpert, president of the New Haven Railroad, said he is considering abondoning passenger service on the Old Colony Division.

Opposing the MTA because of its large publicly funded deficit, Yarrington is the author of a bill in the legislature that would create a South Shore Transit Authority to Greenbush, Plymouth and Middleboro.

MYSTERY CAR IN QUARRY

A Rolls Royce automobile, raised from a depth of 51 feet down in Echo Lake quarry on the Braintree line, produced a mystery when a nickel-plated revolver was found under the seat. The car bore Florida license plates issued in 1931.

It was discovered in the quarry by skin divers and raised at the behest of C. Aston Cox, a Wollaston auto dealer at 60 Beale St., who wished to study the effect of water on a long-submeged vehicle.

Special Rice Cakes
It's Worth It

When the humidity was gone one day, I went into the kitchen (my lab) and felt a little creative. Since I've made all kinds of various fritters, meatcakes, fishcakes and the list goes on, I decided to try something with rice, a family favorite. And surprisingly it was better than all the others, at least for us.

If you have leftover rice you're halfway there, but this recipe only calls for a cup of rice and it only takes about 15-20 minutes to cook. It's worth it, you'll see!

SPECIAL RICE CAKES

1 cup rice
1 egg
a couple of tablespoons of grated cheese (any kind) 1 sausage, cooked and cut in small piece (or a small amount of sauteed beef) salt and pepper as desired
1 Tbsp or so of flour
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1 cup corn flake crumbs

Boil the rice, and drain off all liquid. Put in a bowl and add the egg, flour and the rest of the ingredients until blended. Now the secret is in the mixture. In order to spoon this out on to the breadcrumb and cornflake crumb mixture, the consistency must not be too liquidy. So use your own judgement and add a smidgen of flour until the misture can be handled. Once you spoon out enough (as much as a large meatball), roll the rice around the breadcrumb mixture until it forms a ball. Fry in hot vegetable oil until brown on all sides, drain on paper towel. I served them with sour cream and they were really different and delicious. If you make them ahead of time, keep in a warming oven or use the microwave. I did both.

William R. Crocker, 51

A funeral Mass for William R. Crocker, 51, of Quincy, formerly of Weymouth, a licensed electrician for Crocker Electric in Quincy for 15 years, was celebrated Oct. 3 at St. Albert's Church.

Mr. Crocker died Sept. 30 at home after being stricken ill.

Born in Boston, he lived in Weymouth for 16 years before moving to Quincy 10 years ago.

He was a 1954 graduate of Weymouth High School.

Mr. Crocker received the Outstanding Unit medal for service in the Air Force.

He was a former truck driver and member of Teamsters Union Local 25.

He is survived by his mother, Mary T. (Lavis) Crocker of Hanover; a brother, Edward "Ted" Crocker of East Weymouth; and a sister, Joan M. Johnson of Hingham. He was the son of the late Edward M. Crocker and brother of the late Robert B. Crocker.

Burial was in Old North Cemetery, North Weymouth.

Funeral arrangements were by the McDonald Funeral Home, 809 Main St., Weymouth.

Donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 1105 West Chestnut St., Brockton, MA 02401.

Rose Thorner, 95

Founding Member

Congregation Adas Shalom

A funeral service for Rose (Tratten) Thorner, 95, a founding member of Congregation Adas Shalom of Quincy, was held Sunday at the Schlossberg-Goldman-Solomon Chapel, Canton.

Mrs. Thorner died Oct. 2 at the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center in Roslindale after a long illness.

Born in Russia, she lived in Quincy for more than 60 years.

She was also a life member of the Sisterhood of the Congregation Adas Shalom, a life member of Hadassah, and a life member of the Women's League of Temple Beth El, Quincy.

She was the wife of the late Dr. Charles H. Thorner, who practiced in Quincy for many years; two daughters, Sylvia Kaplan and Edna Canter; a sister, Adeline Devor; seven grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. She is the mother of the late Melvin Thorner, and sister of the late Harry Tratten, and Dr. William Tratten.

Burial was in Sharon Memorial Park.

Expressions of sympathy may be made to the Congregation Adas Shalom of Quincy or a charity of choice.

Louise Iacobucci, 83

A funeral Mass for Louise (Giorgi) Iacobucci, 83, of Quincy, a retired cook for Quincy public schools, was celebrated Oct. 2 at St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Iacobucci died Sept. 30 at Quincy City Hospital.

She was a lifelong Quincy resident.

She was a member of the Senior Citizens Club and the Women's Auxiliary of the Sons of Italy.

Wife of the late Camillo Iacobucci, she is survived by a daughter, Josephine Orsini of Quincy; a brother, Gino Giorgi of Quincy; three grandchildren, Linda Capuano of Quincy, Raymond Orsini of Boston and Gabriel Jacobucci; and a great-grandchild, Michael Capuano of Quincy.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Leonard J. Holmes, 72

A funeral service for Leonard J. Holmes, 72, of Quincy, a retired shipper for Pneumatic Scales, was held Tuesday in the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Mr. Holmes died Oct. 2 at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

Born in East Bridgewater, he moved to Quincy 44 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Louise M. (Rogan) Holmes; a daughter, Deborah Smith of East Bridgewater; two sisters, Alice Cool of East Bridgewater and Eleanor Meserve of Westfield, Conn.; two grandsons, Gregory Smith and Jason Smith, both of East Bridgewater.

Burial was in Northville Cemetery, East Bridgewater.

Wesley G. Angell, 80

Eastern Nazarene College Trustee

A funeral service for Wesley Gale Angell, 80, of Wollaston, retired head of the claims division of Mutual Fire Insurance Association of New England, and trustee of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, 37 East Elm Ave.

Mr. Angell died Monday at Milton Medical Center.

He was involved in design and construction of many buildings at Eastern Nazarene including Memorial Hall, a men's dormitory, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene and the Nease Library. His service of hundreds of hours was a gift to the college.

He served as trustee for 37 years, elected each year by the Alumni Association. He graduated in 1928.

When the Canterbury building burned in 1941, he renovated and restored it as a memorial to his father, the Rev. E.E. Angell who had been a college teacher and pastor of the college church.

His father is also the namesake of the present religion building on campus.

Mr. Angell's interest in constructing college buildings started as a student leader in the fund drive for gymnasium.

He helped a local contracting firm draw plans for the administration building and worked on its construction.

At one time he was college treasurer.

He was a World War II Navy veteran, serving with the Seabees, a construction battalion in the South Pacific.

Mr. Angell was a charter member of Wollaston Church of the Nazarene and a member of the Wollaston Yacht Club.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine M. (Brown) Angell; two sons, Gary W. Angell of Westwood and Gordon G. Angell of Connecticut; a daughter, Katherine G. Angell of Minnesota; a sister, Edith Wynot of West Dennis and four grandchildren.

Burial will be at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Visiting hours were scheduled for Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Memorial donations may be made to the E.E. Angell Scholarship Fund at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, MA 02170.

Virginia G. Greene, 82

Proparvulis Club Vice President

A funeral Mass for Virginia G. Greene, 82, of Quincy, a retired executive secretary for American Investments Company of Boston, was celebrated Monday in St. Joseph's Church.

Miss Greene died Sept. 30 at Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

She was vice president of the Proparvulis Club.

Born in Boston, she lived in Quincy several years.

The daughter of the late George F. and Katherine (Hart) Greene, she is survived by a sister, Edith C. Greene of Brunswick, Maine. She was the sister of the late Raymond G. Greene.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Francis E. Joyce, 55

A funeral Mass for Francis E. Joyce, 55, of Wollaston, an MBTA machinist, was celebrated Monday in St. Agatha's Church, Milton.

Mr. Joyce died Oct. 2 at University Hospital in Boston.

Born in Dorchester, he moved to Wollaston 11 years ago.

He worked as a machinist for the MBTA at the Cabot Street yards in South Boston for the last 10 years. He previously worked for the U.S. Postal Service at the South Postal Annex.

He was a member of the John P. McKeon AMVETS Post in Dorchester and Local 264 of the Machinists Union AFL-CIO.

He was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean War.

Mr. Joyce is survived by two brothers, John Robert Joyce of South Weymouth and Vincent P. Joyce of Braintree; two sisters, Mary Byron of Milton and Catherine S. Cusick of Newburyport, two cousins, John Whalen and Ann Leary, a dear friend, Eileen M. Denver of Dorchester, and many nieces and nephews. He was the brother of the late Thomas M. Joyce.

Memorial donations may be made to St. Mark's School Building Fund, 20 Roseland St., Dorchester, MA 02124.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Fate seems sometimes to delight in making strange combinations among the pieces of the game it plays through the centuries ... Did you know that Queen Isabella of Spain and Christopher Columbus were born in the same year ... 1451? Queen Isabella was born on April 22 at Madrigal de Las Altas Torres and Columbus in Genoa between August and October ... It is also believed by some historians that Amerigo Vespucci was born in the same year.

Fate or coincidence? Who knows! But one thing we do know is that these three protagonists of the great oceanic adventure changed the face of the world ... The discoverer, his noble patron and man from whom the new world was to take its name were all born in the first year of the second half of the 15th century, which was to open a new period of history ...

'The Puritan Impulse' Point Congregational Topic

This Sunday, members and friends of Quincy Point Congregational Church will participate in this month's celebration of the church's 150th anniversary. The 10 a.m. service will feature the Rev. Bruce Whittemore speaking on "The Puritan Impulse - 1838 to 1988."

Rev. Whittemore is a recently retired minister of the United Church of Christ, having served his last church in New Haven, Conn. He now lives in Brewster and is an active member of the board of directors of the Congregational Historical Society in Boston.

Purpose of Sunday's service will be to rediscover the local church's historical roots over the 150 year period.

The Rev. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastors of Quincy Point Congregational, also announce that the sacrament of Christian baptism will be administered during the morning service.

Infants and children being baptized include Richard Sean Carbonneau, son of Shirley and Leon Carbonneau; Alicia Danielle Mullen, daughter of Sandra and Marc Mullen; and Michael David Swanton, son of Jill and David Swanton.

Music for Sunday's service will include organ selections by Herman Weiss. The Chancel Choir will sing.

Complete Child Care services are provided for infant and young children; and church school classes are held the same hour as morning worship for infants, children and young people through high school.

The church is located at Southern Artery and Washington St.

'A Glimpse Of The Promise' Wollaston Congregational Sermon

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach the sermon at the Wollaston Congregational Church Sunday, Oct. 11 at 10 a.m. entitled "A Glimpse of the Promise," based on Deuteronomy 34:1-12 and Philippians 4:1-9.

The sermon will focus on the question "Do we recognize the glimpses we get of God's promise?"

Lay scripture reader will be Carol McRae. Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Christian Holler and ushers, Joseph Pinel and Harry Towle.

The acolyte will be Robert Olson.

Nursery care for babies and toddlers is provided under the supervision of Andrea Kelsay and Laurel Oster. Church school for grades one through 12 is held from 10 to 11 a.m.

The monthly Christian Education Committee meeting will be held at the home of Pat Delval Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service and all are invited to share the sociability.

Contralto Guest Soloist At Bethany Church

Contralto Ruth Hamilton will be guest soloist at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, Oct. 11, at Bethany Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, located at Coddington and Spear Sts., in Quincy Center.

Hamilton, a native of Atlanta, Ga., lives in Cambridge and has been soloist in numerous Boston area churches. She will sing four spirituals: "Wade In The Water," "Every Time I Feel The Spirit," "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," and "Hold On!" as well as Haydn's "When I Think Upon Thy Goodness" as the offertory solo.

She will be accompanied at the organ by Peter Krasinski, organist and choir director of Bethany Church. In addition Krasinski will present a special arrangement of the spiritual "Steal Away" as the organ postlude.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach on the topic "Lost And Found" based on Luke 15:1-24. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will assist in leading the liturgy. Edmund Aluisy will be the lay scripture reader.

The service will be broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc. at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Pam Curran, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in our worship and in the fellowship. You are also welcome to enroll children in our creative Sunday School program.

At noon the Sunday School is sponsoring an apple-picking picnic traveling by school bus to the Doe Orchards in Harvard, MA. The ride is free but each person or family must bring a picnic lunch and money to purchase apples and ice cream on the way home. If you would like to go apple-picking or would like more information about the other ministries of Bethany church please call the church office at 479-7300.

St. Chrysostom's To Celebrate Feast Of St. Luke

The healing ministry and parish of St. Chrysostom's Church, Hancock and Linden Sts., Wollaston, will celebrate the Feast of St. Luke, the physician in a service of thanksgiving and prayer for health care professionals on Thursday, Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Jon Fuller, S.J., M.D., on the medical staff at Boston City Hospital AIDS clinic, and an AIDS consultant for the Boston Visiting Nurse Association. Dr. Fuller is also a theological student at the Weston School of Theology.

He will speak on "The Challenge of the Gospel to Health Care Professionals tending to people with AIDS."

'Taking These Words To Heart' Squantum First Church Topic

"Taking These Words To Heart" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

It was Covenant Sunday, a twice-yearly opportunity for members of the church to renew their covenant with God and each other.

This year it was scheduled to coincide with "Worldwide Communion Sunday."

Dr. Langevin took a passage from the prophet Jeremiah as his text: "But this is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord; I will put my law within them, and I will write it upon their hearts; and I will be their God and they shall be my people." (Jeremiah 31:33).

The Chancel Choir sang "My Jesus, I Love Thee" as the anthem. Mary Ruth Scott played the organ and Janet Williamson played the piano. The congregation sang "We Gather Together," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and "Forward Through the Ages."

A mother and daughter, Evelyn and Sandra Ahearn, were greeters for the morning. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes. The Fellowship after the service was hosted by Ellen Ogilvie and Sandra Stohlberg.

Monday, Oct. 12, is Grotonwood Day, a day-long picnic for church members of all ages at Grotonwood, a Christian camp in Groton.

There will be two services again this Sunday: a guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and a traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

Missionaries At Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy, will host Dr. and Mrs. Steve Thorsons on Sunday, Oct. 11 at 9 a.m.

The Thorsons will speak and show slides on their work as medical missionaries to Nepal. Steve, a pediatrician, and his wife Becky, a laboratory technician, are sent by the World Mission League to Nepal.

They work at the United Mission to Nepal, an international and interdenominational Christian organization.

All are welcome to attend.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

Home Hints

HAPPY BIRDIES — Before discarding an old stove or refrigerator, remove the shelves and use them for bird perches and feeders, by attaching suet and containers of birdseed to them. Simply wire the racks to hang from a limb of a tree. Before long, you'll have all kinds of birds enjoying their meals. Janet O., Des Moines, Iowa

Hiring A Contractor To Insulate Your Sidewalls

Underinsulated sidewalls may be responsible for up to 30 percent of a home's heat loss. To prevent this, a professional insulation contractor should be hired to insulate them with a blown-in fiber glass insulation such as CertainTeed Corporation's Insul Safe III®.

While insulating an attic is a relatively simple project for a do-it-yourselfer to undertake, insulating sidewalls is a more complicated procedure which should be undertaken by a professional insulation contractor. Like the attic, sidewalls are an extremely important area to insulate because heat loss through walls may account for up to 30 percent of the total heat loss in a home.

First you must find the right insulation contractor to do the job. A good place to begin looking is in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directory under "Insulation Contractors." Friends and neighbors might also be a good source of leads. Once you have a few contractors in mind, be sure to check credentials, references and written estimates of the work to be done.

Typically, a contractor will begin by carefully removing some of your home's outside siding. Next, he will drill small openings into the wall cavity. Usually two holes are drilled per stud space, however some homes might require three or four openings depending on their construction.

Once all holes have been drilled, the contractor will begin blowing insulation into the wall cavities. Usually, he will use a special sidewall nozzle to blow-in the material. Most contractors will recommend installing a high quality, thermally efficient blown-in fiber glass insulation such as CertainTeed Corporation's Insul Safe III®. Insul Safe III is also noncombustible, noncorrosive to pipes and wiring and odor free.

Once the cavity is filled, the contractor will plug the holes with circular pieces of wood and replace the siding. With the exception of reductions in your energy bills, you'd never know the job had been done.

For the brochure, "Insulate Your Sidewalls for Added Comfort," write to the CertainTeed Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

Repair Closet Doors

Closet doors appear simple and usually operate smoothly for years. Fixing one, however, can easily become an exercise in futility! Many homes have malfunctioning doors because, either the repair parts cannot be located, or the principle of their operation is so unique that the average homeowner is reluctant to undertake the project.

For more information on where these universal parts are sold in your community and a copy of "The 15 minute Fix-It Guide for Closet Doors," write I.I. Johnson Products, Inc., Dept. HT, Box 1126, Elkhart, Indiana 46515.

City fights to preserve open space

Mayor offers master plan

By Philip Dine
The Patriot Ledger

QUINCY — Mayor Francis X. McCauley yesterday announced the city's first master plan to preserve land for the public by acquiring parcels throughout Quincy and preserving them as open space.

Called the "conservation recreation plan," it includes planned actions through 1988 and is an attempt to counter the development surge that has hit Quincy in recent years.

TRADITIONAL VALUES - NEW SPIRIT

Chretien Says Traffic Is Ward 3 Priority

Larry Chretien, candidate for Ward 3 Councillor, says traffic in Ward 3 is the worst in Quincy. "It has to be a top priority of both the next Ward 3 Councillor and the city's newly hired traffic engineer," he said.

Chretien also said:

"A recent study, Quincy Traffic 2000 correctly pointed out that West Squantum Street, Newport Avenue, Burgin Parkway, and Granite Sts. are all roadways needing intensive care and they are all in Ward 3.

"The report also emphasized one area in particular-the Montclair-Wollaston area, which is also made up of neighborhoods in Ward 3. The target area, which is bounded by Newport Ave., Beale St., West Squantum St., and the town of Milton, has three problems, several intersections with high accident rates, excessive volumes of traffic cutting through neighborhood streets, and speeding. The report proposed two alternative solutions. One involved putting up 4-way stop signs at many intersections. The other would make several streets one-way.

"On Tuesday, Sept. 29, I met with Dave Kinnecom, the new traffic engineer and we agreed that the problem is not that simple. We feel that while some intersections do warrant 4-way stop signs and that some streets should be made one-way, neither of the report's alternatives is sufficient. Before we make changes of this nature, public meetins should be held to find out what residents would prefer.

"Most of all, however, we need much better enforcement of existing traffic and parking laws. If necessary, the city should add additional police officers whose sole responsibility would be to enforce those laws. Most likely, they would pay for themselves."

"I will meet with the traffic engineer a regular basis over the next few months to develop better ideas for Ward 3. The goal is to identify where money should be spent and where exactly to alter traffic patterns."

· Do you believe all property taxpayers should pay their taxes on time?

Mayor Frank McCauley does.

In 1982 Mayor McCauley set up a tax collection program that has resulted in the payment of over $7,000,000 of overdue property taxes and interest.

City Moves Against Delinquent Taxpayers

A list of delinquent taxpayers from 1985 is in this week's edition of The Quincy Sun.

According to Treasurer Dana Childs, those listed in the paid advertisement have 14 days to pay before the city takes its next step.

"Hopefully, some of the delinquent taxpayers wil pay their bills before we take a tax title on the property," Childs said.

That is the first step in foreclosing on the property, according to Childs.

The treasurer said that this year's list is about two-thirds less than last year's. He attributed that to more diligent efforts to collect taxes.

"We've tried to step up efforts on collecting all taxes," Childs said.

New England Telephone Helps Non Profit Agency Conserve Energy

New England Telephone is helping a local non-profit organization keep the heat in and the heating costs down.

A recent grant of $1,000 will help Friends of WORK, Inc., at 3 Arlington St., make significant energy conservation improvements.

Friends of WORK offers vocational, educational and residential services to persons with serious disabilities, including mental retardation, Downs Syndrome and autism. They provide work training and employment opportunities to 1200 persons daily in Eastern Massachusetts.

With the grant, Friends of WORK will repair an inefficient heating system, improving the boiler and thermostats. The savings are approximately 20 per cent of their current oil use, or $900 savings per year.

Friends of WORK is among 42 non-profit organizations in the company's five-state operating area receiving a total of $40,000 through the program this year.

Jarnis Listens To School Parents On Issues

Robert Jarnis, candidate for School Committee, says he has spent a considerable amount of his campaign meeting with parents of school children.

At homes throughout the city, he has discussed school issues and listened to parental concerns.

Informal discussions with parents, answering questions and listening to their ideas is a great way to judge the effectiveness of our school system, Jarnis said.

At the home of JoAnn and Rick Bragg, 74 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, parents expressed concerns regarding discipline within schools and the disruptions it caused. At the home of Paul and Sue Griffin, 80 Edwin St., North Quincy, parents and neighbors heard Jarnis reinforce the need for parents to be active within schools and keep up with their children's progress.

Parents in Southwest Quincy met at the home of Michelle and Bruce Stenberg, 22 Caledonia Ave. Parents there were very concerned regarding the possibility of the closing of Sterling Middle School, Jarnis said. He reminded the parents that the Task Team on Middle School Education, on which the candidate was a co-chairperson, recommended that no Middle School building be closed. The Task Team report "contains ample documentation and data to fight attempts to close a Middle School building," Jarnis said.

Squantum Elementary school parents had the opportunity to meet and question the candidate at the home of Beverly Cullin, 62 Billings St., North Quincy. The evening was also co-hosted by Judy Brams a parent from the Squantum School. Concern was expressed about the lack of foreign language at the Middle School. Foreign language is an important component of a total and complete education and should be available at the Middle School level, mentioned Beverly Cullin. Bob Jarnis agreed with the advantage of Middle School foreign language, but was concerned with impacts of such a program on an already limited budget.

"A total of $4 million in physical plant maintenance needs for our schools has been identified, and these deferred maintenance needs for our schools has been identified and these deferred maintenance needs should be a priority," mentioned the candidate. "With this tremendous maintenance cost and without additional funding, our schools will be limited in their offerings."

Jarnis maintained the importance of meeting with parents who along with students, are the real users of the Quincy Public School System. To gain the full support and confidence of parents, the School Committee should broaden communication with parents to better understand their needs and objectives.

Jarnis has two children in the Quincy Public Schools and is a first time candidate for public office.

25 Vo-Tech Students To Help Save Taxpayers' Money

Twenty-five students in the Plant Maintenance Program at Quincy Vocational Technical School will have an unusual experience this academic year.

As they learn, they will be maintaining and renovating their school, saving the taxpayer enormous sums.

The project, Department Head Arthur Morrissey says they will show the kind of sophisticated skills that are taught at a vocational school. School director Joseph A. Mazzarella admits that the 20 year old facility has been allowed to fall into disrepair. "It is nothing we are proud of, and it is nothing the city is proud of either," he said during an interview this week.

Since students enrolled in a voke-ed facility are being prepared for the world of work, it is a great advantage both to them and to the school tht they tackle projects of significance and gain valuable hands on experience," Mazzarella explained.

The labor provided by students will be free, and in areas where they are not capable of performing a job their efforts will be supplemented by the custodial and maintenance crew.

A project of this magnitude is not overwhelming to Morrissey who constructed the original plumbing shop in the school. "We have done projects all over the city," he said, and admitted that sometimes it is difficult to take students outside the school because of controversy created by unions in the licensed trades. "Generally though," he said, "we have been able to get special permission, and we try not to step on toes or make people feel we are taking away from their living."

Both Morrissey and Mazzarella emphasized that there is continual need for experienced, and well trained plant maintenance workers. "Every large building needs them on all shifts, and the students trained here will never be without work," Morrissey emphasized, adding "especially with the training they will receive here."

QCA Holds Candidate's Rally

The Quincy Citizens Association was scheduled to sponsor an old fashioned candidates' night rally yesterday (Wednesday) Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. at the Woodward School, Hancock St., Quincy.

All Quincy candidates running for office in the Nov. 5 city election were invited to address the voters. The public was invited to attend and refreshments were set to be served.

Candidates and their supporters were invited to display their campaign signs and banners, and a lively exchange of questions and answers is anticipated when voters express their views to the candidates.

'Charlie Brown' At Eastern Nazarene

Members of the 'Peanuts' gang come to life on the stage of Eastern Nazarene College as the Communication Arts Department begins its 1987-1988 season with a faculty production of "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" to be presented Oct. 16-17 and Oct. 22-24.

"You're A Good Man Charlie Brown" is a bright and fast-paced musical based on the popular comic strip 'Peanuts' by Charles M. Schulz with book, music and lyrics by Clark Gesner. Small vignettes strung together with cheery musical numbers provide the audience with glimpses of an average day in the life of this lovable loser with whom everyone can identify.

ENC faculty members from the Physics Department to the Religion Department form the six member cast which includes professors Karl Giberson (physics) as Linus, Susan Welch (music) as Patty, Thomas Haverly (religion) as Schroeder, and Jeffrey Frame, Michael W. Ballard and Ronda Rice Winderl (communication arts) as Charlie Brown, Snoopy, and Lucy respectively. Since most of the 'faculty-cast' are also parents this production challenges them to not only find that child-like essence within themselves but to also relate to the experiences and every day situations of their own children.

Dr. Ronda Rice Winderl, head of the communication arts department of ENC, is directing her colleagues in this production and Margie Ballard is designing costumes based on Schulz's strip. Professor Michael W. Ballard, who directed last season's "J.B.," is designing sets and Dr. Susan Welch is musical director.

"You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" will play in the Cove Fine Arts Center Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17 at 7 p.m., Thursday and Friday, Oct. 22 and 23 at 7 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 24 at 6 and 9 p.m. All seats are $5. In keeping with its tradition of providing quality educational theater, the communication arts department of Eastern Nazarene College will also present a matinee performance to area schools on Friday, Oct. 16 and Thursday and Friday Oct. 22 and 23.

For tickets and information write "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown," Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, MA 02170, or call the ENC Communication Arts Department at (617) 773-6350 ext 262 or 269.

Child Molestation And Abuse

Let's face it. Almost all the rules and tips we give you about increasing children's personal safety have to do with your two big fears for children: sexual molestation and physical harm.

Each year an estimated 100,000 U.S. children suffer some form of sexual abuse. The average age of the child victim is 10 years old.

Teaching "stranger rules" is smart, but not enough. In the majority of cases, the sexual molester is known to the child and the child's family. That's why only a minority of abuse cases are reported to the police. The abuser is often a parent, relative, babysitter, or a close family friend. Children may give into adults sexual advances bacause they fear losing their love, or fear their punishment.

Therefore, they are especially vulnerable to sexual abuse by someone they know, like people who care for them regularly. Children are trusting and defenseless. Make sure you check carefully the references of babysitters, day care centers, and recreation leaders.

A child may not recognize sexual abuse when it happens, or even know it's wrong, especially if the abuser is someone the child knows. Children must learn what appropriate "touching" is. Discuss it with your child. Many children instinctively know what "proper distance" should be kept between them and other persons. Sometimes a child may be uncertain about the intentions of another person. In this situation, children should know it's O.K. to respond in a way that makes them feel safe and more comfortable. Children usually know that genuine and gentle affection is different from someone who tries to touch their genitals or fondle them in any way that makes them feel unsafe. They should pull away immediately if someone suggests such actions, even if they're offered a present or bribe.

How To Respond:

Children often make up stories, but they rarely lie about being victims of sexual assault. If a child tells you about being touched or assaulted, take it seriously. Your response is very important and will influence how the child will react and recover from the abuse. Stay calm. In a reassuring tone, find out as much as you can about the incident. Explain to your child that you are concerned about what happened. Don't be angry. Many children feel guildty, as if they had provoked the assault. Children need to be reassured that they are not to blame, and that they are right to tell you what happened.

A child may need to be taken immediately to a doctor or an emergency room. Sometimes the child may be treated for V.D. and checked for pregnancy. Law enforcement, special hot-lines, or child welfare agency should be contacted right away. Sometimes, a child may be too frightened or confused to talk directly about the abuse. Be alert for any change in behavior that might hint that the child has suffered a disturbing experience:

- Is the child suddenly more withdrawn than usual, refusing to go to school or afraid to be alone.
- Is the child having trouble sleeping, waking up with nightmares, or wetting the bed?
- Is the child complaining of irritation of the genital areas?
- Are there signs of anxiety or immature behavior?
- Does the child show a marked change in behavior toward a relative, neighbor, or babysitter.

Other Child Abuse:

Including sexual abuse, an estimated one million child abuse incidents are reported every year. Other forms of child abuse include physical violence, emotional cruelty and deprivation, and physical neglect. Each year, an estimated 2,000 to 5,000 children die from child abuse. Child abusers are persons usually known to the child. This means most cases aren't reported to authorities, and children continue to suffer because abusers are repeat offenders. Child abuse is dangerous and against the law. Many abused children will grow up and victimize their families, and others, later in life. It is your duty as a citizen to report suspected cases of child abuse immediately. The children need help and treatment as soon as possible.

Carol Herbai Appointed Red Cross Volunteer Chairperson

Carol Herbai of Quincy has been appointed to chairman of volunteers for the American Red Cross Greater Boston region.

Mrs. Herbai has been an active volunteer with the American Red Cross for over 40 years. She joined the volunteer ranks of the Red Cross in 1945 at the Oak Knoll Naval Hospital, Oakland, Calif. From 1950 to 1953, she volunteered with the British Red Cross at the Caribbean Medical Center, Port of Spain, Trinidad.

CAROL HERBAI

In 1959, she became a member of the Revere Chapter of the Red Cross where she was assigned to the Chelsea Naval Hospital. From 1960 to 1975, she served several Red Cross chapters in Texas, Virginia and Maryland. In 1975, she began working with the American Red Cross at Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, where she continues to volunteer in the emergency room every Friday.

Mrs. Herbai was elected to the board of directors of the Greater Boston region in 1981 and was appointed for the first time as chairperson of volunteers. While serving on the board, she has assumed several other volunteer responsibilities, from special events fundraising to public relations.

Mrs. Herbai is also a member of the Auxiliary Board of Directors and vice president of the Women's Auxiliary for Quincy City Hospital and the Jewish Recuperative Center in Jamaica Plain. She is the District II Representative for the Arts for the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs.

She and her husband are the parents of three daughters, and the grandparents of six.

QCA Holds Candidates Night

The Quincy Citizens Association was scheduled to hold a Candidates Night Rally last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy.

Candidates for mayor, ward councillor, councillor at large and school committee were invited.

They were expected to answer questions on development, schools, traffic, trash, sludge, environment, health and taxes.

The QCA sponsored the candidates night as a public service.

Because of the length of the program, the usual QCA monthly meeting agenda was postponed to the Nov. 4 meeting at the Montclair Men's Club.

Reservations for the annual meeting Christmas dinner party at the Hollow Restaurant Dec. 2, may be made with Elenda Lipsitz, 328-8327 or Rita O'Toole, 328-7917.

QCH Managers To Meet

The Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers will meet Tuesday, Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Dennis F. Ryan Board Room.

Kennedy Says More Science Teachers Needed

At a recent coffee hour, Chris Kennedy, a candidate for re-election to the Quincy School committee said, "Unfortunately, there is a growing disaffection among our young people for science programs."

"A recent newspaper article deplored the fact that medical school applications are down six per cent over last year, and the downward plunge has been going on now for the last five to six years," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said this "phenomenon" is repeated in engineering, nursing, physical therapy, computer science, pharmacy and other related fields.

"This does not bode well for the future of this country; in addition, it will be more and more difficult to obtain science teachers for our students in as much as industry has been attracting many of them away from our schools," he said.

"It is rapidly approaching the time for attracting new and not so new science teachers to our schools. The most important ingredient in such attraction is money; that it will be necessary to pay more for such teachers is a basic lesson in economics," the candidate said.

"We must move in that direction as quickly as possible because it is in our middle and high schools where the inspiration for careers in science are born, thanks to our fine teachers," Kennedy said.

Lions Club Accepting Glasses For Needy

The Quincy Lions Club is accepting used eye glasses and frames for recycling and distribution to the needy.

Dr. James Will, a Quincy dentist, and project chairman, said these glasses will be sent to New Eyes for the Needy. The 50-year-old volunteer organization tests and analyzes these eye glasses and sends them to medical missions all over the world to be matched with people who can use them.

Over $101 Million In Construction In Past Year

Estimated construction work totalled $101,751,212 for July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1987, somewhat less than the same period in 1985-1986, according to the Quincy Building Department.

The total for the preceding year had been $132,172,186.

However, the number of permits issued increased from 1,437 in 1985-1986 to 1,515 in 1986-1987.

New construction added 782 dwelling units and alteration resulted in 130 new dwelling units.

A total of $993,007 was received in permit fees, and $8,067 for public safety inspections.

Permits were issued for 51, one-family dwellings estimated to cost $3,623,300, two, two-family dwellings at $150,000, two, three-family dwellings at $322,000; two, four-family dwellings at $570,000; and 14 multi-family dwellings, at $41,672,800.

There were also nine permits for mercantile structures at $22,295,000; four for storage at $207,500; 10 for garages at $94,000; 978 for residential alterations at $7,907,645, as well as 173 for other alterations at $17,205,856.

In addition, there were 58 permits issued for removals at $499,660; 82 for signs at $159,300; and 130 for miscellaneous at $7,044,151.

Maureen Bisognano Named Administrator At Braintree Hospital

Maureen Bisognano, formerly chief operating officer at Quincy City Hospital, was recently named hospital administrator at the Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital in Braintree.

As Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital administrator, Bisognano will be responsible for the strategic direction and management of the 98-bed hospital which specializes in rehabilitating patients with respiratory diseases.

Bisognano, who will begin her new position Oct. 19, will be a Hospital Corporation of America employee under the hospital's contract with the company to manage the facility.

At Quincy City Hospital, she was responsible for the day-to-day management and long-term strategy of the 334-bed municipal hospital.

MAUREEN BISOGNANO

From 1982-1986, Bisognano was Quincy City Hospital director of patient services, managing the hospital's professional departments including the laboratory, physical therapy, respiratory therapy, ambulatory care and nursing.

She was Quincy City Hospital director of nursing from 1981 to 1982. She first joined the hospital as a staff nurse in 1973. Between 1973 and 1981, Bisognano held a range of nursing positions including assistant director of nursing, clinical supervisor of the intensive care unit, and head nurse education coordinator.

Bisognano received a master of science degree in nursing administration from Boston University. She holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the State University of New York, an associate degree in science from Quincy Junior College, and a diploma from Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing.

South Shore Bank Passes $1 Billion Mark In Assets

South Shore Bank, 1400 Hancock St., Quincy, recently surpassed the $1 billion mark in assets to total $1,006,359,000.

Forrest Cook Jr., president of South Shore Bank, called this mark a "milestone in the history of South Shore Bank."

"This achievement is another sign of the level of trust and confidence the South Shore community has had in South Shore Bank and we thank them for their support," Cook said.

"We have done many things over the 150 years that we have served this community to consistently insure top quality financial service, but it is very rewarding to see our efforts result in such progress and growth," he said.

Paul Ruggere Joins Cox Management

Paul Ruggere of Quincy has joined the project management staff of Cox Engineering Company, a Boston-based mechanical contracting firm.

Ruggere will manage a number of the firm's piping and heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning projects, including Heritage on the Garden, a 500,000 square-foot condominium and retail complex now under construction in Boston.

His previous experience includes the design and construction management of mechanical and piping systems for hospitals, research and testing facilities, laboratories, and high-rise buildings for more than 25 years.

Ruggere attended Northeastern University's School of Business Administration and completed a number of courses in computer programming and estimating.

He and his wife, Maureen, have two children.

Mazzarella To Visit China On Education Trip

Joseph A. Mazzarella, director of Quincy Vocational-Technical School, will be among a group of American educators who will visit China for two weeks.

The trip, to begin next week is privately funded, is sponsored by the American Vocational Association. Mazzarella is the only vocational educator from Massachusetts selected to go.

"Only one quarter of the Chinese student population receives vocational training, and educational officials are looking for some direction about how to train greater numbers," Mazzarella explained.

He credits the success of voke-ed in Massachusetts, which is a model for the rest of the nation, to dedicated professionals committed to an educational alternative. Massachusetts features a regional vocational school system and strong, active organizations that include the Mass. Vocational Association of Vocational Administrators (MAVA) of which Mazzarella is a former executive director.

"I think it is fair to say that we never let up. We currently have legislation pending which will have a tremendous impact on vocational technical education across the state, and we work hard and will continue to work hard until Senate Bill 1826 becomes law," Mazzarella continued.

The legislation, if passed, will restore state funding to vocational schools of approximately 35 per cent, establish centers for retraining for vocational teachers, make technological scholarships available for voke-ed students and provide monies for updating equipment.

Mazzarella says he feels his invitation to China is a professional honor, and prestigious for Massachusetts and the role the state plays in vocational education. He said he would make a full report on his trip when he returns.

Keenan Fundraiser Oct. 14

The Committee to Elect John F. Keenan, Ward 5 City Councillor, will hold a fundraiser-rally Wednesday, Oct. 14 from 7 to 11 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post, Miller St., West Quincy.

There will be a buffet, dancing, and a cash bar. Tickets are $10 and can be obtained by calling Joanne Keenan, Committee Treasurer, at 479-3856 or at the door.

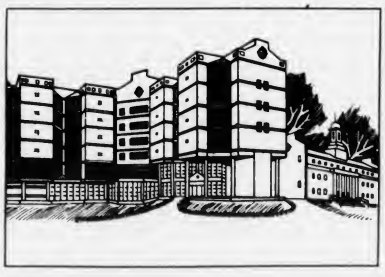
Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

WEEK OF: October 8,

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Your skills include an ability to make people feel good about themselves and an ability to put situations in their proper perspective. You sometimes make too many commitments. Next six months offer opportunities for growth in your career. Early '88 accents new educational interests.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Good week for polishing old skills and learning some new ones. Family tensions ease noticeably thanks to your diplomacy. Unusual travel is on the horizon.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Family get-togethers accent the humorous side -- make an effort to keep them upbeat. Discussions on the job may get heated, the key is to remain logical in your arguments.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
An unpredictable week that sees the arrival of an unusual invitation and several changes in plans. Friendships accent their lighthearted side. Romance requires a good sense of humor.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Preparation is the key in a week that finds you planning projects on a large scale. Romance may take a temporary backseat to career. Public speaking skills win you admirers.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Cooperative ventures start to pay off this week. Improved home situation lessens stress and allows you to concentrate on new interests. Community project brings rewards.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
Learning more about yourself is a key activity this week. Friends may rely on your expertise to an excessive degree. Family members, meanwhile, are eager to help you out.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Community interests lead to a new or a renewed friendship. Correspondence with someone from abroad proves immensely rewarding. Originality is accented in career or academic environment.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Artistic streak is prominent and you can communicate to friends through a creative medium. At work, however, opt for a practical and highly logical approach.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
Generally avoid procrastinating -- but also avoid rushing into unknown situations. Romantic relationship is on the upswing thanks to your more positive approach.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Relationships accent selectivity. Be sure to include a trusted friend in your plans. Be especially mindful of tricksters if trying to keep a secret. Travel offers educational opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Modest plans can expand quite suddenly as everyone decides to join in. Long-term goals can benefit from a methodical review. Possessive friend decides to loosen the grip.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Domestic confusion clears thanks to a letter or call that arrives this period. Avoid temptation to volunteer for assignment before checking it out. Financial news-brightener may arrive now.

Presidents Host Newton N. Friday Night

By TOM SULLIVAN

Things are not getting any better for the Quincy football team and Coach Jack Raymer will continue to move players around on defense after the Presidents (0-3) lost to Waltham, 43-14, last week at Waltham.

Quincy will host Newton North Friday night at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Newton, after losing to Watertown and Brockton, edged North Quincy last week on a late field goal. Last season Quincy got by Newton, 19-18.

"We are still giving up too many long scoring plays and we just have to tighten up defensively," said Raymer. "I'll continue to move players around in hopes of finding the right combination. Waltham played its best game and unfortunately it was against us."

Waltham was led by Jerome Fuller, who ran for 195 yards on 14 carries, scored on runs of 76 and 44 yards and intercepted a pass.

In every game this year Quincy has been burned by long touchdown runs and passes.

"Offensively we were better and the offensive line was much better than it was against Brookline," said Raymer. "They gave Chris Noble some good protection tonight after an awful night the week before.

"Noble, who came back after being injured against Brookline, did a good job. He was nine for 15 for 158 yards and a touchdown, although he was intercepted three times. Sean Munroe, who spent the week in the hospital after an arm injury got infected, was outstanding again as he caught seven passes for 95 yards and his third touchdown of the year."

Dave Spencer played fine defense after coming in midway in the third quarter as a nose guard.

Terry Byrne, Chris Kohler, Steve Slicis, Tom Bjork, Chris Norris and Scott Logan all played well in the line.

Munroe	3	4	22
Noble	1	0	6

Logan	0	2	2

Steve Belsanti put Waltham ahead with a seven-yard touchdown run in the opening quarter and Eric Pineda kicked the extra point.

Fuller broke loose and raced 76 yards for a TD later in the quarter and Pineda again kicked the point.

In the second quarter Fuller went 44 yards for a score and Pineda added his third extra point.

Noble scored from the two to put Quincy on the board and Munroe rushed for the two extra points.

Before the half Waltham made it 28-8 when Belsanti scored on a 35-yard run and Pineda kicked his fourth straight extra point.

Waltham scored two more touchdowns in the third quarter, Frank McGuire scoring from the four and Pineda adding his fifth conversion kick and Tom Demeo scored from the seven and Steve Ianelli passed to Mike Quinn for the two-point conversion.

Noble hit Munroe for a 38-yard touchdown pass for the game's final score. A pass for the conversion failed.

Shaughnessy Leading Passer In N.E. Conference

For the past two seasons Curry College had the outstanding quarterback in the New England Football Conference in Quincy's Bob Barrett, who set some spectacular passing records.

When he graduated he left some big shoes to fill but Coach John Doherty's worries about finding a successor were ended when former Quincy High quarterback Bill Shaughnessy transferred from the University of Massachusetts/Amherst.

Shaughnessy is the leading passer in the conference and last week led the Colonels to a 41-14 win over Framingham State, leaving them as the only unbeaten team (4-0) in the conference.

The former Quincy star was nine for 15 for 187 yards, threw for two touchdowns and scored once himself.

In his previous game, in which Curry rolled over Worcester State 32-0, Shaughnessy was seven for 13 for 111 yards and one touchdown.

Junior tackle Al DiBella of North Quincy and junior linebacker Pat Calabro of Quincy have been outstanding in all the Curry games.

Curry is given a good chance this fall of ending Plymouth State's six-year reign as conference champion.

Fitzgerald Scores Hole-In-One

Patricia Fitzgerald, a member of the Ponkapoag Golf Course Ladies' Club recently made a hole-in-one on the 140-yard second hole at Ponkapoag, using a 'ping' 7 wood.

She was playing with Joan Morton, Cele Lemieux and Laurie Webb. This is her third ace, having made one in 1980 and another in 1983.

Doris Brady and Eleanor Verdun won the last of the season's weekly tournaments, a nine-hole best ball, with a net 33. Grace cohen and Edna Teeney were second at 34, Dorca McConaghy and Florence Koffman were third at 39 and the teams of Ruth McNeil and Gerry Blakely, Margie Semple and Ethel Bernstein tied for fourth at 43.

An 18-hole best ball tournament was also played with Charlotte Dickie and Sally Barr winning with a net 70. Ruth Zaleski and Kay Iredale, Marion Dale and Elsie Hagberg tied for second at 73, Marianne Musto and Hazel Forde, Mary Carchedi and Ann Moreth tied for fourth at 77 and Stella Carvelli and Evelyn Curhan were sixth at 82.

Elks Upset Apaches, Sailors Breeze By Manets

The Squantum Sailors defeated the Houghs Neck Manets, 22-8, last Saturday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium to improve to 2-0.

West Quincy Elks upset the North Quincy Apaches, 14-0, for their first win and dropping the Apaches to 0-3.

Sunday afternoon at the stadium the Quincy Point Panthers will play the Manets at 1 p.m. and the Elks will meet the Sailors at 2:30.

The Sailors lost their quarterback a few days before the game and Billy Lydon moved from running back to quarterback and did an excellent job.

Mike Picarello scored twice for the Sailors and Dan Savage had the other touchdown. Lydon passed to John McAdams for a two-point conversion and Mike Lally ran for two points.

The Sailors' offensive line was outstanding with Chris McCallu, Pat Faddie, Mark Nantelle, Wayne Bradley and Ugene Kyong playing fine ball.

Johnny Sullivan led the Elks' offensive in their victory over the Apaches.

North Girls Outswim Walpole

The North Quincy girls' swim team, sweeping the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke, improved to 2-1 last week with a 98-73 victory over Walpole.

Bill Walker's Raiderettes will host Weymouth North Friday at 6 p.m. and Brockton next Tuesday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

The North girls won only four events, but their depth paid off with several seconds and thirds.

The winners were Liz Harrington in the 200 individual medley (2:44.8), Debbie Ramos in the 50 freestyle (29.1), Beth Hughes in the 100 backstroke (1:21.4) and the 400 medley relay team of Maureen Foley, Sharon Quintiliani, Ramos and Hughes (4:39.2).

Taking second places were Hughes, 200 freestyle; Blythe Bumpus, 50 freestyle; Renee Robichaud, diving; Maureen Furey, 100 butterfly; Ramos, 100 freestyle; Quintiliani, 500 freestyle; Joanna Vermette, 100 backstroke, and Harrington, 100 breaststroke.

Placing third were Quintiliani, 200 freestyle; Lisa Rodriguez, 200 individual medley; Molly McDonough, 50 freestyle; Vickey Borek, 100 freestyle; Christine Calnan, 500 freestyle; Bumpus, 100 backstroke, and Rodriguez, 100 breaststroke.

St. John's Basketball Registration Saturday

St. John's basketball registration for boys and girls ages 8 to 18 will be held Saturday from 4 to 5 p.m. in the rectory hall.

First time registrants must submit a copy of their birth certificates. Cost is $25 per player and $60 maximum per family.

The league needs coaches, especially for the boys under 10 teams. Anyone interested in coaching is asked to attend a meeting next Thursday night, Oct. 15, at 7 p.m. in the rectory hall.

Further information on registration and coaching can be had by calling Jake at 479-0272.

North Quincy Losing Miller To Marshfield

North Quincy will have a new boys' basketball coach this winter.

Eddie Miller, who has coached the Raiders for 11 years, will take over the head coaching position at Marshfield High, pending the approval Oct. 13 of the Marshfield School Committee. This is expected to be just a formality.

Miller did not re-apply for the North Quincy job long before he was named to succeed Steve Chiminello at Marshfield.

"Financial reasons had a good deal to do with it," Miller said. "The Marshfield job is almost double the pay. Quincy schools are going through some problems with teachers' salaries. The coaches put in a proposal to bring their salaries in line, but that was one of the things that got thrown out by the bargaining unit. I hope my departure will send a message to the Quincy school committee.

"There's a lot of discontent among the coaches and I'm not alone," he added. "There's frustration and a lot of the guys want out. You can't blame them. Another thing, it seems, in basketball, in particular, we were having a bad time competing in the strong Suburban League.

"The league situation is a factor. Winning doesn't cure all, but it helps. Right now, Quincy athletics make you feel like a second-rate citizen."

(There appears to be a chance that Quincy and North Quincy might be admitted into the Old Colony with the departure of Randolph into the South Shore League. Athletic Director Marty Finnegan has contacted all of the Old Colony athletic directors in hopes of getting their vote. There are now eight schools in the league and 10 schools would be an ideal setup).

EDDIE MILLER

"I enjoyed immensely the coaching and the kids, especially once we got inside the gym. That's the enjoyable part and I'm eagerly looking forward to Marshfield," Miller said.

Eddie starred at North Quincy and went on to Boston State, where he coached the freshman team for a year before serving four years as assistant at North under his high school coach, Bob Nolan. Miller, who has won over 100 games, saw his first North team win its final eight games to earn an Eastern Mass. tourney berth and he had another tourney team, which had his best record (18-4).

The Quincy School Committee will soon name a successor to Miller and it is expected the new coach will come from the school system.

Raiders Face Weymouth S. Saturday Night

The North Quincy football team bounced back from its poor showing against Arlington, but a last minute field goal sent the Raiders down to a heartbreaking 17-14 defeat at the hands of Newton North last week at Newton.

Ken McPhee's North team (1-2) faces a tough assignment Saturday night at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium when it meets unbeaten Weymouth South (3-0). The Wildcats have defeated Dedham, Marshfield and Randolph. A year ago North Quincy pulled out an 8-7 win at Weymouth.

"This was a disappointing loss and I feel sorry for the boys, who played their hearts out," said McPhee. "This was a good Newton team and they proved it the way they battled back. We again made too many costly mistakes and you can't make costly mistakes against a team like Newton. But, we'll stop making those mistakes and we'll win some more games."

North Quincy rushed for 134 yards and had 11 first downs, while Newton rushed for 118 and had eight first downs. Paul McCormack had another fine running game, with 88 yards on 19 carries, but Ryan Craig was bottled up and had only 21 yards. Dave Lawless added 20.

NORTH SEASON SCORING

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Lawless	2	0	12
MacDougall	1	2	8
Ainsley	1	2	8
Craig	1	0	6
McCormack	1	0	6

Joe Mulvey hit on eight of 17 passes for 51 yards, but had two intercepted. Joe Proia was nine for 19 for 135 yards for Newton and had one intercepted by McCormack.

Tri-Captains Matt McNamara and Paul Hogan were standouts in the North Quincy line, Craig, Lawless and McCormack all played strong defense and Steve Shoap sparkled on kickoff and punt returns. Several times he had just one player to beat but the key block was missing each time.

North Quincy scored on its second possession, going 50 yards in 10 plays. On a halfback pass Lawless took a pitchout from Mulvey and hit Mike Ainsley for a 12-yard touchdown. Mulvey hit Ainsley for the two-point conversion.

Newton came back early in the second quarter, driving 70 yards on only four plays. Milton Britton ran 22 yards for a touchdown and Dennis Rohanna took a pass from Proia for the tying points.

North's Jack Mullen forced a Newton fumble and Lawless recovered on Newton's 16, but the Raiders were stopped by an interception.

In the third quarter Shawn Clancy recovered a fumble on Newton's 21, setting up the second Raider score. Craig and McCormack combined for 17 yards and Mulvey passed to Lawless for four yards and a touchdown. A pass for the points failed.

A questionable pass interference call against North Quincy set up Newton's second touchdown. The pass was far over everyone's head and was clearly uncatchable, but the protests of the North coaches fell on deaf ears.

Proia passed to Rohanna for 20 yards and the tying touchdown. A kick of the extra point failed.

North Jayvees Blank Arlington, 22-0

By PETE ZOIA

After a scoreless first quarter, the North Quincy junior varsity football team scored a touchdown in the second quarter and added two in the final quarter to defeat Arlington, 22-0, and improve to 2-0.

In the second quarter North drove 65 yards for a score, spearheaded by the running of Dan Gilmartin and Jeff Sullivan. They reached the Arlington 29 and quarterback Jim Bryan first hit Dave Hutchins for six yards and found Sean McDonough for nine more yards to the 14 from where Gilmartin scored. Hutchins rushed for the two-point conversion.

Arlington failed to move its 47-yard line in the first half.

Fierce tackling by Gilmartin, Dan Hobin and Sean Glennon stymied the Spy Ponders' offensive.

Tim Baker intercepted two passes, giving him five in two games, and Hutchins also had an interception.

McDonough recovered an Arlington fumble on the Ponders' 1 in the last quarter. A five-yard penalty set the Raiders back but Hutchins ran to his left and passed to McDonough for the second score.

Moments later North struck again as Jeff Calvert intercepted another pass and returned it 70 yards for the final touchdown.

Coach Kevin Cobban was pleased with the shutout, saying the win was a team effort.

Olindy's Junior All-Stars League Underway

North Boys Blank Quincy

The North Quincy boys' soccer team blanked Quincy, 2-0, in a well-played game last week to improve its record to 3-2.

The Raiders will host Brockton Friday at 3:30 at the Stadium Field and will be at Newton North next Wednesday. The Presidents will be at Waltham Friday and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday at 3:30 at the Stadium Field.

Rob Hubbard scored both North Quincy goals and Mike Walsh assisted on each. Hubbard scored five minutes into the first half and added his second goal two minutes into the second half.

Quincy tri-captains Rick Morris, Dan Piccini and Mike Sopp played well in defeat.

North Girls Bow To Newton N.

The North Quincy girls' soccer team lost to undefeated Newton North, 3-0, last week, dropping its record to 4-2.

Leo Donovan's Raiderettes will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and will meet Quincy next Wednesday at 3:30 at O'Rourke.

Newton North (6-0) scored three goals in the first half and bottled up North's offense.

Karrie Pistorino and Tara Meyers played well in the North goal with several fine saves.

Earlier in the week the North girls defeated Waltham, 5-3, as Tri-Capt. Nancy Flukes scored three goals and sophomore wing Sara Francis added two.

Kellen Duffy had three assists, Meyers and Tara Miles played well in goal and Patti Feeney and Pistorino turned in fine defensive performances.

Timmins, Mount Undefeated In Jaehnig League

Timmins Contracting and the Mount remained unbeaten in the Jaehnig Men's Basketball League last week, Timmins defeating the Jaehnig Chiropractic Club, 48-41, and the Mount rolling over Lower Mills, 104-67.

Bill Murphy scored 14 points and Mike Waggett 13 to lead Timmins over Jaehnig. Mike Jaehnig had six for the losers and Mark Dwyer played a strong game at point guard.

Mark Millane, who was the scoring champion in the summer league, scored 30 to lead the Mount's romp. Jim Rehnquist had 18 for the Mount and Mike Keeley led Lower Mills with 23.

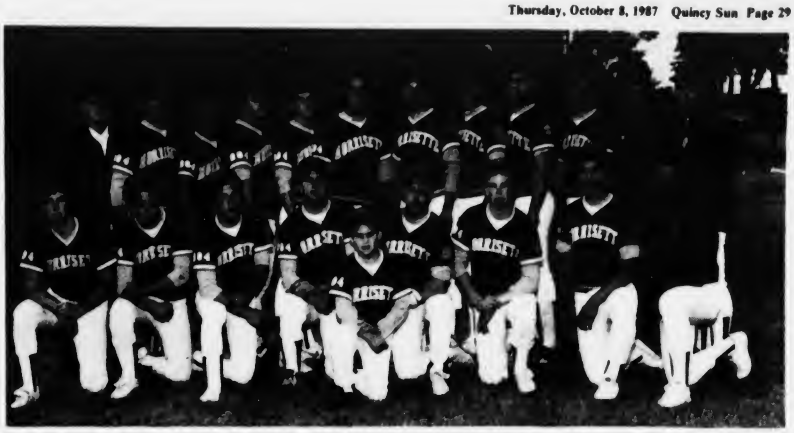
The Quincy Nets evened their record at 1-1 with a 49-35 win over the SMEDS. Jim Conboy led the way with 12 points and Brian Cox had eight. The SMEDS were helped by Steve Phelps and John Updigraph's nine points each.

In the closest game Elm Street edged the Casey Club, 73-70, with Bill Dacey and Dean Coletti combining for 41 points. The Casey Club rallied from a 14-point deficit behind Gary Knapp's 21 points to make things tight.

The games are played on Monday nights at 6:30, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30 at Nickerson Hall, St. Joseph's Parish in Quincy. The public is welcome at no charge.

Over 40 Teams In Hingham Slo-Pitch Tourney

More than 40 men's and women's slo-pitch softball teams from throughout Mass. and Maine, will clash in double-elimination action Saturday and Sunday at the Hingham High field to benefit the Gail Rowe fire fund.



Concession stands will be open and there will be a raffle.

In addition to softball, the Hingham High football team will host Plymouth-Carver Saturday afternoon in an Old Colony League game.

North Rolls By Quincy

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team continued to roll Monday night as it defeated perennial Suburban League champion Quincy, 17-15, 15-4, to improve its league-leading record to 8-0. Quincy, the defending league champ, fell to 5-3.

The North girls played Brookline yesterday (Wednesday), will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 3:30 and will be at Weymouth South next Wednesday.

The Quincy girls met Waltham yesterday, will play at Newton South Friday and will be home to Brockton next Wednesday at 3:30.

The veteran-studded North Quincy team met its toughest test against Quincy, which lost most of the players from last year's league champs. The first game saw numerous lead changes and great defense on both sides of the net, with North finally pulling out a 17-15 win. The Raiderettes' experience was evident in a 15-4 second-game decision.

The Raiderettes earlier had moved into first place in the league with a 15-9, 15-11 victory over previously unbeaten Newton North.

North's starting team of Barbara Carroll, Jill Caldwell, Debbie Panaro, Christine Venezia, Holly Rendle and Deirdre Murphy played outstanding ball with Panaro and Venezia digging and passing, Carroll setting, Rendle and Murphy spiking and Caldwell blocking and serving well.

North then defeated once-beaten Boston Latin with ease, 15-1, 15-3, with an impressive showing by the bench. Karen Reister and Robin Guilfoy had strong net games and Denise Marnell and Julie Detwiler passed and spiked well. Angela Venezia, Eileen Campbell and Teresa Gray also helped in the convincing win.

Earlier the Raiderettes had defeated Brockton, 15-4, 15-9, led by the setting of Carroll and the play of middle hitter Murphy, who accounted for six points in the first game.

In their game previous to North, the Quincy girls defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-11, 15-8, led by the strong serving of Randi Gaura.

Amy Guidice, Nancy Laitinen and Elizabeth Vo all had outstanding games for the First Ladies.

Quincy defeated Weymouth South, 15-13, 15-1, with Gaura, Christine Barrett and Laitinen turning in fine performances.

Earlier Quincy had defeated Brookline, 6-15, 15-8, 15-10, behind the setting of Vo and Barrett.

'Quincy Remembers' Series Begins Oct. 14 At Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will open its 1987-88 lecture series "Quincy Remembers" on Wednesday, Oct. 14 at 1:30 p.m.

Jim Douglas, noted folksinger and historical balla deer, will present "A Peddler's Pack of New England Song," traditional songs of sailors, farmers, peddlers and loggers.

Since the earliest days of colonization, music has served as entertainment throughout New England. Songs were also used to report the news, reinforce community and family values, and ease the monotony of work.

A resident of Strubridge, Douglas has spent the last 14 years delighting audiences throughout the northeast. He has performed at schools, libraries, historical societies, coffeehouses and folk festivals and is a frequent performer at Old Sturbridge Village.

The program is open to the public and free of charge. Refreshments will be served.

Over 100 Audition For Cable TV Commercials

The auditions were part of A.V.P.'s ongoing talent search project to discover new performers who are interested in appearing in locally produced television commercials. September's auditions were specifically organized to attract male talent ages 18-45.

American Cablesystems Advertising's Production Coordinator, Robin Samora of Milton, Videographer, Peter Dwight of Scituate and Administrative Assistant, Debby Sharon of Quincy conducted the auditions which drew applicants from all over Massachusetts.

Talent were allotted five minutes each to perform excerpts from plays, favorite commercials, songs and poems before a television camera. A.V.P. plans on using the video auditions as part of their casting process when producing 30 second commercial spots.

American Video Productions produces commercial and industrial videos for Massachusetts businesses in communities north, south, and west of Boston.

'Cabletalk' Visits Brattle Street Book Store

Quincy Community Television's "Cabletalk" departs from its usual format and adapts a magazine-style format in this week's edition on Thursday, at 9 p.m. on Channel 3.

Guest host Leslie Thompson opens this edition with a visit to the Brattle Street Book Store. Thompson discusses the history of the store with owner George Gloss and his collection of rare books and magazines.

The second segment features a tour of the new Venezia Restaurant in Neponset Circle, including a visit to the restaurant's kitchen area.

JFK Day Booster Appears On WJDA

James P. Coughlin, chairman of Citizens for a John F. Kennedy Day, presented his case on WJDA as a guest on Roy Lind's "Party Line" show.

The current bill that his group is pushing differs from a 23-year history of previous bills for the JFK holiday calling for a May 29 celebration of JFK's birthday, he said. The bill is House 4920.

The bill seeks to establish the state's biennial election day as a state holiday to encourage more people to get out and vote and to call that day, in November "JFK Day," he explained. Last year, when the bill was first submitted in that form, the city of Quincy was the first community to back the measure, according to Coughlin. "The vote was unanimous," said Coughlin. Since then the bill has received the backing of 28 other cities and towns along with 126 state legislators and a wide cross section of civic groups, he said.

"JFK spent many of his formative years on the South Shore, living for a time in Hull before moving to Hyannis with other members of his family," said Coughlin on the talk show. "It is time to recognize that he was a special figure from Massachusetts and to establish a state holiday on a day when we choose our leaders as a day in his memory. It would be a very fitting memorial for Jack Kennedy."

Vo-Tech Frosh Class up 33%

While the U.S. Department of Education's Center for Statistics reports that public and private elementary school enrollments are rising, the number of students at the secondary level fell this year and last, and will continue to fall.

The center reported that the 1987 high school graduating classes from public and private schools totalled 2,270,000 compared with 2,650,000 in 1986.

Despite these statistics, and the realities of a shrinking high school population, enrollments in the freshman class at Quincy Vocational-Technical School rose approximately 33 per cent.

Director Joseph A. Mazzarella says that the school's reputation is growing, that parents and students are beginning to realize that vocational education is not dead-ended, and that whether a young student is college bound or not, a vocational school can provide them with life-long skills for living and learning.

Mazzarella also credits a dynamic recruitment team comprised of Jeff Johnston and Mary Fredrickson for the increase in enrollment. Both work with middle school students throughout the city, to raise their consciousness about the world of work, about themselves, their ambitions, interest and potential.

"It's simple. We ask seventh and eighth graders to look ahead to have a five year plan, to look at people around them who they admire, and ask them why they work at their job, and how they got into that particular field," explained Mary Fredrickson, a licensed social worker, a 1973 graduate from Emmanuel College and a Career Coordinator at Quincy Vocational-Technical School."

When Fredrickson and Johnston take on a class of eighth graders they encourage them to be whatever they want to be, regardless of status, regardless of gender. "If they want to go to college that is great," exclaimed Fredrickson, and "if they want to be in sports, we discuss the obvious reality that the average sports career lasts five years, so they must think also of an adjunct career." This, she offered as a suggestion, could mean a sports journalist. "In other words, we want these young minds to expand so that they can see all the aspects of a career," she continued.

What the career awareness team stress above all, is always to have a planned approach to decisions. "If you don't like living in New England because it is cold, or because the cost of living is too high, then move south, but do it in a planned organized way," Fredrickson advises children.

Both educators work with five schools in the city and a total of 70 classrooms. When they work in a classroom teachers remain, and Fredrickson says that in that way they too are learning how to work with children in non-traditional ways.

It is unfortunate, Fredrickson commented, that young people make career decisions based on very limited information. "I think it is important that we expand the information base, that we ask them what they think they would like to do, and expand on that," she advised, adding, "if a student is quiet, if he or she likes to be alone, then perhaps they should be involved in some work that is quiet, but on the other hand maybe what they need is to expand their horizons and bring other people into their lives."

Mazzarella says one goal obviously is to keep enrollments up at the vocational school, "but really there are so many opportunities, that we would be remiss as educators if we did not communicate all that we offer to young people and to their parents," she said, adding "and for this reason we play to continue our recruitment efforts and our consciousness raising."

"Our message is that everyone is special, everyone has value, expertise and talent. Some people would make a good architect, others a good librarian. It is important that we help young people find their real area of interest," concluded Fredrickson.

Labor Guild Moves To Quincy

The Labor Guild and its School of Industrial Relations has moved its base of operations from Boston to 883 Hancock St., Quincy.

The Labor Guild is a fraternity of individuals involved in the creative resolution of industrial problems. Its members represent the entire spectrum of people involved in labor-management activities.

The respected former chaplain of the Labor Guild, Fr. Mortimer H. Gavin S.J. was fond of answering the question about what is the Labor Guild with the reply, "The Labor Guild is a hard-nosed group of people wrestling with the day-to-day concerns of the workplace, not yet ready for canonization but saying their prayers."

The Labor Guild School, the first adult education center for labor issues in Massachusetts and one of the oldest in the country, will begin its 70th term Monday Sept. 28 at 883 Hancock St., Quincy.

Among the many course offerings open to the public and taught by top flight professionals are: Parliamentary Procedure; The ABC's of Arbitration; The Union Member and the Law; Public Speaking; The 1987 Labor Scene and others.

All Labor Guild School courses can be taken for college credit per arrangement with The College of Public & Community Service of the University of Massachusetts, Boston Campus and Bunker Hill Community College.

The school is open to all men and women, members of unions, management personnel and others who are interested in sound, labor management relations.

Mental Illness Awareness Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Oct. 4-10 as Mental Illness Awareness Week in Quincy.

On hand for the ceremony were Harry Shulman, director of the South Shore Mental Health Center; James Pisciotta, director superintendent of the South Shore area, Department of Mental Health, and Bernice Entin, president of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of the South Shore.

Serious mental illnesses are diseases of the brain, for which at present no cause or cure is known.

They are exceedingly common. For example, mentally ill persons occupy more hospital beds than those suffering from cancer and lung and heart diseases combined, according to the Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

The mentally ill are of normal intelligence, although their functioning may be impaired by their illness.

witnesses who allegedly saw Yesilcimen and Paul together shortly before she disappeared.

According to Sabadini, a neighbor saw Paul enter Yesilcimen's house at 4 p.m. that Saturday, two girls saw the defendent and victim together on the street minutes later and between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m., two boys saw a man matching Yesilcimen's description holding the limp body of a young woman at Pageant Field.

Paul, a junior at North Quincy High School, died from severe blows to the skull by a blunt instrument, according to police. A tire iron was found nearby, they said.

Sabadini said blood was found on the right shoulder of Yesilcimen's jacket and his car. He did not say whether the blood type matched that of the victim.

Finn Returns

Police Win Praise From City Council

Members of the City Council's Public Safety Committee praised the actions of the Quincy Police Department during its meeting Monday night.

Committee chairman Michael Cheney, who represents Ward 1, said he called the meeting in regard to "positive actions the police department took over the summer to correct many longstanding concerns of the residents particularly with regard to teenagers drinking and loitering."

FRANCIS FINN

Several members also took the opportunity to welcome back Police Chief Francis Finn who underwent surgery to clear his carotid arteries.

"I want to compliment the men in my area of the city," said Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro. "I appreciate what you've done down there."

DeCristofaro also asked Finn if there was any way to stop people from congregating.

"The right to assemble is a basic American liberty," said Finn. "But you can try to keep those who congregate from getting in the least amount of trouble."

Finn said that implementation of the one-man patrol car system has given police more manpower.

"For the most part, morale of the men is up," Finn added.

Cheney complemented the police department, particularly Capt. Paul Nestor and Lt. Mulligan, for their work.

"The drug unit has made a substantial difference in the fight against drug abuse in the city," noted Cheney.

Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets said, "I don't think there was one time I made a request that was not responded to."

He told Finn that he has received more complaints about speeding cars.

Finn said the speeding may be due to "people frustrated with bottlenecks who then speed to make up time."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley praised the police officers who have spoken at community meetings.

He also suggested that the police department acquire the service of a translator for the city's growing Southeast Asian population.

SHIPYARD TAKING BY MWRA

QUINCY — Two city officials urged yesterday that Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth join forces to form a Fore River Yard Authority to take General Dynamics shipyard by eminent domain.

City Council President Stephen J. McGrath and Leo J. Kelly, head of the city's environmental commission, said the authority would issue bonds to acquire the 182-acre shipyard.

"By dividing the cost of the acquisition among Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree, the financial impact on each town is diluted and a reasonable financial package could be possible," McGrath and Kelly said.

McGrath said the shipyard, which he called "an economically depressed site," could then be revitalized as an urban renewal site." The property could then be commercially developed.

Former Residents Remove Belongings From Fire Scene

Residents of a Merrymount apartment building who lost their homes after a four-alarm fire in June were given until last night (Wednesday) to remove any remaining belongings.

According to Jane Reikard, executive secretary of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board, the apartments at 151 Sea St. had been sealed by the owner in September when former tenants said their property was being ransacked.

Many of the tenants had not removed all their property earlier because the Building Department had declared the building unsafe, said Mrs. Reikard.

Many also had no place to store their possessions, she said.

Building owner Franklin Simon had earlier notified some tenants at a group meeting that they had until July 31 to remove their belongings or consider them abandoned, she said.

The tenants obtained nine temporary restraining orders to stop Simon from disposing of possessions they could not take with them, according to Mrs. Reikard.

Quincy District Court Judge Lewis Whitman was still hearing restraining order evidence last Thursday, according to Mrs. Reikard.

She said that Whitman and some of the tenants viewed the apartments and he said they could remove their property until Wednesday at midnight.

After that, management and workers can destroy what is left, Whitman said.

Reikard reported that Whitman further instructed the building owner to work quickly to refurbish the apartments and make them habitable again.

He also said that former tenants should be given first rights to the apartments, according to Mrs. Reikard.

She said that eight families have still not found permanent homes since the fire.

A.L. National Commander Honorec

A Sentimental Journ

Comer

By RICK RYAN

John P. (Jake) Comer, national commander of the American Legion, was reunited Saturday with Quincy friends, family and municipal colleagues during a brief but sentimental stop at City Hall as part of qa whirlwind three-day homecoming.

Comer, who is currently on a one-year leave of absence as executive director of Quincy's Housing Authority, was welcomed by Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Senator Paul Harold and Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro before leaving for a bus tour of the city's historical sites and a clambake in Plymouth.

Comer told the City Hall gathering that he was proud to show Quincy to the 400 visiting veterans, some representing legion posts in Hawaii, Texas and five foreign nations.

"I did not want to let the visit go by without coming to my city and visiting Quincy," said Comer. "I'm very proud of the mayor and what he's done for me. When you come from humble means you need help and I could not have done it without help of the mayor," he said.

The four buses full of Legionnaires drove by historical Quincy sites such as the Adams' birthplaces and Adams Mansion while tour guides, including "Jake" Comer, played host. The buses then headed south to Plymouth Post 40 for the second leg of the day's homecoming ceremony - a full-course New England clambake.

Commenting on his surprise over the turnout, Comer said "It really didn't hit me until I got off the bus at City Hall. When I saw the welcome sign, employees, and Ted, I realized how much I missed everyone," he said.

Saturday was Comer's first visit home since he was elected to the legion's highest office last August. Since then, he's jumped back and forth between the organization's Indianapolis headquarters and the Washington, D.C. bureau, as well as fact-finding visits to Nicaragua and El Salvador.

As leader of the free world's largest veterans organization, Comer said the first priorities are organizing hundreds of resolutions handed-up at the annual national convention held last August in

McCauley: 'No Politics With Surplus'

THE FINISHING TOUCH -- Golf-leaf cupola was placed on top of the Marina Bay Memorial Clock Tower which will honor the men and women of Quincy who are missing in action or died while serving in the Vietnam War. The 110-foot tower will be dedicated Friday, Oct. 16, at 11 a.m. by retired U.S. Army General William Westmoreland.

Mayor Francis McCauley says he will not use the city's $10.1 million surplus to "make decisions that are politically popular but that will put the city back in the red again."

McCauley was responding to requests by the Quincy Education Association that some of the money go towards teacher raises.

Councillor Joseph LaRaia, a candidate for mayor, suggested that the money be used to take the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard by eminent domain.

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority has signed an agreement to purchase the yard for $49 million to use as a staging area for a sewage treatment facility on Deer Island.

McCauley said roughly half the surplus money will be put aside for unexpected expenses, and the other half will go to capital expenditures for major city departments.

Priority will be given to the School Department for buildings and equipment, according to McCauley.

The mayor said it would be "poor financial policy" to fund teacher raises, a recurring expenditure, with a one-time surplus.

"In negotiating with the unions we projected the revenues for fiscal 1988," said McCauley.

"Even the raises we have given will be kind of tight to live with.

"If we start dipping into the surplus for the teachers, we are almost obligated to do the same for the other unions," he said.

"We have pulled the city right out the red, and we will stay out of the red as long as I am mayor."

He added that the tentative contract agreement reached with the teachers' union before the surplus was announced is a fair one.

McCauley said the $10.1 million wouldn't pay for the downpayment on the shipyard if the city took it by eminent domain.

"We did consider taking the shipyard, but it is not a viable option," said McCauley.

He said that the Weymouth finance committee is scheduled to report at town meeting that it would be a "financial disaster" if the shipyard were taken by Weymouth, Braintree and

Laracy Seeks Police Chief Job In Braintree

Capt. Fred Laracy, a 27-year veteran of the Quincy Police Department, is among 45 applicants for the position of Braintree Police Chief to replace John Polio who is retiring at the end of the year.

Laracy, 50, was among 99 candidates for the $46,000 to $54,000 a year post who applied last spring, and among 87 asked to fill out indepth questionnaires.

Forty-five applicants answered the questionnaire, including Laracy.

The police chief search committee and its consultant have reduced that number to 15, but the names have not been made public.

The final six candidates are expected to be chosen by mid-October.

Their names will be made public when they are interviewed by Braintree selectmen.

"The opportunity opened up, and at this time I felt it was something I could pursue in advancing my career," said Laracy.

"It is a fine department, and I am familiar with the men and the town.

"It is an honor to be considered, and I hope to make the finals in the selection process."

Lydon Fears Shipyard May Also Be Staging Area For Tunnel Project

Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., has written to Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salvucci of his concern that the General Dynamics Shipyard could be used uas a staging area for the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel Project.

"If that is so, I believe that E.O.T.C. is mandated to share said plans with the city of Quincy," said Lydon.

He also requested that a community meeting be held on the South shore regarding the project, and that Salvucci include Quincy Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom on a regional task force which has been proposed.

In the letter, Lydon noted that Salvucci has said he intends to hold community meetings pertaining to the project.

"However, none of the community meetings are scheduled for the South Shore area, which will be affected by this project, more specifically with regard to the Southeast Expressway and the morning and evening commuter rush hours," he said.

"I believe it is important to involve the South Shore community in the planning process and would request that a community meeting be established in the South Shore for this purpose," said Lydon, who offered to help arrange such an event.

He noted Quincy's involvement with the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority with regard to the possible placement of a sludge treatmen facility and an incinerator at the General Dynamics Shipyard, which the MWRA hopes to purchase.

"I would ask that you share with the City of Quincy as to where the Executive Office of Transportation and Construction plans to locate the staging area for the Central Artery Third Harbor Tunnel Project.

LaRaia: Surplus Not True Financial Picture

The city of Quincy is not in the sound financial shape that one might think following Mayor Francis McCauley's recent announcement of a surplus, according to Councillor-at-large, Joseph J. LaRaia, the mayor's only opponent in the November election.

"I was somewhat bemused to read of our city's $10.1 million dollar surplus," said LaRaia. "The timing of the announcement is interesting, in light of the fact that it comes during a fiscal year when the mayor has told our city's teachers that there is not enough money to pay them, during a year when he told the parents in Wollaston that there was not enough money to open their closed elementary school and, of course, that it comes during an election year.

"The inference which some might draw, that this surplus reflects sound fiscal management, is simply not a reasonable one in light of the issues facing the city," he said. "For example, let's look at the dump."

LaRaia said that the city spent $750,000 for a study of the ecological problems at the city's landfill, only to have the landfill closed shortly thereafter by a judge. Closure of the landfill has resulted in a loss to the city of approximately $1.5 million in revenues, and a cost of an estimated $2.5 million to have the city's trash hauled to a private landfill, he said. "And the $2.5 million is only an estimated figure," said LaRaia. "The true cost of hauling the trash will not be known until next summer, after a full year of paying the contractor, and I won't be surprised at all if the cost is much higher."

When added to the $1.4 million appropriation which the mayor recently requested for remedial work at the landfill, the cost to the city, this year alone, is over $6 million, he said. "These staggering figures have been accumulated during the very year when the mayor announces a $10 million dollar surplus," said LaRaia.

LaRaia attributes the surplus to situations like the landfill, where the mayor has cut back on expenditures in order to build the accumulated cash reserves of the city's general fund. "Instead of taking the revenue generated by the dump and using it to keep the dump open, the mayor was putting the revenue into the general fund. He was spending next to nothing to keep the dump open, instead accumulating his $10 million surplus. In light of the costs already accumulated at the dump, and the bleak financial future we face there, I ask you, would you rather have the mayor's surplus, or our dump back?"

"It's not just the dump, either," LaRaia added. "Look at our schools in disrepair, our inadequate snow removal last winter, our nurses, teachers and police all looking to be paid a fair salary. There's no secret to the mayor's surplus. He's simply accumulating tax dollars and giving little or nothing back to the citizens of Quincy."

LaRaia cited other factors which contributed to the current surplus, including the project spearheaded by former city treasurer, Franklin Jay, resulting in the collection of over $7 million in unpaid property taxes. "There are a number of contributing factors resulting in this surplus," said LaRaia, "none of which is sound fiscal management emanating from the mayor's office."

"Now that it's there," said LaRaia of the surplus money, "I want to see it spent as it should have been all along—on the citizens of Quincy."

L.R. - Quincy

A. Dear L.R.: There is no law or practice in Massachusetts as to either joint or mutual wills. There is no apparent reason why under our laws a joint will would not be valid. However, I strongly recommend individual wills as I forsee no advantage whatsoever to joint or mutual wills.

Q. My husband and I made our our will fifteen years ago. The attorney who drew up our will has since passed away. Does this mean our will is invalid?

J.K. - Quincy

A. Dear J.K.: The fact that the attorney who drew up your wills has passed away does not in any way invalidate your wills. However, you should periodically have your wills reviewed by an attorney. It might well be that changes in the tax laws, family or other circumstances are such that new wills are in order.

Whirling World For Comers

It's been a mad, mad but wonderful world for Quincy's John (Jake) Comer and his wife, Eileen, since he was elected the American Legion's National Commander.

COMER

They've lived a whirlwind life since his election in San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 27. They've been all over the country for appearances.

This past weekend, though, was something special: his official homecoming.

On Saturday morning, he came back to Quincy with five bus loads of Legionnaires and their wives from throughout the country.

Comer stopped in front of City Hall for brief welcome home ceremonies. On hand were Mayor Francis McCauley, Senator Paul Harold, Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, City Clerk John Gillis and friends and warm embraces.

On the way out to Quincy from the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston where a homecoming dinner and reception were held Saturday night, Comer rode in one of the buses and served as a tourist guide, proudly pointing out Quincy's historic sites.

The group, after a tour of the sites, headed for Plymouth Rock and a clambake.

"It's really wonderful and so interesting," says Eileen who has been traveling with her husband.

"But you have to be in so many different places with so little time in between, you sometimes forget where you are."

She recalled one night putting a call in to the front desk at a hotel and said: "This is room 1450 ..."

"But, madam," the desk clerk interrupted. "There must be some mistake. This hotel has only 10 floors, not 14."

"Room 1450," Eileen laughed, "was in the hotel we were in the night before."

She and Comer are looking forward to visiting all the states and Ireland where his family came from.

SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN Frank Anselmo thinks Quincy would do well to give its streets the "European touch."

ANSELMO

Anselmo, recently returned from a tour of five European countries, says he travelled over 1300 miles and "never saw any litter on the streets."

"Not a piece of paper," he says.

He says he found the streets in Switzerland, Austria, Italy, West Germany and Liechtenstein. "Clean as a whistle. No Litter."

And, says he, "I didn't see one single pothole."

He says he wishes he could say the same thing about Quincy.

"There is a tremendous difference in cleanliness and pride over there and here."

He also discovered in Switzerland that students go to school a half day on Saturdays and the starting salary of teachers is $28,000 compared to $18,000 here.

Anselmo, who turned 89 last month, is up for re-election in November. He was first elected in 1961.

At 89, he says he feels like "a kid of 50."

And he adds: "My brains are still ticking and I like to keep active."

□

WELL, YOU'VE GOT to say that School Committee Vice Chairman Steve Durkin takes his campaigning seriously. And, with dedication, too.

DURKIN

His wife, Maureen, gave him two choice seats to Saturday's Boston College-Army game back in August for his 31st birthday.

Back in August it sounded like a good idea. But on Saturday it conflicted badly with some important campaigning. Durkin wanted to get in. So, he passed up the game.

His wife, Maureen, couldn't use the tickets. She was out distributing flyers for him. No one else in the family could use them. They were all out helping him campaign, too.

With less than an hour before kickoff time, he was still trying to give the tickets to someone so they wouldn't go to waste.

At least half dozen people had to turn them down because of prior commitments.

GEORGE PAGE, general foreman of the Quincy Park Department who is responsible for keeping Veterans Memorial Stadium, Adams Field and the City's other fields in good condition, is recuperating at his home, 4 Lafayette St., Quincy after suffering a skull fracture in a fall from a ladder at the stadium.

George was in Quincy City Hospital for two weeks and it will be sometime before he can return to work.

If you're a young oldtimer basketball fan, you'll remember George as a member of the famed Granite Chips team at Quincy High School.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I think I should be remiss if I didn't thank the bus driver and the teenagers who helped me last Tuesday (Oct. 6).

I fell outside the North Quincy Station and hurt myself. The teenagers picked up my belongings and two of them offered to stay with me until help came. They were really great and thanks again.

A Sentimental Journey Home For Jake Comer

(Cont'd from Page 1)

San Antonio, Texas.

These legislative priorities, which were resolved from some 3,100 legion delegates, will determine the organization's position on public policy issues such as national defense, veterans affairs, and foreign policy. The American Legion will then present their positions to Veteran Affairs committees in the House of Representatives and Senate.

During an interview at Plymouth Post 40, Comer said he's concerned about American vulnerability in the Persian Gulf.

A Korean conflict veteran, Comer said the loss of lives in the Persian Gulf region is "senseless," and that the U.S. "must protect ourselves."

"A nation like Iran is not governed by rational people. Many Americans are concerned about the Soviets having bombs or the Chinese having bombs. But those nations have the rationality behind them. However, if the Ayatollah (Khomeini) had time to do it, he'd do it," Comer said.

During a recent meeting with President Reagan and foreign advisers, Comer discussed the Soviet presence in Nicaragua and the need for a withdrawal of Cuban and Soviet advisors as part of a regional peace plan. The American Legion sent three fact-finding teams to five Central American nations to prepare a report on the region's status - "Policy Coordination and Action" - for administration officials.

Comer met with Nicaraguan and El Salvadoran officials and toured several provinces. His description of Nicaragua contrasts the stories from left wing leaders and media that the Sandinistas are exercising more freedoms and economic and economic justice.

"We went shopping in the supermarket, but we were not allowed to buy anything. Only those who work for the state are allowed in, the rest must shop in the street markets. I saw some school books the Communists use to teach children to count. They have pictures of hand grenades - one hand grenade plus two hand grenades equals three hand grenades," he said.

Comer also cited toilet paper and leather shortages, which he said could be the result of U.S. economic sanctions.

However, a brief encounter with a Sandinista guard convinced him of the impending Soviet threat to the region, he said.

"We tried to take a picture and a guard with an AK rifle approached us," said Comer, referring to the Soviet bloc manufactured AK-47 assault rifle. "That weapon didn't come from America," he said.

According to reports, the Soviets have supplied the Sandinistas with $600 million, most of which was sent during the Iran-Contra hearings.

The report said the Soviet and Cubans have long-term goals to build an air-base on the Nicaraguan Pacific coast, which if constructed, will give the Soviets a refueling base and stronger surveillance capabilities of American west coast.

"There's no way the U.S. will allow them to build a Russian air-base there," said Comer. Sandinista officials refused the Legion's request to visit a civilian air-strip, according to Comer. "They said we didn't give them 48-hours notice," he said.

The Contra issue, said Comer, is important to the Legion. While the Legion is in favor of support for the contras, or freedom fighters, one spokesman said they support them as a tactic not a strategy. "Both sides are committing atrocities," said Comer, responding to allegations that the contras have stormed civilian villages. "The media is not printing both sides of the story," he said.

Comer said he wants to see how the Arias Peace Plan works and will return to Nicaragua in December to meet with Cardinal Bravo and Violeta Chamorro, editor of "La Prensa," the opposition newspaper recently allowed to reopen. Comer hopes to determine if the Sandinistas' easing of church and press restrictions has helped. He opposed reports that conditions have improved under the Sandinistas, who have been in power since the overthrow of the 40-year-old regime of Anastasio Somoza in July of 1979. "All you have to do is be there to see it's not true," said Comer. "The U.S. has 300,000 refugees. What does this cost us? They don't have the economy there, they don't want to be here," he said.

Stressing that the American Legion is not a far right organization, Comer said "we all have to come to the center," on the Central American issue. "No one has ever fought a war that wants to continue a war. The legion is the everyday person, the guy trying to make a buck and raise funds for his community. We're not trying to initiate wars. We hope this peace plan works, but it will never work if Russia and Cuba are calling the shots," he said.

With some 2.9 million members, the legion is the veteran's growing voice into Congress, which granted its charter in 1919. Members must have served during periods of conflict, which currently includes World Wars I and II, the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam Conflict. The legion hopes to expand the charter to include all years after World War II. Incidents such as the bombing of the U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut in 1983, the Grenada invasion in 1984 and the USS Stark incident earlier this year have claimed American lives and earned participants a campaign ribbon. However, these soldiers cannot join the legion according to charter bylaws.

Comer, former Mass. commander, is the second national commander from the state and the fourth Korean Conflict veteran to earn the office.

Legionnaires of the Vietnam period number some 900,000 nationwide. About 82 per cent of the administrative support at the Indianapolis headquarters and Washington, D.C. bureau is comprised of Vietnam veterans. Next year the legion is expected to elect its first Vietnam veteran national commander. Comer said it will probably be A.F. "Sparky" Gierke of North Dakota, who serves as a Supreme Court judge.

During a speech at Post 40, Comer asked for a show of hands of those who had never eaten lobster before. "Those who raised their hands are from Texas, and they thought it was just a big crawfish," Comer quipped.

Following the clam bake, Comer was honored at a Park Plaza dinner in Boston. Special guests included Senate President William Bulger (D-Boston) and Boston Mayor Ray Flynn.

Women's Place In Home, Council Says

Oct. 14-20, 1942
45 Years Ago

The City Council turned down a plan advanced by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin to employ women as operators in the fire and police stations and relieve men for heavier duties during a time of manpower shortage.

Councillors agreed that women's place was in the home, not the police or fire stations, even in time of war.

Burgin had proposed that the women be hired for $1,200 a year with annual raises to a maximum of $1,500 a year. Salaries for regular police officers and firemen were $2,100 for the same work.

BAN HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The School Committee voted to ban interscholastic sports for the rest of the school year, once the football season was completed, as a wartime measure to save travel.

The move was proposed by James J. Carter, director of health education, and endorsed by School Supt. James N. Muir.

Carter recommended substituting a broad program of intramural sports with unofficial games pitting Quincy and North Quincy teams against schools from neighboring Braintree, Weymouth and Milton.

Veal Saltimbocca

An Easy Recipe

Here is an easy recipe for Veal Saltimbocca and one in which you can also use thinly sliced chicken.

VEAL OR CHICKEN SALTIMBOCCA
Six to eight slices of veal or chicken
A small jar of artichoke hearts (or frozen)
Six to eight slices of prosciutto (Italian Ham)
3 Tbsps butter and olive oil
1 quarter cup of white wine
Juice of fresh lemon

Flatten veal or chicken to a thickness of less than one quarter of an inch. Season with salt and pepper, then place a thin slice of prosciutto (Italian ham) the same size as the slice of veal. Fasten veal and prosciutto together with a wooden toothpick threaded through the meat. Saute the meat in 3 tablespoons of butter and olive oil mixed. Fry more thoroughly on the veal side than the ham side. Remove toothpicks.

Arrange the meat on a hot platter. In the pan you cooked the veal, add a little white wine and the cut up artichoke hearts, and the lemon juice.

With this, I served fettucine Alfredo, but this will go with anything.

McCauley Asks Merchants Help Keep Downtown Clean

Mayor Francis McCauley was scheduled to speak to members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association yesterday morning (Wednesday) on cleaning up the downtown area.

McCauley said he intended to ask merchants to police the area in front of their establishments.

"They are required to do it after snow storms," noted McCauley.

"We need the population to cut down on litter, and the merchants to police their own areas," he said.

McCauley said he is also thinking about an anti-litter program in the schools.

Highway work crews have expanded to cleaning the downtown seven days a week, and they have just extended to Wollaston and North Quincy, McCauley said.

Wollaston and North Quincy will also be included in the cleanup effort, according to McCauley.

"We had a meeting in North Quincy but the business group didn't send a representative," added McCauley.

Siciliano To Be Honored

Anthony (Tony) Siciliano will be honored as the Massachusetts Municipal Association's 1987 Outstanding Municipal Employee of the Year Saturday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the MMA Awards Banquet at the Marriott Hotel, Boston.

Siciliano was nominated for the award by Mayor Francis McCauley and selected by the MMA.

He has been general foreman of the General Services Department of the Quincy Police Department for the past 15 years.

In addition, he is Quincy's Deputy Director of Civil Defense, a volunteer position.

He was also auxiliary police chief until that unit recently moved to Braintree.

Siciliano's award is for employees of cities with a population of 10,000 and over.

McCauley cited Siciliano's "overwhelming dedication and commitment to serving the community, not only in his full-time position with the city, but also in the innumerable hours of volunteer time which he offers on a daily basis."

Teaching Children How To Respond

How children respond to trouble will depend [on] their age and particular circumstances they encount[er].

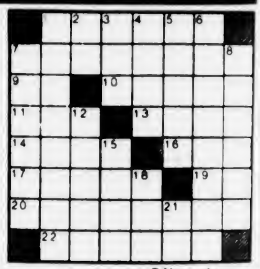
More important, however, is whether a child kn[ows] what to do and where to go when feeling thre[atened].

While it is important for a child to know how to [avoid] and spot danger, it is also critical that a child knows [how] to respond quickly and wisely when confronted w[ith] trouble. Children should understand that [there] many people they can depend on and should [go] when they feel unsafe.

Teach children that the police are friends who [are] to protect them. If a police officer can't be [found] easily, a child should also know to run to or seek [help] trusted teacher, a neighbor, or a friend's parent [if] frightened or feeling endangered. Children should know that they should report trouble right away.

Teach children how to operate the telephone [system] for emergency assistance.

- They should know how to dial "O" or 911 [for] emergency assistance.
- They should memorize their area code and [home] number, and maybe a friend's number as well.
- They should memorize your work number.



Keep a list of emergency phone numbers - like [the] department and a close friend or relatives - posted [near] all the phones in your home.

Walk the neighborhood and the route traveled to [and] from school with your child. Point out places to go when in trouble, like homes of certain stores, and unsafe areas to avoid. Children can be prepared to respond to trouble through role-playing. Make up situations and rehearse responses to increase the child's ability to act rationally and calmly.

No one likes to think about all the possible threats to a child's personal safety and well being. But a safe child is one who knows what to do when trouble happens.

A child's best response to trouble is using common sense. Like knowing when to stick up for his or her rights, and when not to. Small children should not fight back when out-numbered by bigger youths who want to take thier bike, radio, or other possessions. In [such] situation, a child should give in and then run to an adult or older brother or sister, and report the incident right away.

Teachers Angry At News Of $10.1M City Surplus

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy Education Association president Thomas Walsh said he had thought that a ratification vote by the membership today, on a tentative contract agreement with the city would be "a close call."

"But the likelihood of the contract passing now seems slim," said the president of the 725-member teachers' union after Mayor Francis McCauley's announcement of $10.1 million surplus in the city's finances.

Walsh said he received five to 10 phone calls over the weekend from angry teachers who felt that a portion of the surplus should go toward raises.

"One man said he felt betrayed," said Walsh. "He felt he'd been lied to.

"The mayor, Mary Collins of the School Committee and School Committee attorneys have been saying for quite a while that there isn't much money in Quincy," said Walsh.

"They said the figures we were asking for were out of line with the financial situation in Quincy.

"We were debating among ourselves for weeks and months whether Quincy was doing well financially or not, and we came to the conclusion that it was not," he said.

"Now we fell we were wrong in that assessment."

Walsh said that the mayor's intension to spend half of the surplus fixing up the schools "did help a bit."

"We want to see the schools in good repair and the students treated well," he said.

"I understand that he can't use a one-time windfall for annual salaries," he added.

But Walsh said some money could go towards teacher raises which were negotiated in 1979 and never paid by the city after Prop. 2-1/2 was enacted.

"The city has no legal obligation to pay the 1979 raises," said Walsh. "But many teahcers feel it has a moral obligaton."

He also said he was disturbed that the city was not taxing up to its limit under Prop. 2-1/2.

"That's $2 million more a year they could collect in taxes but haven't," Walsh said.

"The teachers of Quincy definitely feel shortchanged and morale has worsened," he said.

The tentative contract agreement calls for a 3 percent salary increase this September a 2 percent increase around Jan. 1, 6 per cent increase Jan. 1, in the second year of the contract, and another 6 percent increase the third year.

If the tentative agreement is not ratified, the negotiating team will go back to the table and bargain with the city, according to Walsh.

"We now know more," said Walsh, "and many teachers feel we have to try to come out with a better deal."

Walsh said it would be premature to say if any job action might be considered by teachers if that fails.

The QEA rescheduled a contract ratification meeting for today (Thursday) Oct. 15 at 3:15 p.m. at the Broadmeadows Middle School.

Walsh, president of the QEA, said the meeting was originally scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 21. Walsh said the "negotiating team" for the QEA rescheduled the meeting because "members are pressuring us to vote more quickly."

At the meeting, the QEA will vote on the proposed teacher contract. A two-thirds majority will be required for ratification, Walsh said.

If ratification fails, Walsh said the QEA will "go back to the bargaining table."

A teacher's walkout would not result if the contract is not approved, Walsh said.

"This is not a crisis situation," Walsh said.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D Scott Deware

What are the qualities that you admire most in people? Many come to mind. Truthfulness, Kindliness, courage and compassion are but a few. But what about persistence? ... That determination to keep on going when things are tough; that refusal to give in to discouragement ... it is a very important quality to possess.

Without persistence nothing of importance would ever get done. There is a story about Noah Webster that brings this to mind ... In 1807 Webster wrote, "I hope to be able to finish my Complete Dictionary. It will require the incessant labor of from three to five years." He then spent the next twenty-one years working steadfastly on his Dictionary. His American Dictionary was finally published and critics today claim that it is "beyond praise or comparison."

This will to keep going ... the will to refuse to give in ... the will to continue is very much to be admired. Being a "persister" can be hard work, but it can bring much happiness and good feelings ...

City To Receive Planning Grant

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and the Quincy Housing Partnership (QHP) announce that Quincy has been selected to receive a Strategic Planning grant amounting to $20,000.

This is the third grant that Quincy has received since the QHP was organized. The first two were mini-grants for project-specific studies, according to McCauley.

The grant, which will be administered by the city's planning department, will be used to undertake acitivites related to affordable housing in the context of growth management concerns.

The activities include:

- Identification of city and privately-owned properties that have good potential for the development of affordable housing;
- Drafting of amendments to existing zoning ordinance to promote the creation of affordable housing through linkage system, incentive zoning or similar programs, as may be determined by the QHP.
- Estimation of demand for affordable housing for different market segments: elderly, who wish to either move or stay in their present homes and may need a shared living arrangement; employees of newer commercial developments; existing tenants; etc. to serve as basis for market targetting; and
- Conduct information dissemination or educational programs regarding growth management and affordable housing.

Quincy's application for the grant was one of 90 received from communities and regional entities throughout the commonwealth.

The QHP was created by Mayor McCauley earlier this year to address the city's affordable housing needs.

In addition to providing a forum for discussing issues and strategies, the QHP has enabled the city to have special access to setaside state housing funds.

The QHP has some 30 active members representing various city departments, private institutions, nonprofits and citizens at large.

Energy Sunday At Wollaston Congregational

Energy Sunday will be observed Oct. 18, at Wollaston Congregational Church when the white boxes which were distributed last spring will be collected at the morning service by members of the church school.

All money in the energy saving boxes will be used to defray the cost of fuel.

The Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach a sermon titled, "Family Ties," based on the scripture from Ruth 1:1-19a and Thessalonians 1:1-10.

The sermon will focus on Ruth's experience of leaving her family to go with Naomi into a foreign country, and how it relates to a mobile societ.

Lay scripture leader will be Phyllis Dixon. Greeter will be Julie McWade; ushers will be Herbert Davis and Joseph Sandahl.

Acolyte will be Tavey Leigh Towle.

Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided. Church school for grades 1-12 is held from 10-11 a.m.

A fellowship hour follows the worship service. All are invited.

Katrina Clinton, a commissioned minister of Christian education and director of Christian education at the Pilgrim church of Duxbury will hold training sessions for those people interested in reading the scripture lesson for worship services.

2 Services At Squantum First Church

"A Healthy Sense of Sin" was the title of Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin Sunday at the second service of the First Church of Squantum.

May Lewis and Sue Adams were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott were the ushers Katherine Hansen and Eva Martin hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

After the service and the Fellowship Hour, Church Moderator Sally Johnson presided over a church meeting at which there was an election of members of the Nominating Committee for this year.

At the early service, Dr. Langevin led a Bible study comparison of the story of Adam and Eve in the garden and the story of the prodigal son. His message at that service was entitled "Two Stories of Sin."

On Monday, people of all ages attended an outing for the church family at Grotonwood, a Christian camp near Groton. It is an annual event at the church.

There will be two services again this Sunday: a guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and a traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

Union Congregational Christmas Fair Nov. 7

The Union Congregational Church of Weymouth and Braintree will present the "Yule Love It" Christmas Fair at the church Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to 10 .m.

Bethany Church To Oberve 'Neighbors In Need Sunday'

The outreach concern 'Neighbors in Need' will be the focus of worship and action Sunday, Oct. 18, at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

There will be two worship services, 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

"Neighbors in Need" is an all-church emphasis and offering of the United Church of Christ which supports such outreach programs in the United States as ministry with American Indians, migrant farmworkers, youth from low income families, and people in poverty including immigrant families and elderly black Americans.

The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach the sermon entitled "God's Command: Equality," based on scriptural texts from Luke 16:19-31 and II Corinthians 8:8-15.

Lay scripture readers will be Lois Nordstrom in the chapel and Harry F. Massey, Jr. in the sanctuary.

During the 10 a.m. service in the sanctuary, baritone soloist Paul David Johnson, will sing as the offertory "O Safe to the Rock that is Higher Than I" by Ira D. Sankey. The Bethany Folksingers, led by guitarists Margaret Fernald and Tora Huntington, will sing "The Tramp on the Street" composed by Grady and Hazel Cole.

The service will be broadcast "live" from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over South Shore radio station, WJDA, 1300 kc.

The Sunday School will be in session 10 to 11 a.m. with classes from toddlers through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies and very young children is also provided under the supervision of Pamela Curran, Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator.

At 11 a.m., there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are invited to the worship and programs, and to enroll children in the Sunday school.

The senior minister and his wife, Joan and Bill Arnold will lead an adult retreat from Saturday morning through Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17 and 18, at Craigville on Cape Cod.

For more information about Bethany's ministry and programs, contact the church office, 479-7300.

No Politics Playing With Surplus

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Quincy in a joint venture.

"It's not a good idea financially or environmentally," said McCauley.

McCauley said that a total of $9,520,319 has been requested by 10 city departments.

He said the requests are: schools, $3,510,000; health, $5,902; fire, $840,400; park, forestry and cemetery, $230,180; recreation, $8,350; library, short term, $139,000, long term, $700,000; public works, $2,655,100; and police, $1,431,838.

"That is twice as much money as we have to appropriate," said McCauley. "We will have to review the lists by the end of the week."

He said he hopes to present the appropriations to the City Council for its approval the first or second council meeting in November.

McCauley said the surplus was $2.6 million more than expected because the Department of Revenue changed some of its accounting policies. Last year's surplus was $4.3 million.

He said he learned about it over the Labor Day weekend.

"Now we have a chance to get some things done," he said.

Laracy Seeks Braintree Police Chief Job

right age to contemplate such a job change.

He has also had a variety of experience with the QPD.

Laracy was a patrolman for seven years, sergeant for two years, lieutenant for 13 years, and has been a captain for four years.

He has served in the uniformed patrol, juvenile division, detective bureau, as a prosecutor at Quincy District Court, liaison officer with the Norfolk Superior Court, inspector of divisions, and as acting chief at times over the last four years in the absence of Chief Francis Finn, according to Laracy.

His time has been split between day and night service, he said.

Laracy said he has had experience in internal affairs, and has been a member of the accreditation committee and building committee.

He holds a master's degree in criminal justice from Anna Maria College, Paxton.

Laracy said he grew up in North Quincy, but moved to Braintree and was graduated from Braintree High School.

He and his wife, Dorothy, who have been married for 28 years, have five children. They are Fred, 27; Mark, 26; Linda, 23; Lisa, 22; and Laura, 20.

Mrs. Laracy and her daughter, Laura, were graduated from Quincy Junior College together in May, he noted.

The Laracys also have a grandson, Richard, 7.

Laracy noted that it would be ironic if he were chosen as Braintree's chief.

He explained that he had wanted to apply for the patrolman's exam when he got out of the service but was denied the opportunity because he wasn't yet 21 years old.

Laracy later married, moved to Quincy, and applied to the Quincy Police Department. At that time, officers had to be a resident of the city or town in which they lived, he explained.

"I did first apply in Braintree," said Laracy, "if I was appointed chief, it would really be something."

Quincy Hospital Stresses Immunizations Are Important

School has started, and it is once again time to make certain that your child has had the proper immunizations.

Immunization requirements vary from state to sta te, but the Massachusetts Department of Public Health has issued the following childhood immunization schedule. Except where indicated, immunizations are required for admission to kindergarten or licensed day care centers.

Two months: DTP-diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis combined vaccine; Polio.

Four months: DTP; Polio.

Six months: DTP.

Fifteen months: MMR - measles-mumps-rubella combined vaccine.

Eighteen months: DTP; Polio (may be administered with the MMR vaccine at 15 months).

Two years: Haemophilus b polysaccharide vaccine recommended but not required for school or day care entrance.

School Entry Age (4-6 years): DTP; Polio (recommended but not mandatory).

Lifetime: Tetanus and diphtheria boosters recommended at 10-year intervals.

Following is information on these common immunizations, the diseases they prevent, and possible side effects.

DTP Vaccine - Immunization with DTP is a very effective way to prevent diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus. It is actually three vaccines combined into one and given starting in early infancy. Several shots are needed for adequate protection - three doses in the child's first year of life, and a fourth at about 18 months. A booster shot is important for children who are about to enter school and should be given between their fourth and seventh birthdays. Usual side effects of the DTP vaccine are often fever, irritability for up to two days and some soreness and swelling in the injection site. Most reactions are not significant, and will disappear within a few days. Notify your doctor immediately if any of the following occur: high-pitched, persistent crying for more than three hours; excessive sleepiness; limpness and paleness; temperature of 103 degrees or higher; and convulsions.

Polio and Oral Polio Vaccine - Immunization with oral live polio vaccine (OPV) is given by mouth starting in early infancy. Several doses are needed. Young children should get two or more doses in their first year and another at about 18 months of age. An additional dose is important for children when they enter school or when there is a high risk of polio. Health experts recommend oral live polio vaccine for people up to age 18. OPV very rarely (one in about 8.1 million immunizations) causes paralytic polio in the person who is vaccinated. The risk may be slightly higher in adults being vaccinated and substantially higher in persons with abnormally low resistance to infection. In extreme instances, paralytic polio may develop through close contact of a recently-vaccinated person. The following groups should not take the oral polio vaccine without checking with a physician: anyone with cancer, leukemia or lymphoma; anyone with a lowered resistance to infection; anyone who lives in the same household with a person with the above conditions; anyone with an illness worse than a cold; pregnant women and most persons age 18 and older.

Polio Vaccine (IPV) - This is given by injection and protects the body against polio after several shots. It has no known risk of causing paralytic polio. Injectable polio vaccine is recommended for persons needing polio vaccination, who have low resistance to serious infection, or who live with persons with low resistance to serious infection. It is not widely used in the United States.

Measles, Mumps and Rubella - These vaccines are given by injection to children after their first birthday. measles vaccine should be given at 15 months of age or older. Measles, mumps and rubella vaccines can be given one at a time, or in a combined vaccine, MR (measles-rubella) or MMR (measles, mumps, rubella). If they are given in a combined vaccine, the child should be 15 months or older. Experts recommend that adolescents and adults - especially women of childbearing age - who are not known to be immune to rubella, should receive the rubella vaccine. Women should not receive the shot if they are pregnant or might become pregnant within the next three months. About one in seven children who get rubella vaccine will develop a rash or some swelling of the glands in the neck, one to two weeks after this shot. About one in every 20 children who get rubella vaccine will have some aching or swelling of the joints. This may happen anywhere from one to three weeks after the shot. It usually only lasts two or three days. The following groups should not take these vaccines without checking with a physician: anyone sick with something more serious than a cold; anyone who has had a serious allergic reaction to eggs (does not apply to rubella vaccine); anyone with cancer, leukemia or lymphoma; anyone with a lowered resistance to infection; anyone who has received a gamma globuline within the preceding three months; and anyone who has had a serious allergic reaction to neomycin

Mayor Proclaims Mental Illness Awareness Week

According to officials, mental illness is a reality for some 29.4 million Americans who will suffer from a mental or emotional disorder or substance abuse addiction in any given six month period.

During mental illness awareness week, Oct. 4-10, Harry Shulman, executive director of South Shore Mental Health Center, points out that recovery is also a reality.

Nine in 10 stricken with major depression or anxiety can recover; seven in 10 suffering manic depression can return to normal lives; five in 10 with schizophrenia can improve and one in four can recover, Shulman said.

Mental Illness Awareness Week is set aside to help people learn more about disorders that afflict one out of every five Americans, according to Shulman. Each year, the total costs of mental illness exceed those for cancer and heart disease, he noted. "This observance has been established to encourage people to recognize the signs and symptoms of mental illness and to realize that these disorders are highly treatable," Shulman said.

The South Shore Mental Health Center offers a comprehensive array of services for individuals and families at locations throughout the South Shore.

Call 847-1950 for more information.

PROCLAMATION -- Mayor Francis McCauley, seated, recently proclaimed the week of Oct. 4 to 10 as "Mental Illness Awareness Week." Standing, from back, are James M. Pisciotta, director/superintendent of the South Shore Area, Dept. of Mental Health; Bernice Lyford, publicity chairman; Bernice Entin, president, Alliance for the Mentally Ill of the South Shore; and Harry Shulman, director, South Shore Mental Health Center.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY

Is affordable housing for our residents important?

MAYOR FRANK McCAULEY THINKS SO

The City of Quincy recently joined the Massachusetts Housing Partnership. This Partnership will allow the city to participate in the Home Ownership Opportunity Program.

City joins state's partnership program to increase housing

QUINCY — The city will officially join the growing ranks of the Massachusetts Housing Partnership communities today — a designation that will make it eligible to participate in a state program that helps build homes for low- and moderate-income families.

As a partnership community, Quincy is eligible to participate in the Home-Ownership Opportunity Program, a $225 million state program committed to building 2,500 homes in the next few years.

State funds would be earmarked to reduce mortgage rates for eligible families and to pay for community roads and other improvements.

Participating cities and towns are asked to help lower housing costs by providing unused land, such as tax-title parcels or abandoned public property, or rezoning privately owned property to make it more attractive for development.

The partnership designation is to be bestowed upon the city by MHP Director Joseph Flatley during the first meeting of the city's partnership group, recently organized by Mayor Francis X. McCauley to address the city's housing needs.

The partnership meeting is to be held at 4:30 p.m. in city hall annex. In addition to Flatley, speakers will include Anne Ferer of the MHP staff; Richard Boonisar, senior vice president of the Quincy-based Shawmut Bank; and Rosemary Wahlberg, director of the Quincy Community Action organization.

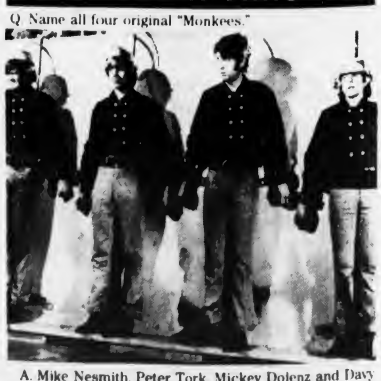
Roots Of Words



Daisy — This comes from the words, Day's Eye because the flower petals opened with the rise of the sun.

Television — This is made up of two Greek words, tele means far and vision, of course means seeing. Hence far seeing.

Journal — This word derives from the French word for day — jour — and was originally a record of what was done during the day. The word, diary, is another such word. In this case, it refers to the word, dia, which is Latin for day.

NQHS Hosts Higher Education Night Oct. 27

The Guidance Staffs of Quincy Public Schools under the direction of Richard Meyer, head counselor of North Quincy High School, will host a Higher Education night Tuesday, Oct. 27, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. for students, parents, and interested residents of Quincy, Milton, Braintree and Weymouth.

Admissions directors from approximately 60 New England schools and colleges will be available to students and parents to discuss financial aid, programs and admissions requirements at their respective schools.

Higher Education Night provides students and their parents an opportunity to explore many possible avenues of further education before the choice becomes immediate and critical. Seniors can review their current selections and finalize their plans before making formal applications in November.

Printed programs will be available in the lobby of the high school.

Nutley Re-election Party

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas J. Nutley will hold a Re-election Party Saturday, Oct. 17, 8 p.m. to midnight at the Squantum Yacht Club, Quincy Shore Drive.

The evening will include dancing and a light buffet.

Tickets are $12.50 each.

CITIZENS OF QUINCY

Do you believe parks and playgrounds are important in our city?

MAYOR FRANK McCAULEY DOES

Over $280,000 has been spent on city parks and playgrounds in the last two years alone.

Mayor To Request Funds For Playground Work

Mayor Francis McCauley said that he will submit appropriation requests to the City Council April 22, to upgrade two neighborhood playgrounds.

An appropriation of $50,000 will be requested to refurbish and upgrade Perkins Field in Merrymount, according to McCauley.

The mayor said that work would be done on the basketball courts, and chain link fence.

"The work is long overdue," said McCauley, who noted that Merrymount is not a target area and has not received the benefit of Community Development Block Grant Money as have some other sections.

McCauley said that Councillor Michael Cheney spoke to him about the matter.

An appropriation of $7,497 will be requested for refurbishing the Sidney Brez Playground, South Central Ave., Wollaston.

The mayor said he received requests from parents in the district for work on the playground.

Councillors Stephen McGrath and John Lydon also spoke to him about it, he said.

Special Insurance For All City Employees

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the city will provide a special insurance coverage for all city employees, including the Hospital and School Departments. It will provide a $10,000 death benefit for any employee who is killed while riding in a motor vehicle while wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident, according to McCauley.

The policy will cover city employees 24 hours a day regardless of whether the vehicle they are riding in is a city or a private vehicle.

The mayor stated that the program is being provided to impress upon all city employees the importance of wearing seat belts while riding in a motor vehicle.

McCauley went on to say that the statistics nationwide prove that seat belt use reduces the chance of serious injury.

McCauley said that he hopes that this policy, which is being offered at no cost to employees, will help encourage safety in the work place.

Susan Callahan Receives Simmons Study Certificate

Susan Callahan of Canton, formerly of Quincy and an employee at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance, recently received a certificate of studies from Simmons College.

The certificate was awarded to participants for the completion of 64 Simmons credits. Classes, taught by Simmons faculty members, were held at the John Hancock building in Boston.

Callahan is a mortgage loan officer at John Hancock Financial Services in Boston. She is a member of the South Shore Board of Realtors.

John Hancock employees are admitted at Simmons as special students through the college's Office of Continuing Education. Employees take courses, attend study skills workshops and tutoring sessions, and received academic counseling from Simmons faculty and staff.

Vo-Tech Begins 20th Year

JOSEPH MAZZARELLA

Quincy Vocational-Technical School has opened its doors for the new academic year, embarking on the 20th year of its existence.

It also opened with a 33 percent increase in the freshman class, heralding what Director Joseph A. Mazzarella believes is a payoff in recruitment efforts.

"We spend a great deal of time in the middle schools, alerting young students about the advantages of attending a technical vocational high school," he said.

Mazzarella said he will announce shortly a year-long schedule of celebration and special events to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the school. "We will culminate the year with a huge banquet next April, and hopefully can attract as many of the first batch of graduates as is possible," he said.

Mazzarella, who has been named one of five Massachusetts Outstanding Vocational Educators by the Division of Occupational Education, and will represent the state on an official educational fact-finding trip to China later in the year, said one of his goals is to strengthen the school's curriculum, bringing the academim and vocational progams more in tune with each other and relevant to the world of work.

He plans to aggressively pursue grants to supplement the school budget, and announces that during the last school year a total of $282,000 was received in state and federal funds.

Mazzarella was recently named the Director of Industrial Arts and Home Economic Programs in the Quincy school system.

"This gives me a distinct advantage to make known throughout the city the value of vocational technical training, and in particular the diverse options available in a high-tech environment by attending Quincy Vocational-Technical School," he said

City Council, Planning Board To Hold Joint Hearings

The Quincy City Council and Planning Board were scheduled to hold joint public hearings on two matters last night (Wednesday) starting at 6:45 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The first item was to be a Board of Appeals rehearing on a request from Mary Crowley Gregoire to subdivide land on 7-23 Marshfield St. into three lots and to construct a road for some 300 feet.

The second request, at 7:30 p.m., was to be an application from Quincy Group Realty Trust for a PUD special permit to construct 172, two-bedroom dwelling units on land located at 572-618 Southern Artery and 108-128 Field St.

Following the hearings, the Planning Board was to move to the second floor conference room to consider additional matters.

The items were to include consideration of preliminary subdivision of Yankee Heights, and definitive subdivision of Thoreau Road Estates, Turning Mill Lane, and Presidents' Place.

Also on the agenda was a citizens' petition regarding six-story height limitation.

TRADITIONAL VALUES - NEW SPIRIT

How To Avoid Sleepless Nights

Your biological clock, the elusive timepiece that pinpoints the day you receive that first gray hair or notice the deepening creases around your mouth, is also the master of your sleep patterns.

Most people can be categorized as either day or night persons. A day person, or early riser, springs forth instantly alert, and ready to meet the challenges of the day. These early birds hit their peak during the morning hours and experience a down time in the afternoon.

Morning people are ready to sleep early in the evenings and awaken refreshed the next day, eager to begin their morning.

Hitting the snooze button for the third time that morning is a typical behavior for a night person. The late riser has the unenviable tendency to dislike going to sleep at night and fight waking up the next day. Understandably, the night person is most productive during the afternoon and evening hours.

Scientists believe body temperature plays a major role in determining whether you are a morning or a night person. When at rest, the body's functions slow down and body temperature is at its lowest. Conversely, the higher the body temperature, the more awake, alert and productive a person becomes. A morning person's body temperature is on the rise in the morning--peaking early in the day and declining during the afternoon hours. A night person may literally take longer to warm up--reaching maximum body temperature in the afternoon and evening.

The night person's aversion to sleep may be because their body has not geared down enough to make sleep a desirable and welcome prospect.

Our body's natural clock can be altered and controlled somewhat, but basically the clock will continue to run at its own pace--winding up and slowing down according to its own mysterious timetable.

While attempting to match your sleep cycle with your work cycle may at times cause you to lose sleep and make for a hard day at the office, sleep disturbances may be the result of other lifestyle factors as well. Insomnia, whether it be temporary or chronic, is never welcome and almost always a problem.

One of the most common and less serious types of insomnia is temporary or situational insomnia. Occurring during a time of great stress and caused by emotions, the sufferer has trouble falling to sleep during any time of the day and usually feels more tired than sleepy. When life returns to normal for this person, sleep usually does too. Sleeping medications can aggravate the situation by disturbing the normal sleep patterns and creating a psychological dependence.

Persistent psychological insomnia is a type of insomnia found in people who have learned to associate bedtime with difficulty in sleeping. While the initial sleepridding problem may eventually be solved, the lack of sleep continues because the sufferer has been conditioned to expect it. Often a simple change of decor may solve the problem.

Both sleeping pill insomnia and chronic alcoholism insomnia are caused by an upset of the chemical levels in the body. Experts recommend gradually decreasing the amount of chemical taken into the body, to most effectively return to a natrual pattern of sleep.

The staff at Quincy City Hospital offers the following common sense tips that can help you avoid more than your share of sleepless nights:

- Eat healthy, try to avoid unnecessary amounts of caffeine and alcohol.
- Get plenty of exercise. While not only helping to keep your body in optimum condition, physical activity helps to rid emotional anxiety and relaxes your body's muscles.
- Don't carry your worries to bed. Trying to get to sleep by counting your unpaid bills will not work.

These tips are offered in the hope that better understanding of sleep patterns and their effect on health and well-being, will result in better health for the members of the community. If you feel you have a sleep problem, or have questions about sleep, see your doctor. In the event that you do not have a personal phyician, and would like to be referred to someone in our area who specializes in your individual health needs, contact the Doctor Directory at Quincy City Hospital at 786-0005, where someone wil provide you with the information you need to make a selection and an appointment.

Anselmo Says Teachers Deserve Surplus Share

Veteran School Committee member Frank Anselmo said that Quincy teachers "definitely deserve" to receive a portion of the city's $10.1 million surplus.

"The police and fire departments get more money, what's the matter with the teachers?" asked Anselmo.

"Public servants must keep up with the cost of living. You don't maintain goodwill unless you treat people fairly financially.

"The mayor should give the teachers what they are asking for. They are asking no more than they deserve."

Quincy teachers had reached a tentative contract agreement which was expected to be voted on Oct. 21. But after the surplus was announced, Quincy Education Association president Thomas Walsh said chances of the agreement being ratified were slim.

"The city could have raised $2 million more a year with more taxes," noted Anselmo.

"Somebody down the line is not getting their fair share."

$2.5 Million In Construction

The Building Department issued 51 permits for construction estimated to cost $2,503,915 during the month of September.

A total of $39,697 was received in permit fees, and $572 for public safety inspection fees.

A total of seven dwelling units were added through new construction, and one through alterations.

Permits were issued for four, one-family dwellings estimated to cost $300,000, and one, three-family dwelling at $200,000.

There were 116 permits for residential alterations estimated to cost $930,865; 10 for other alterations at $995,900; five removals at $34,050; five signs at $9,500; and 10 miscellaneous at $33,600.

The totals for September, 1986 are $4,936,464.

Keenan Proposes Street Cleaning Program In Ward 5

John F. Keenan, candidate for Ward 5 City Council, has proposed a program to address the street cleaning needs of that ward.

"Many Ward 5 residents are dissatisfied with the present method of street cleaning," Keenan said, "and in particular with the amount of sand and salt that was left on the streets this past spring."

Keenan said a large part of the problem was the inability of the street cleaning trucks to get to the curbs due to the number of cars parked on the sidestreets throughout the ward.

Keenan proposed that a schedule be established detailing when and which side of specific streets would be cleaned. The schedule would then be printed weekly in the local newspapers.

"With a simple notification program such as this, residents would know when their street will be cleaned and could make sure that they put their cars in the driveway or park them opposite the side of the street scheduled to be swept."

Keenan said that the requirement of establishing, following, and publishing a strict street cleaning schedule should be included in the bid invitations and contract.

"The city should make such a program part of any contract put out to bid and companies wishing to do Quincy's street cleaning should realize that if their bid is accepted their work will be closely monitored."

"Street cleaning," Keenan said, "is one of the many seemingly small but actually important things that affect the quality of life in our neighborhoods. It is the detail items that need attention in areas such as Ward 5."

3 Quincy Men Off To China On Educational Mission

Three Quincy men will travel to China next week with a delegation of specialists in occupational education as citizen ambassadors.

Edward Roberts, of Atlantic St., John Tompkins of Holmes St., and Joseph Mazzarella, director of Quincy Vocational-Technical School, will begin their three week privately funded trip Oct. 16. Sponsored by the American Vocational Association, the three men are the only Massachusetts residents selected to go.

In all, 56 delegates and 10 spouses from 25 states will attend.

Roberts, shelter manager for Quincy Civil Defense and a 30-year professional educator who works as a counselor with special needs and handicapped students in the Boston School System, was invited back to China by the AVA. Roberts traveled in a similar trip to China in March, 1986.

The Quincy delegation will join other educators and tour the People's Republic of China. The trip includes stops to Beijing, Bahan, Manjing, Shanghai, Xiamen and Hong Kong.

They'll share with their Chinese counterparts the best of professional educational practices from both countries.

The group will visit key centers for occupational education annd learn first hand the problems and solutions of Chinese occupational education experts.

This will include meetings at sparetime and factory schools, worker colleges, vocational special education and televison schools. The group will return Nov. 6.

Roberts, a career instruction manager at Dorchester High, J.E. Burke High and the Humphrey Occupational Resource Center in Boston, said his area will be vocational assessment and career planning which seems to be the problem they are having in China: getting the right people in the right jobs.

"They think they are 10 years behind because of the Cultural Revolution," Roberts said.

Among the topics for discussion during the trip are:

Teacher respect and responsibility within the Chinese society.

Industrial and informational technology and how it is addressed

Instruction methods in various school settings.

The role of handicapped people in Chinese and American societies.

Future plans for educating the children of China in order to meet the mandates of the current Five-Year Plan.

Roberts and his group would try to set up an exchange program of students and educators involving Massachusetts Educational Institutions and Chinese universities.

"Massachusetts has been noted to be a pioneer and leader in vocational technical education," Roberts said.

Robert's Quincy civic involvement includes being the former director of the city's Civil Defense from 1969 to 1974.

Tompkins is a culinary arts instructor at J.E. Burke High in Boston. He is well known for his work with organizing dinners for special needs students in Boston Mazzarella said his invitation to China is a professional honor, and prestigious for Massachusetts and the role the state plays in vocational education. He said he would make a full report on his trip when he returns.

Wollaston Park Assn. To Hear Brownell

State Rep. Thomas Brownell, who was recently appointed to a judgeship in Plymouth District Court by Gov. Michael Dukakis, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Wollaston Park Association Wednesday, Oct. 28.

The evening will begin at 6:30 p.m. with cocktails, followed by dinner at 7 p.m., Brownell at 8 p.m., and the annual meeting and election of officers at 8:45 p.m.

Denis Tardo Heads Quincy Tenants Organization

The Quincy tenants organization is once again with Denis F. Tardo, a resident of Towne House Apartments and spokesman for the that tenant group, heading the organization.

Tardo said he will "be very vigorous in an effort to continue the work of Martin Goldstein. Mr. Goldstein and the Quincy Tenants Organization worked very hard collecting signatures to implement rent control, and that effort will be renewed.

"The tenants want rent control, and that effort will be hard for rent control and we're going to get rent control. After all, a 51 percent majority of the citizens of Quincy pay rent."

DENIS TARDO

Including the issues of rent control, condo conversions and affordable housing, Tardo said he would ask tenants and would himself "actively support the exposure of elected officials who go against the tenants and speak on behalf of uncooperative, immoral landlords and or developers, before the appeals board. The officials elected by the citizens of Quincy should represent the citizens of Quincy" Tardo emphasized "not outside developers."

"When tenants, property owners and elected officials in one section of the city agree certain property is deteriorating, seemingly of neglect, it is difficult to believe the board of appeals would consider the same developer's plans to upgrade another section of the city and it is devastating to think a councilor would speak on behalf of that developer." Tardo explained.

"The City of Quincy will be losing $2 million in tax revenue from the sale of the General Dynamics Shipyard to the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority and not one person identified themself as a developer at the recent sludge plant hearings. Why?" Tardo asked.

"Although raising rents to absorbe elevated taxes is common and possibly profitable for large developers, it certainly is not moral and should not be tolerated!"

"The Quincy Tenants Organization will address some very difficult issues," including residential and commercial use development, rent control condo conversions, environmental impact, traffic and parking congrestion. Rent control partitions will be drafted shortly and should be available very shortly." Tardo said. "The Quincy Tenants Organization's concerns are not issue limited to apartment house tenants, and all the tenants of Quincy should attend meetings whether they live in an apartment buildings or a private home."

"All Quincy Tenant Organization meetings will provide valuable information to the tenants," Tardo claimed. "The date and location of our next meeting will be announced very soon the next meeting will provide information about organizing the tenants of an apartment building, street or entire block."

Tardo said he and other members of the organization would be available to assist building or community organizations wishing to reactivate.

Scheduled to be guest speaker at the next meeting is Jane Reikard of the Rent Grievance Board. Mrs. Reikard is the mediator between landlords and tenants on laws and regulations. In attion to Trado, other committee members of the organization are Martin Goldstein, Lee Cram and William Younie.

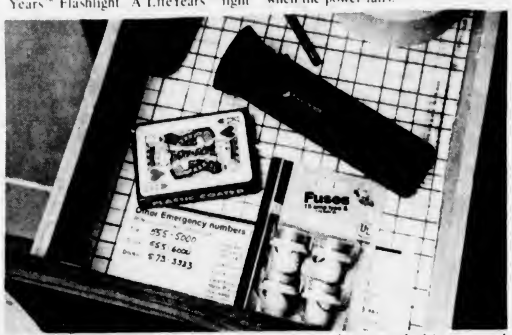
FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

Keeping things bright when power fails

Picture this: You're reading a book or watching television, and suddenly the lights go out or the screen becomes blank. What has happened?

Chances are, provided you've paid your electric bills on time, your temporary lack of electricity is due to either a blown fuse or the downing of power lines.



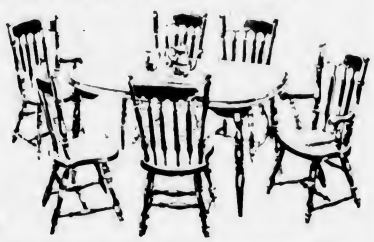
Because homes and their occupants are more vulnerable to intruders and accidents during a power failure, every family member should be prepared for one.

Start by designating a drawer in a central downstairs location as the "emergency" drawer. Stock it with a longlasting flashlight, such as Black & Decker's Lite-Years™ Flashlight. A LiteYears™ light will store for up to 10 years, so it's always ready in an emergency. A packet of replacement fuses and a list of emergency phone numbers are also essentials.

Next, hold a family drill. Turn out the lights and have everyone meet at the emergency drawer. Use the flashlight to help you find the fusebox and check that all doors and windows are locked.

Finally, use your phone book to double-check the emergency numbers in the drawer, making certain they've been copied correctly.

If you follow these tips and play your cards right — and a pack of playing cards is the final item to keep in your emergency drawer — you will be in charge when the power fails.



IN CASE OF EMERGENCY — Keep an emergency drawer stocked in a central downstairs location. When the occasional blackout hits, Black & Decker's Lite-Years™ Flashlight provides peace of mind — it will store for up to 10 years and still emit a powerful beam of light.

EXTRA! Quincy Sun Car Care Guide

Car care awareness project

A concerted public awareness program in Birmingham, Alabama, may set the pace for cities nationwide, according to Car Care Council. The week-long project was sponsored by civic, government and business groups in the community.

In addition to a public information "blitz" through the cooperation of all news and advertising media, the program also provided free safety and exhaust emission checks at two shopping centers.

"The results of our vehicle checks were about as we expected," says James L. Hughes, of the American Lung Association of Alabama which, along with the Alabama Motorists Association (AAA) spearheaded the activity.

"We checked 361 cars, 126 of which could not pass the emissions test. We also found many others with safety defects or other discrepancies."

The underlying problem with the cars tested was neglect, according to Hughes. "More often than not we find that simple adjustments and/or maintenance procedures like a basic tune-up will correct the condition," he said.

Hughes has special reason for concern about exhaust emissions. His city's air quality is marginal and Birmingham's vehicle population has the lowest incidence of tune-ups in the U.S.A.

Troubleshooting the car heating system

With the cold winter months ahead, now is the time to make sure your heater is working properly.

A car's heating system is much like the engine cooling system. In addition to the duct work, the basic elements of any car heating system are: 1) The heater core which is in essence a miniature radiator, and 2) two hoses, one of which transports hot coolant to the heater core in the passenger compartment, while the second hose returns this coolant to the engine.

To help familiarize you with some possible heating system problems, The Gates Rubber Company has developed this troubleshooting guide.

When your car heater is not producing enough heat, any of the following may be the cause:

1. The flow of air under the dash may be blocked.

2. Coolant level in the radiator may be low.

3. Heater hoses may be leaking. If a leak is the problem, the hose must be replaced.

4. Hoses may be bent or kinked, thereby restricting the flow of coolant.

5. If the car's heater hoses have recently been removed, they may not have been properly reconnected.

6. Air may be trapped in the system. This also would restrict the coolant. The solution to this is to bleed the system.

7. The blower motor may not be properly working. This could be caused by a blown fuse, a faulty blower resistor, a bad blower motor switch, a loose connection or a burned-out motor.

8. The cooling system thermostat may be stuck in the open position. When this happens, the coolant will not heat up properly. And, if the coolant is too cold, heat output will be insufficient. The thermostat should be removed, tested, and replaced if necessary.

9. Doors to the heater assembly may be stuck.

10. Heater core may be clogged. If this is the case, the core should be removed from the car and cleaned out. If the problem still exists, the heater core should be replaced.

11. Water pump belt may be worn and need replacing. If the pump belt has become loose due to wear, it will not drive the water pump efficiently. This, in turn, means that the cooling system will not operate efficiently.

It's a good idea to have your car's heating system checked out as part of the "winterizing" which should be performed before cold weather hits. Conscientious preventive maintenance can help avoid heating problems which always seem to occur at the most inconvenient times.

FOR THE HEATER TO OPERATE PROPERLY, the cooling system must have the proper mixture and amount of anti-freeze. This also is a convenient time to inspect and replace heater and radiator hoses.

Raiders On Up Beat For Malden Friday

Ken McPhee, in his six years as North Quincy's football coach, has experienced his share of highs and lows, and last Saturday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium the Radiers rewarded him with one of his biggest wins of all time, a come-from-behind 24-20 victory over previously unbeaten Weymouth South. The win improved North's record to 2-2.

The Raiders go from the frying pan into the fire Friday night when they go to Malden to play the Greater Boston League leader. Malden dropped a one-point decision to melrose, then defeated Peabody, Arlington and Waltham. Malden walloped North, 33-0, last season.

"This has to be one of the greatest wins for me," said an elated McPhee. "The way these kids kept fighting back was tremendous. They were stopped twice deep in Weymouth territory but refused to quit and that last drive for the winning touchdown was really something." North scored the clincher with 1:38 left in the game.

North took the opening kickoff and drove all the way to Weymouth's 14 but was stopped. Late in the game the Raiders made it to the Weymouth eight but again were foiled.

After that drive was stopped, North held the Wildcats and then drove 65 yards for the winning score, led by the passing of Joe Mulvey, who was sensational. Mulvey was 20 for 27 for 207 yards and one touchdown. He had one interception. Several of his passes were screens.

"If he isn't the player of the week, something is wrong," said McPhee. "He was just terrific tonight and Paul McCormack ran very well (71 yards and two touchdowns). Ryan Craig has to be the gutsiest player around. He had ankle and knee problems but refused to come out of the game and he played well both ways."

North Quincy Season Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts
Lawless	3	2	20
McCormack	3	0	18
Ainsley	1	4	10
MacDougall	1	4	10

Dave Lawless was shifted to tight end and had a fine game, scoring a touchdown and a two-point conversion. Mike Ainsley was a two-way standout at tight end and linebacker, Billy MacDougall had another excellent game. Scott Gott also received praise from McPhee.

"Defensively our ends, Shawn Clancy and Shawn Darcy were outstanding and the offensive line did a super job," said McPhee, who singled out Paul Hogan, Matt McNamara ("I don't think he had missed a block this year") Dan Steele, Paul Nimeskern and Dave Joyce.

Led by the running of McCormack and Craig and two passes to MacDougall for 13 and 15 yards, North drove to Weymouth's 14 following the opening kickoff but the Wildcasts held.

Weymouth, paced by the runnig of quarterback Greg Ondrick and Mike McMahon, drove 86 yards for the game's first touchdown. Doyle Coleman raced around right end for 46 yards and a touchdown. Bob Leighton kicked the extra point.

Weymouth's speedy backs ran the North ends ragged in the first half, but the Raiders made some adjustments and continued the Wildcats in the second half.

North immediately came back and went all the way with Mulvey throwing a short pass to Lawless, who escaped several defenders and ran 41 yards for the touchdown. Mulvey passed to MacDougall to put North ahead, 8-7.

It took Weymouth only four plays to regain the lead, with Ondrick going around right end for 34 yards and a TD. This time Leighton's kick was blocked.

A North Quincy pass was intercepted and returned to North's 43 from where Weymouth moved to its final touchdown, Joe Swartz scoring from the five and Leighton kicking the point.

Again North came right back to score, marching 60 yards with McCormack scoring from the five. Mulvey

Panthers, Sailors Win

The Quincy Panthers and the Squantum Sailors improved their Quincy Youth Football League records to 3-0 with victories in the rain Sunday.

The Panthers defeated the Houghs Neck Manets, 12-6, while the Sailors topped the West Quincy Elks, 14-0.

Sunday the Sailors will meet the North Quincy Apaches at 1 p.m. and the Panthers will face the Elks at 2:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Panthers kicked off to open the game, held the Manets, then scored their first touchdown on a 50-yard run by Derek Tardanico. The try for points failed.

Tardanico picked off a Manet pass as the first quarter ended.

In the second quarter the Panthers again held fast and Tardanico, after three penalties, scored his second touchdown to give the Panthers a 12-0 halftime lead.

The Manets avoided a shutout with a touchdown late in the game.

David Jolley, Jon Slack, Joe Crespi, Tardanico and Matt McLarnon stood out on defense as they stopped the Manets deep in their own territory with two minutes left.

Mike Lally scored on a 10-yard run and Jimmy Lydon scored from the two in the Sailors' win over the Elks. David Savage rushed for a two-point conversion.

In junior varsity action the Panthers improved to 4-0 with a 12-0 decision over the Manets. Noel DiBona, Marc Lomanno, Brian Jennette, Tom Foley and Peter Kelley played well for the Panthers.

Raiders On Up Beat For Malden Saturday

passed to Lawless for the two-point conversion and North Quincy trailed, 20-16, at halftime.

North got a break when a bad pass from center foiled a Weymouth punt and the Raiders had the ball on their own 48. North went all the way to Weymouth's eight-yard line but was stopped when a fourth down pass failed. Ted Stevenson made a great leaping catch of a Mulvey pass to keep the drive going.

Weymouth could do nothing and punted to North's 40. It was returned to the 50 but a clipping penalty, one of only two penalities in the game, set the Raiders back to their 35.

There was no stopping them this time as Mulvey hit McDougall for 15 yards, MacDougall again for 11, McCormack for two, Craig for 15 and Ainsley for 11 to bring the ball to the 14. McCormack ended the drive by scoring from the two with 1:38 to play. Mulvey passed to Ainsley for the two-point conversion.

North fans didn't have a chance to relax as Weymouth picked up two first downs and Ondrick threw four long bombs with time running out. However, North's secondary was ready and all four went incomplete as the exciting game ended.

McPhee praised all his assistant coaches after the game. "Kevin Cobban was super upstairs on the phone and his calls had a lot to do with the win," he said. "Pete Zoia, Jamie Walsh, John Muldowney, Ted Sadowski, Peter Chrisom, Dean Merlino and Tom Carter all did their part toward this great victory."

Zoia, who this week celebrated his 70th birthday, was given the game ball as the players sang "Happy Birthday."

North Jayvees Breeze By Newton N., 28-0

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team improved to 3-0 with an impressive 28-0 victory over the Newton North jayvees.

After a scoreless first quarter, North's Sean Glennon blocked a punt on Newton's 23. Dave Hutchins and Jeff Sullivan ran for a first down but a pitchout went astray and Newton recovered.

Dan Hobin pounced on a Newton loose ball on Newton's 47 to set up the first score. Jim Bryan passed to Hutchins for 11 yards and Sullivan raced 36 yards for a touchdown. Hutchins ran for the two-point conversion.

There was no further scoring in the first half and in the third quarter hard hitting by the Raiders caused another fumble and Sean McDonough recovered on Newton's 25. Bryan picked up 24 yards to the one from where Hutchins scored. The try for points failed.

Strong pass defense by Kevin MacDougall stymied the Tigers and North took over on its own 46, Bryan ran for 14, Hutchins added six and, on a great call by Coach Kevin Cobban, Bryan hit Hutchins for a 26-yard touchdown pass. Sullivan ran for the two-point conversion.

On the ensuing kickoff North's Quan Le hit the receiver with a savage tackle, forcing another fumble and Steve Lombardi recovered on the Newton 26.

Cobban substituted freely and Newton held, taking over on its 19. Wayne McCulley intercepted a pass on the Newton 37 and Jeff Currie skirted his own left end for 37 yards and the final score.

The North jayvees' defense has been tremendous and in three games only six points have been scored against it.

Cobban hailed the fine play of Dan Pike, Brian Healy, Scott Kemp, Jeff Calvert, Alez Malasi and Jesse Sweatt.

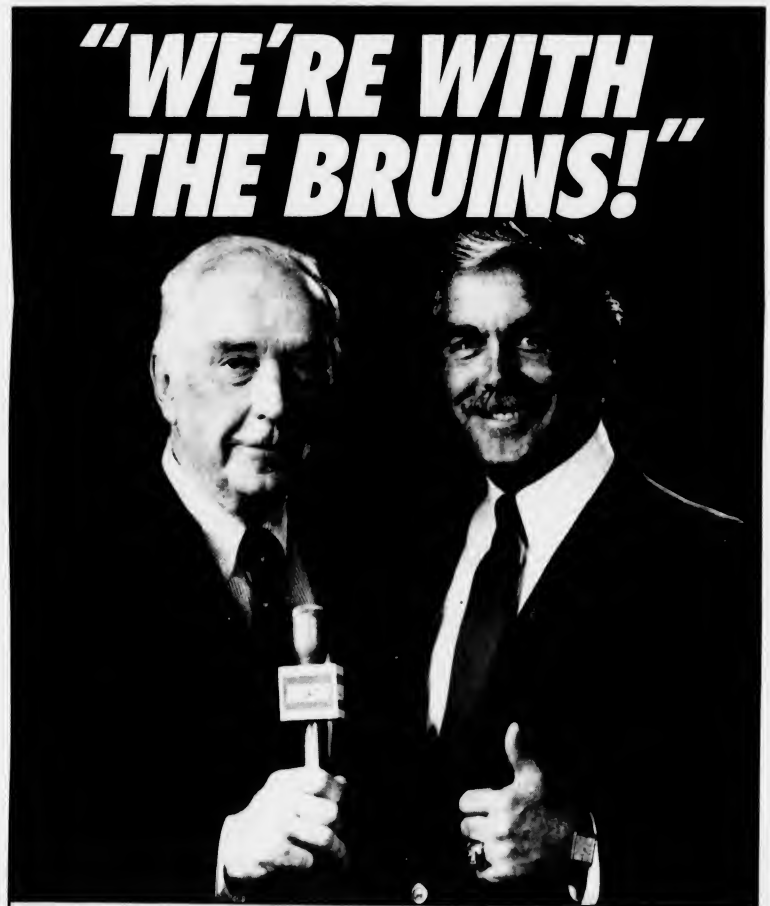
Mount, Timmins Remain Undefeated

The Mount and Timmins Contracting continue unbeaten in the Jaehnig Chiropractic Basketball League and last week improved their records to 3-0.

Mark Millane's 36 points powered the Mount to a 109-84 victory over the Casey Club. The Mount broke open a seven-point halftime lead and received 20 points from Kurt O'Sullivan. Paul Wholey and Kevin McGrath had 26 points apiece for the Casey Club.

Timmins scored a 69-52 win over the Question Marks behind Bill Murphy's 21 points. Rich Swietek led the Question Marks with 17.

Dean Coletti scored six of his 16 points in the last two minutes and Billy Dacey scored 21 points to lead Elm Street to a 65-57 win over the Jaehnig Club. The game was close throughout and was tied with two minutes left when Coletti and John Bradley, who scored the tie-breaking basket, clinched things. Mark Jaehnig had 14 points for Jaehnig and David Britt was all over the court defensively.



The Quincy Nets defeated Lower Mills, 81-69, with Jim Conboy leading six Nets in double figures with 15 points. Joe DeLuca of Lower Mills was the game's scoring leader with 23.

Presidents Host Unbeaten Brockton Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

A frustrated Jack Raymer wonders what more can go wrong for his embattled Quincy football team.

Everything has been going wrong for the 0-4 Presidents and, despite one of its better performances of the season, especially in the second half, they lost to Newton North, 21-0, last Friday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

And things don't get any better for Quincy, which must face unbeaten Brockton (4-0), the perennial Suburban League champion, Friday night at 7 p.m. at the stadium. The Boxers have defeated Pennsbury, Pa., Newton North, Somerville and boston North, Somerville and Boston College High.

The Presidents again put themselves int he hole right away as they fumbled the opening kickoff and Newton had the ball on the 26 and scored six plays later. An interception set up the second Newton score and Quincy lost a certain touchdown when the ball squirted out of Chris Noble's hands at the goal line and Newton recovered in the end zone for a touchback. In addition, Noble had a punt blocked and another time a bad pass from center prevented a punt and gave Newton the ball.

Noble	1	0	6

Quincy never could get its offense clicking as it was minus seven yards rushing. The whole attack was the passing of Noble in the second half. He wa 10 for 23 for 135 yards after being only two of six for 23 yards in the first half. But he was intercepted four times and he was sacked five times.

Wide receiver Sean Munroe had another big night with seven receptions for 100 yards, all in the second half.

Quincy's defense was spectacular in the second half. Newton had 180 yards rushing but only 28 in the second half. Newton struck to the ground and threw only five passes, completing one.

"I can't say enough for the defense in the second half," said defensive coach John Taglieri. "It was just tremendods and Scott Thompson had a great game. Also, Dan Hanley, Brian Norris, Craig Keefe, Todd and Jim Kimmell, Jim Dennett, Frank Calabro and Dave Spencer, coming back from an injury, were outstanding."

"You can't get behind a team like Newton and hope to come back," said Raymer. "We put ourselves in a hole right at the start and we couldn't generate any offense until Noble got rolling in the second half. He and Sean Munroe had another fine game, but we have to start moving on the ground. We can't go solely through the air."

Raymer singled out Chris Kohler, Tim Byrne, Paul Kirk, Norris, Mike Madden and Steve Slicis for their performances in the offensive line.

Defensive tackle Frank Ienello suffered a knee injury and was taken to Quincy City Hospital.

It took Newton six plays to score after recovering the fumbled kickoff. Milt Britton, who rushed for 63 yards, scored from the three and Jason DeGeorge kicked the extra point.

Noble was unable to punt due to a bad pass from center and Newton took over on the Quincy 17. Four plays later Joe DeNucci, son of state auditor and former boxing great Joe DeNucci, scored from the four and DeGeorge's kick was no good. DeNucci rushed for 98 yards.

Quincy recovered a fumble on its 47 and led by Dave Nourse and a 21-yard pass to Ernie Light, drove to Newton's 12. On the third play Noble went around right end and, just as he was about to score, lost the bal and Newton recovered in the end zone.

"That was a big play, a touchdown at that point might have changed the complexion of the game," said Raymer.

Newton then drove to its third score with DeNucci scoring from the five. On a fake kick DeGeorge passed to Dennis Rohanna for the two-point conversion.

Although it couldn't score, the second half was all Quincy as Noble began to find the range and completed eight passes, seven to Munroe and one to Light, who caught two in the first half. However, three interceptions and two lost fumbles kept the Presidents off the board.

Quincy, Brockton Rivalry Ends Friday Night

Friday night's Quincy-Brockton football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium will be the final one between th old rivals.

Quincy and North Quincy, who have had little luck against the Boxers in recent years, have been given the green light to drop Brockton in football after this year.

Last year Brockton topped the Presidents, 27-7, despite one of Quincy's better efforts of the season.

Brockton has as many students in the freshman class as Quincy and North have in the entire school.

North Quincy will play its final game against Brockton on Friday night, Oct. 23. Brockton won, 34-6, last year.

Gillis, Sullivan, Durante Doubles Winners

Marks, Sullivan, Bossard, Win Titles

After three and one half weeks of battling opponents and the weather, the 1987 champions were crowned at the Quincy Tennis Tournament.

The annual event, which is sponsored by the Granite Cooperative Bank and the Quincy Recreation Department again provided tennis fans of Quincy with outstanding action at the Voc-Tech courts.

The Durante family again proved to be Quincy's first family of tennis, as family members participated in five of the nine finals held last week. Head of the household John Durante was defeated by defending champion Joe Ryan (6-4, 6-0) in the men's 35 and over final. Both players played very well while fighting off a very tough wind at the Voc-Tech.

John's wife Louise was a finalist in the women'sd 35 and over and the women's doubles. Louise, combining with her son Gary in the mixed doubles finals, went on to defeat Oscar Jara and Lynne Maloney 6-1, 1-6, 7-5, and captured the William F. Ryan Cup.

Hildy Gillis defeated Louise Durante (6-1, 7-6) in the women's 35 and over and then combined with her partner Terri Sullivan to defeat Durante and her partner Dolly DiPesa (6-4, 4-6, 6-4) to capture the women's doubles crown.

The women's singles saw two new faces upon the Quincy tennis scene. In a good match, Michele Marks defeated Dolly DiPesa (6-2, 2-6, 6-2). This match featured two pure ground strokes that battled for every point as if it were match point.

On the men's side a newcomer also made his mark onto the champion's board. Tom Bossard brought a big serve and steady net game into the men's final and defeated Tom Savoie (7-6, 6-4), capturing the prestigious men's singles championship and the Lionel "Shine" Buckley Cup. Savoie, suffering from an aggravated shoulder, played fantastically all week and gave Tom all he could handle. But it was Tom's consistency that in the end prevailed.

Men's double's action saw another Durante team (John and son Gary) defeat the strong team of Oscar Jara and Tom Savoie (6-1, 6-2). The men's "B" singles had two good players fight off a very cold and windy night as well as each other's good play. Barry Gilfeather took the title from Ed McArdle 6-0, 6-1.

The boys' 16 and under champion had two of Quincy's finest young players put a clinic on for two solid sets of tennis. In the end Oscar Jara defeated Steve Maloney (6-4, 6-4).

Men's 35 and over: Champion Joe Ryan, finalist John Durante.

Men's singles Lionel "Shine" Buckley Cup: Champion Tom Bossard, finalist Tom Savoie.

Men's Doubles: Champion John Durante and Gary Durante, finalist Oscar Jara and Tom Savoie.

Mixed Doubles, William F. Ryan Cup: Champion Louise Durante and Garv Durante, finalist Oscar Jara and Lynne Maloney.

Women's singles: Champion Michelle Marks, finalist Dolly DiPesa.

Women's Doubles: Champion Hildy Gillis and Terri Sullivan, finalist Louise Durante and Dolly DiPesa.

Boys 16 and under: Champion Oscar Jara, finalist Steve Maloney.

The 17th annual tournament was directed by John Franceschini and Steve Durante of the Quincy Recreation Department staff. Awards will be presented at a ceremony held at the Granite Cooperative Bank.

Quincy Top Choice For Professional Soccer Team

It will probably be known by next week if Quincy will host a new professional soccer league team next spring.

The Boston franchise in the American Soccer League has Veterans Memorial Stadium as one of the top sites for its first season.

"I would say Quincy is our number one choice at this time," Alan Suvalle, general manager of F.C. Boston, Inc. told the Quincy school committee.

The team has offered $10,000 to lease the stadium and to give free clinics to Quincy youngsters. He said if there are any playoff games, the team would pay an additional fee.

The committee referred the proposal to Supt. Robert Ricci, who is expected to make a recommendation in a week.

"The Quincy stadium has everything we are looking for," said Suvalle. "Its location is ideal for what we are proposing." He failed to identify other sites the team is considering.

The league will comprise Boston, Washington, Diplomats, Tampa Bay Rowdies, Ft. Lauderdale Strikers, New Jersey Cosmopolitan Eagles, Maryland Bays and Albany Capitals.

Suvalle said there are not plans to serve alcoholic beverages, but didn't rule out a future request for a liquor license.

He said the team would assume the responsibility for promotion, ticket sales, gate receipts, ushers, concessions, security and field conditions.

Suvalle added that he has been involved with youth soccer for several years.

He said tickets would probably be $8 for adults and $2 or $3 for youngsters. He said the team nopes to average 3750 fans for its home games. The stadium holds about 9000.

Quincy Soccer League president Malcolm MacNeil told school officials that his group supports the pro soccer team playing in Quincy.

Robert Jarnis who is running for school committee, told the school committee it could be an opportunity for students to benefit from learning from the pros. He said the school system's partnership with a business could mean additional money.

The teams, which will have 18-man squads, will be limited to three foreign players next seson and two in 1989. The payrolls will reportedly be limited to $50,000 for the first year.

Suvalle said the team will soon announce a contest to choose the new club's name.

North Girls Swim Team Wins Pair

The North Quincy girls' swim team, off to another fast start, improved to 4-1 last week with wins over Weymouth North and Newton South.

Bill Walker's Raiderettes will host Newton North Friday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and next Tuesday will be at Brookline at 3:30.

Beth Hughes won the 100 backstroke and anchored the winning 200 medley relay team as North Quincy defeated Weymouth North, 97-59, last Friday.

Hughes won the 100 breaststroke in 1:21.1 and the 200 medley relay team of Hughes, Liz Harrington, Maureen Furey and Debbie Ramos won in 2.22.7.

Other North Quincy winners were Ramos, 50 free style (28.8); Renee Robichaud, diving (157.60 points); Molly McDonough, 100 freestyle (1:10.5), and Sheila Comeau, 100 breaststroke (1.32.8).

Taking second places were Sherrin Quintiliani, 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle; Liz Harrington, 200 individual medley; Laura Dawson, diving; Furey, 100 butterfly; and Joanna Vermette, 100 backstroke.

Placing third were Hughes, 200 freestyle; Lisa Rodriguez, 200 individual medley; Blythe Bumpus, 50 freestyle; Christine Callahan, 100 butterfly; Vicki Borek, 100 freestyle; Eileen Buto, 500 freestyle, and Bumpus, 100 backstroke.

Earlier in the week Ramos won the 50 freestyle in 29.4 and the 100 freestyle in 1:04.1 to lead North Quincy to a 101-58 victory over Newton South.

Other North winners were Liz Harrington, 200 individual medley (2:47.4); Furey, 100 butterfly (1:18.7); Rodriquez, 100 breaststroke (1:30.4); Robichaud, diving (146.5 points); the medley relay team of Liz Harrington, Furey, Bumpus and Vermette (2:20.3), and the freestyle relay team of Liz Harrington, Quintiliani, Hughes and Ramos (4:37.1).

Placing second were McDonough, 100 freestyle; Hughes, 200 freestyle; Quintiliani, 500 freestyle; Hughes, 100 backstroke; and Comeau, 100 breaststroke.

Taking thirds were McDonough, 50 freestyle; Borek, 100 freestyle; Quintiliani, 200 freestyle; Rodriguez, 200 individual medley; Sarah Harrington, 100 butterfly; Bumpus, 100 backstroke; Jennifer Mann, 100 breaststroke; and Dawson, diving.

Quincy Girls Swimmers Defeat Cambridge, Walpole

The Quincy girls' swim team, off to its best start in some time, defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 87-79, in its Suburban League opener, after defeating Walpole in a non-league meet.

Led by the 200 medley relay team of Janet Morrell, Gayle Morrell, Patti Morrell and Kelly Ross, which won in 2:29.35 and first place finishes by Cindy Galman in the 200 freestyle (2:25.80) and the 500 freestyle (6:35.17), the First Ladies defeated Cambridge for the first time in three years.

Also contributing to the victory was Renee Gaura, who won the diving with a school record of 171.65 points, and who also won the 50 freestyle in 29.77.

A large number of Quincy football players were on hand to cheer the team on against Cambridge at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

The First Ladies will be at Brockton Friday and will host Waltham next Tuesday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock pool.

North Girls Near Tournament Berth

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team is a step away from the Eastern Mass. tournament after two wins last week to improve its Suburban League-leading record to 10-0.

Jim Rendle's Raiderettes will be at Waltham Friday and will host Newton South next Monday at 3:30 p.m.

Holly Rendle and Jill Caldwell played well to lead North over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 15-3, 15-9 last Friday.

The aggressive play of Deidre Murphy and the passing of Denise Marnell led the way in the second game win.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes defeated Brookline, 15-9, 15-10, with Rendle scoring four straight points with the first game tied, 9-9. Debbie Panaro and Julie Detwiler were also outstanding for North.

Quincy Girls Defeat Newton South

The Quincy girls' volleyball team defeated Newton South, 15-3, 15-3, last Friday to improve its record to 7-3.

The First Ladies will be at Newon North Friday and will be home to Boston Latin Monday at 3:30.

The Quincy girls were led by the serving and aggressive play of Amy Guidice and Nancy Laitinen in the win over Newton South. Both players served for seven points in each game and provided stellar spiking.

Earlier in the week Quincy defeated Waltham, 15-3, 15-5, paced by the serving of Diane Heeney, the spiking and blocking of Guidice and the setting of freshman Christine Barrett. Heeney served for five straight points in the first game and four straight in the second.

Bantam A's Edge Pembroke

Quincy's Bantam A hockey team edged Pembroke, 3-2, on Steve Carroll's late goal with Jeff Freeman and Kevin Daly assisting.

Daly and Sal Manganaro had the other goals with assists for Carroll, Freeman, Joe Fasano and Greg Hohmann. Fred Regan and Scott Mann played well in goal.

Mann and Regan backboned Quincy's 7-0 win over Wellesley. Hohmann had two goals and an assist, Daly a goal and two assists, Staskywicz a goal and two assists, Manganaro a goal and an assist, Carroll and Mike Baylis a goal each, Fasano two assists and Brian Zimmerman, Richie McDonald and Joe Bevilacqua one assist each. Jim McCarthy and Ronnie Last played strong defense.

Patriot Leads Olindy's Junior All Stars

Patriot Glass leads Olindy's Junior All-Star Bowling League with a 10-2 record.

Following are Eco Muffler, 8-4; Scarry Realty, 8-4; Adams Cleaners, 8-4; Sweeney Brothers, 8-4; Marchionne Insurance, 6-6; Hancock Tire, 6-6; President Pharmacy, 6-6; Finian's, 6-6; Patriot Service, 4-8; Tony's, 4-8; Dom's, 4-8; Mike's Auto Body, 4-8; Goodhue's, 2-10; Olindy's 2, 2-10, and Olindy's 1, 2-10.

Patriot Glass took four points from Scarry to take over first place. Bowlers of the week were Jackie Burke, who bowled a three-string total of 290, 44 pins over his average, and Tim Johnson, who bowled a 115 single.

Amy DiRocco leads the girls with an 88 average, followed by Kristin DiRocco, 72; Susan Sweeney, 66; Jen Hayward, 65, and Karen Mezzetti, 64.

The boys and girls of the league thank the sponsors for their support.

NQHS Football Boosters Social Oct. 24

The North Quincy Football Booster Club will hold its annual fall social for parents and friends of North Quincy Football on Saturday, Oct. 24 at Sacred Heart Church Hall on Hancock St., North Quincy.

Leads Broncos Over Raiders

Dudek: 'A Night I Will Never Forget'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last Monday night was in North Quincy's Joe Dudek's words, "A night I will never forget."

The former North Quincy star who signed with the Denver Broncos as a free agent last year and spent the season on the injured reserve list, earning a Super Bowl Ring, was one of the last players to be cut by the Broncos this season.

When the NFL strike occurred, Dorsett called Dudek back but he refused to cross the picket line.

However, with bills piling up, Dudek, who has been working at a construction job, changed his mind and decided to cross the picket line.

He was rewarded with a starting spot in Monday night's nationally-televised game with the previously unbeaten Los Angeles Raiders.

Dudek, who broke Walter Payton's NCAA touchdown record while leading Plymouth State College to four straight New England Conference titles, took full advantage of his opportunity and had an outstanding night in leading the Broncos to a 30-14 victory over the Raiders.

Joe, who played the entire game on offense, rushed for 128 yards and scored the Broncos' first two touchdowns in the opening quarter.

"Scoring that first touchdown, my first in the NFL, was a tremendous thrill," said Dudek. "That is one night I will never forget."

"I thought Joe played an outstanding game and I think he proved he can play in the NFL," said his high school coach Ken McPhee. "He showed a lot of poise and looked like a pro playing against a bunch of amateurs, he was so far ahead of anyone else on the field."

"He talked to me before deciding to go back and play and I told him he would be crazy not to. He made the right choice and I think he may have earned a spot on the team. I was very proud watching him in that game."

Dudek led McPhee's North Quincy teams to wins over Quincy in 1980 and 1981.

"I just couldn't let the opportunity slip by when the Broncos called me again," Dudek said. "I made the decision pretty much on my own.

"I stopped thinking only about how the other players felt and started thinking about me. The highly paid pro athletes can afford to pass up a few pay checks for their beliefs, but free agents like me must take any opportunity that arises.

"When the bills start piling up, you have to consider every aspect and make the right decision. The owners and players are still talking about putting in a 49-man roster and if they do, I feel my showing against Raiders will definitely help my chances with the Broncos or some other team."

He said he harbors some bitterness toward the union because he feels it didn't consider his needs when he stood by it. "I tried to stay loyal, but they didn't seem to care about me," he said.

Some NFL players have said the replacements, many of whom will try to make their squads when an agreement is reached, will have to put up with resentment from the strikers. Dudek said he knows how he'll react if he's faced with such resentment.

"I'll just say, 'Think about my situation.'" he said. "What would you have done, being without money, in my situation?"

Seeing veteran players cross the picket line also influenced his decision.

"When I saw guys crossing who were financially set for life, it made it easier for a guy like me, who is trying to make ends meet. I saw the opportunity slip by before, I didn't want to let it happen again."

As of this writing, there was no sign of the strike ending and Dudek appears to be sure of starting for the Broncos again Sunday.

JOE DUDEK of North Quincy is back in Denver as a replacement player with the Broncos. Dudek, shown here when he arrived in the Mile High City after he signed a free agent contract with the Broncos last May, gained 128 yards and scored two touchdowns as Denver defeated the Los Angeles Raiders, 30-14 Monday night.

Dart Champion At St. Joseph's Athletics Benefit

A fundraiser to benefit the St. Joseph's School Athletic Procurement Fund, featuring Dave Kelly, two-time American Masters Champion of Darts, will be held today (Thursday) at Joe's Pub, East Howard St., Quincy.

Advance sales and donations totalling over $800 has already been raised. Joe Hajjar, proprietor of the pub and an alumnus of St. Joseph's School, Quincy Point, said all proceeds will go towards purchasing athletic equipment for the school's newly constructed community center.

"It's another way to help out the kids," Hajjar said, who added the community center has no equipment.

"The community center will get kids off the street. It will give them something to do," said Hajjar, a sponsor of Quincy Youth Hockey and a contributor to the Veterans Memorial Stadium lighting fund.

Tickets are $5 and are available at the pub. Those wishing to purchase tickets can also call 472-9383 after 3 p.m.

Kelly is touring New England in the 1987 Budweiser Dave Kelly dart Exhibition Series. At the fundraiser, Kelly will engage 10 of the top local players in a game of 100. He will also conduct a dart clinic and question and answer session.

Kelly travels with a computerized scoring system that enables exact scores and averages to be kept. Awards will be given to top performers.

WEEK OF: October 15,

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Diplomacy is a trait with which you're often identified. You can be mysterious. Your memory tends to be sharp. Being more open about your feelings can enhance important relationships in a year that favors friendship, both new and old.

AQUARIUS – January 21 - February 19
Romantic or friendship course may become steadier when you and partner stop working at cross-purposes. Bright financial ideas benefit from research. Career environment is friendlier.

PISCES – February 20 - March 20
Having too many coals in the fire may keep you from tending to top priorities. Ingenuity is at a peak; your imagination captures the attention of a senior individual.

ARIES – March 21 - April 20
You're clever with words -- a talent you now can work to maximum advantage. Some changes in plans may be inevitable over the weekend. Financial and health reviews are all important.

TAURUS – April 21 - May 22
Group activities prove surprisingly rewarding, and you stand out in a leadership role. Travel arrangements may change. News from relatives requires a prompt and careful reply.

GEMINI – May 23 - June 21
Communications improve noticeably, and this is a prime week for getting your messages through to the right people. Loved one's small gestures are packed with feeling.

CANCER – June 22 - July 22
Although your sense of logic may be off a shade or two, you get rave reviews for originality. You excel in a public relations role. Negotiations require meticulous attention.

LEO – July 23 - August 22
Unexpected invitations arrive now, as do mysterious messages and opportunities to expand interests. The key is to review each prospect on its own, not as part of a trend.

VIRGO – August 23 - September 22
Watch out for an extravagant streak that may surface on or after the weekend. In relationships, however, you're much more cautious -- cautious, perhaps, to a fault.

LIBRA – September 23 - October 22
Try to channel your unusually vivid imagination in a positive direction. Household chores may dominate your time on the weekend, while Monday-Wednesday are highly social days.

SCORPIO – October 23 - November 21
Interruptions are a way of life for much of this week, but many of them prove surprisingly worthwhile. Friendship is the theme of the weekend, especially as trusted old friends reappear.

SAGITTARIUS – November 22 - December 22
Avoid possble misunderstandings by double checking facts, whether large or small. Good period for artistic endeavors, including painting, decorating, and designing. Family reunion is highlighted.

CAPRICORN – December 23 - January 20
Broadening your interests helps you develop both personally and professionally. You excel in writing assignments. Day-to-day chores require added effort and cannot be ignored.

Bancorp To Acquire Lincoln Trust

A preliminary agreement has been reached for Excel Bancorp Inc. to acquire Lincoln Trust Co. of Hingham for $37 million in cash.

Charles A. Pearce, chairman of Excel, the holding company for Quincy Savings Bank, said Lincoln Trust will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Excel and will operate as such.

Pearce said the acquisition price will cover all the outstanding common stock of Lincoln. Common stockholders will receive $137.768 a share.

"It's a complimentary situation where the business of Lincoln Trust will complement in some areas the business of Quincy Savings Bank," Pearce said.

Quincy Savings Bank has focused on residential lending while Lincoln has concentrated on commercial real estate lending. The merger should "dovetail the two strengths," Pearce said.

According to Pearce, the management and staff of Lincoln Trust Co. will stay the same.

Pearce said he and Excel president Charles R. Simpson Jr. will become board members at Lincoln. Thomas E. Curtis, Lincoln Trust chairman, will join Excel's board of directors.

The transaction must be approved by regulatory agencies and Lincoln shareholders.

Pearce was scheduled to meet Tuesday morning with Excel and Lincoln staff to smooth out details of the transaction.

The acquisition should be completed by the spring of 1988, Pearce said.,

Lincoln has assets of $184 million and deposits of $164 million as of June 30. Excel reported assets of $594 million.

Lincoln and Excel will continue to serve the South Shore communities, Pearce said. Lincoln has seven branches in Hingham, Weymouth, Scituate, Marshfield, Hanover and Brockton.

Pearce said Quincy Savings, which has nine South Shore offices, serves most of those communities.

The two companies had been negotiating the deal for three to four months, Pearce said.

South Shore Bank To Open Office At Marina Bay

Forrest R. Cook, Jr., president, announces the grand opening of South Shore Bank's newest banking center will take place at 9 a.m. Monday, Oct. 19, at the site of the new facility in Marina Bay.

The banking center will be part of a brand new office complex at 500 Victory Rd. and is designed to serve the area boardwalk merchants and marina condo and townhouse owners.

Cook will preside at the opening ceremonies, for the full-service banking center, which will have a Multibanker 24/Yankee 24 automatic teller machine for customer convenience.

"The opening will coincide with a weeklong promotional program," said Cook, "that will wind up on Saturday, Sept. 24, at 11:30 a.m. with a grand-prize drawing for a trip for two to Carambola, the newest Rockresort Hotel on St. Croix in the U.S. Virgin Islands. Other prizes to be given away include a home fitness center, a color TV, and various gift certificates."

In addition, Cook revealed that the bank will host a series of seminars for customers on a variety of topics, such as health and fitness and winter travel, with the first one scheduled to take place during the Grand Opening Week.

James E. Pashby will be the banking center manager at Marina Bay. South Shore Bank is an affiliate of Multibank Financial Corp. and maintains 32 other banking centers throughout Norfolk County.

Ronald Davy Medical East Plan Director

Ronald K. Davy of Quincy has been appointed Regional Executive Director of Medical East Community Health Plan.

Davy formerly served as executive director and vice president of Travelers Health Network of Pennsylvania - Southern New Jersey.

A member of the Group Health Association of America, Davy is also a commander in the Naval Reserve attached to the Naval Inspector General, where he assists in reviewing naval health care delivery systems.

Cheney Resolves Forwarded

City Councillor Michael Cheney announces he has forwarded two resolutions that were adopted by the City Council to James Hoyt, Secretary of Environmental Affairs. Copies also were sent to Gov. Michael Dukakis and Paul Levy, executive director of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, Cheney said.

The first resolve, which was unanimously adopted by the city council, was co-sponsored by Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro. It called for General Dynamics to be eliminated as a site to process sludge emanating from 43 communities in the M.W.R.A. sewer district.

The second resolve, also unanimously adopted, was introduced by Councillor Cheney. It recommended that Spectacle Island be utilized for the composting of sludge.

Councillor Cheney also noted within the resolve that the City Council was opposed to incineration at any of the 12 sites mentioned in the MWRA report.

"The city of Quincy has received more than its fair share of environmental impacts from sewage in the past 83 years," said Cheney. "We have been the host to a pumping station, later reconstructed to a sewage treatment facility at Nut Island. We have also provided facilities for 21 communities on the southern sewer district for the treatment of sewage. It is time that the city of Quincy be relieved from any further environmental impacts from the treatment of residuals from Boston Harbor."

Councillor Cheney also noted that the city of Quincy will be hosting the staging area for the new harbor cleanup and will also be hosting a two-acre pumping station at Nut Island as well a two-acre pumping station in the Adams Shore section of Quincy for the sewage flows from Braintree, Weymouth and adjacent towns.

He added that those wishing to register their opposition to the proposal of utilizing the General Dynamics Shipyard as a location for a sludge treatment facility are encouraged to do so by writing directly to James Hoyt, Secretary of Environmental Affairs, 20th floor, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02202 - Attention MEPA Unit (EOEA 5832).

4 More Taxicabs At Your Service

By KRISTINE STRENGE

Quincy residents will have four more taxicabs to call upon after the License Board meeting Tuesday at City Hall.

The board granted Quincy Cab of 388 Granite St. one license; Shore Taxi, Inc. of 535 Sea St. one license, and Marina Bay Taxi Service of 200 Victory Rd., two licenses.

The three owners of the taxicab companies were asked by the board to tell which areas of Quincy they serve.

Joseph V. Tonello of Quincy Cab, said, "he had not yet committed to servicing any one area of the city and if granted more taxicabs he would concentrate on the taxi troubled areas."

Edward Russell of Shore Taxi Inc said "he services Hough's Neck, Germantown, Adams Shore, Merrymount, parts of Wollaston, Quincy Center, Quincy Point, and South and West Quincy."

Michael Condon of Marina Bay Taxi Service said, "At this time, 80 of 84 taxis in Quincy are located in the south of the city, leaving the north end of the city without adequate taxi availability."

After hearing the taxicab owners, the board members agreed North Quincy needed more taxis.

The board did not grant any licenses to a fourth applicant, Leo F. Lynch, however the board agreed to give him first consideration when more licenses are available.

LaRaia, McCauley Clash Over Letter

GOLD STAR MOTHER Theresa Davis tearfully touches the name of her son, Richard Davis Jr., at the Marina Bay Vietnam Memorial Clock Tower dedication. See story, other photos pages 8-9

(Quincy Sun photo by Tom Gorman)

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Councillor at large Joseph LaRaia, a candidate for mayor, charged in a letter sent to parents of local school children that the average cost expended per pupil in Quincy is $500 less than the state average.

"We are on the threshold of another crisis in our city," stated LaRaia.

But Mayor Francis McCauley denied the charge and referred to figures from the school superintendent indicating the city is above the state average in overall per pupil standing.

"Candidates for political office should check their numbers before they send letters out," said McCauley.

The exchange between the two candidates was one of only several during a relatively quiet campaign which winds up with the city election Nov. 3.

"There doesn't appear to be much optimism for the future," stated LaRaia in the letter.

"This has been reflected in discussions I have had with several educators.

"The educational share of the budget is approaching 30 percent of the total budget of $96 million. One third of these funds is returned to the city in state aid to education. There is a need to increase the expenditure of funds today for tomorrow's citizens," said LaRaia.

"The average cost expended per pupil in Quincy is $500 less than the statewide average. This certainly reflects the need to increase programs and make salaries competitive.

"The reality of our problems must be faced," said LaRaia.

McCauley countered that the school department represents 37.3 per cent of the city's budget.

And according to Quincy's new school superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci, Quincy is above the state average in overall per pupil spending.

The regular day and occupational education spending is above the state average while special education spending is effectively at the state average, said Dr. Ricci.

For example, Ricci said that Quincy spent $3,240 per pupil in 1985/1986 for regular all day programs while the state average was $2,988. Information is not yet available for 1986/1987, he said.

Quincy spent $5,496 per pupil in the same period for all day occupational education programs while the state average was $4,662.

However, the state average for special needs all day programs was $4,557 while Quincy spent $4,479, noted Ricci.

The figures were verified by the Massachusetts Department of Education's Bureau of Data Collection and Processing, he said.

Sheets Sued By Ricciardi On Slander Charge

Ward 4 City Councillor James Sheets is being sued for slander by the Ricciardi Co. of Quincy, prominent developers of such projects as the $54 million "Presidents' Place" planned for downtown Quincy.

But according to Sheets' attorney, Richard W. Barry, the case is "absolutely defensible."

Members of the Ricciardi Co. were not available for comment as The Quincy Sun went to press.

"I hope we can make the Ricciardis regret bringing this action," said Barry, who noted that Paul Ricciardi, Stephen C. Ricciardi and Paul F. Ricciardi are also listed on the claim brought against Sheets Friday in Norfolk Superior Court.

It alleges that the slander took place at a Planning Board meeting May 11, 1987, according to Barry.

It claims that Sheets allegedly referred to property owned by the Ricciardis on Quarry St. as "an area full of hazardous waste, in essence a dump with millions of yards of rubbish, an extraordinary site to develop," said Barry.

According to the claim, Sheets also said that the developers are building across the ravines at the city dump, Barry said.

"They claim that his remarks were malicious and false, and they are seeking damages against Mr. Sheets based on the claim his remarks were slanderous," said Barry.

JAMES SHEETS

He said they claim that Sheets questioned where the Ricciardis are getting their money, and intimated that it was from organized crime.

"The case is absolutely defensible on three fronts," said Barry.

"Mr. Sheets was speaking the truth when he made the statement with reference to the land, and not about the character of any of the plaintiffs.

"Further, Mr. Sheets denies ever indicating that the Ricciardis are getting money from organized crime.

"My personal opinion is that he has an absolute right as a public official to enquire where the Ricciardis are getting their money.

"I have not always been a disciple of Mr. Sheets' political philosophy, but he is dedicated, wise, and above all, an honest city councillor.

"The purpose of the suit, it is obvious to me, is to cause Mr. Sheets to be hurt by the suit. It is an obvious attempt to intimidate Mr. Sheets into voting for something his conscience prevents him from doing.

"Today, people like the Ricciardis are trying to hurt Councillor Sheets, tomorrow it could be members of the License Board, Planning Board or Conservation Commission.

"As a former City Councillor, I resent actions such as the Ricciardi's have taken in this case," said Barry, who served on the council about 25 years ago, and was also city solicitor 10 years ago.

"Neither myself nor Mr. Sheets will be intimidated by their efforts," he said.

Barry said that Sheets has privilege as a public official to make such utterances.

"I have never heard of a public official being sued for slander by a person seeking to do business with the city, or any town in the common-

22,500 Tax Bills In Mail Friday

Local residents received an unexpected reprieve when the city's estimated tax bills did not go into the mail as planned last week.

But the reprieve is expected to be over Friday when about 22,500 bills are scheduled to be sent out.

The bills will be due Nov. 23, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

He said the delay was due to the Data Processing Department's being "very cautious" with new Prime Computers.

"We wanted to be sure the bills would be sent out correctly," said McCauley.

The mayor said the delay in the bills being sent out, and then paid, will not mean that the city will have to resort to short-term borrowing.

Last week's delay was the second in sending out the tax bills.

The city had hoped to put the bills in the mail Oct. 1, but that date was missed when the city council did not approve necessary appropriation orders.

Shelter Lease To Be Signed Soon

Mayor Francis McCauley said he hopes to hold a lease signing ceremony within the next few weeks for a shelter for the homeless to be located at the current site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Broad St., Quincy Center.

Plans call for the registry to move from the city-owned building to Quincy Fair in Quincy Square upon completion of the Ross Parking Deck, behind the new location, around Nov. 21.

The Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will then begin renovating the Broad St. building to house up to 45 homeless men and women.

According to the mayor, the lease agreement with the coalition includes $18,000 a year rent which is expected to be paid through federal grants.

He noted that the registry had paid $40,000 a year in rent.

"But we are not worried about the difference," said McCauley. "Any difference is a contribution from the city."

The City Council voted Monday night after a motion by Councillor John Lydon, to authorize the mayor to enter into a lease agreement with the coalition.

Councillor Michael Cheney noted that the coalition will make a presentation to neighbors of the Broad St. site who might have concerns about the shelter.

Special Ed Subcommittee

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education's subcommittee will meet with the school committee Thursday, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the school committee room.

The agenda will include: liability insurance, program offerings, LEA plan and the monthly transportation update. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

City Seeks $400,000 For Below Market Rate Mortgages

Mayor Francis McCauley announces that the city has filed an application with the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) for $400,000 to be used for below-market interest rate mortgages for the first-time home buyer purchasing a home in Quincy.

A minimum of $3,000 worth of rehabilitation on the home must be undertaken.

The mortgage loans will be offered at a fixed rate of 8.5 percent for a 26-year period. A minimum down payment of five percent on the home is required.

In order to qualify for an MHFA mortgage, the applicant cannot have previously owned a home. She or he must be purchasing a 1-4 family home in Quincy. In addition, the borrower must have a satisfactory credit history and an annual household income not exceeding $35,000 for a one-member household and $40,000 for a two-person household ($1,500 for each additional dependent).

The acquisition guidelines for the program require that the homes, 1-4 family cannot exceed $121,000 (plus $3,000 rehab); $136,000 (plus $4,000 rehab); $165,000 (plus $5,000 rehab); and $192,000 (plus $6,000 rehab) respectively.

It is expected that the status of the city's application will be definitive by late November at which time inquiries may be directed to Claire Poles of the Quincy Planning Department, at 773-1380, extension 372.

Point Pumping Station Rededication Friday

Mayor Francis McCauley announces that the newly renovated Quincy Point Pumping Station on Chubbuck St. will officially be rededicated Friday, Oct. 23, at 11 a.m.

Mayor McCauley states that the facility, built in the early 1970's, is one of two city-operated pumping stations in the municipal sewerage system that transports city wastewater to the Nut Island treatment facility operated by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

McCauley hailed the project as one that will improve the quality of life in Quincy Point.

"This is a good example of the federal, state and local governments working together to provide needed improvements to our infrastructure," he said.

The project was funded by the Environmental Protection Agency, the DEQE Division of Water Pollution Control and the City of Quincy.

McCauley stated that a $450,000 renovation project, completed last July by the Department of Public Works, will improve the station's overall operation and efficiency, and eliminate persistent odor problems in the Quincy Point neighborhood.

In April, 1984, the city contracted Whitman & Howard, Inc., of Wellesley to evaluate an earlier engineering study of the station, and to recommend and design a series of improvements.

These improvements included:

- The replacement of all pumps, motors, and controls;
- The installation of a new comminutor, which shreds bulky matter in the wastewater, to facilitate pumping operations;
- The addition of a two-speed pump station, which allows operations to adjust according to incoming flow rates;
- The connection of the emergency power system to the pump control system, which will automatically activate in the event of a power loss or equipment failure; and
- The addition of an activated carbon odor control system, which will neutralize odors from wastewater passing through the station.

McCauley said that previously, the station was operating well below the design capacity of seven million gallons, per day, unnecessarily wearing major equipment. The adjustable pump system will greatly improve equipment efficiency as well as permit the station to operate at higher capacities to accommodate future growth, he said.

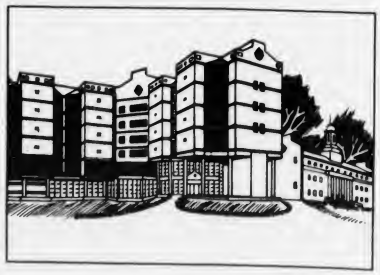
The emergency power system will eliminate potential basement flooding and sewer system backup during power and equipment outages, said McCauley.

A new interceptor sewer designed by Whitman & Howard, Inc., is scheduled to be constructed under a separate contract starting in early 1988, he noted.

By redirecting flows from the Town River Bay area of the city to the Quincy Point Pumping Station, the interceptor will help to reduce pollution of local beaches, according to the mayor.

Mayor McCauley added that these projects are being partially funded by grants from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Q: What's up and coming in health care?



A: The New QCH!

Quincy City Hospital has begun an impressive $57 million renovation. Almost two-thirds of the buildings and other facilities will be replaced—all part of a dramatic plan to better serve the growing and changing health care needs of the South Shore.

The focal point of the new hospital complex will be a brand new six story building that will contain 234 patient beds as well as all of the necessary patient care support services.

Since its founding in 1890, Quincy City Hospital has been in the forefront of health care on the South Shore. With our new facilities we'll continue to deliver the highest quality health care services with warm, personal attention.

At QCH—we're building for the future on a proud past.

License Board Briefs

- Granted a request from Deborah Eaton for a one day all alcoholic license Oct. 30, from 6 p.m. to 12 p.m. for a wedding reception at Fore River Club House.
- Continued to Oct. 27, a request from the Quincy Lodge, Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., Quincy for the license board to reconsider their approval of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Inc., to hold its beano nights Thursday evenings at the Bryan VFW Post. The license board felt in all fairness, that Health Commissioner, M. Jane Gallahue, also a board member be present and two board members, Quincy Police Chief, Francis X. Finn and Quincy Fire Chief Carl Valenti disqualify themselves from the hearing due to their departments receiving charitable gifts from Sons of Italy.
- Continued until Oct. 27, a hearing regarding the conditions at the lodging houses at 25 Shaw St., and 110 Billings St.

The board gave Robert McManus, owner of the two buildings one week to improve the conditions of the buildings before appearing before the board.

- Continued to Nov. 3, the hearing of Sagamore Grille, 78A&B Sagamore, North Quincy.

Tension Escalates Between Teachers, City Over Contract

Tensions between the city and its teachers who have been working without a contract escalated this week.

Mayor Francis McCauley reiterated that he will not use any of the city's $10.1 million surplus to fund teacher raises, and contended that they are being offered a "very fair contract."

Quincy Education Association president Thomas Walsh said that teachers are "still quite angry" and he is almost positive that a job action will be discussed at membership meeting Monday.

The 725-member teachers' union had reached a tentative contract agreement with the city, but that agreement was unanimously voted down last week when Mayor Francis McCauley announced the city's surplus.

Walsh said many teachers felt a portion of the surplus should go towards raises.

But Mayor McCauley said it would be "poor financial policy" to fund teacher raises, a recurring expense, with a one-time surplus.

McCauley also said that if he dipped into the surplus for teacher raises, he would almost be obligated to do the same for the other unions.

Walsh said he understood the mayor's point, but that the surplus could be used to pay teacher raises which were agreed to in 1979 but never paid after Prop. 2½ went into effect.

They amounted to about $1,000 a teacher, he said.

"Now they (the city) have the money, and it is almost like waving a red flag," said Walsh.

McCauley said that the city is offering teachers a slightly better contract than police and other city unions.

He also said that Quincy police officers, secretaries, firefighters and others are better paid than their counterparts in most other cities in the state.

"We are getting to the point of all semantics," said Walsh. "Teachers are 92nd out of 360 in the state.

"Does 92 mean the highest?"

Walsh said that a negotiating session with the school committee is planned for Friday afternoon.

The teachers' union negotiating team will report back to its membership Monday, he said.

"We'll report any progress, or lack of it," he said. "I'm not extremely optimistic.

"If a contract is totally worked out, it might be possible to take a vote on how we want to proceed.

"If there is no progress, we may want to vote on some steps at that time.

"Teachers are still quite angry, and statements from the Mayor's office are aggravating them further," Walsh said.

He said that a majority of teachers want their raises to begin in September rather than in January, would like the 1979 raises, and elementary teacher preparation to be built into the contract.

McCauley said that if contract negotiations are not successful, a fact finder could be brought in.

"We don't need facts," said Walsh. "We need money."

The mayor urged the teachers' union not to consider a job action.

"During the history of the QEA, it has been a responsible group when it comes to job actions," said McCauley, who noted there was a walkout in September, 1972, and a strike in April, 1987.

"We appreciate what they have done, and hope there will be no job action," said McCauley, who noted that a strike would be illegal.

Blood Pressure Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, Nov. 3 in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician, will be advised to do so.

The screenings, which will take place on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge.

Fall Foliage Right Here In Quincy

Fall foliage is expected to hit its peak this week and next in Quincy for residents who are unable to travel any distance, according to Raymond C. Cattaneo, acting executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Mount Wollaston Cemetery seems to be reaching its peak earlier than expected this year with many of the trees already turning into beautiful fall colors, according to Cattaneo.

Merrymount Park, off Southern Artery, also offers a view of outstanding foliage as well as the Conservation Nature Trail off Fenno St. to the marsh site on Quincy Shore Drive, he said.

Although the gates at Faxon Park in South Quincy are locked because of the continuous illegal dumping at that site, Cattaneo recommends that persons wishing to view the foliage, park along Faxon Park Road and walk up to the Observation Circle Lookout where there is an excellent view over to Quincy Bay.

Another area that offers a limited amount of foliage is Squaw Rock in Squantum where there is an excellent scenic view of the Boston Skyline and Harbor Islands, said Cattaneo.

"While you're fixing it, I'll call the repairman."

This feature focuses on questions most frequently asked by callers and will be answered by various members of the Norfolk County Bar Assn.

Q. Can my employer fire me without cause?

A. If you do not have an employment contract, or you are not a Union member, the general rule is that an employer can fire you for a good reason, a bad reason, or no reason. However, there are some major exceptions; if you were fired, demoted or transferred because of your age, race, color, sex or national origin, or because of your Union or even organizational activity, you have the right to reinstatement with back pay.

There is also an emerging area of employment contract law. The courts in this State are beginning to recognize implied agreements in the employer-employee relationships. For example, the courts will probably reinstate and order back pay to a worker who is fired because he or she refuses to violate a law or regulation, or who reports violations to the government because the firing is in violation of an implied provision of the employment relationship.

Lydon And Real Sparks

COUNCILLOR Jack Lydon has been known to generate a little heat when he speaks on an issue -- especially in opposition.

Last week he was the guest on Ch. 3's Newsmakers program and it may have only been coincidental, but things really got hot.

LYDON

Lydon was answering questions put to him by The Quincy Sun's John Noonan and WJDA's Herb Fontaine when the subject of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority came up.

That was like waving a red flag in front of a bull. Lydon quickly lashed out at the MWRA for its negative impact on Quincy and said Quincy was lacking strong legislative leadership and representation on Beacon Hill.

As he spoke, crackling sounds and sparks emenated from a switch on an overhead bank of studio lights. But that didn't faze Lydon, he pushed on with his diatribe.

Suddenly Stan Golub, the Newsmakers moderator, jumped to his feet and signalled to the panelists to vacate their seats because the crackling sounds and sparks were becoming more pronounced. The switch belched some minor smoke puffs and an odor of burning plastic. But undaunted, Lydon continued on, answering the question about the MWRA.

Golub called a halt to the taping of the program when flames were observed in the smoking switch. Golub mounted a studio ladder and quickly extinguished the flame. Quincy Cablesystems employees removed the switch and replaced the overhead light. The taping of the program then resumed as if nothing had happened.

When the program aired that night at its regular time the only indication that something out of the ordinary might have occured was when Lydon looked upward to see what caused the crackling noise. But he kept on talking without missing a beat.

THE NORFOLK COUNTY Labor Council AFL-CIO has endorsed 10 candidates in the Nov. 3 Quincy city election.

Backed are:

Joseph LaRaia for mayor; Patricia Toland, Stephen McGrath and Ron Iacobucci for City Council at-large.

And for ward councillor: Michael Cheney, Ward 1; Ted DeCristofaro, Ward 2; Larrence Chretien, Ward 3; James Sheets, Ward 4; Charles Phelan, Jr., Ward 5 and Thomas Nutley, Ward 6.

Only ward contests are in Wards 3, 4 and 5.

THIS YEAR'S World Series between the Minnesota Twins and St. Louis Cardinals brings back mixed feelings for Quincy's Sam Mele.

MELE

The last time the Twins got to the World Series was in 1965 against the Los Angeles Dodgers and Mele was the Twins manager. The series went seven games with Sandy Koufax winning it for the Dodgers with a 2-0 shutout.

Two years later, Mele was fired by owner Calvin Griffith and that has become a mystery for Mele.

"I still don't know why I was fired and Griffith said later it was the biggest mistake he ever made," says Mele.

Billy Martin, who was Mele's third base coach in 1965 has high praise for Mele in his latest book, "Billyball."

And Martin agrees with Griffith. He made a big mistake in firing Mele.

GENERAL William Westmoreland held a press conference prior to the dedication of the Vietnam Memorial Clock Tower at Marina Bay last Friday.

WESTMORELAND

Although the movie "Platoon" played to packed theaters and made a lot of money, Westmoreland was highly critical of it.

The Vietnam War was not like the movie, he said. The producers should have put a disclaimer in large letters at the start of the movie, he said along the line: The events and characters depicted in this film are fictional.

On the lighter side, Westmoreland told how he urged the promotion of women to the rank of general when he returned from Vietnam.

And finally won for Anna May Hayes the rank of brigadier general -- the first promotion of a woman to general officer since Joan of Arc.

The next day, Westmoreland said, his wife, Kitzie found herself seated next to General Hayes in the beauty salon.

"I wish," Mrs. Westmoreland said to Hayes, a widow, "that you would get married again."

"Why would you say that?" Hayes asked.

"So that," Mrs. Westmoreland replied, "a man could find out what it's like being married to a general."

Appalled Over City Surplus News

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Our children are our greatest asset. Can those who educate them be far behind? It is with great joy, but also with great disgust and embarrassment that I learned the city has "found" a $10 - $11 million surplus. I am appalled with the way the teachers and coaches have been treated by our mayor; and embarrassed - for we in education teach our students to be honest, fair and to do what is morally right and that is not the way that we have been treated.

For months we have been told that the city has no money and that we were the ones that did not appreciate the fiscal situation. Now we know the truth - this has been a ruse, a ruse initiated by the mayor and carried on by lack of information or duplicity by members of the School Committee. The athletic coaches in this city are the lowest paid in not only the Suburban League but also in the entire of Division I athletics. In most cities, assistant coaches are paid more than what Quincy pays their head coaches.

A study was done of 16 Division I cities and towns and Quincy coaches are paid on an average $1000 less than all other cities and towns on all levels of coaching-varsity, junior varsity, and freshman. Some of the coaches are paid below the minimum wage. Our proposal to the city was a fair one. All we asked for was to have our salaries raised to the average of other cities and towns.

We have been offered instead, a raise equal to twice the teachers percentage raise the first year and equal to the teachers percentage raise the second and third year. It does not take a degree in mathematics to figure that six percent of $580-$2250 salary ranges does not equal the $1000 below average that we now work for in athletics.

For years the city has been blessed with coaches who have worked for inadequate wages, have worked under budgets raped by Proposition 2½, and tried to teach children, who due to the drastic cuts in Physical Education at the elementary and middle schools and also high school levels, no longer have the basics when they start to compete on the high school level. Junior High athletics have been abolished completely and only recently has an intramural program in selected sports been implemented.

Each year we lose dedicated coaches because of this situation. These coaches are not solely interested in wins and losses but also the educational progress of their athletes and their understanding of good sportsmanship and competition. These people are an asset that the city of Quincy cannot afford to lose. Unless the situation is made right, that trend will continue. For too long the politicians have been blind to the deteriorating athletic situation and parents have been ill informed.

I am proud to be associated with these coaches who have done without for the good of your children. Now we have the opportunity to right a situation which has been getting worse and worse over the years. Where is our elected school committee who has the education and well being of Quincy's children as their duty? They should be crying out for a solution to this situation. More importantly, where is the mayor, who as the top official in the city, appropriates the monies for the proper education and well being of our children? The mayor had to know of this surplus months ago and if he didn't then maybe we have the wrong person watching over the business of the city. The coaches have given much to our great city over the years. Now it is time for Quincy to act in a positive fashion.

Roots Of Words

Silly: The origin of this word shows how differently people thought of silliness way back when. Originally, seely in Middle English or saelig in Old English meant good or happy in Old English. It later also meant blessed (the German word selig retains this meaning). An old hymn refers to the Baby Jesus as the silly babe.

A Big Boost For Quincy Tourism

Quincy's tourist attractions will soon be entered in the National Tourism Base bringing them an estimated six times more exposure.

The City Council voted Monday night to appropriate $1,875 for membership in the program sponsored by the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

According to Loren Strout, president of the 60-member Quincy Tourism Association, membership in the system means that Quincy will be exposed to 45,000 U.S., 1,700 Japanese, and 500 Western travel agents.

Quincy Tourism, a non-profit organization, does all the work at no charge, said Strout.

"The association finds this to be one of the most cost effective methods of attracting tourists to historic Quincy that we have seen," said Strout.

He said some of the association's projects include study of historic trail and signs, agreement with the National Parks Administration on 10 new signs, a major tourism study under a federal grant about to get underway, and letters sent to companies interested in a trolley-bus system.

According to Strout, Quincy attracts 40,000 to 50,000 tourists a year.

"The National Tourism Base gives a wider area, so that mor people will know that Quincy exists as a tourism information point," said Strout, who runs the Presidents City Motel. "And we couldn't do it any other way as cheaply" Strout added.

He noted that this is the first time the seven-year-old association has asked for money. Up until now, its funds have come from membership fees and donations, according to Strout.

"Tourism can be a nice thing if it is done properly," said Strout.

Mayor Francis McCauley agreed.

"I'm pleased that the council approved the money," said McCauley. "We like people to come into Quincy.

"Tourism is economically good for the city."

Italian Sausages
A Different Way

Here is a different way to cook Italian sausages. It's made with creamed broccoli and is truly moist and delicious. The following recipe serves six.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE SUPREME

1 Lb Italian sausage
1 bunch fresh broccoli or frozen equivalent (10 oz broccoli spears)
2 Tbsps butter or margerine
2 Tbsps flour
1½ cups milk or cream
¼ Lb cheddar cheese (or other favorite) for the cream sauce.
3 slices cheese for topping (any kind will do)
1 Tbsp cooking sherry
salt and pepper to taste

Place sausages in a baking pan with about a cup of water. Prick each sausage with a fork and bake in a 325 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Set aside to cool. When it is cooled, slice at an angle in ½ inch wide slices.

While the sausages are baking, steam broccoli until done. Cut the broccoli in 1 to 2 inch pieces. Set aside.

Melt the butter in a frying pan and add the flour and milk mixing until smooth. Add more milk if mixture gets too thick. Add salt, pepper, sherry and cheddar cheese. Add the broccoli pieces and cook until blended.

In a slightly greased casserole dish, put a layer of sausage, a layer of broccoli and cheese sauce, another layer of sausage and continue, topping with cheese slices.

Bake covered in a 325 degree oven for about 20 minutes and uncovered for 10 to 15 more minutes until bubbly. Serve with white rice or noodles or as part of a buffet.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy; Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.

5 St. John's Girl Scouts To Receive Marian Medal

Five members of St. John's Girl Scouts Troop have been selected to receive the Marian Medal, the highest award to be given in Catholic Scouting.

It is highly unusual for more than one member of the same troop to receive this annual prestigious singular award. The five girls from St. John's Parish have been working on their requirements for more than a year. They are also competing with 400 parishes throughout the Archdiocese of Boston.

The five scouts receiving the Marian Medal are Kate McDonough, Irene Lutts, Caitlen Barry, Rebecca Siteman and Claire McCarthy. They are eighth and ninth grade students and have been quite active in parish programs and charities.

The awards will be presented at special ceremonies Nov. 1 at the Catholic Youth Apostolate Center now located at St. Mary's Hall, 139 Crescent St., West Quincy at 2 p.m.

Local and Diocesan scout officials will make the presentations.

Mass Of Remembrance At St. John's

There will be a special Mass of Remembrance celebrated by all the priests of St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy Center, at 7 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 7, in memory of those parishioners of St. John's who died during the past year.

Westmoreland At Marina Bay Memorial Dedication

Vietnam Veterans Are 'Champions Of Freedom'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Describing them as "champions of freedom," retired U.S. Army General William Westmoreland dedicated the Marina Bay Clock Tower that honors Quincy residents killed or missing in action during the Vietnam War in an impressive and solemn ceremony held last Friday.

Westmoreland and Thomas O'Connell of O'Connell Development Company, builder of the $500,000 brick and granite tower which overlooks Marina Bay in North Quincy, unveiled the names of 46 Quincy residents who died or are missing in action while serving in Vietnam. The names are engraved on one of the sides of the 110-foot tower.

Westmoreland, 73, served as commander of American forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968.

The 90-minute ceremony featured a long procession of dignitaries, members of all four armed forces color guards, various veterans groups and Gold Star families, relatives of the deceased or missing servicemen.

The procession, which also included Sen. Paul Harold, Mayor Francis McCauley, members of the Quincy Fire and Police Departments, and representatives of Sen. John Kerry and Gov. Michael Dukakis, slowly marched along the boardwalk as a bell tolled in memory of those killed or missing.

Bernard Cardinal Law, who arrived by helicopter minutes before the 11 a.m. ceremony, delivered the invocation.

"Quincy has a proud place in the history of this nation and we gather to commemorate a proud chapter of that history," Cardinal Law said during the invocation.

Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy, gave the blessing.

The benediction was delivered by the Rev. Arthur Curtis of Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic.

Ronald Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies.

The tower is the only privately funded Vietnam Memorial in the United States. Recently, a white cupola with gold leaf dome and working clock was added as the memorial's finishing touch.

The memorial is also inscribed with the history of the Marina Bay area where the Squantum Naval Air Station was once located and a quote from the late President John F. Kennedy. It reads: "A nation reveals itself not only by the men it produces but also by the men it honors, the men it remembers."

Peter and William O'Connell of O'Connell Management Company organized and led the effort to build the memorial.

The O'Connells received several proclamations during the ceremony commending their efforts, including one each from Dukakis and McCauley.

Also, over the past two years, the Steering Committee, comprised of members of the business and civic community, as well as numerous veterans organizations, helped to make the memorial a reality.

WILLIAM WESTMORELAND, retired United States Army General, at a press conference before dedication of Marina Bay Vietnam Memorial Clock Tower.

As a standing room only crowd of more than 1,000 watched from the boardwalk, Westmoreland dedicated the tower and offered kind, noble sentiments to the men and women who served and sacrificed their lives during the Vietnam War.

"This is a time to remember, a time to understand. This is a time to appreciate.

"It is not a wake, a time for mourning," Westmoreland said.

"It is a time to express our pride in those who have served their country and paid the full price of freedom that sometimes has to be paid," he said.

Describing the Vietnam veterans as "gallant," Westmoreland said history may judge American aid to South Vietnam as one of the most "noble crusades."

Westmoreland said the United States was a "strong nation helping an inspiring nation to reach a point where it had some reasonable chance to achieve and keep a degree of freedom and human condition."

"At last," Westmoreland said, "America and the world are beginning to realize that America was not defeated militarily on the battlefield in Vietnam.

"When the North Vietnamese came down with 16 divisions and overran South Vietnam, we had no American troops on the battlefield. They had been gone for two years," the general said.

"The American military," Westmoreland emphasized, "did not lose a battle of any consequence in Vietnam.

"The American military was not defeated," Westmoreland added.

Westmoreland, who served during World War II, Korea and Vietnam, said he personally believes the Vietnam veteran deserves more praise than "his veteran father and grandfather" of World War II and Korea because he fought a war without public support.

Westmoreland concluded by saying Quincy residents, who died serving in Vietnam made the ultimate sacrifice for freedom.

"The names on this monument tell a story of our freedom. The fathers and grandfathers and great-grandfathers and the men whose names are inscribed on this monument came from many places, from many societies.

"They came here to America to build a nation; and to create a free society. And they have succeeded," Westmoreland said.

"They have also demonstrated their love for freedom. They have fought for it, and they have died for it," the general said.

"They, as their forebearers, are America at its best. They are truly the champions of freedom," Westmoreland concluded.

Flanking the memorial are two flag poles, one with the American flag, another with a Prisoner of War/Missing in Action flag and a City of Quincy flag.

The POW/MIA flag was presented by Leo Antonelli, exalted ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

The United States Air Force Band played a medley of patriotic songs.

St. John's Church Choir led the audience in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

After the names were unveiled, William O'Connell, a Vietnam veteran and Westmoreland placed a yellow and red flowered wreath at the foot of the memorial. Taps was then played followed by a 17-gun salute.

Westmoreland presented roses to Gold Star women in the audience.

Before the benediction, a bagpipe rendition of "Amazing Grace" was performed by David Mullin.

A reception followed the ceremony's conclusion.

Bersani Brothers Construction Inc., of Quincy, contributed in the construction of the tower's brick and granite structure.

The Advisory Committee for the planning of the Memorial Clock Tower included:

Anna May Hayes, Taylor Ahern, Henry Bosworth, Joseph Bradley, Joseph H. Brooker, Rep. Thomas Brownell, Rep. Robert Cerasoli, Raymond Cline, John P. Comer, Lawrence A. Connors, Forrest Cook, Jr., Rev. Arthur Curtis, Commander Francis Gavin, Gerrard Guadino, Senator Paul Harold, Paul Hurley, Jr., Rabbi David Jacobs, William Kelley, David Lawson, Rev. William McCarthy, Mayor Francis McCauley, City Council President Steven McGrath, Sheila McIntyre, Rep. Michael Morrissey, Samuel B. Mullin, City Councillor Thomas Nutley, Charles Pearce, Phillip Perkins, Leo Reardon, City Councillor James Sheets, Navy Captain Richard Stratton, Daniel Witcher and Ronald Zooleck.

NAMES OF 46 Quincy residents are inscribed on one of the sides of the Marina Bay Vietnam Memorial Clock Tower which honors those residents who were killed or are missing in action in the Vietnam War.

National Higher Education Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Oct. 24 through Oct. 31 National Higher Education Week.

McCauley said, "More than twenty million Americans have earned college degrees. Our colleges and universities produce the mind power neco revitalize our nation and to keep America competitive in the world."

"More adult Americans than ever before are seeking the knowledge that higher education provides. Americans who do pursue a college degree have a competitive edge in the U.S. labor market and are nearly 60 percent more likely than high school graduates to hold positions in managerial and professional occupations," said McCauley.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind; it is a temper of the will; a quality of the imagination; a vigor of the emotions; a predominance of courage over timidity. Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear, and despair are the long, long years of aging. Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the sweet amazement at the stars and the star-like things and thoughts, the unfailing child-like appetite for what is next, and the joy and the game of life. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt, as young as your hope, as old as your despair. So long as your heart receives messages of beauty, cheer, courage, grandeur and power from the earth, from man and from the infinite, so long you are young ..."*

Work Inc. To Celebrate 'Coming Of Age' Tonight

Work Inc., a multi-faceted rehabilitation facility for the disabled in North Quincy, will celebrate its "Coming of Age" tonight (Thursday) at the John F. Kennedy Library.

The gala celebration will recognize those persons who have helped train and employ the seriously disabled throughout Work Inc.'s 21 year history.

It will feature Natalie Jacobson and Chet Curtis, WCVB TV's award-winning news anchors, as the evening's masters of ceremony.

They will join other celebrities and friends in recognizing clients who have achieved independence in the workplace and community as well as companies who have generously supported programs and services for the seriously disabled.

Among this year's awardees are the Honorable William Bulger, Massachusetts State Senate President, the Bank of Boston, the Bank of New England, and the Rockland Trust Company.

Procter and Gamble Company will be honored for its 15-year relationship with Work Inc., during which it has provided subcontract work totalling $1,050,000 for work centers and school programs. In addition, P&G recently awarded the CREWS janitorial program the maintenance contract for their Quincy plant.

Guests will have the opportunity to tour the library's archives as well as enjoy a buffet of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. The award-winning film "Right to Work," a profile of employment programs for the seriously disabled, will also be shown during the evening.

For further information or to make reservations, call the Community Relations Dept. at 328-0300 ext. 44.

Quincy Hospital Offers Blood Sugar Screenings

The Diabetes Education Department at Quincy City Hospital will sponsor a free diabetic blood sugar screening for the community Monday, Nov. 2, at Union Towers I and II, Weymouth.

Between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and noon, the Diabetic Teaching nurse will conduct testings from Union Towers I. In the afternoon, from 1 to 2:30 p.m., the test site will be in Union Towers II.

The screening consists of a blood test by simple finger stick. Fasting is not required before the test, and the results of the test are available in two minutes.

Recent screenings throughout the area have been most successful in identifying persons with elevations in blood sugar, so that they might be referred to their physicians for appropriate treatment, according to QCH.

The program is under the direction of Arleen Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator at the hospital, who will perform the test and answer questions regarding diabetes.

For additional information on this or on any of the Diabetes Education Programs at Quincy City Hospital, contact Mrs. Ferretti at Quincy City Hospital at 773-6100 ext. 3029.

50th Anniversary Highlight

Cardinal Law To Celebrate Mass Nov. 8 At Good Counsel

Cardinal Bernard Law will celebrate the 9:30 a.m. Mass Sunday, Nov. 8, at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish, 227 Sea St., Merrymount, as part of a year-long celebration of the parish's 50th anniversary.

During the past months an extensive anniversary committee has been planning year long activities with Mike Savage, general chairman and Rev. James F. Curtin, pastor.

Priests who served in the parish, as well as "native sons," have been invited to attend the Mass.

Music has been planned by John Flavin, music director, and Ed McDonagh, organist.

Our Lady's Choir will present several selections as well as encourage participation from the congregation.

A reception in the parish hall will follow the reception.

Mary Lou Sutliff is chairperson for the Mass.

Jack and Eileen Menz will co-chair the Thanksgiving Ecumenical Service to be held Sunday, Nov. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Our Lady's Church.

Mary and Vincent McLellan with Mary Lou Petrelli have researched the Parish History which will be printed in the Souvenir Book. Lou Mazzini will be in charge of the Anniversary Book.

The Special Project Committee will be chaired by Kevin Madden.

The Evangelical Census Committee with Jeanne Reardon as chairperson, conducted a Parish-Wide Census last weekend.

Peter Ryan is committee chairman for the Dinner-Dance to take place April 30 at Lantana's, Randolph.

The parish hopes that many people, past and present, will be present at these special events to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish.

For more information, call the rectory, 472-1408.

West German Pastor To Preach On Protestant Reformation At Bethany Congregational Church

Oct. 25 is Reformation Sunday, marking the 460th anniversary of the protests that began what became the Protestant reforming of the Christian Church.

There will be two worship services in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary. The public is invited.

Since the Protestant movement began primarily in Germany, it is most appropriate that a minister from that country should preach the sermon, according to Bethany. The Rev. Dieter Schmitten is one of eight ordained ministers on the staff of the 23,000-member Evangelical Church of the Union in Duren, West Germany. He and his wife, Annemarie, have been spending two months in Quincy with Bethany Congregational Church, observing and participating in the life of a "typical" American congregation.

Pastor Schmitten will preach at both services on the subject, "How a Reformation Begins," based on the text from the Gospel of Mark 4:2-9, 26-32. Serving as liturgists at both hours will be the Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, and the Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister.

At the 10 a.m. sanctuary service, the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing two selections. The offertory will be an arrangement of "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" by Carl F. Mueller, and the anthem sung in German will be Beethoven's "Welten singen Dank und Ehre" from the "Mount of Olives."

The service will be broadcast "live" at 10 a.m. from Bethany's sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

During the 11 a.m. fellowship hour there will be a "Farewell Reception" for the Schmittens who will be leaving Quincy next Wednesday for a month on the west coast before returning to West Germany.

The Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care will also be provided for babies and toddlers, under the supervision of Pamela Ford Curran, Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Seminarian To Preach At Point Congregational

Miss Laura Stein, a second year seminarian attending Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Center, will deliver the morning sermon at Quincy Point Congregational Church Sunday during the 10:00 a.m. worship service.

She will be assisted by Deacon Donald Hunter who will serve as liturgist.

Miss Stein was born and raised in DesPlains, Ill., where she demonstrated her leadership skills in her local church. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from Loyola University in Chicago where she majored in Psychology and minored in Theology. Her college honors and extra curricular activities included the Dean's List, writer for the school newspaper, theatre and serving as a Psychological Research Assistant.

In recent years, Miss Stein has been an assistant director and choreographer with a Children's theater in the public schools in Glencoe, Ill.; a Speech Tournament Judge; a lay assistant to the Ministers of First Congregational Church in DesPlaines; a Magnetic Media Information Data Researcher in Chicago; and a Psychiatric Technician at Forest Hospital in DesPlaines. Currently, she is studying for her Master of Divinity and Doctor of Ministry degrees in Pastoral Counselling at Andover Newton Theological School.

This Sunday, her sermon will be titled "To Love Our Neighbor."

Glenn McGhee, Church School Superintendent, will tell a story during the designated "Time with the Children." The Chancel Choir will sing "The Lord Is A Mighty God," by Mendelssohn; and church organist, Herman Weiss, will play "God Will Not Abandon You" by Walther, and "Moderato Con Moto" by Pachelbel.

Church School classes are provided each Sunday morning at 10 a.m. Infants and young children to and including Kindergarten may be taken to their rooms directly; all other children and young people, grades one through twelve, will gather in the sanctuary with the worshipping congregation before passing to their classrooms. Following morning worship and Church School classes, there will be refreshments and fellowship in the Social Hall. The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery; and all church members, friends of the church and visitors are invited. Infants, children and young people may be registered in the Church School Sunday by contacting Glenn McGhee, Church School Superintendent, or by phoning the church office during the week at 773-6424.

The pastors are the Reverends Frederick and Carol Atwood-Lyon.

'Movin' In The Spirit' Squantum First Church Topic

"Movin' in the Spirit" was the title of the sermon preached by church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin Sunday morning at the first service of the First Church of Squantum.

Using maps and photographs, Dr. Langevin described the journey of the patriarch Abraham, some 1900 years before Christ, from Ur-of-the-Chaldees to the Holy Land. His sermon was based on the analogy between Abraham's journey and the pilgrimage of each Christian.

Earlier in the service, Dr. Langevin had shown a comic strip based on Luke 17:11-19, the story of Jesus healing the 10 lepers. The cartoons had been created under his supervision as chaplain for the Way Up at two Brockton youth detention centers.

Guitarists Mary Ruth Scott and Andy Ogilvie accompanied the congregation singing. Sarah Mildram and Susan Scott were ushers, and Patti and Marci Hurd were in charge of refreshments. Barbara Edgar read the scriptures in both services.

During the second service, the Chancel Choir sang J.S. Bach's "O Bless the Lord, My Soul" as the call to worship. The anthem was "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing" by Hal Hopson. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Dr. Langevin's sermon in the service was entitled, "Unexpected Goodness." It was based on a text from Matthew 20: "... I choose to give to this last as I give to you. Am I not allowed to do what I choose with what belongs to me? Or do you begrudge my generosity?" (v. 14b-15)

Hymns sung by the congregation were "The Spacious Firmament On High," "Come, Labor On" and "Amazing Grace."

Luther and Ruth Swenson were greeters, Tore Wahl and Steward Scott were ushers, Sally Johnson and Kate MacRitchie hosted the Fellowship Hour. Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Sally's parents from New Hampshire.

There will be a meeting of the Church Council at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 8. On Saturday, Nov. 14, Evening Friendship will sponsor a Ham and Bean Supper in Fellowship Hall. Sunday, Nov. 15, is Pledge Sunday at the church. Sunday, Nov. 22, is Thanksgiving Sunday.

This Sunday is Reformation. There will be two services at the church as usual: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

Halloween Safety

Below is a little quiz that my good friend McGruff the Crime Dog left at my office.

Go over this quiz with your children or grandchildren. It could prevent them from becoming a victim this Halloween.

Place a check beside the answer you feel is best.

1. Someone gives you candy that is not wrapped and sealed by the candy company. You should:
- ☐ A. Eat it anyway.
- ☐ B. Save it for a rainy day.
- ☐ C. Throw it away.
- ☐ D. Give it to your dog.

2. One of the treats you were given has something "suspicious" sticking out of it. Your mom should
- ☐ A. Bite into it to see what it is.
- ☐ B. Call the police.
- ☐ C. Put it in the refrigerator.
- ☐ D. Scream

3. The safest way to go trick-or-treating is:
- ☐ A. Alone.
- ☐ B. Late at night.
- ☐ C. On roller skates.
- ☐ D. With an adult you trust.

4. The best place to go trick-or-treating is:
- ☐ A. Across town.
- ☐ B. In a neighborhood you know.
- ☐ C. Where the most houses are.
- ☐ D. Where there's a pumpkin in the window.

The answers:

1. C. Throw it away. McGruff says, unsealed candy could have dangerous things hidden inside.

2. B. Call the police. They can help keep you and other kids in your neighborhood safe.

3. D. With an adult you trust. Try to go out in daylight. If you go out after dark, wear a light costume and carry a flashlight.

4. B. In a neighborhood you know. It's safer to accept treats from people you know.

Toland Clarifies Sign Ordinance

City Councillor Patricia M. Toland recently issued a statement about the ordinance relating to political signs.

"I would like to clarify the rules regarding political signs because I have had a few questions from constituents," she said.

"The new political sign ordinance which was proposed by me as a member of the Zoning Task Force, then amended by the Council, becomes effective Jan. 1, 1988," said Mrs. Toland.

"There are three factors to consider about political signs: size, location, and time. The existing sign ordinance allows a political sign to be no larger than 4 feet by 8 feet. The new ordinance states that the largest sign be only 4 feet by 4 feet.

"Signs may be erected in a business or industrially zoned area 30 days prior to the primary, and in a residential or PUD zone 10 days prior to the primary," she said.

"In Quincy, this rule has always applied to all candidates regardless of whether or not they had a primary race. Signs once erected have always been allowed to remain up until the November election.

"Accordingly, any sign placed in business zoned areas of the city by any political candidate since Aug. 15, 1987, or in a residential area since Sept. 5, 1987, are in compliance with the existing political sign ordinance," according to Mrs. Toland.

"The present ordinance allows no more than three signs on a parcel of property, and this remains as part of the new ordinance."

Jarnis Urges Greater Financial Support For Schools

School Committee candidate Bob Jarnis has identified inadequate city funding as the prime concern of our school system.

At Monday's Candidates Night at Central Middle School, he noted that "since 1983 when Prop. 2½ was in full effect, the city budget has increased at the rate of eight percent per year. The school budget, however, increased by only 5.2 percent. Clearly the school funding has not kept pace with general city funding."

"This lack of funding has resulted in some serious financial woes for our schools; inadequate building maintenance and repair, insufficient supplies and books, and inadequate funding for academic programs. The most visible problem is the low and non-competitive salaries of our teaching staff.

"Comparison of Quincy teachers salaries with our neighboring cities and towns, when done by level, that is beginning teacher compared with beginning teacher and maximum level compared with maximum level, we see that Quincy salaries are significantly lower. We will not be able to attract qualified teachers to Quincy when the current large numbers of senior teachers retire unless we can offer a more competitive salary package."

The Candidates Night was sponsored by the Citywide Parents Council and run by The League of Women Voters. Jarnis, a member of Citywide Council, explained how past inadequacies in funding can be rectified.

"The city is on a strong financial footing and is fully capable of increased school funding without hitting the Quincy home owner and rent payer. Since 1983, the assessed property values have increased at the rate of seven percent per year. In the past two years of record, 1984 to 1986, the assessed value increased by over 210 million dollars. This results in an increase in tax revenues of over 4.5 million dollars. That is 4.5 million dollars each year and every year."

"This substantial increase in tax revenues is the result of office and condo development in the city and does not reflect an increased tax burden on the individual taxpayer. We should take what advantage we can of the development that has taken place and is ongoing. The increased tax revenues should be utilized to support our school system so that it can truly provide academic excellence."

"Education is a vital role of city government. The schools have demonstrated funding needs and the city has the financial strength to meet those needs. There can be no hesitation in our commitment to education."

Jarnis is a first time candidate for school committee and is a father of two boys in the Quincy Public schools. He is the only candidate with children in the school system.

Forced Busing Proposal Draws Fire From McDuff

Quincy School Committee candidate John H. McDuff has called a proposal for forced busing between Boston and its suburbs "a shot across our bow."

The proposal was made by author J. Anthony Lukas in a news story which appeared Sept. 30 in The Patriot Ledger, according to McDuff.

"The chaos that was created in Boston by forced busing has destroyed the lives and futures of thousands of young people of all races to achieve liberal social goals," said McDuff.

"Now, not content with the damage done to Boston, these same radicals are sending up trial balloons to see how we react to their schemes, he said.

"The Lukas statement is, in fact, a shot across our bow, and Lukas stated that he did not expect 'the idea of a wider metropolitan system' to be popular in Quincy."

McDuff said, "I predict that unless the officials and citizens of Quincy, along with other communities to be victimized, stand up and speak out now, within five years the liberal social planners will cram this disaster down our throats, through the state legislature, the courts, or Alex Rodriguez and his cohorts at the M.C.A.D.

"The cesspool that is now the Boston public school system, replete with drugs, weapons and violence must not be allowed to flow across the Neponset River to infect our children, and our children must not be deprived of their futures by being forcibly bused to Boston.

"This is an issue of local control and educational quality, not one of race. I deplore racism. It has no place in our city, and I would be among the first to condemn it.

"But the real purpose of this proposal is not to help either black or white children. It is a smoke screen by which the radicals can further emasculate locally elected government and impose centralized control over us and our children.

"I will fight it every step of the way, and I call upon those other candidates who seek our votes this year to let us know where they stand on the issue. I leave no doubt as to where I stand."

Parents Council Meeting Nov. 9

Quincy Vo-Tech Seeks Early Graduate Class Members

Administrators at Quincy Vocational Technical School said they were delighted with community response to a breakfast held recently to officially herald the beginning of a year-long, 20th anniversary celebration of the school's existence.

School Director Joseph A. Mazzarella said ongoing efforts will be made to contact as many men and women as possible from the first three graduating classes beginning in 1968.

He said he was pleased and impressed that 1968 graduate, Robert LaFleur from Quincy's Veteran's Office attended the breakfast and spoke very positively about the school and the education he received.

"It was with tremendous pride that we listened to him speak about how he watched the construction of this facility, and how he came here," said Mazzarella, "And even further gratifying to learn that his son, Joseph, is a 10th grader enrolled here. "

Mazzarella says the 20th anniversary being organized by Mary Fredrickson, career coordinator at the school, will culminate at a gala dinner next April.

Fredrickson is collecting data to write a history of the school, but said, "we are especially interested in meeting and talking with former graduates. We want to hear about all that has happened to them since they graduated from Quincy Vocational Technical, and recognizing that they are the employers of our current graduates, it is important that we know about their success so that students here can relate and aspire to be like them."

Mazzarella has issued an appeal to anyone in the community who may have old pictures, newspaper articles, or experiences to share to contact Miss Fredrickson at 786-8732.

Pick Of The Litter: The Perfect Pet Grooming Salon

If you're a pet owner looking for that perfect pet grooming salon, look no further than Pick of the Litter, 72 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

Owned and operated by Sharon Long, a professional pet groomer, Pick of the Litter can groom any dog or cat and fulfill its beauty potential.

Long, 26, of Wollaston, said the procedure is quite simple. A pet owner calls for an appointment, brings the pet to Sharon's salon about two days later and Sharon does the rest.

The time it takes Sharon to groom a pet depends on the size and condition of the pet and the extent of the grooming. Sharon, who attended a pedigree school and dog grooming school in Lynn, said it usually takes between two to three hours to groom a pet.

To help pet owners who have busy schedules, she has facilities to allow pets to stay the day with her. She said many customers drop their pets off and then pick them up at the end of the business day.

All dogs and most cats should be groomed once every two months, Sharon said.

"If a dog or cat goes too long without grooming, their coat and skin will dry up because of a lack of moisture," Sharon said. She added that grooming, on a regular basis, helps prevent and control fleas and ticks and hair from knotting.

Among Sharon's grooming services for dogs and cats are: baths, brushing, nail clipping, ear cleaning, hair cuts, medicated baths, hot oil treatments and flea and tick dips (free with every grooming).

In addition, the salon carries a full line of pet grooming products and science diet dog food.

Sharon grooms on an average 15 pets per day in the summer, eight in the winter. Although she runs the business single handedly, she doesn't suffer from job burnout.

"I know when I'm overdoing it," she says. "I'm not a workaholic. I've seen many groomers change careers because they overwork themselves," Sharon said.

Sharon also offered advice on pet grooming during the winter.

"People don't think their pets have to be groomed in the winter but they do. Most dogs acquire an undercoat during the winter and if it is not maintained, it will start knotting," she said.

Another helpful hint Sharon gives concerns two common household agents: rock salt and anti-freeze.

"Rock salt should not be put on driveways and walkways because it burns paw padding.

"Anti-freeze has a very sweet taste and even a few drops will make dogs sick or it could even kill them.

"It should be kept away from dogs and if any is spilled, it should be wiped up immediately."

Sharon has operated Pick of the Litter for almost five years. Her dream is to own a kennel in Quincy someday.

Sharon's clientele is centered around Quincy and the South Shore area but also includes customers from Brookline to Cape Cod. Store hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Sharon sums up her profession and Pick of the Litter this way:

"I love doing what I do and my customers are wonderful people.

"I just want them to think of me as someone who cares about their pet and as a professional pet groomer."

Thomas Donelin's Creed:

At Naborhood Pharmacy Accent Is On Customer Care

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

With a name like Naborhood Pharmacy, it's natural to have care and satisfaction the most important component of the drug store.

And under new owner Thomas Donelin Jr., RPh., that fact has become the creed of Naborhood Pharmacy, 406 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Donelin, who purchased the drug store three months ago, said his number one priority is customers.

"The pharmacy deals with people. You must take into consideration their needs. It's a profession that deals with people's well being and health," Donelin said.

At Naborhood Pharmacy, Donelin said matters are handled professionally.

"In retail pharmacy, you try to be professional in the way you treat customers. You treat them like an individual with specific needs.

In addition to dispensing prescriptions, Donelin and his staff of 13 perform a number of other services. They include offering a full line of ostomy supplies, utility bill payments, honoring most third party insurances, offering complete patient monitoring, monthly billing, free prescription delivery, photo developing and filling pet prescriptions.

Naborhood Pharmacy also takes Master Card, Visa and Discovery credit cards. It also features a computerized system which monitors customer prescriptions.

Rounding out Naborhood's full range of services is the fact it is the only Holister drug supplier on the South Shore.

Donelin, 34, was born and raised in Wollaston and attended St. Anselm's College where he received a bachelor of arts degree in biology. He later graduated from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy with a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy.

As a business, Donelin said prescription prices at Naborhood compared to larger, chain drug stores may be "higher, lower or in the same ballpark but we like to offer services and that makes the difference."

"Big chains don't have the time to meet and talk to customers," Donelin said.

At Naborhood, Donelin said he "meets patients' needs and looks out for their goodwill."

Donelin said he dislikes the "paperwork" that swamps his work week. Fortunately, his computer system alleviates much of that burden, handling third party billing and offering quick access to patients' pharmacy records and history.

Donelin said he doesn't suffer from job burnout.

"I do different things at different times," he said.

Naborhood Pharmacy is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

As can be expected, the atmosphere at Naborhood is friendly.

"The people who work here are all local people. They are familiar with the clientele," Donelin said.

Furthermore, Donelin said he hopes people think of Naborhood as a "neighborhood" pharmacy.

"We are interested in the people in the neighborhood. We try to help them with their health care and needs."

THOMAS DONELIN JR., RPh., owner of Naborhood Pharmacy in North Quincy, runs his business in a professional manner with customer care his first concern.

Ward 5 City Councillor

Keenan Suggests Public Discussion Of Issues With Opponent

John F. Keenan, Ward 5 candidate for city council, in a recent letter to his opponent, Charles Phelan, Jr. asked that the two candidates get together in a public forum to discuss issues confronting the ward.

Keenan said he suggested the idea of a public discussion response to requests from many voters.

"While knocking on doors throughout the ward," Keenan said, "the voters revealed a desire to know better what the candidates proposed in response to the issues."

Keenan said that while the candidate's nights provided each with a good means of introducing themselves, because of the number of candidates often invited and subsequent time constraints, candidates were usually only given three to five minutes to present their background and define the issues.

"This is the first time in 10 years that the Ward 5 seat has been vacant, it is an important election, and the voters should have the opportunity to hear, in depth, what each of the two candidates propose," Keenan said.

In proposing such an evening, Keenan left the details to each campaign.

"An elaborate affair or debate is not needed," said Keenan. "The voters of Ward 5 just want the opportunity to hear and compare what each candidate has to offer.

I think it is important, and I hope my opponent will agree."

Farmer's Market Continues Until First Frost

Quincy Farmers' Market at John Hancock Parking Lot off Revere Rd. in Quincy Center, will continue until the frost on Fridays from 11:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.

A wide variety of fall fruits and vegetables grown by local family farmers are still in season and among the most popular root vegetables on hand are carrots, parsnips, turnips, onions, scallions, radishes, potatoes, and beets.

According to grower Gil Griggs of Billerica, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Farmers' Markets, purple cauliflower is now at its peak. This unusual vegetable turns bright green after cooking and resembles the flavor of broccoli. Another more unusual offering is Brussels sprouts sold on the stalk. This way, says Griggs, the sprouts remain fresh longer, and save the consumer the labor cost of picking. A long time vegetable grower for farmers' markets, Griggs maintains that these local cauliflower and Brussels sprouts have a much sweeter flavor than those grown in the warmer climates.

Massachusetts McIntosh, Cortland, Macouns and winter pears are all available along with fresh pressed cider, sugar pumpkins, decorative gourds, Indian, and strawberry corn. Strawberry corn can be also popped for snacking, says Griggs.

Other fall vegetables include pumpkins, and the wonder local winter squashes, such as Butternut, Hubbard, Buttercup, Acorn, Turban, and Delicious.

If you would like to receive recipes using fall vegetables, or locate the farmers' market nearest you, please contact the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture, 100 Cambridge Street, Boston, Ma 02202, or phone 727-3018.

2 From Quincy In N.E. Hotshot Championships

Two Quincy youngsters have advanced to the New England area championships in the Pepsi NBA Hotshot competition at Boston Garden, while one other is first alternate.

Maureen Shea and Shawn Lynch will compete against three others in their age group at half time of the Boston Celtics vs. Atlanta Hawks Game at Boston Garden Jan. 22. The winner of that competition will represent the Boston Celtics and earn a berth in the National Championship to be held in one of the home communities of the final two N.B.A. teams.

Maureen and Shawn are two of six Quincy youngsters who qualified for the area championship at a community tournament supervised by the Quincy Recreation Department as part of its summer playground program. The Quincy competition is sponsored by Milton Pepsi and coordinated by Mike Feehily. According to Barry J. Welch, director of recreation, the representatives of the Quincy Recreation Department each competed against boys and girls from Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Massachusetts at a contest for all community winners held at the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Shawn finished in third place and will compete against representatives of Manchester, N.H., South Portland, Me., and South Boston.

Maureen finished in fourth place and will compete against representatives of Presque Isle, Me. and two representatives of South Boston. Both will compete in the 16-18 year old age group.

Jennifer Richmond, Quincy's representative in the 13-15 year old age group finished in fifth place. In the event one of the top four finishers cannot continue, she will compete at Boston Garden.

The Pepsi-NBA Hotshot Competition involves shooting baskets from five "hotspots" marked on one half of a basketball court in a one minute time period. It is open to boys and girls age 9-18 years. Those who are members of a varsity basketball team are not eligible. The Quincy champions represented area playgrounds in a district competition and advanced to a city-wide championship.

The other Quincy champions eligible for the area championship were David Gunther and Jenny Marks in the 9-12 year old category, and Brian McPartlin in the 13-15 year old group.

The program was coordinated by district supervisors Jo Ann Runge, Sue Pacetti, Joanne Ruane, and Kevin Kelly. Tournament officials were Mary Holleran and Jamie Paz.

5 Promoted At Quincy Cooperative

The board of directors of the Quincy Co-Operative Bank announces the promotions of five employees. They are:

Leo G. Sheehan, vice president and treasurer; Kathleen M. Casey, assistant vice president; Diane B. Kane, Robert F. Moran and Mildred H. Rickson assistant treasurers.

Sheehan is a native of Roslindale and a resident of Quincy. A Certified Public Accountant, he joined the bank in 1976 as an internal auditor and has most recently served as vice president and comptroller. He is a graduate of Stonehill College and received his MBA from Babson College.

Casey joined the bank in 1974 upon graduation from Bridgewater State College. She served in various branch operational capacities before being chosen to manage the bank's electronic data processing department. Casey is a native of Dorchester and lives in Weymouth.

Kane will be responsible for managing the remote banking services department. In this capacity she is primarily responsible for NOW account and ATM service and administration. Kane, a resident of Weymouth, joined QCB in 1975 and has served in several management positions. She is currently attending Northeastern University.

Moran formerly served as senior accounting manager. A graduate of Northeastern University, he joined the bank in 1985. Moran will be responsible for managing the bank's accounting department. Originally from Norwood, he now lives in Quincy.

Rickson is a long-time resident of Quincy and has had various responsibilities within the lending services department since joining the bank in 1971. She will be responsible for managing loan servicing and construction financing.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank is a wholly-owned banking subsidiary of Cooperative Bancorp (NASDAQ:COBK). At July 31, 1987, the holding company had assets of $554 million and net worth of $52 million.

Special Days At Sacred Heart

By MEREDITH CUNNIFF and JULIE HEALY, Grade 8

Sacred Heart School Community began its academic school year Sept. 9. The opening liturgy, which was in memory of Sister Honorius, was celebrated Sept. 18.

The fall season has been, and will continue to be, filled with a variety of spiritual, educational and social events.

During the month of September, Grade 8 performed "We the People," a play about the Constitution.

On Sept. 16, faculty, staff and students wore red, white, and blue to celebrate Constitution Day. The entire school community assembled in the schoolyard to salute the flag after a parade along Hancock St.

The month of October began with the Mass for the Spread of the Gospel. Grade 8 teachers and students prepared the liturgy, which included a renewal of membership promises to the Holy Childhood Association.

Oct. 5-9 saw students in all grades completing standardized testing. Results will be available in December.

At the invitation of Thompson Island Conservationists, Grade 6 will once again be visiting this island throughout the year. The first visit on Oct. 14 enriched the children's knowledge of nature and their environment.

A theatrical day in Boston is planned for Grade 8 Oct. 15. Students will attend performances of short stories.

On Oct. 17 and 18, many Sacred Heart School students will participate in the parish show for the enjoyment of all. The show is directed by Ed Rooney.

Grade 7 and 8 students and their parents are invited to High School Night Oct. 20 at 7:15 p.m. Representatives from several area schools will speak to parents and students about their entrance requirements, philosophy, aims and expectations.

The PTO will sponsor a cake sale Oct. 24 and 25 which will follow each Mass on these days.

To conclude October, Grade 3 will gather in the Oratory for the All Saints Day Pageant.

Stay tuned to this column for more information on life at Sacred Heart School.

'Diabetes And Health' At Hospital Nov. 4

"Diabetes and Health," a program focusing on the ability of people to control their diabetes and not allow it to control them, will begin Wednesday, Nov. 4, at Quincy City Hospital.

The program, which will be conducted on two consecutive Wednesday evenings, will emphasize the four cornerstones of diabetes management, What Is Diabetes?, Living With Diabetes, Medications, and Eating For Health.

This month's program will be meeting in the evening by special request, and will be incorporated into two, 3-hour sessions. The first session, which will include What Is Diabetes? and Living With Diabetes, will meet Wednesday, Nov. 4, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The second session, including the topics of Medications and Eating For Health, will meet Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Pre-registration is required for these sessions, and a registration fee will be charged. To register for the Diabetes Program, or to receive additional information, contact Arleen Ferretti, R.N., C.D.E., Certified Diabetes Educator, at 773-6100, ext. 3029.

Property Inspection Proceeding Satisfactorily

Mayor Francis McCauley announces that the inspection, listing and measuring of the city's residential property under the contract with Real Estate Research Consultants, Inc. of Topsfield, is continuing satisfactorily largely due to the cooperation of the homeowners of the city.

Wherever access has not been gained due to the absence of the responsible owner, the company will endeavor to establish with owners a suitable and convenient time for this inspection, listing and measurement.

McCauley said the work began in August and has for the most part been completed in Houghs Neck, Germantown and Adams Shore, progressing to the Merrymount and Quincy Center area at the present time. Under Department of Revenue mandate, the assessors must complete these inspections in time for fiscal year 1990 in order to satisfactorily comply with state law regarding full and fair cash valuation of all real property.

McCauley added that the city in 1986 completed the inspection, listing and measurement of all commercial and industrial property, which data and valuations were implemented for the fiscal year 1987 tax bills.

McCauley stressed the continued cooperation of the homeowner of the city is imperative in order that the work may be conducted in a satisfactory manner during the rest of this year and throughout the year 1988.

MacKay Urges Residents To Vote Nov. 3

Howard A. MacKay, candidate for Ward 3 City Councillor, is urging residents to vote in the Nov. 3 city election.

"All too frequently, when people are considering voting, they approach it with the idea that one vote doesn't count," said MacKay.

"However, the right to vote is one of our most precious and dearly fought for privileges.

"In the recent primary election, it was proven that one vote can change the outcome of an election," he said.

"Because of a recount, the candidates for Ward 5 were changed from Charles Phelan and Kevin Burke to Charles Phelan and John Keenan.

"How would you feel if you had not voted for your candidate and he lost by one vote?" asked MacKay.

"Therefore, I strongly urge that on Tuesday, Nov. 3, you make an effort to exercise your franchise in the coming election for Councillor, Ward 3.

"We have seen how one vote can make a difference," said MacKay.

"I ask that on Nov. 3 you cast a vote for the type of government you want in Ward 3. Your vote is important."

Excel Bancorp Net Income Up

Excel Bancorp, Inc. and its operating subsidiary, Quincy Savings Bank, produced net income of $8.8 million, or $1.23 per share, for the nine months ended Sept. 30.

The results exceeded 1986 nine months net income of $6.4 million by 37.5 percent.

Net income for the third quarter, ended Sept. 30, was $2.9 million or 40 cents per share, a 15.1 percent increase over the $2.5 million reported for the same period in 1986.

As of Sept. 30, total assets equalled $621.6 million, a 15.2 percent increase over the $539.8 million reported at Sept. 30, 1986. Total deposits of $457.1 million represented an increase of $47.8 million from the same period last year.

On Sept. 23, the board of directors declared a 50 percent increase in the cash dividend. The company will pay 15 cents per share on the common stock to stockholders of record on Oct. 7. The dividend will be payable Oct. 22.

Excel Bancorp, Inc. is the holding company for Quincy Savings Bank. Headquartered in Quincy, Quincy Savings Bank was established in 1845 and conducts business through nine offices located in the South Shore of Massachusetts.

Quincy Boys Edge Cambridge, 3-2

The Quincy boys' soccer team last week defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 3-2, for its first Suburban League victory in five years.

Czarek Nalaskowski put the Presidents on the board midway through the first half with Oscar Jara assisting.

Jara made it 2-0 on a penalty kick early in the second half and, after Matt Kropf scored for Cambridge, Quincy's Jackie Arnstein scored the winning goal with assists from Dan Piccini and Jara.

Ken Piccini, Ricky Morriss and Michael Sopp turned in fine efforts for the Presidents.

"It's a credit to all the young kids who stayed with the program and especially to the seniors who have hung in there for four years," said coach Charlie McLaughlin. "We are all very proud to put this one in the win column."

Quincy will be home to Newton North today (Thursday) at 3:30 at the stadium field.

Raiderettes Down Brookline

The North Quincy girls' soccer team improved to 7-4 last week with a 3-1 victory over Brookline.

The Raiderettes will host Brockton today (Thursday) at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and Monday will play at Waltham.

Karen Miller scored two goals in the win over Brookline and Tara Meyer had the other.

Nancy Flukes assisted on Meyer's goal and one of Miller's, while Karrie Pistorino had an assist on Miller's second goal.

Tara Miles had 12 saves in North's goal and she was given solid support from fullback Patti Feeney and halfback Beth Holt.

Panthers Down Elks For 5th Straight

The Quincy Point Panthers ran their Quincy Youth Football League record to 5-0 Sunday with a 20-6 victory over the West Quincy Elks.

The Panthers last week handed the Squantum Sailors their first defeat, 12-0, and are on top of the league by themselves.

The Sailors rebounded Sunday to defeat the North Quincy Apaches, 22-0.

Next Sunday the Panthers will face the Sailors again at 1 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium and the Houghs Neck Manets will meet the Apaches at 2:30.

The Panthers and Elks were scoreless in the first quarter Sunday with Paul Eleuteri and Ed McCabe playing strong defense for the Elks. Joe Crespi intercepted an Elks pass but fumbled the ball away.

When the Elks took over they fumbled and Craig Ellis recovered for the Panthers, setting up the first score in the second quarter.

Derek Tardanicco picked up some tough yardage and scored from the seven-yard line. Crespi rushed for the two-point conversion.

There was no scoring in the third quarter due to the efforts of Matt McLarnon and Ally Sleiman for the Panthers and Peter Eleuteri, John Sullivan and Paul Eleuteri for the Elks.

Early in the fourth quarter Sleiman took a Crespi pass to give the Panthers a 14-0 lead. Sullivan later scored the Elks' only touchdown.

The Panthers picked up three quick first downs and Crespi scored from the 10. The try for points failed.

Following the ensuing kickoff the Elks fumbled, Vin Contrino recovered and the Panthers ran out the clock.

Mike Picarello scored in the opening minutes to give the Sailors the lead over the Apaches.

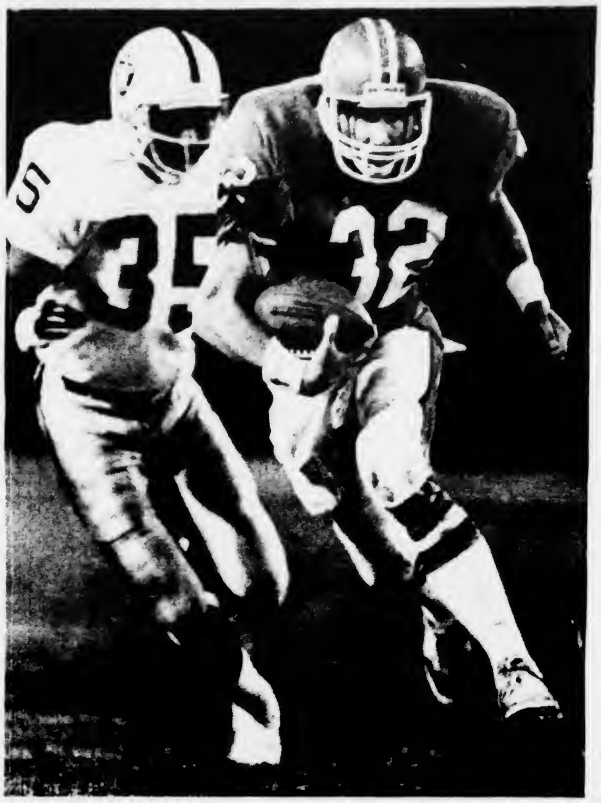
Billy Lydon scored from the three and Mike Lally added the two-point conversion. Lally also scored a touchdown and John McAdams added the two points.

The Sailors' offensive line of Wayne Bradley, Ugene Kyong, Mark Mantel, Chris McCallum, Pat Flaherty, Chris Nelson and John McAdams was outstanding.

On defense Flaherty played well at nose guard and Mantel and Nelson stood out at end. Also playing well were Bill Degan, Ken Cunningham, Mat Walsh and Jack Sullivan.

In the Panthers' game against the Sailors, rained out earlier, both teams played outstanding defense but both teams were hurt by penalties.

Crespi, who had 110 yards in total offense, picked up good yardage in the first quarter, but McAdam and Wayne Bradley led the Sailor defense, which included a blocked punt.



The half ended scoreless as Sleiman, John Slack, Joe Foy, David Jolley, Matt McLarnon and Tardanicco led the Panthers' defense.

The Sailors took the opening kickoff of the second half but were forced to punt. Crespi fielded the ball and raced 58 yards for the first touchdown.

Quarterback Lydon tried to get the ball rolling for Squantum as Dan Savage, Lally and Picarillo combined for good yardage, but a Tardanicco interception and a fumble recovery by Billy Foley set up the second score.

Crespi led the team to a first down inside the five and Tardanicco scored the touchdown. Quarterback Jason Simon's try for the two points failed by inches.

The Manets edged the Apaches, 6-2, in the second game of the double-header.

NORTH QUINCY'S Joe Dudek (32), shown here during his big game against the Los Angeles Raiders, will stay with the Denver Broncos now that the NFL strike is over and the regular players have returned. Dudek ran for 128 yards against the Raiders and was named the AFC Player of the Week. There is no doubt Dudek made the right decision in reporting to the Broncos and playing on the replacement team during the strike.

Raiders In Final With Brockton Friday

North Quincy's football team, which has had trouble in the Suburban League recently, has found playing the Greater Boston League teams also is no bed of roses.

The Raiders, beaten by Arlington, 34-0, earlier, went to Malden last Friday night to play the class of the GBL and absorbed a 42-12 walloping, dropping their record to 2-3. Malden is 4-1, having lost only a one-point decision to unbeaten Melrose.

Friday night North Quincy has the unenviable task of facing undefeated Brockton at 7 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium in the final game between the teams. The Boxers have defeated Pennsbury, Pa., Newton North, Somerville, B.C. High and last week rolled over Quincy, 56-14. Brockton topped North, 34-6, last season.

North Quincy got off to a good start last week at Malden, taking the kickoff and picking up three first downs. But a penalty and a pass interception halted the Raiders. On fourth down North had the quarterback for a loss of 18 yards but was hit with a penalty and Malden went on to its first score.

North Quincy Season Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
McCormack	4	0	24
Lawless	3	2	20
MacDougall	2	4	16
Ainsley	1	4	10

North received another tough break when Paul McCormack took a Joe Mulvey pass and was on his way to a touchdown when the ball was knocked out of his hands and Malden fell on the ball.

"The kids played their hearts out and they had some bad breaks," said Coach Ken McPhee. "I don't want to single any one player out, but Ryan Craig played an outstanding game both ways. I wasn't happy at what their coach did late in the game and this really wasn't a 42-12 game."

McPhee cleared his bench and put in some boys who hadn't seen a minute of action. Malden coach Paul Finn kept several starters, including his best running back, in the game and the home team added two late touchdowns.

Trailing, 28-0, at halftime, North came out and dominated the third quarter, scoring twice to cut the margin to 28-12.

"These kids didn't quit and came out with more intensity in the second half," McPhee said. "They played great and we had a chance to get back in the game.

Craig ran for 62 yards and McCormack was held to 32 yards. Mulvey hit on four of 12 passes for 87 yards. Malden's quarterbacks hit on 10 of 16 passes for 266 yards.

Following the early interception, Malden drove 98 yards in 14 plays with Tom Ford scoring from the three and Cappuccio kicking the extra point.

In the second quarter Roderick scored on a 21-yard run and Cappuccio kicked the point, Roderick scored on a 64-yard pass play from Cappuccio and Cappuccio again kicked the point, and, reversing their roles, Roderick passed to Cappuccio for 33 yards and a TD, Cappuccio adding his fourth extra point.

In the third quarter Mulvey hit Bill MacDougall for 36 yards and a score and later McCormack scored from the three. Both times rushes failed for the two-point conversions.

In the final 3:31 and North's subs in, Malden added two touchdowns, Roderick passing to Cappuccio for 62 yards and Sean Davis scoring on a 27-yard run. Cappuccio kicked both points.

Jayvees Defeat Weymouth S.

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quin y junior varsity football team scored in just three plays and went on to defeat Weymouth South, 16-6, to improve its record to 4-0.

North started on its 47, a Jim Bryan to Dave Hutchins pass netted 17 yards, Jeff Sullivan ran for eight and Hutchins lobbed a pass to Sean McDonough for the first score. Dan Gilmartin ran for the two-point conversion.

Alex Malasi of North recovered a fumble on Weymouth's 38, setting up the second score in the second quarter. Bryan threw to Tim Baker, who made a fine catch and ran for the touchdown. Sullivan added the two-point conversion.

Weymouth didn't advance beyond North's 33 in the first half as strong defense by the Raiders stymied the Wildcats.

The biggest play and gain of the day was manufactured by Weymouth in the third quarter. A spectacular 60-yard pass with the receiver getting by the defender, who fell down, gave the losers their only points of the game.

The North jayvees have held the opposition to 12 points in the four games.

Presidents Host Medford Saturday Night

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy football team played Brockton for the last time last Friday night and any questions about why the Presidents shouldn't be playing the Boxers in the future were answered as Brockton poured it on, 56-14, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win improved the Boxers' record to 5-0 while the completely overmatched Presidents fell to 0-5.

Saturday night at the stadium Quincy will host Medford of the Greater Boston League at 7 p.m. The Mustangs are 2-3, having defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Revere, while losing to Woburn, Arlington and Somerville. Medford topped Quincy, 27-13, a year ago.

"Our kids did as well as could be expected against a great team which should win the Super Bowl this year," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "You can't stop such outstanding runners as (Darnell) Campbell and (Rudy) Harris, who are so big and run like pros. I can't criticize my kids at all, they played their hearts out and hit hard all night long.

"Dropping Brockton isn't the answer to our problems and getting into another league also isn't the answer. We, as well as North Quincy, are going to continue to have trouble competing until they return sports to the middle schools and expand our programs.

"Without middle school programs the kids come into high school with no experience. We work with the youth football teams, but they aren't the answer. When we had a junior high program, things were much better as the kids came into high school well-versed in the fundamentals. Until we expand our programs we will continue to have trouble competing.

"The kids are really bruised after this game and I just wish the members of the school committee would come into our locker room and see how banged up they are."

Quincy Season Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Munroe	5	4	34
Noble	1	0	6
Grant	1	0	6

Quincy had an outstanding junior high program with excellent coaches until Prop 2½ resulted in the sports being dropped.

Brockton rolled up a 41-0 halftime lead last Friday as coach Armand Columbo showed no mercy.

With the Boxers leading, 34-0, and time running out in the half, Brockton threw a pass for a touchdown to make it 41-0. Columbo had his first team in there to start the second half and a 63-yard scoring bomb to Campbell, who had five touchdowns, made it 48-0. The Brockton coach finally relented and yanked his starters.

Campbell gained 112 yards, including 75 in the first quarter alokne, as he carried on nearly every play. The Boxers had a net of 242 yards rushing to just 32 for Quincy. Quarterback Bobby Zurinskas hit on three of five passes for 107 yards and two TDs.

The only bright spots for the Presidents were the passing of Chris Noble (10 of 23 for 132 yards and both touchdowns) and the receiving of Sean Munroe (five receptions for 65 yards and both scores).

"Noble is still learning but he is doing a fine job and is going to be a great one," Raymer said. "And they continue to double team Munroe, but he has speed and gets beyond the secondary well. He is an outstanding receiver."

Despite the score, defensive coach John Taglieri had high praise for his players. "They hit hard throughout the game, much harder than in past games," he said. He singled out Tom Bjork, Sean Thompson, who had nine unassisted tackles; Todd and Jim Kimmel, Scott Grant, Joe Baker, Brian Noris, Frank Calabro, Dave Spencer and Craig Keefe. Noble did some fine punting for the Presidents.

Brockton scored every time it had the ball. The parade started after the opening kickoff as Campbell ran for 22 yards and scored from the 10. Jimmy Butler kicked the extra point.

Quincy was held and the Boxers, after returning a punt from their 40 to Quincy's 30, drove for their second score. Campbell going over from the seven. Butler's kick was wide.

Brockton recovered a fumble on Quincy's 12 and three plays later Campbell scored from the four and Butler added the conversion.

Quincy picked up two first downs as Noble hit Ernie Light for 12 yards and Scott Logan for 19, but Brockton held and took over on its 31 and again drove downfield with Campbell scoring on a 32-yard run. Butler again kicked the point.

An intercepted pass set up the next Brockton score as Harris scored from the one and again Butler added the conversion.

Rocco Marciano returned a punt from his 30 to Quincy's 35 and Zurinskas passed to Marc Barnes for the score. Butler kicked his fifth extra point.

To start the second half Zurinskas threw a bomb to Campbell, who shook over several defenders to score his fifth TD, completing a 63-yard plan, and Butler kicked the point.

Quincy took the ensuing kickoff and Noble, faking a punt on fourth down, passed to Thompson for 27 yards and, following a penalty against Brockton, he threw a beautiful bomb to Munroe, who took the perfect pass in the end zone. Noble passed to Light for the two-point conversion.

Brockton's reserves drove to the Boxers' final touchdown with Mike Riggs scoring from the one and Anthony DeGrace rushed for the two extra points.

The Presidents drove to their second touchdown following the kickoff as Noble again hit Munroe for 40 yards. A pass for the points failed.

Quincy's Scott Campbell took over at quarterback for Noble and hit on one of five passes for 16 yards as the game ended.

And so the long and recently one-sided Quincy-Brockton football rivalry came to an end.

North Girls Extend Win Streak To 13

North Quincy girls' volleyball team continued to race through its Suburban League opponents and Monday ran its record to 13-0 by sweeping Newton South.

The Raiderettes, who earlier had clinched an Eastern Mass. Tournament berth for the second year in a row, hopes to clinch their first league title Friday when they host Newton North at 3:30 at the North gym. Next Monday they will be at Boston Latin.

North, which hasn't lost a single game this year, sweeping every match in straight games, defeated Newton South, 15-3, 15-3, Monday.

Coach Jim Rendle was without two starters, Holly Randle and Debbie Panaro, and he praised the work of Julie Detwiler and Denise Marnell, who started in their place.

"They were superb and again showed how much depth we have," Rendle said. "I have been able to use all 13 girls in every match and our second team has proven better than most of the other schools' first teams. The closest we have come to losing a game was against Quincy, which we defeated, 17-15."

Rendle also had high raise for co-captain Barbara Carroll who, in the coach's words "has been tearing up the league."

Last Friday the North girls defeated Waltham, 15-3, 15-8, led by the setting of Carroll and the spiking of Panaro.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes topped Weymouth South, 15-0, 15-1, with Jill Caldwell and Marnell serving for the first 10 points in the first game and Detwiler serving for seven straight points in the second game.

Last year North lost in the South Sectional finals in its first tournament appearance ever and it will be one of the top-seeded teams this year.

Quincy Girls Bow To Newton North

The Quincy girls' volleyball team, defending Suburban League champion, saw its record drop to 8-4 last Friday when it lost to Newton North.

The First Ladies, still hoping to make the Eastern Mass. Tournament again, will be at Brookline Friday, will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday and will be at North Quincy to face the undefeated league leader next Wednesday night at 7 p.m.

Dianne Hoeney was outstanding against Newton North, serving for seven points in the second game as Quincy lost, 15-7, 15-12.

Earlier in the week the Quincy girls defeated Brockton, 11-15, 15-2, 15-7.

Randi Gaura served well and played strong defense and Amy Guidice and Nancy Laitinen turned in strong performances.

Elks Pee Wee A's Team Selected

Quincy's Division One Pee Wee hockey team was recently selected by coach Jim Gilmore, assistants Tom Connolly and Joe Zona and trainer Rich Frazier.

The Pee Wee 'A'liminators, sponsored by the Quincy Elks, will compete in the Greater Boston League and will play in several tournaments including the fifth annual Mayflower at Plymouth next month, the Cranberry at Pembroke over Christmas and the Kiwanis International Tournament in February at the Quincy Youth Arena.

This year's team includes 13 returning A and B players from the Pee Wee level and four from the Squirt level.

Dennis Ruggere and Sean Connelly will take care of the goalie duties and the defensemen will be Shane Abboud, Mark Gilmore, Rob Guarnieri, Dave Manning, Scott McClory and Matt Riley.

Providing the scoring punch will be forwards Steve Bartkus, Mike Christopherson, Bob Fitzpatrick, Sean McArdle, Chris McCallum, Steve O'Brien, Sean Vermette, Brian Wood and Joe Zona.

Already, in pre-season play, the team has an impressive 3-0 record against the strong competition available.

Quincy posted a convincing 9-1 victory over Dennis/Yarmouth. Scoring for Quincy in the first period were Fitzpatrick, with Abboud assisting, and McCallum, with Bartkus assisting, giving Quincy a 2-1 lead. Dennis/Yarmouth was held scoreless the rest of the way.

Christopherson scored twice and Fitzpatrick once in the second period. In the third period Bartkus, Vermette and Fitzpatrick, completing a hat trick, scored with assists for McCallum and Zona.

Quincy followed up with a 9-1 decision over the Seahawks and a 5-4 win over the previously unbeaten Weymouth A's.

Bartkus scored the winning goal against Weymouth with just 19 seconds left in the game with Christopherson assisting. Bartkus had another goal and O'Brien, Wood and Riley had the others. McCallum, Vermette, Zona and O'Brien had assists.

"We have a good bunch of kids and all are great skaters," said Gilmore. "I have every confidence that the 'A'liminators will finish on top in both league and tournament play."

Quincy Girl Swimmers Lose To Newton N., Brockton

The Quincy girls swim team ran into some stiff competition last week, dropping meets to Newton North, 101-68, and Brockton, 91-69.

Renee Gaura broke her own school record in diving with 174.15 points for the undermanned Quincy team against Newton.

Cindy Galman won the 200-yard freestyle (2:25.81) against Brockton and the 400 freestyle relay team of Lisa Olsen, Galman, Lisa Marnell and Gaura won in both meets.

Against Brockton in the 200 medley relay, the First Ladies swam twin sisters Patti and Gayle Morrell and their cousins, Lisa and Janet Morrell. The family group finished second in 2:28.94. Janet also won the 100 backstroke against Newton in 1:23.47.

The Quincy girls will host Weymouth North Friday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

North Girl Swimmers Drop Pair

The North Quincy girls' swim team, which had won four of its first five meets, saw its record drop to 4-3 last week when it lost to Newton North and Brockton.

Bill Walker's Raiderettes will be at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday and will host Waltham next Tuesday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool

North lost to Newton North, 100-71, last Friday despite Debbie Ramos winning the 50 freestyle and swimming with the winning 400 relay team and taking second in the 100 freestyle.

Newton North won eight of the 10 events.

Joining Ramos on the 400 relay team were Maureen Furey, Molly McDonough and Sherrin Quintiliani. The time was 4:34.03.

North Quincy's only other winner was Liz Harrington, who took the 100 breaststroke in 1:26.07.

Placing second were Ramos in the 100 freestyle, Furey in the 100 butterfly, Beth Hughes, 100 backstroke; Lisa Rodriguez, 100 breaststroke, and Rene Robichaud, diving.

Taking third places were Quintiliani, 200 freestyle; Joanna Vermette, 100 backstroke; and Sheila Comeau, 100 breaststroke.

Ramos qualified for the South Sectionals in the 50 and 100 freestyle events earlier in the week, but the Raiderettes lost to Brockton, 94-70.

Ramos finished second in both events.

North's only winners were Robichaud in diving (157.25 points) and the 400 freestyle relay team of Furey, McDonough, Ramos and Hughes (4:36.3).

Placing second were Ramos in the 50 and 100 freestyle, Furey, 100 butterfly, and Laura Dawson, diving.

Taking thirds were McDonough, 100 freestyle; Quintiliani, 500 freestyle; Harrington, 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke and Vermette, 100 backstroke.

Quincy Golfers Finish 5-6-1

Quincy's golf team, coached by Bob Sylvia and George Peachey, had one of its best years and last week finished up at 5-6-1 with a 5½-3½ victory over cross-town rival North Quincy (3-9).

Wayne Chambers shot a 40 to take medalist honors for the Presidents and other low scores included Favio Sala, 41; Greg Chambers, 43, and Tom Maio, who had a 49 to halve his match.

Members of both teams competed Tuesday in the Sullivan Tournament at Thorney Lea in Brockton.

Hank Conroy coached the North Quincy team.

Third Quarter Earnings Up At Hibernia

The Hibernia Savings Bank announces that net income for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, increased 20 percent to $290,755, or 36 cents per share, compared to net income of $242,612 for the same period a year ago. The per share data reflect the shares issued by The Hibernia Savings Bank upon its conversion from mutual to stock form on Sept. 5, 1986.

Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30 increased 111 percent to $1,023,862, or $1.28 per share, from $485,230 for the same period in 1986.

Total assets of the bank increased 71 percent from $79,151,980 at Sept. 30, 1986, to $135,241,262 at Sept. 30, 1987. Of the overall increase, net loans increased 83 percent from $50,935,878 at Sept. 30, 1986, to $93,151,206 at Sept. 30, 1987. Total deposits grew to $118,298,397 at Sept. 30, 1987, from $63,335,532 at Sept. 30, 1986, an increase of 87 percent.

Stockholders' equity increased from $12,621,688 at Sept. 30, 1986, to $14,001,427 at Sept. 30, 1987. This represents a book value of $17.50 per share based on 800,000 shares of common stock outstanding.

"We are very pleased with Hibernia's third quarter performance," said Mark A. Osborne, president and chief executive officer. "Operating results for this quarter, as well as year-to-date, are in line with our expectations.

"Hibernia's substantial asset growth reflects our commitment to providing customers with quality products at extremely competitive rates. Our recently opened Quincy facility has contributed significantly to this growth and strengthens our commitment to the South Shore community. We look forward to continuing this kind of growth as we build deposits and increase our lending activities," said Osborne.

Adams Academy Topic For Historical Society

The Adams Academy, school and building, will be the subject of the program at the Quincy Historical Society meeting tonight (Thursday), at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St.

The meeting is open to the public.

H. Hobart Holly, society historian, will talk on the history of Adams Academy. Based on research into many aspects of the school and the building, he will start with its conception by John Adams who directed in detail the type of school he wished.

The talk will then cover the building and opening of the school, its operation and activities through the years including sports, and biographies of the headmasters.

The program will also include the opening of a new exhibit on Adams Academy which includes mementoes of the school and of activities in the building after the close of the school.

Slides will be presented showing activities in the building in its present use as headquarters of the Quincy Historical Society.

Refreshments will be served.

Country Western Night At Houghs Neck Post

Three public events for Oct. 24, 25, and 26 will be sponsored by the Houghs Neck Legion Post at the post home, 1116 Sea St.

A Country Western Night will be held Oct. 24, at the post featuring Joe Zak and The Tennessee Wheelers with their oldtime music. Tickets may be purchased at the post home or from Ray LaRue, junior vice commander.

An Open House will be held Oct. 25, at 2 p.m., at the post home. All Vietnam veterans are especially invited to attend and bring a friend. All veterans of other wars are also invited. There will be a program and refreshments.

Thomas Hurlebaum, world traveler, will give a talk and show films of his most recent excursion to Hawaii, Samoa and Australia Oct. 26, at 8 p.m.

Hurlebaus is a past commander of both the Houghs Neck Post and the Quincy Veterans Council. The program is open to the public without charge.

Post Commander Stanley Younie is general chairman for the three events.

Harvest Fair Tables Available

Tables for crafters are available at a Harvest Fair to be held Saturday, Nov. 28, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy.

STORYTELLER Sharon Kennedy will present "Terrifying Tales for Halloween" for children age five and older and for adults Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq.

'Terrifying Halloween Tales' At Library Oct. 27

Storyteller Sharon Kennedy will appear in concert at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Square, Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m.

The program, "Terrifying Tales for Halloween," sponsored by the Friends of the Library, is for children age five and older and for adults.

The program will include a story from Ireland about coffins, graveyards, and magical adventures with the "little people," a Japanese story about a goblin in a temple, and an Appalachian story about a frightening creature that haunts an old man who has taken its tail. The audience will be able to participate in an Irish game/song called "Bloody Bones."

Kennedy draws much of her material from Ireland and has recently returned from a two month trip during which she collected stories, songs, jokes, recitations, poems, and folklore. She has a theater and teaching background which contributes to the variety of techniques she uses in a storytelling concert.

The library is also offering a Halloween Open House at the main library and three branch libraries next week. Children may drop in any time during the open house to participate self-directed activities. These include dressing a scarecrow, writing an epitaph for a mock gravestone, designing a jack-o-lantern out of felt, and decorating a haunted street mural.

The Halloween Open House will be at the Adams Shore and Wollaston branch libraries Tuesday, Oct. 27, from 7:30 to 4:30 p.m., at the North Quincy Branch Library Friday, Oct. 30, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., and at the Quincy Square Library Saturday, Oct. 31, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Central Student Wins Writing Award

For the second year in a row, a student from Central Middle School has been honored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Katherine Raymond is one of this year's recipients of a Certificate of Achievement for writing excellence in the 1986-1987 Promising Young Writers Program.

Last year's recipient of the award was Julie Fitzgerald-Swan. Both Julie and Katherine attended The Advanced Placement Program at Central Middle School.

The Promising Young Writers Program for middle school students represents a commitment to effective writing and signifies the importance of early and continuing work in the development of writing.

Eighth grade students from the 50 states, the District of Columbia, American schools abroad and Canada can be nominated for participation in the program.

Crane Library Seeks Adult Volunteers

Adult volunteers are being sought to read aloud on a weekly basis to a first or second grader in the Thomas Crane Library's Reading Round-up Project.

Children will meet from Nov. 17 through May 31, 1988 at the Adams Shore Branch Library, 519 Sea St., Quincy to share the pleasures of reading together with an adult.

Adults will be trained by the library staff to work with them in this project funded by the Mass. Board of Library Commissioners.

Anyone interested in volunteering may call Ann McLaughlin at the library at 984-1950.

Final Mayoral Debate On Ch. 3 Thursday

Quincy Community Television Channel 3 will present the second and final 1987 Quincy Mayoral Debate tonight (Thursday) live on Ch. 3 starting at 8 p.m.

Mayor Francis McCauley and challenger Joseph LaRaia will debate the issues live. The candidates will answer questions from representatives of The Quincy Sun, The Patriot Ledger and WJDA radio. The questions will be from categories including zoning and development, traffic and public safety, education, environmental issues and the candidates' style of management.

Stan Golub, general manager of American Cablesystems in Quincy, Milton and Randolph, will serve as the moderator.

The debate will be re-run on Ch. 3, Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

Ch. 3 will also carry live coverage of the Quincy election Nov. 3 beginning at 8 p.m.

Mayoral Candidates' Wives On Cable Talk

The wives of mayoral candidates Frank McCauley and Joseph LaRaia, Sandra McCauley and Louise LaRaia, are this week's guests on Quincy Community Television's "Cabletalk" program.

Guest hosted by Beth LeDoux, the show can be seen Thursdays at 9 p.m. and Monday at 6:30 p.m. on Channel 3.

South Shore Collaborative Plans Holiday Fair

The South Shore Collaborative Community Program will hold its Holiday Fair Friday, Nov. 13, and Saturday, Nov. 14, at the East School, Collins Road, Hingham.

The fair will be open from noon to 6 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Parents, staff and friends of the program have worked during the past several months to create hundreds of craft and gift items to be sold at the fair. A variety of holiday crafts, ornaments, handmade personal and household gifts, baked goods, white elephant and drawing items will be available for purchase.

The Community Program is a unit of the South Shore Collaborative, an agency of eight South Shore communities: Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Norwell, Scituate, and Weymouth.

The collaborative provides programs and services for school age children with special needs. Proceeds from the fair will be used to supplement the educational program funds of the children.

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit you who solve all problems who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me I want in this shore prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

LaRaia Claims, McCauley Denies Hidden Expenses

Councillor Joseph LaRaia claims Mayor Francis McCauley has concealed some hidden expenses not contained in this year's budget.

"The mayor funded only six months of the trash hauling expense at $1.2 million," said LaRaia, a candidate for mayor.

"He will have to ask the City Council after the election for $1.4 million dollars more."

But Mayor Francis McCauley "very strongly denied" that there are any "hidden expenses."

"It's no dark secret," said McCauley. "We only requested six months of trash hauling expense because we are not sure if we are going to need more money," said McCauley.

"We hope to get authorization to go back in and use the dump," he said.

The Department of Environmental Quality Engineering ordered the 110-acre landfill in West Quincy closed last May, and the order was upheld by Superior Court Judge Cortland Mathers who criticized the way Quincy operated the dump.

A $1.6 million appropriation request was submitted recently to the City Council for engineering costs and improvements to the sanitary landfill.

Since the landfill was closed, Browning Ferrnis Industries has trucked the city's residential rubbish out of town.

However, that may not be necessary if the city brings the landfill up to environmental standards and decides to use some of the limited space in the dump for residential or city residual trash.

LaRaia said McCauley could take the trash hauling expenses from his surplus funds, which would reduce the fund from $10.1 million to $8.7 million.

McCauley said the city may have to use some of the surplus for that expense, but not if it is allowed to go back into its landfill.

American Cablesystem's Continental Merge

American Cablesystems Corporation announces the execution of a definitive merger agreement pursuant to which American would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Continental Cablevision, Inc.

American stockholders will receive $46.50 per share for each share of Class A and Class B common stock held by them.

In a recent article The Wall Street Journal incorrectly reported that holders of 37 percent of American's shares had granted Continental options to purchase their shares at $37.50 per share, American said.

As stated in American's announcement, the option price is $46.50 per share, it said.

The shareholder agreements with Continental also grant to Continental a proxy with respect to the voting of such shares in connection with the merger and other major corporate transactions.

55-60% Turnout Predicted

McCauley Has Edge, LaRaia Sees 'Upset'

FRANCIS McCAULEY

With the mayoral race heated up and getting hotter as the campaign heads to the wire, City Clerk John Gillis is predicting a 55-to-60 percent voter turnout next Tuesday.

Most observers see a close battle and give incumbent Francis McCauley, seeking a fourth term, the edge over challenger Joseph LaRaia who is trying to regain the mayor's office.

But the LaRaia camp seems confident and is talking "upset."

The two candidates in the past two weeks have gone from sparring and jabbing to slugging over issues, individual records and even advertising.

"The mayoral fight has certainly heated up," says Gillis. "It has turned into one of our better ones in recent years."

Gillis said he is basing his 55-to-60 percent turnout prediction on the mayor's race which is "the main event" on the ballot and a good City Council at-large fight.

Two years ago, 49.2 percent came out when McCauley squared off against former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon.

LaRaia served as mayor from 1976-1977 after ousting Walter Hannon on a close 483 recount vote to climax one of the bitterest campaigns in the city's history.

LaRaia's administration was also one of the stormiest in the city's history.

He was defeated by Arthur Tobin in another bitter campaign in 1977 but came back two years later to narrowly win one of the three City Council at-large seats. He has gone uphill since.

"There are also six good candidates for councillor at large who have all been out campaigning," notes Gillis.

He estimated that results of the election, which will cost the city about $44,000, will be in by about 10:30 p.m.

The ballots will be counted by computer in the council chambers at City Hall.

"Hopefully, all the bugs with the computer have been worked out," he noted.

A programming problem with the computer delayed the results by about 45 minutes in the preliminary election in September.

Gillis noted that demonstrators will be available at the polling places to assist

Teachers Win Salary Increases

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy teachers won a $912,000 increase over an earlier contract proposal after negotiating with the city until early Tuesday, averting a threatened strike.

As part of the agreement, teachers will finally receive the 1979 raises they negotiated but never received after Prop. 2½ went into effect.

The Quincy Education Association will take a ratification vote on the agreement soon.

Mayor Francis McCauley, who sat in on some of the lengthy negotiations, said the three-year contract amounts to $7,560,000 as compared to an earlier tentative agreement which totalled $6,648,000.

Teachers will receive a 5 percent raise dating back to September of this year, 6 percent raise in September, 1988, and 6 percent raise in September, 1989, he said.

The 1979 raises, which amount to about $1,000 each, will be paid in two installments to teachers who are still in the Quincy school system, not those who have left or retired, he said.

They will receive the first $500 check around Dec. 15, of this year, and the second about July 15, 1988, he said.

"It would be a substantial burden to the city to pay it all at once," said McCauley of the 1979 raises which will amount to $650,000.

A longevity benefit totalling $435,000 was eliminated, but a 1 percent stipend for teachers at the 12th step level will be paid in the third year of the contract, McCauley said.

He stressed that the increased money in the agreement did not come out of the city's $10.1 million surplus, but from general funds.

"I'm very pleased that we were able to get a three-year pact which allows us to get back to running the city, and teachers back in the classroom," said McCauley.

He praised members of the School Committee and teachers' union negotiating teams.

"The package is considerably better than the one presented approximately one month ago," said Thomas Walsh, president of the 725-member Quincy Education Association.

"We feel there are issues addressed in this contract for the first time in many years, issues that have been waiting to be addressed, and we feel that we have done that.

"The negotiations were very tense and intense. They have taken an enormous amount of time and energy. We're glad it's over.

"The bottom line for students is that we will be in the classroom where we really want to be."

The teachers' union had reached a tentative contract agreement with the city earlier this month, but that agreement was unanimously voted down after Mayor Francis McCauley announced the city's $10.1 million surplus.

Angry teachers felt they should receive part of the surplus, but the mayor disagreed.

When talk of a strike surfaced, McCauley charged that teachers were planning the action to embarrass him before next week's election. The union denied the charge.

The two sides negotiated for 12 hours Sunday, and the mayor participated in part of the discussions.

School Committee member Mary Collins, chairman of the negotiating sub committee, noted it was the first time in

Vandals Damage Headstones At Snug Harbor Cemetery

Four youths allegedly knocked over 12 headstones at the Snug Harbor Cemetery, Germantown, Monday afternoon causing an estimated $500 damage.

According to police, the youths swung from a rope hung from a tree branch and kicked over the granite stones.

One stone was completely pulled out of the grave, and 11 others were snapped off at the base, said Ray Cattaneo, acting director of Quincy's Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Cattaneo said a fence at the cemetery entrance was also damaged.

He said it would take several days to repair the stones.

Red Line Cars To Be Increased

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the MBTA fiscal year 1989 budget was presented to the executive committee of the MBTA Advisory Board Tuesday by general manager James O'Leary.

The proposed fiscal '89 budget is $588,304,071, an increase of approximately $50,900,000 over the present year budget of $537,386,813, McCauley said.

O'Leary revealed that there would be an increase of 58 in the number of cars assigned to the Red Line which goes through Quincy. Six car train service would be expanded to midday service, not just in the morning, he said.

Mayor McCauley, chairman of the executive committee, said the budget was referred to the advisory board finance committee for review.

The budget, with finance committee recommendations, will be voted on by both the executive committee and the full advisory board at a meeting to be held Wednesday, Dec. 3, McCauley said.

Emergency Planning Committee To Meet Thursday

The local emergency planning committee will meet today (Thursday) at 10:30 a.m. at the Quincy Civil Defense Agency, 55 Sea St., Quincy.

Speakers will be Douglas Forbes, Sr., Senior Planner for the Massachusetts State Civil Defense Agency, and Sgt. James Hall of the State Police and Mass. Civil Defense Agency.

The committee was established and members appointed by Mayor Francis McCauley in accordance with Title III of the Superfund Amendment and Reauthorization Act of 1986, also known as "Emergency Planning and Community Right to Know Act of 1986."

In Slander Case

Sheets Says Support 'Overwhelming'

Ward 4 City Councillor James Sheets, who is being sued for slander by the Ricciardi Co. of Quincy, said that the outpouring of support he has received has been "absolutely overwhelming."

"It goes beyond Jim Sheets right now," he said. "The issue is of a person's right to speak out.

"People are saying to me they are concerned that people should have a right to speak freely what they believe.

"I've never seen such an outpouring of the human heart."

The Ricciardi Co., prominent developers of such projects as the $54 million Presidents' Place which got underway Tuesday in downtown Quincy, alleges that the slander took place at a Planning Board meeting May 11, 1987.

The claim also being brought by Paul Ricciardi, Stephen C. Ricciardi, and Paul F. Ricciardi, was filed against Sheets Oct. 16, in Norfolk Superior Court. Atty. Stanley J. Spero of Cambridge is representing the Ricciardis.

The claim alleges that Sheets referred to property owned by the Ricciardis on Quarry St. as "an area full of hazardous waste, in essence a dump with millions of cubic yards of rubbish, an extraordinarily dangerous site to develop," according to Sheets' attorney, Richard W. Barry.

Barry also said the Ricciardis claim that Sheets questioned where they are getting their money and intimated that it was from organized crime.

Barry said he will file an answer on behalf of Sheets within 30 days, and a judge will determine if the case goes to trial.

Mayor Francis McCauley said he will ask the City Council to approve funds for Sheets' legal costs.

Sheets said, "no matter where I go, to the grocery store, or just walking along the street, people have been stopping to give their support.

"Religious leaders have been calling up saying that they will remember me and my family in their prayers.

"People have been calling up to say, "if they take your home, we will get people to contribute money so you can get another home."

Sheets, a professor of government at Quincy Junior College, said that people are not just concerned about him, but also about the principal involved.

"The issue is far bigger than me, far more important than me, it goes to the very heart of government.

"People are concerned about having people be able to speak for them freely without fear of lawsuits."

Blood Pressure Screening At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the general public Tuesday, Nov. 3, in their Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

These screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable the individual to keep track of his blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician, will be advised to do so.

These screenings, which take place on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge.

Nov. 4 Deadline For Filing Petitions In General Court

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey announces that the deadline for filing bills for the 1988 Legislative Session is Wednesday, Nov. 4.

The early filing date makes it possible for a substantial number of bills to be in print before the convening of the General Court on the first Wednesday in January in order that the committees may proceed immediately with public hearings, Morrissey explained.

Rep. Morrissey will hold office hours Friday, Oct. 30 in the conference room at City Hall from 10 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Anyone interested in filing a bill for next year should meet with Rep. Morrissey and his staff at this time.

"There has been a strong response from people in Quincy over the years in filing legislation. Many of the bills filed by Quincy residents have had a strong impact in new laws in the Commonwealth," said Morrissey.

"I encourage Quincy residents to utilize their right to participate in the legislative process" added Morrissey.

The Big Question

The mayoral campaign which got off to a slow motion start a few months ago has suddenly turned into a good horse race as it heads down the home stretch.

It has picked up both speed and steam as the candidates have the gloves off and have been slugging it out.

On Tuesday, Nov. 3, the voters will come in with the final decision:

A fourth term for incumbent Francis McCauley or another chance to be mayor for challenger Joseph LaRaia.

McCAULEY

McCauley, a former banker who has run the city in a business-like manner and whose administration has been effective and clean but who personally is a bit short on political charisma.

LaRAIA

Or LaRaia whose two years as mayor in 1976-77 were perhaps the stormiest in the city's history, whose administration was ineffective, but who personally has what they call boyish charm. And, who this year is running as a Democrat in a Democratic city in a non-partisan election.

LaRaia wrested the mayor's office away from Walter Hannon in a bitter campaign in 1975 which was climaxed by a 483-vote recount victory after charges of vote stealing.

HANNON

LaRaia's two years as mayor were likened to "The Twilight Zone" with eerie things happening. Like: Someone firing a bullet through the back window of the mayor's car parked in his yard. Someone bugging the mayor's office. Appointees arrested and sent to prison.

Incidents like this just don't happen in Quincy. But they did.

To many the city seemed almost to stand still for two years or move backward. It was two years of political bickering, hard feelings and -- hatred.

TOBIN

In 1977, in another bitter campaign, Arthur Tobin ousted LaRaia by a 5,050 vote margin. Tobin's campaign attacked LaRaia's administration on corruption and scandal issues.

LaRaia was never charged personally with any wrong-doing. The only thing he did wrong, his supporters insisted then -- and still do today -- was that he trusted people who let him down.

LaRaia looked like a political fatality after his loss to Tobin.

But two years later he was back winning one of the three City Council at-large seats. He finished third edging political newcomer Richard Koch, Jr. by a scant 97 votes. It brought him back to political life. A loss that year no doubt would have meant the end politically for him.

McCauley's administration certainly hasn't had the drama and havoc that LaRaia's did.

McCauley's has, for the most part, been so quiet and even keel, that the news media has called it boring. Not enough headlines.

McCauley hasn't tried to win a popularity contest. He has called the shots as he sees them. He has said "no" when he felt he should say "no."

He doesn't count votes before he acts.

In doing so, he has taken on the image of being cold and insensitive whereas other candidates -- LaRaia included -- are considered warm and caring.

Even when he comes up with a $10 million surplus, McCauley runs smack into criticism especially from teachers who feel he kept that card covered during contract negotiations and that he should share a little of the surplus with them and other city employees.

The fact there is a $10 million surplus should indicate that McCauley must be doing something right.

He may not have been responsible for every penny of it. But if it were a $10 million deficit, he would get the blame. So, for a $10 million surplus, he should get some of the credit.

McCauley and LaRaia are locked in one of the better mayoral races in recent years. This week that race is the dominating topic of discussion in the city and that's healthy.

It is good for the city because it makes people think and ask questions, and become aware of what's going on.

The big question the voters must answer is:

Has McCauley done a good enough job to warrant another term or should LaRaia have another chance to see if he can do better than he did a decade ago.

Quincy Squadron Commander:

Cuban Missile Crisis Stand 'Fine Moment For Kennedy, Nation'

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It has been the closest the United States has ever come to a nuclear confrontation and Stephen T. Keefe Jr. was right in the thick of it.

It was 25 years ago this month that the United States and Soviet Union were locked in the Cuban missile crisis, and Keefe, a former Quincy resident and a lieutenant colonel in the United States Air Force, played a significant role.

It was, in short, a time Keefe will never forget.

In October of 1962, U.S. reconnaissance planes flying over Cuba took photographs that revealed Cuba had Soviet missiles on the island, meaning the entire U.S. southern flank and east coast were under a nuclear threat.

Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev proposed that the United States remove its missiles from Turkey to resolve the crisis. President John F. Kennedy resisted that move and entertained several other options, including an air strike and/or invasion and also a naval blockade using American vessels to stop Soviet ships from reaching Cuban ports.

As the nation's eyes turned to the front pages and television screens to know the superpower leaders' every move, Keefe, a reserve in the United States Air Force, was recalled into active duty.

Keefe, like many Americans who lived through that tense, anxious period, remembers the days of the Cuban missile crisis very well.

At the time, Keefe was Quincy's assistant city solicitor and a reserve squadron commander for the 731st troop carrier division at Hanscom Air Force Base in Bedford, Mass.

On Monday, Oct. 22, he received a call from Hanscom and was asked to go on active duty with other key military personnel for specialized flight training.

On Tuesday, Keefe began active duty and engaged in low flying missions over Cape Cod, Martha's Vinyard and Nantucket islands. For the next four days Keefe flew over this area from altitudes as low as 200 feet.

On Saturday, Oct. 27, Keefe, was attending a republican City Committee function at the Fore River Clubhouse when he got the big news.

While at the function, Keefe received a phone call informing him that Kennedy had recalled many Air Force reserve units, including Keefe's at Hanscom.

At 12:30 a.m. Sunday, Keefe got another call, this one from the Hanscom command post informing him to call the men in his squadron. Keefe in turn implemented a "telephone tree" whereby five men were told to telephone five other men and so on until all men were notified.

Keefe understood the moment's urgency.

LT. COL. STEPHEN KEEFE led his activated 731st Troop Carrier Squadron of the Air Force Reserve down Hancock St. in Quincy during the 1962 Armistace Day parade. Keefe's squadron was recalled to active duty by President John F. Kennedy during the Cuban missile crisis 20 years ago and was deployed to McDill AFB, Tampa, Fla., where it remained until the crisis was over. With Lt. Col. Keefe at the head of the troops are Major Robert Cusick of 101 Sims Rd., Wollaston (left) and Major John Luongo of 29 Norman Road, South Quincy.

STRIKE PERSPECTIVE: If there had been an invasion of Cuba including Lt. Col. Stephen Keefe's squadron of C-119 aircraft, this is the view Cubans would have seen.

"It's been the only time in my life that I called a telephone operator to break into a line that I couldn't get through," Keefe said.

By 9 p.m. Sunday, 162 of Keefe's 175 men had reported. By the afternoon, 174 showed up.

"The only guy we were missing was on his honeymoon and he reported the next day," Keefe said with a laugh.

Landon Carries City Over FDR

Oct. 28-Nov. 3, 1936
51 Years Ago

While a Democrat tide led by President Franklin D. Roosevelt swept across the country, Quincy was turning in stout Republican pluralities in the General Elections.

Kansas Gov. Alfred M. Landon outpolled Roosevelt in the city by a margin of 17,727 to 15,116.

In other contests, John W. Haigis, Republican, drew 18,838 votes for governor to 13,730 for Democrat Charles F. Hurley; and Henry Cabot Lodge got 18,387 to 11,496 for James Michael Curley in the race for the U.S. Senate.

Meanwhile, an investigation was begun into events that resulted in the foul-up of an election eve Democratic rally at Quincy High School.

Angry Democrats wanted to know why some notices said the rally was at Central Junior High School and why Chairman Leo J. Halloran closed the rally 15 minutes before Gov. Curley arrived to find the building dark.

And Democrats were also peeved when the Republican majority on the School Committee refused to let youngsters out of school the day President Roosevelt visited the city.

CASE DISMISSED

Alfred Hagbloom, 20, of Quincy won the verdict in an Olean, N.Y., court on a charge of disorderly conduct when he erased a chalk mark that had been placed on the tire of his car by policeman Nick Patronick.

"As we are not sure the police have the right to chalk the cars, we are not sure haven't got the right to rub the marks out," ruled the judge in dismissing the case.

"It's hard work putting those marks on," grumbled Patronick. "I have to bend way over."

Baked Macaroni And Cheese

No matter how much I cook, it seems there is always room for improvement. And so it was when I recently made my daughter Rita's favorite baked macaroni and cheese (with fish cakes). Sometimes baked macaroni tends to get dry, especially when all the family members cannot dine together. So here is a recipe that I guarantee will be moist and creamy.

The recipe fed five, you can add more pasta if you want to make more.

CREAMY BAKED MACARONI AND CHEESE

½ Lb elbow macaroni
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 cups milk
1 Tbsp flour
salt and pepper to taste
2 Tbsps butter or margerine
¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
Corn flake crumbs for topping

Boil elbows until half done. Drain off half the liquid and add about a cup of milk (not mentioned in above recipe). As this comes to a boil and the macaroni is finally done, add the cheddar cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Set aside.

In a frying pan, melt the butter or margerine. Add the parmesan cheese and milk and stir until blended. Then begin adding the flour until sauce is thickened (like gravy). Add salt and pepper. Set aside. In a caserole dish, put a layer of the macaroni with the liquid, add a little of the cream sauce, then put the rest of the macaroni and add the rest of the sauce and this will seep through the whole dish.

On top, sprinkle the corn flake crumbs. Let set for about 20 minutes. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 30-35 minutes. Let set for about five minutes and serve hot.

Clarence Churchill Honored On 90th Birthday

More than 100 family members and friends gathered recently at Wollaston Baptist Church for a surprise 90th birthday party for Clarence Churchill of Brook St., Wollaston.

The party was given by Churchill's family members who are daughter Elinor Walter of Detroit, Mich., son-in-law, Frank Churchill; grandchildren Nicholas Stivaletta III, 35, Joy Stivaletta, 33, Bruce Stivaletta, 30; and Gaye Stivaletta Whelan, 24, all of Dedham.

Churchill also has two great grandchildren, Nicole and Nicholas Stivaletta of Dedham.

Originally from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, Churchill came to Quincy after the war in 1917.

His wife, Bernice, had lived in Quincy most of her life. She died six years ago.

For 40 years, he owned the Shawmut Laundry on Alleyne St., Wollaston.

He retired about 1970, but then worked for DeWare Funeral Home.

her 10 years on the committee that she had seen a mayor at negotiations.

She said of the negotiations, "It's been a long, dragged-out affair for the last several months, a lot of give and take on both sides.

"We'll have to tighten our budget ourselves," said Mrs. Collins

"Some of the money will come out of the school budget. The majority of it will come from the mayor.

"The mayor does not give anything he can't afford."

School Committee vice chairman Stephen Durkin commented, "It appears we have reached an agreement that will be satisfactory to both sides, and we are hoping for quick ratification by the QEA membership.

"Both sides gave a lot up.

"There was a lot of haggling over details I am very pleased with the way it turned out."

Newly appointed school supt. Dr. Robert Ricci said he was glad that a strike was averted.

Ricci said he was looking ahead to innovations for the school system.

"I'm hoping to present programs to the School Committee for students who are economically disadvantaged, handicapped students, a transition program from kindergarten to grade 1.

"We want to do some tightening up and consolidation, and in the high schools offer alternative programs and deal with the potential school dropouts, establish career education in all grades reestablish the middle school sports program and improve the high school sports programs and foreign language program at the middle schools.

Ricci also said he was looking forward to "the administration organization becoming closer together and working with each school."

Ricciardi Cites Sheets' 'Open Animosity' In Letter To McGrath

Stephen Ricciardi of the Ricciardi Co. of Quincy which is suing Ward 4 City Councillor James Sheets for slander, has written to the City Council president about what he considers Sheets' "open and obvious animosity toward me and my family."

In the suit, filed Oct. 16, in Norfolk Superior Court, the Ricciardi's claimed that they have been "damaged in their business, good will and reputation" by sheets and requested damaged.

Ricciardi wrote to Council President Stephen McGrath that the situation dates back to 1985 when his company purchased property off Quarry St. with the intention of developing it as "Summit View," a condominium consisting of 1,050 units.

When informed of the proposal, Sheets "with a very limited amount of information on the proposed project, told us that our project would never go and at the very best, we should expect to get out from under our costs with a breakeven, very minimal project," according to Ricciardi.

"From 1985 to the present, we have endeavored to meet with the community; formed a Neighborhood Committee (made up mostly of members suggested by Mr. Sheets) which made their recommendations relative to the P.U.D. permit," said Ricciardi, who noted other efforts by his company.

"At a meeting some weeks ago at City Hall, attended by Mr. Sheets, James Lydon and myself, Mr. Sheets informed me that he controlled the passage of this project and among other things, on three distinct instances, stated while waving his finger in my face, that he 'would beat my ass,' said Ricciardi.

"I am sure you are aware of examples, one of which I know you personally witnessed at a recent planning board meeting of Mr. Sheets' efforts along these lines and his open and obvious animosity toward me and my family.

"Because litigation has been commenced against Mr. Sheets, it would be inappropriate for me to comment further on the circumstances," he said.

Ricciardi did note, however, that his company sought a comprehensive permit for Summit View from the state, bypassing local zoning, in return for providing some low or moderate income housing inn moderate income housing in the project.

"In light of these unfortunate events, we are seeking, through this process, a more open political process which will allow the proposal to be dealt with on its merits, free from the personal matters between ourselves and Mr. Sheets," stated Ricciardi.

According to Ricciardi, the state has already approved part of the project.

In response to the letter, Sheets wrote a note to his colleagues on the council.

"I have served with you for many years. You have come to know who I am, what I stand for, and how I handle community issues," stated Sheets.

"I have just read, with interest, Steve Ricciardi's letter to you.

"My only response is—'NUTS'".

Southwick, McCarthy Honored By Beechwood Knoll Assn.

The Beechwood Knoll Neighborhood Association, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston, recently honored Betty Southwick and Julia McCarthy at its second annual dinner dance at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Eighty families gathered to honor Southwick, director of the Beechwood Community Life Center, and McCarthy, president of the Neighborhood Association, for their efforts and contributions.

Community service awards were presented by City Council President Stephen McGrath. Mayor and Mrs. Francis McCauley also joined in the festivities. Also attending were Charles Phelan and John Keenan, candidates for Ward 5 city councillor.

Morrissey Opposes Granting Exclusive Taxi Stand Contracts

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has contacted MBTA general manager James O'Leary expressing his strong opposition to the granting of exclusive contract for taxi stands at the T stations throughout Boston.

This would give the high bidder a monopoly on the T stations and deny commuters an opportunity to pick their own carrier.

Rep. Morrissey said "This regulation offers no benefit to the public who rely on taxi service. If the stations have only one company's cab, there will be no incentive for them to maintain a high level of service."

"There is only a limited amount of bus service in the city so it is important that all areas are provided with adequate taxi service. I don't believe the MBTA should interfere with the local taxi service, other than the safe discharge of passengers and other safety related issues" added Morrissey.

'We Are Witnesses' Sermon At Wollaston Congregational

The Rev. Elden D.J. Quern will preach the sermon at the Wollaston Congregational Church on Sunday, Nov. 1 at 10 a.m. titled "We are Witnesses" based on the texts Ruth 4:7-17, Psalm 27 and Matthew 23:1-12.

Lay scripture reader will be Mary Gifford and acolyte, Barbara Kelsay. The greeter will be Stephen Gutro and the ushers, Joan Tierney and her son, Jason Towle.

Nursery care for infants and toddlers is provided under the supervision of Mrs. Laurel Oster. Church school for grades 1-12 is held from 10 to 11 a.m.

A fellowship hour follows the service and all are invited to enjoy the sociability and refreshments.

The discussion group "Sermon Reflections" will meet during the fellowship hour to give their impressions, understanding and reaction to the sermon.

The Boy Scouts will hold a flea market in the social hall on Saturday, Oct. 31 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

First session of the Lector Training Course by Katrina Clinton, a commissioned minister of Christian education, will be held in the sanctuary on Thursday, Nov. 5 at 7 p.m.

The executive board will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the social hall and trustees will meet Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Murch.

'Islam And World Peace' Sermon Topic At United First Parish Church

"Interlocking Patterns Islam and World Peace" is the title of the sermon to be delivered Sunday, Nov. 1 at the United First Parish Church "The Church of the Presidents."

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, Minister of the Church, will deliver the sermon at the 10:30 a.m. service.

Visitors are welcome.

"A key to peace," says Dr. Bennett, "is that the peoples of the world come to a deeper understanding of each others religious beliefs and cultural traditions. We must learn to appreciate the rich beauty and deep wisdom in the many religions of the world. While seeking the universal truths we hold in common, we must also learn to respect the very real differences that divide us."

Norman Corey, music director for the church, will play organ selection [illegible] Vaughan Williams' [illegible] and Brahms' Allegro [illegible] and Lauren Davidson are members of the Youth Group, will serve as ushers.

Visitors are welcome to [illegible] with members of the congregation for coffee and conversation at the Social Hour following the service. Church School and child care is provided.

President's Wreath To Honor John Adams' 252nd Birthday At First Parish Church

A wreath from President Ronald Reagan commemorating President John Adams' 252nd birthday will be presented and placed on his tomb at a ceremony Friday, Oct. 30, at 10:30 a.m. at United First Parish Church, "The Church of the Presidents," in Quincy Center.

The public is invited to attend.

The wreath will be presented on behalf of the White House by Capt. Charles E. Long, commanding officer, South Weymouth Naval Air Station. A Navy Color Guard will present the colors and Capt. Long will lead people present in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will deliver brief remarks and accept the wreath on behalf of the City of Quincy, "The City of Presidents."

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, and Mr. Richard F. Post, chairman of the Board of Governors of the Church, will accept the wreath on behalf of the church.

The wreath will then be taken to the crypt below the church and placed on the tomb of President Adams. Rev. Bennett will offer a prayer.

The presenting of presidential wreaths at the tombs of former presidents is an annual event begun in 1966 under President Lyndon Johnson. Each year in Quincy, ceremonies are arranged by the U.S. Navy, United First Parish Church and the city of Quincy on the anniversary dates of the two presidents: Oct. 30 for John Adams and July 11 for John Quincy Adams.

John Adams, the first vice president and the second president of the United States was born Oct. 30, 1735, in what is now Quincy, then the north precinct of Braintree. A patriot and a devoted public servant, John Adams was a strong leader and a skillful statesman in the establishment of our nation. He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence in 1776 and played a key role in the shaping of American foreign policy as minister to the Netherlands, France and Great Britain.

Having drafted the Massachusetts Constitution of 1780 and writing widely on political theory, John Adams' thoughts on government had strong influence in the shaping of our federal government.

Despite his long sojourns away, Quincy was always his beloved home m

And in Quincy he died, at age 91 on July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the independence he worked so hard to achieve.

We hold the memory of our distinguished son in great respect and high esteem.

Reformation Sunday Celebrated At First Church Of Squantum

Reformation Sunday was celebrated at the First Church of Squantum.

There was a reenactment of Martin Luther's trial in 1521 before the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V, at both Sunday morning worship services. Members of the congregation also received reprints of ink drawings of contemporary events done in Luther's time.

During the first service church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached on the subject, "Martin Luther, Reformer," and at the second service on the subject, "Here We Stand."

Reformation Sunday celebrates the Protestant Reformation of the Christian Church which happened in many different places in the 16th and 17th centuries. It involved many other reformers besides Martin Luther but his story is particularly celebrated because the events of his life were so influential and they are so representative of the struggles that the others went through.

In the opening moments of the service, the attention of the congregation was attracted to the various characters that came trooping down the sanctuary aisle, ahead of the choir. These were the Sunday School children in their Halloween costumes. They were on their way to a Sunday School Halloween party after their morning lesson.

During the early service, guitarists Mary Ruth Scott and Andy Ogilvie accompanied the congregational singing. Mindi Hurd and Chris Dixey were the ushers, and Patti and Marci Hurd were in charge of refreshments.

At the later service, Jack and Ruth Westerbeke were the greeters, Jore Wallin and Stewart Scott were the ushers, and Shirley Mason and Barbara Anderson hosted the Fellowship Hour.

After the service, a group of church members and the pastor worked with a group of nine young people from The Way Up in putting on a dinner for the congregation of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston. This is a special ministry for members of the Squantum Church although The Way Up is a ministry sponsored by many Protestant churches in the South Shore area.

'Yes And No' Sermon At Bethany

Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday, Nov. 1, at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spears Sts., Quincy Center, at both the 9 a.m. chapel service and at the 10 a.m. sanctuary service.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon titled "Yes and No" based on the Gospel of Matthew 21:28-32 and Romans 7:14-25. Reading the scriptures at the chapel service will be Barbara Miller and in the sanctuary service will be James W. Ross.

The associate minister, Rev. Joel E. Huntington, will assist in leading the liturgy and celebrating the Holy Communion at both hours.

During the sanctuary service, the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing as the anthem, "Brother James' Air" arranged by Gordon Jacob, with Shirley Pyne, the soprano soloist.

The worship service is broadcast "live" at 10 a.m. direct from the sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers, under the supervision of Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator, Pamela [illegible] Curran.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Ad[illegible] Parlor with light refreshments. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and fellowship, and to enro[illegible] children in the Church School.

A Halloween party for children, toddlers to third grade will be held Sat. Oct. 31 from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Bethany Church gym. There will be stories, games, and treats, and each child should come in costume for the "Costume Parade." Cost is $1 per child. Prizes will be awarded.

(Cont'd from Page 5)

From 7a.m. to 7p.m. every day, Keefe and his squadron performed specialized flight missions, preparing for the worst.

"There was considerable excitement and apprehension. We were prepared for war. That's what we trained for," Keefe said straightforwardly.

The next step during this pressure-packed period was to deploy men, equipment and aircraft at McDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Fla. McDill A.F.B. was about 150 miles north of Cuba, and her missiles.

Twenty aircraft, including Keefe's C-119 twin engine planes headed south. Before landing at McDill, Keefe's squadron stopped at Hope Air Force Base, Fort Bragg, N.C. where heavy equipment was loaded.

When Keefe touched down at McDill, he said the base was an "armed camp." There were tens of thousands of military personnel there, Keefe said, quite a difference from the usual 1000.

At McDill, Keefe got his operation orders. He was provided with equipment, routes, altitude air speeds and as Keefe said, "all the necessary information to proceed to Cuba and participate in the airbourne operation."

Keefe said he was trained to drop people and equipment in the vicinity of the missile bases and neutralize them.

"We had what we needed if we were ordered to go," he said.

Kennedy at this point had many plans of action, three of them being an invasion, an air drop/strike or a naval blockade. Each action carried with it many implications. Eventually, Kennedy decided on a blockage to stop Soviet ships with possible missiles from reaching Cuban ports.

Kennedy consulted with many top advisors before reaching his decision, including some who thought a naval blockade was too weak a response. Some advocated using American military to invade or air strike Cuba.

But the presdient stood firm and the blockade was implemented.

And, the blockade worked.

Twenty-five Soviet ships were on their way to Cuba. The first to confront the blockade stopped and turned back. Others did the same while others remained in place.

Krushchev later agreed that the Soviet Union would remove the missiles from Cuba if the United States promised not to invade Cuba. Khrushchev also wanted the United States to remove its missiles from Turkey but Kennedy decided to respond to the Soviet leaders's first proposal.

Newly discovered evidence shows Kennedy supported Khrushchev's proposal to remove American missiles in Turkey and said "This is a pretty good play of his."

After all was said and done and an agreement had been reached," Keefe had the option to stay in the Air Force on an active basis for one year or go back into the reserves. Keefe decided on the reserves, where he remained until April, 1982. That is when he retired from the Air Force as a major general.

Keefe's military career began in 1942 and spanned 40 years including duty in World War II, Korea and the crisis, one of the highlights of his military life.

While in the military, Keefe served as a captain in North Africa during World War II and a major in Korea. After the crisis, Keefe was promoted to brigadier general in 1973 and major general in 1977.

When his squadron left Tampa, it was a beautiful day, Keefe recalled. "It was so beautiful and clear, I asked the air traffic controller if we could fly back in an 18 air craft formation, something that isn't done anymore."

Keefe flew over Providence, Quincy, Boston and Manchester, N.H., before landing in Hanscom. There he was greeted by Quincy Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and his executive secretary, Edward Lewis.

Keefe, who lived on Rock Island Road in Houghs Neck for 30 years and practiced law in Quincy Square, later moved to Weymouth and now lives in Pembroke. Today he practices law in Weymouth.

As the United States remembers the 25th anniversary of the Cuban missile crisis, Keefe has also reflected on that proud period.

First, Keefe said he supported Kennedy's decision "100 percent" to impose a naval blockade. Secondly, a lesson to be learned from that crisis is that when a government takes a position they should be prepared to support that position, Keefe said.

"Kennedy's position was to remove the missiles from Cuba because they threatened our national security. He prepared to support his position with a blockade and military deployment if necessary," he said.

Keefe added that the government "shouldn't make threats unless you have the resolve to carry them out."

As for Kennedy's decision, Keefe said it was the late president's "finest moment and also the finest moment for the United States since World War II."

And Stephen T. Keefe, Jr. was a part of it.

Deeds Speak Louder Than Words

Consider some of the deeds of School Committeeman, Frank Anselmo

He was the prime promoter that brought about the creation of the Quincy Vo-Tech.

He fought shoulder to shoulder with the Principal of Quincy High and Charles Sweeney, to establish the R.O.T.C. against the adverse trend of the times.

He supported the addition and renovation of North Quincy High and also the renovation of the Merrymount School.

He pushed against some political opposition to reopen the Wollaston School.

Recently, when the majority of the School Committee wanted to close the Sterling School, and even the Central Middle School was under consideration to be closed, Frank Anselmo was against both of these ideas and they were shelved.

Lastly, when the majority of the School Committee decided to dispose of the Myles Standish School with the idea that the school property and its eleven acres of land could be developed, the vote to do so was in the affirmative, minus Anselmo. Frank Anselmo insisted on checking the original Deed of Grant from the Federal Government. Thanks to Frank Anselmo's efforts, the School Committee voted 7 to 0 to rescind the previous vote, thus saving the Myles Standish School.

- President of P.T.O. of Gridley Bryant School and Reay Sterling School.
- Superintendent of the Quincy Post Office for 12 years.
- Voted unanimously a Life Member of the Massachusetts School Committee Association
- Attended Burdett College, Boston University and Suffolk Law School

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Every election, whether presidential or local, someone is pleading to people to get out and vote. Newspapers, radio and TV, candidates and many others urge voters to exercise one of their basic freedoms ... to vote for the candidates and the issues of their choice.

Yet, it is a sad fact that in virtually every presidential election since 1920 the winning candidate was the choice of the second largest group of eligible voters. The largest group didn't vote! More people didn't vote than voted for the winner.

The Ballot Box is the best instrument to attack the problems of our time ... whether it be in a presidential election or local election. The Ballot Box is the best way to legislate and clarify issues.

The right to vote is the most fundamental of all our rights because the behavior and performance of officeholders, at every level of government, is dictated by the knowledge that periodically they must come before the bar of public opinion in the polling booths. The caliber of men and women in public life is a direct reflection of the wisdom and judgement exercised by the voters.

We are privileged to have the right to vote as we wish. Let us remember that if that right be refused or taken away, we would have anarchy at its worse!

SAVE QUALITY NURSING AT QUINCY CITY HOSPITAL!

TO THE PEOPLE OF QUINCY & VICINITY:

We are registered nurses, employed by Quincy City Hospital and represented by the Massachusetts Nurses Association. We have been engaged in negotiations with the administration of the hospital for nearly six months. We see these lengthy negotiations as an opportunity to reaffirm the centrality of patient care in our hospital.

Nursing must be the heart of our health-care delivery system. In recent years, the responsibilities and duties of the staff nurse have steadily mounted, with the use of more technology, with a more acutely ill patient population, and with justifiably heightened client expectations. In two years an essentially new facility will open at Quincy City Hospital. It has the potential of being the finest community hospital in the Commonwealth. This potential cannot be reached, however, without the fresh wind of new attitudes, new priorities, in the administration. The current impasse at negotiations is but a symptom of the problem.

This is related to the fact that sixty-seven of our nurses have lost faith in Quincy City Hospital and resigned in the most recently reported six month period. The hospital's administration has tried to relieve the resulting staffing crunch by depending excessively on temporary agency nurses paid up to twice the hourly rate as permanent staff nurses.

Our core of dedicated staff nurses must be preserved, we must be able to compete for additional nurses if we are to keep up with the proper expectations of you the public for quality care for yourselves and your loved ones. Wages and benefits must become competitive with those offered nurses at comparable hospitals. Continued attempts be administration to stretch the current nursing staff even further through backward scheduling and work-rule changes must be stopped.

We urge all who care for quality health care in the city of Quincy to write to Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, Quincy, MA 02169. Ask him to bring these extended negotiations to a swift and just conclusion. Thank you.

Former West Germany Mayor Saddened Over Dick Koch's Death

MAYOR Francis McCauley presents Margaret and Leo Palmowski (right) of Burjhaun, West Germany with honorary Quincy Citizenship Certificate as Thomas P. Koch looks on. Palmowski was formerly the mayor of Burjhaun, the town where the late Richard J. Koch Sr. family originated from.

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The late Richard J. Koch Sr. had countless friends and admirers, even some he never met.

One of those admirers Koch never met in person was Leo Palmowski, a retired mayor from Burjhaun, West Germany, where Koch's father was born. But Koch and Palmowski did develop a close friendship through correspondence the past three years, hoping they would some day meet each other in person.

"He was very eager to meet my father," said Thomas Koch, a son who helped form the bond between Palmowski and his father.

"He was very disappointed and shocked to learn of my father's passing," young Koch said.

Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery departments, died Aug. 23. He had been active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

Palmowski recently traveled thousands of miles from his homeland to meet Koch, unaware that he had died. He and his wife Margaret arrived in Quincy Oct. 22 with several gifts for Koch, including a book on Burjhaun history and a pewter plate.

Young Koch, who drove into Logan Airport to meet the Palmowskis, said he tried to tell them about his father's death, but they did not understand because they speak very little English.

Koch took the Palmowskis back to his North Quincy home where they learned the sad news. While visiting, the Palmowskis saw a Quincy Sun editorial about Koch's death framed on the wall.

"They took it off the wall and read it. They were stunned," young Koch said.

Later, Koch and the Palmowskis visited City Hall and Mayor Francis McCauley. After reminiscing about Richard Koch and his kindness and generosity, the Palmowskis and Thomas toured Quincy's historic sites, including the Adams Mansion, and the First Parish Church. They also visited the State House and the John F. Kennedy Library in Dorchester.

The bond between the Kochs and Palmowskis was formed three years ago when Thomas Koch visited Burjhaun, West Germany. Burjhaun is where Thomas's paternal grandfather (Richard's father) was born. Thomas said his grandfather immigrated to Boston early this century.

Thomas said his father and Palmowski, a member of the West German Parliament, began corresponding after Thomas met the mayor. It was during the 350th anniversary of German immigration to America and Thomas presented books on Quincy history and several proclamations from local and state representatives to Palmowski.

One of Richard Koch's cousins who lives in West Germany also helped her and Palmowski correspond. The two men usually wrote a couple of letters a year, Thomas said.

The Palmowski's trip to Quincy, although sad and disappointing, has strengthened the bond between them and the Kochs.

"They invited us to visit them in West Germany," Thomas said.

Surely Richard Koch's memory is very alive.

Keenan Cites Ability, Background, New Ideas

John F. Keenan, Ward 5 candidate for City Council, told a group of supporters that while both candidates were raised in Ward 5 and are concerned about the future of the Wollaston area, that is where the similarities between the two condidates end.

Keenan said his background in government, his proven record, and the introduction of several new ideas throughout the campaign set him apart from his opponent.

Keenan's background includes a degree in government from Harvard University, participation in seminars on city and state government sponsored by the Kennedy School of Government Institute of Politics, and work as a legislative assistant for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Keenan has been elected three times as a Ward 5 delegate to the Massachusetts State Democratic Conventions. He has also attended Quincy City Council meetings and public hearings for the past four years, he said.

"I have shown an interest in government for many years," said Keenan, "and I think that is important. There is a lot of work involved in being a ward councillor. To be effective the councillor must have a real interest in government."

Keenan also cited his proven record.

"Both myself and my opponent have identified the preservation of the Ward 5 neighborhoods as one of the most important issues over the next few years. The difference," Keenan said, "is that I have a proven record of effectiveness in this area."

Keenan has been a member of QCA/CAPP - Citizens Advocating Proper Planning for the past two years. He was a member of the group that drafted a petition signed by 5500 concerned neighborhood voters which called for stricter zoning requirements.

Keenan was also one of 10 citizen sponsors and drafters of recently passed zoning ordinances which limit the density of any further development, particularly in the neighborhoods. "I've been involved with the preservation of our neighborhoods for a while now," Keenan said, "and I have a knowledge of the zoning code and how it can be used and improved to guarantee that our neighborhoods are protected."

Keenan cites his introduction of new ideas. In response to citizen complaints regarding street cleanings, Keenan proposed a resident notification plan. Keenan has also proposed, in response to the litter problem in Wollaston Center, that any new restaurants or convenience stores be required through the licensing process, to use dumpsters and trash compactors that are connected directly to their buildings.

Keenan has called on the city and the new traffic engineer to update the lighting and pedestrian systems in Wollaston Center and to put four-way stop signs at some of the busy and dangerous intersections in the neighborhoods.

"Tuesday, Nov. 3 will mark the first time in 10 years that Ward 5 will elect a new councillor," Keenan said "I think both candidates have brought out the issues in this race, and now it becomes a question of who will be most effective in resolving them. I have a background in government, have shown a real interest in it by attending City Council meetings and public hearings for the past four years, and have a proven record of effectiveness in preserving the neighborhoods. Additionally, unlike my opponents I have proposed many new, simple ways of addressing some of the smaller but important problems that confront the ward.

"Ability based on proven past performance, interest, experience and hard work, as well as the introduction of new ideas, should be the basis upon which this election is decided. I hope the voters will consider me on election day."

Durkin Reviews Accomplishments, Looks Toward Future

At a recent coffee hour held at the home of Mike and Eileen McAuley, 151 Pine St., Wollaston, School Committee vice-chairman Stephen J. Durkin reviewed some of his accomplishments during his first term in office.

He also discussed his agenda for the school system during the next four years.

Durkin made similar remarks at the City-wide Parents Council Candidates' Night held recently.

Durkin listed among his accomplishments the School Committee's adoption of a policy to limit class sizes, which he feels is "particularly important in the primary grades."

He also cited his initiation of the revision of a homework policy to ensure assignment of homework on a regular basis at all grade levels.

Durkin mentioned his involvement with special education's concerns, in response to which he established a special education subcommittee to help bring about improvements in a program that serves approximately one sixth of the students to varying extents.

Concerning the role of parents in the schools, Durkin said,

"Parent involvement is a critical component of an effective school system. It is essential that parents be active participants in their child's education. We have many very active and vocal parent groups in Quincy, and it is these people who help to make ours a strong school system. In an effort to get more parents involved in the policy-making process, when I first came onto the School Committee I proposed the establishment of an open forum at School Committee meetings, to give parents an opportunity to voice their concerns. This has helped to open the lines of communication between the School Department and parents, and it has been very helpful to the School Committee as a source of important information.

"I would urge more parents to try to become involved, to become active in your school's PTO, to make suggestions, to ask questions, and to demand answers."

As for the future, Durkin said that "while we have many critical needs, there are a few which stand out in my mind. We need to do a much better job of implementing our health curriculum, which must be taught by well-trained teachers and which must be implemented uniformly throughout the system.

"We need to study changing enrollment trends throughout the city so that we can stabilize elementary school boundary lines, so that children will not be uprooted year after year. At my urging, our new superintendent is taking steps to address this issue.

"I would like to see our elementary talented and gifted program in place at all of our elementary schools, not just a few each year. This is an excellent program which allows more of our children to receive the benefit of academic enrichment programs, and I am a firm believer that all of our students have unique abilities and talents that need to be developed. I would also like to see the school system provide foreign language instruction at least as early as the middle school level.

"In addition, I think we need to do a lot more with our athletic, physical education, and music programs. Sports and the arts, and other extracurricular activities help to showcase and develop a student's talents, and to give a boost to his or her self-esteem.

"We need to more effectively implement our middle school concept, to better prepare our young people for high school, and to monitor their progress once they get there.

"Many of these things will, of course, require increased funding. And, in general, if we are really to make a difference in our schools, the city will have to make a greater financial commitment to the school system, to look upon education not as an obligation, but as an opportunity, not as an expense, but as a wise investment in the city's future.

10 City Depts. To Share In $4,076,740 Requests

Ten city departments would share in a total of $4,076,740 for equipment and improvements according to capital outlay requests to be submitted by Mayor Francis McCauley to the City Council for its approval Monday night.

The items include such things as improvements to 14 schools, a new bookmobile for the library, pumper for the Fire Department and 11 marked cruisers for the Police Department.

The money would come from the city's $10.1 million surplus, according to McCauley. The remainder of the surplus will be kept in reserve, he said.

McCauley said the capital outlay items were requested by department heads.

He said the proposed expenditures would be Phase II of a capital outlay program which will total $11.5 million through fiscal 1988.

McCauley said he expected the requests to be put in the finance committee chaired by Councillor Richard Koch, Jr.

McDuff Supports Tougher Public School Standards

Citing a recent Gallup poll showing that Americans overwhelmingly support tougher standards in public schools, with more emphasis on basic courses, John H. McDuff, Quincy School Committee candidate, said that if elected he would make that his primary goal.

McDuff stated

"I will dedicate my term of office to seeing to it that every young person graduating from our schools goes out into the world not only with the tools needed to earn a living, but with a love of learning for its own sake. It would be unrealistic to believe we can reach everyone, but we must surely try.

"Books are better than video games, turning on to great literature and the proud history of America beats turning on to drugs and the ability to read, write and communicate is more important than learning how to punch computer buttons.

"If we produce a generation of button pushers who have no understanding of ideas and ideals, we produce a generation of behaviorally-conditioned chimps."

Citing a 45-point rise this year in SAT scores reported by the Dedham school department as a result of increased emphasis on reading, writing, problem solving and study skills, McDuff said, "They are obviously on the right track with basics. If elected I will go to Dedham and what elements of their program can be used in our system."

OPEN LETTER TO MAYOR McCAULEY

Dear Mr. Mayor:

As election day approaches and we bring this long campaign to a close, I find it rather curious that you have turned your attention away from the issues which face this city, instead focusing on events which occurred in my administration over ten years ago.

Over the past two weeks, you have made statements and placed advertisements about "scandal" in my administration, and presumed to speak for me when you said that I was running for mayor only because I sought "vindication."

Mr. Mayor, you are sadly mistaken.

I acknowledged on the day I announced my candidacy that the appointments I made -- in only a few instances -- did not work out as I had thought they would. But I did not dwell on the matter because it opened old wounds for many people, and because you yourself had retained so many of the appointed people who remained behind when I left office.

I did not dwell on the matter because it's not an issue -- nor should it be during a year when our city dump is closed, our shipyard is gone, our school system in complete disarray, our city services so inadequate, our downtown retail district foundering ..... on and on it goes Mr. Mayor.

These are the reasons I'm running for mayor - not vindication. That's cheap campaigning as we get down to the finish line, and I'm asking you to stop. If you must attack me, attack me on the issues. You know where I stand, and so do the citizens of Quincy. Let's talk issues Mr. Mayor; let's hear how you're going to solve the problems you've created over the past few years -- that's what the citizens need to know as they head to the polls on election day.

Stick to the issues Mr. Mayor, please. This election is too important to Quincy's future to waste time on anything ese.

Halloween Safety Tips For Parents

Parents should sit down and talk with their children about the child's plans for Halloween and be sure they understand your rules and limitations for their activities. The following are some good practical rules for you and your child to consider for a safe Halloween.

- Make sure your children can see and be seen. Visibility is very important. If your children will be out after dark, they should wear light colored costumes and carry a flashlight.
- Make sure that an older and responsible person accompanies the children.
- If no one is available to accompany the children, encourage them to go in a group. (There is safety in numbers.)
- Plan the route the children will take. Make sure that route is well lighted.
- Go over safety rules with your children before they leave the house.

a) Cross the street only at corners.
b) Never Cross between parked cars.
c) If there is no sidewalk, walk facing the traffic.
d) If the child is wearing a mask, have him/her remove it before crossing the street.

- Tell your children to save all of their "TREATS" until they get home. Once at home you can check the candy for anything that looks as if it may have been tampered with. If you find any candy that you suspect has been tampered with bring it to your local police department.

Residents can help by:

- Keeping a light on so children can see where they are walking.
- Removing any obstacles from steps, sidewalks, lawn, so children won't trip.
- Greet children at the door but don't encourage them to come inside.

Motorists must be very alert on Halloween evening. Some children will have other things on their mind, when they should be thinking of safety.

Animal Shelter Plans Near Completion

Permits will soon be sought for the proposed Quincy Animal Control Center now that the planning stages are nearing completion, said Mayor Francis McCauley.

The project is now obtaining Quincy Conservation Commission, Army Corps of Engineers and Massachusetts Wetland Evaluation prior to construction and occupancy on Broad St., adjacent to the Registry of Motor Vehicles, he said.

The planned 5,100 square-foot facility will consist of a one-story and a portion of one and one-half story brick structure with granite lintels and sills, anodized aluminum casements, wood trim soffits, fiberglass shingles on a roof pitched at a 5 on 12 ratio, according to McCauley.

The end walls feature prominent round metal louvered vents, he said.

The center's internal features include: vestibule, reception, administrative offices, cat and kitten pens, dog and puppy pens, rest rooms, storage, food preparation, kitchen, quarantine, interior kennels and euthanasia. External features include: entry drive auto court and on site landscape, according to McCauley.
